Only British subjects born of white parents can fight for a British Empire title. Accepting the rule, Flynn has challenged Roderick to a return match with the Empire crown at stake.

Meanwhile, London boxing writers sat down at their typewriters. Said Frank Butler of the Daily Express:

"The stupidity of the color bar rule was shown up when Selvin Campbell, better known as Lefty Flynn, out-generalled outboxed and outfought the British welterweight champion.

No Claim to Title

"Flynn proved himself to be the best welterweight in the country. Yet because his skin is black he cannot lay any claim to the welterweight title. He can bid for a British Empire championship but Empire titles don't mean a thing as far as bringing money into the holder's pocket is concerned.

"We in this country have recognized Joe Louis, Henry Armstrong, John Henry Lewis and other colored boxers as world champions. We even allowed Roderick to fight Armstrong her for the world title.

"Yet a black-skinned citizen of the British Empire cannot qualify by residence for a British title.

"The sooner this color bar is done away with the better it will be for the fight game."

Condemning the "silly rule," James Butler wrote in the Daily Herald that Flynn "is a British subject and has done good work with the merchant navy during the present war."

The fight mob carried the discussion into their pubs and clubs. The concensus appeared to be that any person considered good enough to help defend Britain, certainly was good enough to be allowed to box for a British fight title.

TORONTO, Nov. 2 — (CP). — Wow! It appears the Army has the hockey tiger by the tail. If they let go now the wreckage will be scattered high, wide and handsome. The sting in the Army's hockey policy is making itself felt. Immediate withdrawal of Regina Army team from the Saskatchewan Senior League with resultant collapse of the entire league is causing a commotion in that province.

Walt (Saskatoon Star-Phoenix) Riddell says the Army's new policy is that no soldier hockey player will be allowed to remain at a Training Centre after he has completed his course. He also reports the Army plans a check-up on hockey players early this month to ascertain how far each is advanced in his training.

"If this information is correct," writes Walt, "it will be almost impossible to keep a soldier in one camp for a five-month hockey schedule."

Dave Dryburgh of the Regina Leader-Post comments: "Left without a senior hockey team for the first time in close to 30 years, Reginans are firing a steady stream of questions at military authorities. They've taken the loss of the Army team in their stride, but if hockey traffic in the services continues and Ottawa doesn't make a Dominion-wide cleanup, then indignant Regina citizens will want to know why."

Dryburgh speculates that certain hockey players recently enlisted will not be able to play hockey in cities where there is a no Basic Training Centre. He names Ottawa as one such city. Dave adds: "We would like a glimpse of Victoria Army's excuse for retaining the entire team (except Art Rice-Jones) which went to the Allan Cup finals last spring."

Incidentally:

Ken Chisholm of the Halifax Herald quotes Sam Manson, president of Hamilton Wildcats, as saying that if Wildcats win the Dominion football title they will play Halifax Navy "in Ottawa, Toronto or any place else and turn the entire proceeds over to some worthy war fund."....That would appease Halifax whose application for a C. R.U. playoff berth was refused.. ..Death of Charlie Murray in Fort William recalled he was a great soccer fulback in the years 1906-1913 when the Lakehead had high-class football.

Quinte Threat

BELLEVILLE — (CP). — With a 12-7 win over Trenton High School yesterday, Belleville again became a factor in play-off prospects in the Bay of Quinte senior interscholastic football race. The visitors led at the quarter time, but Quarterback Bishop turned the tide with a major score in the closing moments.

Callura Beaten By Arthur King

TORONTO, Nov. 2—(CP)—Arthur King of Toronto last night outpointed Jimmy Callura of Hamilton in a five-round flyweight bout which featured a boxing card at Toronto's Massey Hall.

Other results included:

Jackie Robinson, Toronto, took a three-round decision from Bill Davidge, Port Colborne.

Jimmy Rizzo, Hamilton, took five-round decision from Harold Whitney, Hamilton.

Joe Ferrier, Toronto, won a decision from Maurice St. Louis, Port Colborne, in five rounds.

Rusty Oki, Hamilton, outpointed Bert Vaughan, Toronto, in five rounds.

Les Beaucage, Ottawa, and Ernie Covals, Hamilton, fought a five-round draw.

Habitants Duel With Rangers

MONTREAL, Nov 2 (CP)—Canadiens go to battle against New York Rangers here in tonight's lone scheduled National Hockey League game with slightly better than even odds to win.

Although Ken McAuley of Edmonton is reported to be a smooth and efficient netminder he comes here with 13 strikes against him. Toronto scored five counters Saturday night and then Detroit Red Wings took him for eight more Sunday to give the Rangers a pair of losses.

With only 10 days' work-out and one exhibition game behind them, the Canadiens made a smart show in their Saturday night debut draw with Boston and are looked to do better tonight.

Canadiens Coach Dick Irvin said he will dress exactly the same players as he used against Bruins. This means Bill Durnan will be in the nets. Defence pairs will be Leo Lamoureux and Mike McMahon and Butch Bouchard and Glen Harmon.

Elmer Lach, Toe Blake and Maurice Richard will make one forward line with Murphy Chamberlain, Ray Getliffe and Phil Watson combining in the second. And certainly not the least, comes the third trio: Buddy O'Connor, Gerry Heffernan and Fernand Majeau.

Familiar faces with the Rangers will be Dutch Hiller and Charlie Sands who left for New York in the deal that brought Phil Watson to Montreal. Reports indicated both Hiller and Sands will be on the ice tonight.

Peoples Wind Up Softball Year

TORONTO, Nov. 2. — Peoples Credit Jewellers are through with softball for the 1943 season.

Manager Davey Kerr announced last night that Peoples would not continue in the prolonged and much - debated Ontario senior championship series with Hamilton Majors. Peoples had won three out of four games from Hamilton in a series publicized as a best three-in-five playoff. The third win came on Saturday here. Then Hamilton demanded a four-in-seven series, citing a sub-committee ruling of last spring.

"Most of our players," Kerr said last night, "are engaged in essential war work, and can't get leave of absence for a game Hamilton wants played on Wednesday afternoon in Hamilton. They feel they have sacrificed enough time away from their jobs as it is."

Kerr advised Hamilton officials Monday of his clubs decision to call a halt to softball activities for the year.

Isolationism Killed By Joint Talks

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 2 (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull views the achievements of the Moscow conference, which established a broad basis for post-war political and economic co-operation, as rendering impossible any isolationism on the part of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who, it is understood, led the discussion of war-time questions while Hull advocated the post-war security plan also met correspondents but, cautiously, would not estimate the value of the conference in detail. It was clear, however, he considered it a notable success.

(The London press said editorially the conference had wiped out any prospect of distrust among the Allies and cheered the announcement that China had joined the signatories in the declaration of general security. "Hitler's only hope," said the Daily Express, "was the prospect of distruct between the Allies. That bogey has been laid for good.")

Hull said he is gratified that Soviet leaders turning away from isolationism, have accepted what he described as a policy of moderate international co-operation.

Recalling the pre-war aloofness of the United States, he expressed the belief that people everywhere now are convinced of the necessity for practical international co-operation to avert another war.

This co-operation, he said, would take concrete form in London in a few weeks when the new European advisory commissions created by the conference, assembles to continue the work of the Moscow meeting. This body, composed of high permanent officials from the State Department of each of the three major powers, will take up matters pertaining to winning the war, settling the peace and seeing that the peace is kept up after victory.

Expressing his views on the Conference at a press interview shortly after the declarations of the meeting were made public, Hull said that big strides had been taken toward winning the peace.

which they (the United Nations) are respectively at war have laid down their arms on the basis of unconditional surrender," but projects the close co-operation in the current military affairs over into the post-war world for the maintenance of peace.

The ice has been broken. Mutual suspicions among allies of widely divergent political bents has been overcome as evidenced by the atmosphere of confidence and understanding which emanated from the capitals concerned.

Cruiser Force Refuses Battle

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press War Correspondent

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 2.—(AP).— Moves by a Japanese cruiser task force and enemy bombers from hard-hit Rabaul to break up Monday's invasion of Bougainville by Allied forces were disclosed to-day by a spokesman of Admiral William F. Halsey. Both moves got nowhere.

The cruiser force was sighted heading south toward Bougainville from the New Britain-New Ireland sector. Allied naval forces started out to meet it but the task force retreated north.

One observer said, "The Japs put on a fairly big air strike from Rabaul. all their Bougainville and Buka fields having been put out of operation by our repeated bombing raids. But we had good fighter cover and their bombers didn't even get close. They inflicted no damage."

United States' marines made the first landing at Empress Augusta Bay at dawn Monday just north of Cape Torokina. The Japanese had developed it as a strong point but naval bombardment preceding the landing evidently forced out the defenders. About 1,000 Japs are reported garrisoned five miles south of the Cape. First clashes likely will be with them.

Mule trails lead along the coast over 40 miles to Kahili and Buin in the south of Bougainville where an estimated 2,500 Japanese are imperilled by the by-passed landing.

An estimated 500 Japs are on the northern end. The two forces virtually are separated but probably are readily reinforceable by water.

Empress Augusta Bay is 33 miles directly west of Kieta on the east coast. Swamps and mountains with peaks up to 10,000 feet separate the two points.

The operators recognize that any agreement worked out between Lewis and Interior Secretary Harold Ickes will be the agreement they will have to accept if they want their mines back during the war.

"Coal must be mined," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The enemy does not wait. The failure to mine coal at this critical moment is impeding the prosecution of the war and endangering the lives of our sons and brothers, the sons and brothers of the miners, on the battlefield. The mines will be opened by the Government on Wednesday morning. Every miner will be expected to be at his post of duty, ready to work for his Government."

Reaction in the field to the President's latest move was not encouraging. Both Pennsylvania and Ohio reported a determination among the miners to stay out until a contract is signed.

Only $66,150 Added To Total On 13th Day Of Victory Loan

Peterborough City and County increased its subscriptions of the Fifth Victory Loan by $66,150 Monday to the total of $3,622,700, leaving $977,300 still to be raised to reach the objective of $4,600,000 — and that calls for coming in with more than a wish and a prayer on the remaining five days of the campaign.

The total up to last night was 78.75 per cent of the objective as compared with 77.32 at Saturday night, an advance of only 1.43 in the percentage column as against the required daily average of 5.57.

That percentage recession still left the city and county with surplus margin of 6.53 of percentage. That is, the required percentage at the close of the thirteenth day was 72.22 and the total percentage was 78.75. Actually, Peterborough is still out in front, but has begun the last week of the drive with a definite loss of ground and advantage which had accrued with the substantial accessions by the special names and employees' canvass divisions during the first half of the eighteen days' campaign.

The apprehensions of headquarters that the last week was likely to produce the climax of difficulty in attaining the $4,600,000 quota that was assigned to Peterborough were drawing uncomfortably nearer to reality than was feared. Still, Peterborough retains a plus sign in front of its current total, and has cut a slice off the last million which the city and county set out to overtake.

Returns were definitely diminishing, and especially in the general city canvass, whose Monday percentage increase was only 1.48 as compared with the county's 6.39.

Of yesterday's total subscriptions of $66,150 rural Peterborough contributed $38,650, the city general canvass $22,900, and the employees' canvass $4,900, with no change in the special names' total. The townships and villages collectively improved their position, and are only one day behind their schedule. Two or three strenuous days of combined effort could boost that total percentage from 78.75 to within striking distance of the top, but official estimates, even at that, are keenly concerned about a remaining hundred thousand or more. For that reason, the final appeal is being directed to the people of the city who by figuratively tightening the belt can make the success of the Fifth Victory Loan a certainty.

The city general canvass with a total percentage of only 55.74 is the current weak spot in the local Loan organization when it is compared with the 72.22 per cent that was required at Monday night.

County Sales Monday.

Rural lending for the Loan in the townships and villages yesterday were as follows: Smith $12,650, Norwood $7,000, Otonabee $5,450, Asphodel $3,550.

Lakefield $2,600, Douro $2,550, Belmont-Methuen $1,900, Dummer $1,200.

North Monaghan $1,100, Ennismore $500, Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos $150.

Percentage Changes.

The standing of the county components at Monday night showed Havelock still on top with their objective clinched.

North Monaghan was unchanged in second place, and Smith returned from fifth to third place. Belmont-Methuen dropped back from third to fourth place, and Asphodel moved up from sixth to fifth.

Otonabee finished the day in the sixth place, dropping back two notches, and Norwood's $7,000 subscription advanced the village from ninth to seventh place.

The four northern townships slipped from seventh to eighth position, and Dummer dropped from eighth to ninth as Douro moved up one peg from eleventh to tenth.

Ennismore retreated to the eleventh place and Lakefield was unchanged in the twelfth.

The rural gains in the percentage column were: Smith 14.05, Norwood 12.07, Asphodel 9.34, Belmont-Methuen 7.6, Douro 7.29, Lakefield 4.33, Otonabee 4.19, Ennismore 4.17, Dummer 3.53, North Monaghan 3.15, and the northern townships .34, while Havelock was resting in its place of primacy.

Complete Summary.

The city general canvass moved up 1.48 points in the percentage column.

The following is the summary for thirteen days, reading in order across the column, the objective, amount subscribed, and percentage of subscription:

City General— $1,550,000; $863,900 55.74.

North Monaghan— $35,000; $27,750; 79.29.

Otonabee — $130,000; $91,360; 70.27.

Asphodel—$38,000; $27,500; 72.37.

Norwood—$58,000; $34,700; 59.83.

Smith—$90,000; $70,800; 78.66.

Mandalay Fired In Latest Raids

NEW DELHI, Nov. 2 (CP)—R.A.F. bombers blasted the important Japanese communications centre at Mandalay in Burma yesterday after fighter-bombers had carried out a series of daylight attacks on Irrawaddy river traffic and enemy positions in the Chin Hills a communique announced today.

More than 200 river craft were shot up by the fighter-bombers the announcement said. Divebombers also co-operated in the assaults on the Chin Hills area, scoring direct hits on targets and setting a number of fires.

All planes returned safely.

Reiterating previous charges he had made of war profiteering, the C.C.F. Leader said, "They are being ingeniously concealed from the public," and added that they make the profiteers of the first Great War look like pikers."

Referring to the progress made by the C.C.F., Mr. Jolliffe said Liberal government from Ontario had every reason to display great alarm over the advances made by the C.C.F. in the Province.

"While the Drew Government is entitled to a fair trial, it has not attempted to put into force one of the 22 points in its platform."

Mrs. Jolliffe, who also was present at the banquet, was honored by members of the Brantford riding.

Troublesome Night Coughs Are Hard on the System

It's the cough that sticks; the cough that is hard to get rid of; the cough accompanied by a tickling in the throat that causes the nerve and throat wracking trouble that keeps you awake at night.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup helps to relieve this coughing condition by soothing the irritated parts, loosening the phlegm and stimulating the bronchial organs, and when this is done the troublesome irritating cough may be relieved.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been on the market for the past 48 years. The Trade Mark "3 Pine Trees".

Minden Boys Serving In Forces

CPL. KEITH TAYLOR — PO. C. A. BROWN

The County of Haliburton claims to have more men enlisted according to the population than any other county in Ontario. Two young men of Minden especially prominent in athletic sports are Pilot Officer C. A. Brown and Cpl. Taylor Keith. PO. Brown was an outstanding star on the Fenelon Falls Waterloo team that played many exhibition hockey games against Peterborough and other centres. Every member of this team is now on active service, the majority of which is serving with the R.C.A.F.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

WELFARE $626.42

The city's welfare account was down to $626.42 for October as reported to the council last night.

CLOSING EARLIER

Bylaws passed by the council last night added the drygoods stores and women's ready-to-wear stores to the Saturday night dimout. Both groups join the 6 p.m. closing.

MEETING DEFERRED

The mid-month meeting of the council was advanced last night from November 15 to the 22. Some of the members are planning hunting expeditions, and expected that they might not be here on the fifteenth.

WITNESS MISSING

Because Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated that the Crown had not been able to locate a necessary witness in time the hearing of a charge against Wilfrid Flint of stealing $50 had to be postponed this morning. Flint, who was defended by W. C. Grant, was remanded until Tuesday of next week.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS

Sylvester O'Donnell, R.C.A.F., has arrived overseas according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O'Donnell, 681 Stewart street. He attended St. Peter's High School and was a foreman at the Acme Screw and Gear plant in Toronto before enlisting in the ground crew. His brother, Gregory O'Donnell, in the army, is at Oakville, recovering from an operation. He too was formerly employed at the Acme plant.

$13,130 FIRE LOSS

Chief Gimblett reported to the council Monday night 62 fire alarms during October and total loss $13,130 of which $4,245 was on property and $8,885 on contents.

GRATEFUL FOR LOT

"It is not often we get a letter like that," Alderman Bradburn remarked, and Alderman Gordon added: "It ought to be framed not filed." The letter was from Earl Wood, 291 Prince street, thanking the council last night for the use of a city lot on Lansdowne street for gardening. He harvested a crop of potatoes.

BLOOD DONORS

Monday's Blood Donors' Clinic was attended by 77 persons, with 24 from the C.G.E. and more than 15 representing such out-of-town places as Lakefield, Buckhorn, Ida, Omemee and Bridgenorth. Employees of Canada Packers and Raybestos also made contributions.

FIRE REPORT

Perhaps a hangover of the Hallowe'en spirit, two false alarms occuring within two hours of each other brought out the Fire Department Monday night. The first one happened at 8.10 p.m., coming from Box 5 at the Canadian Packing Co., while the second, at 10 o'clock, came in from Box 36 at the corner of Weller and Walton streets. During the day there were a succession of five small fires, none of which caused any damage. There were three chimney fires, at 750 George street, 275 Prince street and 577 Paterson; a grass fire at 136 James; and an alarm caused by overheated pipes at 219 Lake street.

Victory Loan Sidelights

J. M. Mackie, Montreal, president of Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, Limited, was in the city yesterday, and on behalf of the employees received the "V" flag of the Fifth Victory Loan from the National War Finance Committee.

The Brinton objective wa $18,700 and the subscription within the plant amounted to $21,900, or 117 per cent., with 188 participants.

Mr. Mackie said the company was happy to know that the plant committee and their canvassers and staff co-operated so successfully and that through their effort the Loan objective was reached and passed.

Peterborough Lumber Co.

A similar ceremony of concluding another group drive in the industrial section took place at the factory of Peterborough Lumber Company, Monaghan Road. Their "V" flag was received by Gordon Munro, vice-president, who paid tribute to the response of the staff and their organization which had conducted the canvass.

Group Payroll.

In the group payroll section, the following additional reports were announced today:

McLeod Drug Store, Park and Albert Streets (Alparka)—131 per cent of their objective.

Adamson and Dobbin, plumbers, Simcoe Street—121 per cent of their objective.

Peterborough District Co-operative Services—110 per cent of their objective.

Grant and Loucks, electric contractors and retailers—110 per cent of their objective.

Regent Theatre—100 per cent.

The Essex Scottish Band from A10 Training Camp arrived Monday afternoon to take part in flag raising ceremonies. It is under the direction of Mr. A. W. Smith. They visited Ackerman's where Hugh Waddell received the three star flag from the National War Finance Committee.

The Divisional School Quiz Contest will be held this evening, to be broadcast over CHEX at 9 o'clock. This broadcast concludes the series and the entries to-night are divisional winners from Peterborough, Victoria - Haliburton, Lakefield and Northumberland Counties. The winner to-night will go to Toronto for the program on Saturday, November 6, as the guest of the Robert Simpson Company.

The speaker on this evening's program will be E. W. Simpson, organizer for the Public Relations Section of the County of Peterborough National War Finance Committee.

Ken Smylie, team captain at the local Victory Loan Headquarters, will speak on behalf of the National War Finance Committee this evening at 6:10 over CHEX.

The A-10 Infantry Training Centre Band from Camp Borden, under the direction of Bandmaster Sgt.-Maj. A. W. Smith, is in Peterborough to-day for the flag-raising ceremonies at the Peterborough Utilities Commission and the Peterborough Canoe Company.

Judgment Is Reserved In Assault Case

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning in a charge against Robert Blackwood, 18, of assaulting Police Constable Allan Edmison in the execution of his duty.

Magistrate Langley stated that the wanted a chance to examine the authorities quoted by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., defence counsel, and to review his notes on the evidence.

Blackwood was remanded until next Tuesday with the understanding that there would be a further remand until Friday, because of the fact that Mr. Gordon would be absent on a hunting trip during the early part of next week.

Donald LaFonte who had previously pleaded guilty to obstructing Officer Edmison in the execution of his duty and who had been in custody since October 22 was sentenced to fifteen days in jail, the sentence to date from October 22.

Constable Edmison in giving evidence stated that LaFonte had held him by the belt and had prevented him from following Robert Blackwood.

LaFonte who did not go into the witness box said that he had seized the officer's belt momentarily and had let go as soon as Constable Edmison turned around.

Anthony Caraveggie, 16, who was also charged with obstructing the officer, was remanded until next Tuesday. He was represented by John A. Bradshaw.

Moved For Dismissal

At the opening of the hearing in the Blackwood case Monday afternoon Mr. Gordon moved for a dismissal on the ground that Constable Edmison was not acting as a police officer in the execution of his duty at the time of the alleged assault.

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment on the motion and called for the defence.

Robert Blackwood, the accused, swore that he had not had a drink for some time previous to the night of October 22 and that he had not been in a fight that night outside the Legion Hall. "I didn't know there had been a fight," he said.

Blackwood swore that Officer Edmison had grabbed him by the shoulder and then struck him on the shoulder and that in self defence he had struck the officer. Then, he said, Constable Edmison, had seized him by the hair whereupon he had grabbed the officer by the waist and thrown him to the floor, and held him down. Later the witness's brother came along and asked him to get off the officer and he had done so. After the two had got to their feet, Blackwood swore that Officer Edmison had struck at him with his fist.

"I ducked and he missed me. I fell down and when I got up Officer Edmison hit me over the head with his billy. It struck me on the bandage over a burn on my head that I had sustained several weeks before and opened up the wound, causing it to bleed."

The defence called a number of witnesses, Anthony Caraveggie, William Morris, Sanka Zenkenko, Annie Woods and Harold Blackwood to corroborate details of Blackwood's evidence.

Harold Blackwood said that he himself had been arrested on the morning of October 22 and held until the next morning.

"Was any charge laid against you?" asked Mr. Gordon.—"No."

In his argument Mr. Gordon contended that Officer Edmison was not acting as a peace officer in the execution of his duty at the time of the alleged assault."

"He was a bouncer paid by a private speculator who was running a dance at 50 cents per person," said defence counsel.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. argued that the officer was acting in the execution of his duty at the time of the assault.

At the conclusion of the argument, judgment, as has been stated, was reserved until next week.

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.
By JEAN STENTON

With two sons overseas to carry on the good work, Sgt. Major Roy Edgar of the Foresty Corps can return home with a peaceful mind knowing that they will do a good job. This soldier, whose home is on Dobbin Avenue, has been overseas 2½ years and he will continue to work in Canada. At the time war broke out when he enlisted, Sgt. Major Edgar was living on a farm north of Cochrane. His two boys, Pte. Earl and Ken are both in the Algonquin Regiment in England.

It's bad enough to be a prisoner of war, but when an orphan is a wounded prisoner in a German hospital where he is the only Allied soldier, that soldier needs plenty of support from the folks back home. Such is the case of Pte. Frank Page, who worked in Emily township on Alvin Frank's farm and in Smith township before he enlisted.

Pte. Page came to Canada about six years ago and the only friends he has are those he made while in this district and according to a letter he sent from his German hospital he was wounded shortly after the Sicilian invasion opened.

"I am wounded in the right shoulder and so cannot write properly. We ran into trouble too often in Sicily and I was wounded pretty badly, but all flesh wounds. Our boys had to retire and leave me and so I became a prisoner of war. I have been on my back nearly three weeks (July 15) and I expect to be here quite a while yet, for I am also wounded in the back muscle below the knee.

"I am in Germany now and I am treated well, but I am the only Allied soldier in the hospital, as far as I can find out although there are several people understand English. Please note that it takes tow months for a letter to come, so tell my friends and ask them to write, particularly E/ Colbourne, Wes Bells and John Elliott. If you send me any parcels please include socks, mitts, and a woollen hat. Cigarettes and eatables are acceptable too. By the time you received this I will probably be in the prisoner of war camp. I would love to be able to jump in the lake again and to visit Albert Yelland on his farm.

"Since there are no English books here the days drag slowly. However I learned to play chesse in England and that helps to pass the time. The weather here is like that in Canada mostly, although it is raining today and that will keep the boys in."

This letter was received by Alvin Franks, R.R. 2, Omemee, and in order that as many as possible of Pte. Page's friends should know of his whereabouts he submitted it to the writer. The address is: Pte. Francis Page, C5681, Konstanz Res Laz West, Prisoner of War, Germany.

WREN G. M. FLOWERS

A former Peterborough girl Wren Gwyneth M. Flowers, who was working for the English civil service before the war, is on duty "somewhere in England." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flowers who returned from England this summer, and she is doing a special job with Radio Location. While in Peterborough, Wren Flowers lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Flowers, 417 Dublin street, and she attended Queen Mary School and St. John's Sunday School. Her father was known in local athletic circles and was in France with the C.E.F. in the last war and in this war with the R.C.A.S.C. He has the King's silver badge for loyal service, which is presented to all wounded personnel in the Imperial services.

More and better reading material is the request of men serving in the heart of India according to a letter received by Mrs. Margaret Brooks, 558 Aylmer street, from her cousin, Lieut. B. S. Folkard, Royal Engineers of the India Command. He writes:

"I am now after a long journey on active service in a thick jungle area of India. We are a little company buried here miles away from civilization and as we are constantly at work we have had little time to get into mischief. We have a wireless and a few books, but should be glad if you could send us any magazines as they keep us in touch with the world. Be sure and send letters and particularly air graphs."

Peterborough, England, give a rousing welcome to Canadians, particularly those who hail from Peterborough, Canada, Pte. Martin McIlvena, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. McIlvena, Lift Lock, discovered there on a recent leave when he was overwhelmed with kindness, and the soldier was a good press agent for his home town.

"When I left London the black out was in full swing and so when I reached Peterborough it was completely dark. I asked a girl collecting tickets where I could get a bed for the night and when she saw my Canada badge, she guided me through the darkness to a small church army canteen. As we approached I could hear the Army and Air Force men laughing, but when I stepped in, and once more my Canada badge was noticed, everything was dead silent. I was really embarassed with everyone looking at me, but I got a swell bed and meal. I found out later that there are very few Canadians visit the city, so the asonishment was natural."

Throughout his leave in Peterborough, Pte. McIlvena was greeted by strangers everywhere with "Good morning, Canada," and always ended with "Cheerio, Canada." A bobby gave him an outline of the city's highlights and when he mentioned that he came from Peterborough, the policeman insisted upon escorting him to Mayor's Office where he was royally welcomed.

Agricultural Centre

"The Mayor's Parlours were about 40 feet long and 20 feet in width, and all leather chairs. He made me sign a register, with my home town and army addresses, and I had a small picture of the Lift Lock with me which I gave him. After talking to him about the two cities, he took me into the Council Chambers with its mahogany tables and chairs and wooden walls. The ceiling is of inlaid colored wood and the hallways outside are white marble.

"It is an agricultural centre with a large market just like we have back home on Saturdays. Here it was in England, war or no war They have two markets, one for poultry and cattle and the other is for fruit, vegetables, clothes, watches, jewelry and everything you could imagine. I saw a boy about nine years old drive a herd of cattle up the main street and later a little girl did the same thing. Can you imagine this back home on George street?

Beautiful Cathedral

"St. Peter's Cathedral, which was begun in 1166 and finished in 1238 is dedicated to St. Peter, St. Paul and St. Andrew and is Anglican. It was given to the Diocese of Peterborough in 1591. The most noteable people buried here are Katherine of Aragon who died in 1537, and Mary, Queen of Scots, but James I, ordered the latter's body moved to Westminster Abbey in 1612. His decree still hangs in the Cathedral.

"The floor of St. Andrew's and the High Altar are all inlaid with colored marble. The ceiling is about 150 feet high with another inlaid design. It is immense and has the second best organ in England. It is far nicer than the Westminster Abbey.

"The first person I met after visiting the Cathedral was a Canadian who turned out to be a chap by the name of O'Brien from Bancroft. After he left I was debating what I would do when a lady about 60 years of age came up and asked me if I would care to go to the show with her. I did and she was wonderful and finally left me to meet her husband at the station.

Interesting Parade

"Walking through town you can reach the outskirts in half an hour, for it covers a smaller area than our own city, yet it has a population of 50,000. The homes in the outskirts are much like ours with front lawns and hedges. The streets are crooked and the centre of the town looks much like Quebec city, only the streets are wider. It is also noted for its large brick works which cover an area four miles square."

Another item which particularly interested this Canadian soldier was the "Battle for Britain" parade. This was made up of the Home Guard, civilian defence, Women's Land Army, A.T.S., Air Force, Auxiliary and Permanent Police, First Aid Women and others—something seldom witnessed by Canadians, the Mayor and all his Councillors in their robes.

"Preceding the Mayor was a man dressed in black with a big black hat and he carried a staff with a large brass or gold contrivance on the end about 9 inches long, and five inches thick. Next came the Mayor in a red street length gown, with a lot of brown fur hanging from the shoulders. The Councillors followed in purple gowns and hats something similar to our wedge hat, only much larger.

"They have been very lucky in the way of raids with only a few incendiaries and high explosives failing The Knee River flows through here and has a great number of small boats. It is not as wide as the Trent Canal and is very muddy."

Mr. and Mrs. McIlvena received a letter from Peterborough's Mayor, H. J. Farrow, following their son's visit. He described their visit and wrote at length about the boy's and his own delight in meeting and talking to Peterborough boys from this country

Jurymen Return True Bill Against McGinnis

LINDSAY, Nov. 2.—(ENS). — A true bill of indictment against Howard McGinnis, of Lindsay, charged with the murder of William Howard, of Peterborough, was brought in by the Grand Jury at the opening of the Fall Assizes here Monday, before Mr. Justice Ainslee Green, of Toronto.

The trial of McGinnis commenced today with W. D. Cummon, deputy attorney-general, of Toronto, and J. E. Anderson, crown attorney of Lindsay, conducting the prosecution, and I. E. Weldon, K.C., of Toronto, defending the accused.

McGinnis was charged with murder following the shooting of William Howard, an Indian, at the home of George Hudson on February 6 last. It is alleged that the two men had an argument over Mrs. Katherine Coursey, of Peterborough, who had been living with Howard, but was at that time visiting McGinnis. Police state that McGinnis left the Hudson house with a shot-gun, and after borrowing a shell from a neighbor, shot at Howard through the window, killing him almost instantly.

Before court proceedings yesterday, I. E. Weldon drew the attention of Mr. Justice Green to an article that had appeared in a local newspaper regarding the murder charge. In addressing the Grand Jury, Justice Green asked the jury to entirely disregard the article, which he labelled as being "most improper." Members of the Grand Jury were: M. E. Grant (foreman), Alex. Burke, H. Burns, H. W. Elliott, H. H. Hawkins, N. Lees, W. Magee, C. McLean, P. Prouse, N. Swank, C. Taylor, W. T. Watson, J. Whitfield.

Youth On Horse Struck By Truck

BANCROFT, Nov. 2 (ENS) — Calvin Reid, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reid of St. Ola, was injured Monday evening at 8 o'clock when struck by an unidentified truck driver while returning from Madoc on horseback on Highway 62, south of the Gilmour turn.

Though the driver of the truck stopped and picked up the unconscious boy, who had suffered bruises and cuts to the left side of his head and shoulder, he left the scene of the accident after hailing a passing motorist, J. McGinnis of Bancroft, who drove the boy home. Provincial Constable S. W. Palmateer arrived to find both truck and driver gone, with pools of blood marking the spot where the horse had been hit. The horse, which the Reid boy had been bringing from Madoc for Rev. Bates of St. Ola, was found some distance down the road tied to a telephone pole, bleeding badly and the muscles of his front leg torn.

J. J. Mellor To Speak On Behalf Of Loan

Of all the Victory Loan personalities to visit Peterborough, J. J. Mellor, who is to speak over CHEX at 6.45 p.m. on Wednesday is one of the most popular. His stirring words on the value of the Victory Loan have more than once helped boost the Loan over the objective.

In his talk Wednesday night, Mr. Mellor will be speaking for the County of Peterborough citizens, urging them to get busy and put the Loan over. Never making preliminary notes on a speech, his words are more effective, because his audience feels that they come directly from the heart.

Mr. Mellor is clerk of the township of Clark. He is Quarter Master Sergeant in the Midland Regiment and head of a Boy Scout group, and has been the leading Victory Loan salesman in his territory for the last four loans. Anything for the betterment of the community has his support.

2,500 Parcels Received On Final Day

Around 2,500 Christmas parcels for overseas were received by the post office Monday as the deadline for mailing packages in order to assure delivery in time for the holiday was reached. Throughout the day there were lines of people formed in the public lobby of the post office, waiting to despatch the parcels of gifts they had put together for friends and loved ones in the armed forces abroad. The rush was even heavier in the afternoon than in the morning, and up to seven o'clock, closing hour at the post office, there was no let-up in the volume of parcels being received.

When the main post office itself was closed, activity shifted to the five sub-stations which likewise had been taking in many packages during the day. Here collections continued at an intensified and very busy clip until late in the evening.

In estimating collections at around 2,500 parcels for the day's proceedings, Postmaster Charles Lacheur indicated that the last day was certainly the heaviest day, and that by a wide margin, for the whole past month. Packages were still coming in this morning, and though the deadline is past, the postmaster emphasized that this does not mean the forwarding of overseas parcels has been discontinued. They will still be received and forwarded as usual, but the guarantee of delivery by Christmas time could no longer be given.

Among the thousands of packages going through the Peterborough post office, there was quite a sprinkling of gift parcels for British servicemen and even some for Americans. A significant proportion of the total comprised the packages which may have been made up by the churches and local societies.

Handling the rush of mail of the last ten days was not a difficult chore, Mr. Lacheur saiad, and did not interfere with the performance of the post office's regular services. This was so because all parcels were sent to base offices and do not have to be sorted among a large number of different places as is the case with normal Christmas mail. On the whole, packages were well wrapped and carefully addressed, which was a great help too.

Capt. Mack Johnson In Overseas Draft

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(CP Cable.)—A small draft of reinforcements for the Canadian army overseas arrived recently at an unidentified British port, Canadian Military Headquarters announced here today. Among the arrivals, the brief announcement said, were reinforcements for the dental and armored crops, as well as for the infantry, artillery and engineers.

Dance At Cavan Nets $18 For War Victims

Making hay while the sun shines is a proverbial phrase which is founded upon fact, often used to illustrate almost any form of endeavour, with equal force to those who are engaged in the all important task of producing the fruits of the farm which have gone a long way towards sustaining the war effort.

In the early part of this year, the farming community centred around the village of Cavan utilized the Community Hall situated there to excellent advantage in raising funds to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain, through the Peterborough and district British War Victims' Fund, so much so, that the splendid amount of $216.20 was raised, and then they had to call a halt in order to get at the imperative job of making hay while the sun shone.

The busiest part of the producing season of the farm now having subsided, they are back once again, which is all the more welcome because of the special objective that the fund has, to give Christmas cheer to the children in Britain, and their initial effort is responsible for another $18 being recorded in their name today, which gives them a total credit of $234.20 raised for this one worthy object during this current year.

This one activity on behalf of the fund has centred around Mervin Kinsman, who represents the fund in the Cavan district, and who has done yeoman service in this capacity. Another dance with Galloway's orchestra is scheduled for this coming Saturday, November 6, the net proceeds of which will also go towards the special donations for Christmas.

Personal Gifts

One lady who has given on quite a number of occasions and prefers to be known as "A Friend" is credited with two personal gifts again today, one of which for $10 is to go towards the special Christmas cheer fund for boys and girls who have lost their homes, or who for reasons of safety have had to be evacuated to other parts of the British Isles, and so will have no real Christmas pleasure unless it comes to them through others' generosity.

Kaleidescopes Here Again

For the past three Christmas seasons, the Roy Powell family have made a number of Kaleidescopes from which the entire sales money has come to the fund. Continuing their good work, a number of these very attractive gifts for children, and grown-ups too for that matter, have been left with the secretary of the fund, which can be procured at The Examiner office at the small cost of 25 cents, all of which will go to enrich the special Christmas gifts now being raised to cable to London a few days before the big day arrives.

Previously acknowledged	$64,204.34
Proceeds of dance at Cavan, per Mervin Kinsman	18.00

Meredith Remanded On Unusual Charge

"I am ready to go on now if it's talking you want," declared William Meredith in police court this morning when asked by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., if he were ready to proceed in the hearing of a charge against him of being able to work and refusing to do so.

"There's always plenty of that around here" said the Magistrate.

The crown was not ready to go ahead with the charge today and at the request of the police Meredith was remanded until tomorrow.

Jean Moncrief Weds At Home

BENSFORT, Nov. 2—(ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moncrief, Bensfort, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon, when their daughter, Jean Helen, was united in marriage to Joseph Reid Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Armstrong, of Bailieboro.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. McConnachie in the living room, under a halo of white bells with pink and white streamers and background of chrysanthemums and evergreens. The wedding march was played by Mrs. (Rev.) Morgan Rowland.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in street-length gold colored silk jersey with torso bodice and full skirt and carried Talisman roses. The bride's sister, Marie, was bridesmaid and was dressed in turquoise blue silk jersey and carried Briarcliffe roses. The groom was attended by Mr. James Dawson of Millbrook.

Following the ceremony a reception was held with Mrs. Moncrief receiving in a blue crepe dress with white applique trimming and red rose corsage and the groom's mother, Mrs. Armstrong in moss green crepe with bronze rose corsage.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain, to the bridesmaid an identification bracelet, to the groomsman a tie and pin set, and to the pianist a hand-painted crystal locket.

The bride's table, set with damask linen tablecloth, was centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Pink mums in silver baskets and pink tapers in silver candlebra adorned either side. The toast to the bride and groom was proposed by Mr. H. B. Price of Orillia.

After the reception the happy couple left on a trip to Montreal, the bride travelling in chartreuse crepe with black coat with silver fox collar and black accessories.

Guests were present from Orillia, Whitby, Hamilton, Toronto, Millbrook, Peterborough and Bailieboro. Guests included her grandmother, Mrs. A. T. Armstrong who is 91 years old and her great uncle, Mr. John Moncrief, who is 89 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside on the groom's farm in Cavan.

Ruth Rowland Weds H. Freeman

BETHANY, Nov. 2. — (ENS).— Bethany United church was the scene of a wedding last week, when Ruth Mary, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rowland, Bethany, became the bride of Herbert Leslie Freeman, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Lynhurst. Reb. A. W. Harding officiated. Mrs. Leonard McNeil played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk net over taffeta, with a halo hat and shoulder length veil. She entered the church carrying a cascade of white 'mums, caught with blue ribbon and wearing the mother's locket. She was attended by Miss Evelyn Freeman, sister of the groom, Miss Helen Rowland, sister of the bride, and Miss Melba Rutherford. The bridesmaids were gowned alike in two-piece dressmaker suits of pall-mall crepe in rose, blue and old gold, with matching Dutch hats and carried ring bouquets of green, pink and bronze ribbon, with white 'mums. Sgt. Pilot George Howard was best man and the ushers were Johnston Rowland of Millbrook and Arnott Neals of Bethany.

During the signing of the register, Miss Doris Driver sang "O Perfect Love." Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received wearing olive green corded crepe with corsage of bronze roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, attired in beige crepe with pink and white corsage, and the bride's aunt wearing soldier blue crepe with rose corsage.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maley, Barrie, Misses Jean Allenbreit and Melba Rutherford of the British Embassy, Washington, D.C., Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Merriman, Norma and Jean Lynhurst, Mrs. E. Margaret Carroll Marries John McCarthy

The altar of St. Peter's Cathedral was decorated with roses and chrysanthemums recently, when the wedding of Margaret Lillian, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Carroll, and John Edward, only son of Mrs. Florence McCarthy and the late Joseph P. McCarthy was solemnized. Rev. Father Wolff officiated. Miss Marion Best played the organ, and during the signing of the register, Miss Phyllis Cowie sang, "Ave Maria."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white embossed marquisette, fitted bodice, long sleeves, and slight train. She wore a necklace of pearls, the gift of the groom. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a heart-shaped halo and she carried a ring bouquet of Bettertime roses.

She was attended by Mrs. W. I. Blair, the groom's sister, who was attired in a floor-length frock of turquoise blue, triple sheer, with a net headdress and shoulder-length veil. She carried a ring bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Cyril Carroll, brother of the bride, was best man, and Dr. Mark Crough and Mr. Lawrence McCarthy were ushers.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of moss-green crepe, with a hat of black velvet. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses. The groom's mother, who also received, was dressed in hunter's green, with black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to points west. For travelling the bride chose a blue rabbit-hair suit with matching topcoat, black accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. On their return they will live at 211 Park street south.

Hospital Plan Keeps Costs At Low Figure

Stressing the minimum of expense involved in the Blue Cross Plan for Hospital Care, G. W. Ralph, who was guest speaker at the general meeting of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary in St. John's Parish Hall Monday, explained the workings and importance of this hospitalization set-up.

He said it was originally started in the United States, by teachers who put money away in a fund, so that if any of them needed hospital care, he or she did not need to worry about the expenses. The idea quickly caught on, he explained, because the law of averages proved that one family in every five had hospital bills to pay every year.

"The Blue Cross Plan is sponsored in Peterborough by the Chamber of Commerce," he went on, "therefore it must be a sound investment."

Hospitals Were Organizers.

Mr. Ralph said that the Ontario Hospital Association, formed of hospitals from all parts of Ontario, started the plan here. He explained that it was a non-profit community service, with standards set by the Department of Health for Ontario, and directly under government supervision.

"It is," he declared, "a common sense health scheme."

In describing the benefits derived from this plan, Mr. Ralph outlined the services rendered to members, which included hospital service up to 21 days, use of the operating room, anaesthetics, drugs and medicines. Any number of these periods up to 21 days is allowed in a year, as long as these periods are intermittent.

Mr. Ralph pointed out that enrolment through employers, or service clubs, kept expenses at a minimum, because only skeleton office staffs were needed to keep the executive end of the plan in operation.

He also quoted statistics to prove that the "Blue Cross Plan" was popular and useful. Since its adoption in Ontario about 2 years ago, this plan has a membership of 230,000, he reported. "Peterborough," he said, "has only a membership of about 2,700, but I am confident that this total will double itself during our next membership drive."

Membership Lower.

Canon Robertson extended a word of greeting to the ladies. During the business session, Mrs. S. J. Graham, as convener of the Membership Committee, reported that the membership campaign canvassers had enrolled 1,767 names for the coming year. She said that the difficulty encountered by the canvassers in trying to cover the city with incomplete staffs has consequently lessened the number of members.

Mrs. I. T. Lillico, a delegate to the recent convention of Women's Auxiliaries in Toronto, gave a complete and interesting word-picture of the opening of the convention at a breakfast meeting held at the Royal York Hotel. Miss E. Morrow, corresponding secretary, read some correspondence pertaining to the purchase of an ironer for Nicholls Hospital. The Hospital Women's Auxiliary is lending the hospital the funds until the beginning of the new fiscal year for the city.

Mrs. E. V. Morphet, who was also a delegate at the Toronto convention, followed up Mrs. Lillico's report, and gave the complete details of the rest of the happenings at the convention. Miss E. Young, superintendent of nurses at Nicholls Hospital, described the various types of auxiliary workers and their duties, and praised the work they have been doing to relieve the nurses. She also told the assembled ladies of the experiment in occupational therapy which is now being conducted at the hospital.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, and Mr. Ralph answered questions about the plan.

MY CONSTIPATION WORRIES ARE OVER!

I Prevent That Trouble by Getting at its Cause

I had an awful time with constipation. All the harsh cathartics I took gave me only temporary relief. Then, I learned two things. First, that my constipation was the common, ordinary type caused by lack of "bulk" in my diet. Second, that eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly gets right at the cause of such constipation.

I eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day! It's mighty good as a cereal and delicious in muffins, too. I drink plenty of water. And with this simple plan I feel like a new person. Your nearest grocer has ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's, in London, Canada.

SAVE Stockings

● A famous test laboratory recently discovered something you should know about stockings!

Some stockings were rubbed with cake soap, some washed with new, improved Lux. Then they were pulled and strained as in everyday wear. These tests proved that washing with Lux cut down runs over 50% in rayon stockings. Similar results with cotton stockings, too!

Dipping in Lux saves stocking e-l-a-s-t-i-c-i-t-y— that's why threads won't pop into runs so easily. Join the Lux Daily Dippers and save your precious stockings, too. Dip them in Lux every night. Dry rayons thoroughly.

THRIFT TIPS—

WASHING . . . Dip after each wearing. Turn inside out—squeeze lukewarm, rich Lux suds through hose. Don't use hot water—it may fade the colour. Don't rub with cake soap—holes may appear.

RINSING . . . Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm water. Do not wring or twist. Roll in Turkish towel to remove excess moisture. Unroll immediately. Shake out folds and wrinkles.

DRYING . . . Dry indoors. Hang over smooth rod—never on radiator. Dry rayon stockings thoroughly.

CONSERVATION HINTS . . . Buy stockings that are large enough and the right length. Get at least two pairs of same colour and wear alternately. In washing, remove finger rings that may catch threads. Keep seams straight when wearing.

Essential Food Adequate For Canadians

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadians have sufficient essential foods to maintain health but recurring shortages of some supplies, like oranges, are common, a survey by The Canadian Press revealed today.

From Halifax to Victoria supplies of most meats are sufficient although some cities reported bacon and other pork products "rare." But with one voice the cities reported a severe shortage of oranges, which appeared to be less expected than limited quantities of bacon and cheese. The latter products are being shipped overseas in vast amounts and Canadians have become accustomed to reduced stocks at home.

It was believed more oranges would be available for the ordinary Canadian when the Florida crop began to flow in quantities.

Scarce in North

In Ontario, Brantford reported meat supplies fair with no shortage expected; Kitchener had plenty of beef while in North Bay the supply was fair although there was fear of a shortage due to feed problems now troubling farmers.

Galt noted that with the limitation in the supply of meats, particularly pork, more people were buying cereals, which are abundant. London reported some bacon available along with good beef stocks. and potatoes and milk, other essentials, were sufficient to meet the demand.

Stratford, with enough meat generally, said some large families have meat ration coupons left over, but that the ration appeared to hit small families hard. Woodstock had fairly plentiful supplies of beef and lamb but "never sees bacon." Kingston beef and lamb and some pork, with fair supplies of white cheese.

Locally-grown vegetables have been in fair supply in most Ontario cities, but several reported concern over what might be available during the winter. Several also commented on good supplies of Ontario grapes while lemons and grapefruit were available at most points

London said custard powders and similar desserts were running short. There were reports farmers were feeding more corn to livestock, with consequent shortages of this crop for other purposes.

Despite of the demand for eggs. most cities reported enough to go around.

MAN IN LOVE EAGER TO TALK OF BEAUTIFUL SWEETHEART
Frequent Visits to Girl Not Sufficient to Believe Lad Has Serious Intentions

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 19. About three years ago I met a swell fellow who has always been very nice to me. He has always kept in touch with me and since he has been in the army he has written to me regularly and come to see me whenever he came home on a furlough.

During all this time he has never told me that he cared for me. He hasn't mentioned anything definite about the future yet, but he has hinted several times. I have tried to keep my letters to him friendly, but that is getting hard for me to do as I am very much in love with him. I think he feels the same way I do, although I am not sure.

Do you think that he probably considers me as just another friend and is just trying to be nice to me? Or does he love me? What shall I do? He is the kind of man who doesn't like to be rushed or chased.

DESPERATELY IN LOVE.

Man In Love Shows Feelings

ANSWER: Well, my dear, about the only thing that is certain about a man in love matters is that as long as he keeps silent on the state of his affections his attentions are without intentions. He isn't in love with you. He just likes you and thinks you are a nice, pleasant girl friend. He has no idea of popping the question, and when he thinks about marriage it is of something that is a long, long way off and that maybe he will escape, after all.

When a man is really in love he doesn't hide his feelings. They break out on him like the measles and he can't conceal them. Nor does he keep silent on the subject. He babbles about it even to perfect strangers, and he is never weary of telling everybody who will listen how beautiful and marvelous and wonderful the girl is. And especially he tells the girl, herself, that no man ever loved as he does, and he is full of plans for the future, drawing pictures of the bungalow that is going to be a Heaven on earth for the two of them, figuring out how they can save money by getting married on nothing a year.

Don't delude yourself into believing that a man is in love with you because he comes to see you occasionally; no, not even if he comes seven days a week. He may be enamored of your mother's cooking, or it may be that you are good company, or that he is lonesome and has nowhere else to go. Anything else is just wishful thinking on your part. And don't believe that the reason a man doesn't propose to you is because he is shy, or something. No man was ever too bashful to ask for what he wants.

Admittedly when a girl is in love with a man and doesn't know how he feels about her, she is in a difficult position. She doesn't know whether to go out and try to grab him and drag him to the altar before he knows what is happening to him, or to wait for him to show a little speed in his wooing, if such there be. Each course of action is frought with danger, and the best the poor girl can do is to try to psychoanalyze her subject and find out as nearly as she can whether he belongs to the, hunter or the hunted type of man.

From what you say, I should judge that your boy friend is a chap who would like to do his own picking, and that nothing would scare him off quicker than for a girl to show that she had designs upon him. If that is the case, keep your letters to merely friendly tempo that they have been in. Don't warm them up by a single degree. But you might, without exciting his suspicions, write a little oftener gay, amusing, gossipy chronicles that would leave him thinking what an interesting companion you would be for a life term, and that would keep you fresh in his mind all the time.

But, as you want him, don't write him love letters. Sit on your hands when you feel that you are getting sentimental and are likely to let your emotions overflow on to paper. At the first hint of that he is off. He is on his guard.

The more you can make a man of his type feel that you can take him or leave him, the more apt he is to take you. Don't throw yourself at any man's head, especially a soldier's. They teach dodging in the army.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Mother and Dad have been married for 30 years. We have found out absolutely that he is living with another woman and that he is about to lose his job because of it. Mother knows nothing of this, though all of our friends and acquaintances do. She has been a fine wife to my Father, a hard worker and a good manager, and she has denied herself many of the things she wanted in order to get them where they are.

Would it be wiser and kinder for one of us daughters to tell her of how Father is treating her, or should we have a talk with him first? We know that he is very much afraid of her finding out about it because he has asked us not to tell her.

MRS. C. L. F.

Plain Talk May Smooth Path

ANSWER: By all means have a plain talk with your Father before you say anything to your Mother. Perhaps if you make him realize that you are not going to protect him in his double dealings any longer, it will put the fear of God in him and he will behave himself.

Probably he is still fond of your Mother in his way and admires and respects her and doesn't want her to repudiate him and divorce him. Nor does he want to have his good, comfortable home broken up and his children alienated from him. He is just one of the foolish men who think they can sin without being found out, and that they can dance without ever having to pay the piper. When he is called upon to settle the score, he may decide to go back to home and Mother.

If he doesn't, of course, you have no alternative but to tell your Mother, but let her live in her fool's paradise as long as she can.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a young daughter who is just starting off to college. She has been going with a boy for two years and they insist upon getting engaged. I oppose it, not because I object to the boy, but because I think she should keep herself free to have a good time and get acquainted with many other lads. What do you think?

MOTHER.

ANSWER: I fully agree with you. The girl is at the formative time of life, so is the boy for that matter. Their tastes change from day to day, and they should keep themselves free to change their boy and girl friends with their shifting ideals. The boy whom a girl is crazy about this year, she might not have on a bet next year. She will have lost her taste for him as completely as she has for all-day suckers and chocolate sodas.

Vegetables Scarce By Mid-Winter

TORONTO, Nov. 2 — (CP). — M. M. Robinson, director of the Ontario Food Distribution Council, in a statement released here Monday said potatoes are a short crop and vegetables generally will be scarce by mid-winter.

"The potato shortage is laid at the door of the Federal Government and the Prices Board for not fixing a floor as well as a ceiling price," said Mr. Robinson. "It would have resulted in a larger acreage for potato production as in the United States."

C.N.R. Blacked Out

Premier King Praises Moscow Verdict

OTTAWA, Nov. 2 (CP)—Canada was consulted about the terms of the four-power declaration on general security issued after the Moscow Conference and the government is "fully in accord with its provisions," Prime Minister Mackenzie King said today in a brief statement.

The Prime Minister, who received day-to-day reports on the meeting of British, United States, Chinese and Russian representatives and knew of the terms of the declaration before it was made public, said he welcomed it "most warmly."

It meant, he said, indefinite continuance of the wartime co-operation of the United Nations and that the larger States among them are pledged to devise means of ending the blight of war and establishiing freedom from fear.

Kept In Touch

"I welcome this announcement most warmly. It makes clear the determination of the British, Soviet, United States and Chinese governments that their wartime co-operation will continue, not only until victory has been achieved but indefinitely thereafter, within a general international organization which will be open to membership by all peace-loving states.

"The declaration brings the assurance that the largest powers among the United Nations are pledged to a joint endeavor to devise, in concert with other countries, effective means of ending the blight of war and establishing freedom from fear throughout the world.

"The Canadian government has been consulted about the terms of the four-power declaration and is fully in accord with its provisions."

In governmental circles here the declaration is considered a "most important" development, ranking with the Atlantic Charter in carrying a step further United Nations agreement on the post-war world and with decisions reached at Casablanca and Quebec Conferences of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in clarifying and defining the course to be followed while the war continues.

Want Farmers To Cut Pulpwood Fear Shortage

MONTREAL, Nov. 2 (CP) — E Howard Smith, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association said in a statment Monday the government had "extended practical assistance" to the Pulp and Paper industry by placing pulpwood cutting in "B" category and simplifying regulations governing the canvassing of rural workers.

"Placing the industry in this category will do much to eradicate from the worker's mind the fear that engaging in woods operations during his slack season might jeopardize his deferment as a farmer," Mr. Smith said.

"At the same time, Mr. Mitchell's (Labor Minister Mitchell) Department has simplified regulations governing canvassing by pulp and paper companies of farmers and country workers to work in the woods. This in conjunction with the "B" category classification will undoubtedly relieve the present situation.

Because of the over-all shortage of manpower the industry is still much concerned as to whether adequate supplies of pulpwood can be produced this winter."

QUEEN MARY.

A large number of parents were present at the regular meeting, which was also fathers' night. The guest speaker, Mr. Robertson Davies, introduced his subject, "Influence of the Theatre, Movies and Radio on Child Education" by saying that entertainment plays a large part in our lives and that the finest type of creative entertainment is likely to be educational. He dealt with the threatre and lamented the fact that there are so few theatres above amateur standing in Canada and many talented Canadians are forced to go abroad to pursue their art and earn a living.

Movies in connection with education must be controlled by the people, Mr. Davies said. We must ration our children's movie attendance, only allowing them to see desirable pictures. Historical films often give the children a wrong impression of the historical characters.

The radio like the movies, must be rationed and it is the duty of the parents to train the children in a healthy taste for the many good radio programs, Mr. Davies declared.

Mr. Wallace Wright sang two folk songs, accompanied by Miss Mildred MacIntyre. Two piano solos, "Romance" by Schuman, and "Dance" by Cyril Scott, were skilfully played by Mr. Don Cole.

Mr. A. Ward Smith presented certificates to the boys from the handy-craft class for model aircraft that these boys had submitted to the air force.

Reports were read by the secretary, treasurer and conveners of the different committees, and Mrs. Carley spoke briefly about the admission of refugees to Canada.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

The regular meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Monday evening with Mrs. A. Nelson, the president in the chair.

Mrs. N. Patterson read the signs and objects of the Home and School Association for the benefit of the many new members who were present. In the roll call for mothers, Mrs. E. Pilon's room won the senior award and Miss Olive Armstrong's the junior.

Jack Smith sang very acceptably two numbers, "The Trumpeter" and "Lassie O'Mine."

The guest speaker was Miss G. Conley, public health nurse with the City's Department of Health. Miss Conely discussed nutrition. In the last was she said public health was stimulated because of so many men being rejected on account of malnutrition, but after that period it slipped until the present conflict when there has been a revival in the interest of public health for the very same reason.

The speaker said that it has not as yet been realized the value of milk and eggs in the diet of everyone. When many families were on relief the authorities then saw that every family secured the necessary amount of milk daily but with the return of better times and people earning more the milk diet has been allowed to slip with the resulting improper nutrition.

Miss Conely explained the various vitamins and why everyone is subject to deficiencies if these vitamins are left out of the diets. She urged upon the mothers the necessity of seeing that their children come to school after having good breakfasts. So that they will be able to start the day right and be given the proper nourishment to see them through the morning. Miss Conley concluded her talk by reading Canada's official food rules and asked for questions from her audience.

Mrs. L. Richardson moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. H. Tranter gave a short talk on the medicine cabinet, necessities in the cabinet and how to use them. Mrs. E. Kingdon discussed emergencies in the home and how to meet them.

PLEASANT AND propitious are the auguries found in this day's astral configurations. It is probable that the personal, social or cultural equipment may prove an asset for furthering business, financial or credit standing and the genera lexpansion and prestige. While there may be trivial upsets or possible estrangement, yet all should proceed to cherished objectives, under stimulus of clever ideas, ambitious plans and personal ability to promote them largely through winning the friendship of those in influential positions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of pleasant and prosperous relations, and worthwhile plans and objectives may attract the substantial support of those in influential positions. The personal element, in ability, charm or social background may prove a decided factor in the attainment of cherished ambitions.

A child born on this day may have many talents and excellent social or cultural characteristics.

Lions Club Has Successful Dinner Dance

An interesting program of vaudeville, motion pictures and dancing was presented at the annual dinner-dance of the Peterborough Lions at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Monday evening.

Two Ukrainian girls, who came from Sudbury a year ago, and who are now living in this city delighted the gathering dancing the "hopak", Ukrainian folk dance which is popular the world over. As an encore they repeated the dance with variations. The two are Anne and Mary Zaharuk. Alfred Tucker played several numbers during the dinner and after on his piano-accordion, and during the period of entertainment before the dancing started Jack Marshall was master of ceremonies.

James Dutton, Jr., president of the club extended a warm welcome to the guests and members, and kept the program moving along at just the right speed. Raffle prizes, donated by Arnold Deyell and Herb Jamison were won by Jim Gilders and Byron Bond.

Music for dancing was provided by Jack Marshall's orchestra.

Three films provided by J. E. Girven of the C.G.E. company with Bob Handscom operating the projector included "Churchill's Island," "the Battle of El Alamein," and a film showing he progress being made in perfecting radio.

Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smook, Mr. and Mrs. A. Deyell, Mr. and Mrs. George Hildenbrand, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Darling, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shelton, Bowmanville, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Manners Mean More Dates Clever Girls Have Found

HER ETIQUETTE IS PERFECT

The girl that other girls envy! How does she manage that thrilling whirl of a life?

The answer is probably her lovely polished manners. Men are proud to take her out, because she always knows the right, the pleasing thing to do.

Then she always seems to know the right thing to say. Meeting a new man, she never spoils that important first impression with a cheap "Very pleased, I'm sure." She correctly says: "How do you do."

And given a compliment, she smiles, "Thank you so much!" Never a giggling, ungracious "Oh, you don't mean that."

The result is naturally dates, dates, and more dates! Our 32-page booklet has etiquette for dances, dates, theatre, autos. Tells correct thing when visiting, entertaining, on the phone, in the office.

For your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG MODERNS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT A WHOLESOME LOVE

LOVE MAY be a beautiful thing, in general, but when it is directed to the wrong objective, it can be quite unwholesome. Such is the case with many average defensive players, who so love to ruff the declarer's honors with little trumps that they play as if that were the principal purpose of the game. In so doing, they seem to disregard completely the fact that their trump holding may be more valuable in some other way.

There was not a chance in the world to make this contract, as the cards lay, except with some assistance from the defenders. But that help developed very early in the hand. West took his club A and, seeing the fall of the K, naturally switched. He picked his diamond 2, to keep the declarer from reading his suit length.

Not wishing to make his contract depend on an even division of the outstanding three spades, South decided to get rid of his low spade immediately. With that in mind, he took the diamond lead with the A and sent forth the K. East saw his chance to pounce on this with a little trump, whereupon South over-ruffed. Next South led to the heart Q and used the club Q to discard his small spade. He ruffed another diamond to reach his hand, dropped East's other trumps and finished with spades, making his contract.

If East had not been in such a hurry about ruffing, he could merely have discarded on the dummy's diamond leads, letting South get all the discards he wanted. Waiting with his thrice-guarded heart J, he would have been certain to take the setting trick ultimately when South finally led the trumps to him.

Meeting Called To Discuss Hockey Arena

Mayor Hamilton has called a public meeting in the city council Wednesday at 8 p.m. for the purpose of opening the consideration of a hockey arena for Peterborough

Essentially this is a postwar project. Continuing priorities and other compelling factors exclude rinks from present active labor categories. However, public sentiment leans heavily to the opinion that something should be done as soon as possible to restore Peterborough to the Ontario hockey family. Pressure is rising up from the community at least in urging that the project be considered in the near future for the purpose of having plans ready for construction as soon as possible after the war.

This is a public meeting, and everybody interested is invited to attend.

Fingers Crossed

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP). —Edward Taylor and John Smith, passengers aboard a trans-Atlantic clipper, sat with crossed fingers and offered silent prayers for a safe trip after conversing for several minutes. The conversation disclosed that once before they had crossed the ocean together—on the British ship Western Prince which was torpedoed in December, 1940. They were rescued in separate lifeboats and never met.

Murray Raps Union Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Congress of Industrial Organizations opened its sixth constitutional convention here today, after hearing its president, Philip Murray, charge that certain persons within the labor movement, "for political reasons or personal ambitions are willing to risk the entire future of the nation in our present struggle for survival by creating division, encouraging strikes and stoppages of work to impede the maximum production of war materials."

Murray said in another part of his 74-page report to the convention that "the tactics and threats of a certain individual gave special background and ammunition to the activities of the enemies of labor in Congress."

"The current session of Congress," he declared, "has witnessed the most vicious and continuous attack on labor and labor's rights in the history of the nation."

He reported that C.I.O. membership increased 1,104,936 since the last convention and said more than $1,250,000 was spent on organizational activities during the year.

School Cadet Corps Holds Church Parade

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov 2 (ENS) —Looking smart in their new uniforms, members of the High School Cadet Corps held church parade Sunday morning, and later marched past the cenotaph, headed by the Midland Regiment Band, where Captain N. Alex. MacColl took the salute.

It was the first time citizens had had an opportunity of seeing the local corps, which included approximately 140 cadets, both boys and girls, all in uniform, and there were few citizens who did not have a feeling of pride as they witnessed the marching and general appearance of the Corps.

The protestant parade was to St. John's United church where Rev. G. N. Maxwell delivered an appropriate message to the young people and the Catholic parade was to St. Mary's church where the mass was sung by Rev. J. P. Collins. The parade itself was under the direction of Principal E. H. Greig, and Lieut Earl Stephens, with Jack Connor as commander of No. 1 Company and Patricia Ironside, commander of No. 2 Company. The band was in charge of Warrant Officer E. C. Dolman of Peterborough. At the saluting base with Captain MacColl were Mayor Frank Long, Mr. R. J. Locke, Rev. J. P. Collins and Rev. G. N. Maxwell.

Allies Produce Great New Invasion Arms

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP). — With Nazi home front already disturbed by a new wave of semi-official invasion alarms, a German broadcast today warned its listeners in the Reich that "Allied preparations for amphibious operations on a grand and versatile scale" now are in progress.

The broadcast by D.N.B., German news agency, specifically cited a new landing device—an amphibious 12-man glider which it said was able to land on the sea off the coast to establish swift invasion beachheads.

The news agency also quoted the German naval paper "Marine Wochenschau" as saying "the Americans have a landing barge called 'The Crocodile' with a collapsible bow for carrying equipment, as well as a 'Eureka' boat for the transport of troops. The latter carry 25 men with 2½ tons of equipment and reached a speed of 16 knots. They are highly manoeuvrable and equipped with a false bottom so they can easily surmount protective dams, chains, beams or similar obstacles fronting an enemy coast or harbor."

British newspapers played up heavily the German invasion scare, notably Berlin's assertion that huge forces of Allied ships, troops and planes are massing in southern England, Corsica and Gibraltar for a double-barrelled smash into Hitler's European fortress.

D.N.B. reported from Algeciras, Spain, that an America convoy left Gibraltar with North American troops for its destination at the week-end and added "the convoy sailed without escort."

Canadian Papers Won't Ration Ad Space

TORONTO, Nov. 2 (CP).—I. H Macdonald, general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, today said there was no likelihood Canadian newspapers would undertake voluntary rationing of advertising space.

Commenting on a dispatch from New York quoting the newspaper trade magazine Editor and Publisher, as saying that a survey of 25 United States cities indicated voluntary rationing of advertising space would be undertaken there after the first of the year because of the newsprint shortage, Mr. Macdonald said:

"The over-all picture in Canada is different. Here newspaper advertising is down four per cent. There it is up 25 per cent. The United States publishers are about two years behind us in feeling the economic pressure of the war on advertising."

Soldiers Buy Bonds In Italy

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 28 (Delayed)—(CP Cable) —Canadian soldiers in Italy are throwing their dollars into their country's Fifth Victory Loan as fast as they are firing bullets at the retreating enemy.

In the first three days of the campaign they subscribed a total of $163,000 and the organizers are confident the $1,000,000 objective set for units in Italy will be reached before the army's "Italian Section" drive ends in another six days.

The best daily total to date was $86,000 and one unit pledged itself to buy $46,000 worth of bonds.

The spirit in which the Canadians welcome the campaign is exemplified in a message received at campaign headquarters from the cammander of the Canadian Army Service Corps who said: "Sorry bad day. Too many details on road. Can only produce $28,350."

Halifax Says Crack-up Likely

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (CP).—The Allied world today was cheered by the first definite word from a ranking United Nations diplomat that an internal crack-up in Germany may come at any time.

Speaking more openly than any other Allied leader has to date, Lord Halifax Britain's ambassador to the United States, marked his return from two months in his homeland last night by saying that the war in Europe has reached a point where "anything may happen."

Basing his words on the weeks of study he gave the war while closeted with his government in London, the diplomat said the strains now being absorbed by Germany are bound to make dents in its morale. However, he refused to venture a guess as to which would crack first—the army or the civilian population.

But he did make it plain he regarded the crackup of Germany a certainty and one that might be more imminent than might be expected, although he gave this less optimistic advice:

"One part of your mind should prepare for a long and tough struggle but with the other part youcan legitimately watch for anything to happen."

As for the other side of the war picture—the Allied one — he was definitely optimistic, especially regarding Britain.

He said the Empire was entering its fifth year of war with a confidence that the conflict is reaching a favorable climax, that manpower and womanpower had been mobilized to the limit, that there was no slackening effort on the part of the workers and that food available in Britain was dull but wholesome.

He said he was also impressed with the amount of post-war thinking Britons were doing.

Gang Of Thieves Steal Six Tires

LINDSAY, Nov. 2 (ENS) — Six tire thefts occurred in Lindsay and district over week-end believed by police to have been committed by 1 party. Early Sunday morning the thieves entered the garage of Jack Wells, taxi driver, jacked his car up and removed the two front wheels fitted with new tires purchased only a few days ago. Another car owned by Miss R. Reid, of 35 Glembonwynne Ave. Toronto, parked on Lindsay Street also had the wheels and tires removed. A tire was stolen also from W. Alley, 89 Bond Street.

The same night three tires were stolen from cars in Oakwood and in all the thefts, bricks were used by the thieves to hold the car up while the wheels were being removed. Police believe it is the work of a gang engaged in black market tire sales.

British Troops Smash Line Take Massico Ridge Heights

By NOLAND NORGAARD—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 3—(AP).—British troops of the Allied 5th Army have seized the heights of Massico Ridge, western anchor of the Germans' line in Italy, and nearby Mount San Croce to gain complete observation over the broad Garigliano River valley, headquarters announced today. American units on the right flank routed the Nazis from the last heights south of Venafro and won new high ground covering the extreme upper Volturno River valley, across which an assault against Venafro and other strongpoints in the mountain line would have to be launched.

British and Canadian warriors of the 8th Army battered forward to establish a new bridgehead over the Trigno River on the Adriatic flank. This new crossing was an undisclosed distance inland from the original bridgehead near San Salvo close to the river's mouth.

American occupation of Gallo brought the right flank of the 5th Army and the Canadian left wing of the 8th Army still closer together for a joint drive on Isernia, important hub from which German - controlled highways fan out southwest, southeast, east and north. The territory between the two Allied armies has been cut to less than nine miles, all mountainous.

Armies Near Junction

Official reports from Lt. - Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters said British forces of the 5th Army hammered their way onto commanding heights of both the 2,500 foot Massico Ridge and the San Croco Mountain, some five miles northwest of Teana and four miles north of the point where the main coastal highway to Rome skirts the northern edge of Massico Ridge.

The extent of this advance through a four-mile-wide gap in the mountain range toward the Garigliano River was not specified.

Behind his advance elements, Gen. Clark moved up artillery which, with benefit of the full observation of the Garigliano Valley could shell any enemy forces remaining on the west side of the Massico Ridge along the sea coast.

The valley between the north edge of Massico and San Croce mountains is only nine miles from the Gulf of Gaeta, and an Allied officer declared that the Nazis, who previously had concentrated many guns between the western slopes and the sea, "are obviously confronted with the necessity of withdrawing or facing annihilation."

Cracking of this strong mountain line was described as "the breaking of one more of Rome's outer defences."

Japanese Leaders Aware Battle Being Lost Masses Kept In Ignorance Of True Picture

By RAYMOND P. CRONIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, Union of South Africa, Nov. 3—(AP)—Competent observers who returned from Japan within the past two months say Japan's leaders know that the Rising Sun empire is fighting a losing war but that the masses are being kept in ignorance of the score, with the government prodding them constantly to greater war efforts.

Observers outside Japan in close touch with Japanese militarists afield, especially in the Phillipines—where I was interned for almost two years—told me a similar story.

They said the Japanese military chieftains in the war zones, plus officials in the Japanese military administrations in various occupied countries, give the impression they are convinced Japan will lose the war to the Allies but that they are hoping that things may be eventually settled around a conference table by a peace treaty leaving Japan sufficiently strong to remain a first class power.

These informants expressed the belief that Japanese military men in the field are attempting to sow the seeds of brotherhood among the Asiatic races in the hope Japan may reap a harvest some 25 years hence by leading a war against the white races.

Japanese Morale Splendid Despite Excessive Costs

By RUSSELL BRINES—Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, Union of South Africa, Nov. 3—(AP).—Swept by a wave of wartime fanaticism and tightly governed by the army, the Japanese people show no indication of any crack in morale despite mounting shortages of commodities, travellers returning from Japan say.

Residence in Japan during two years of the Empire's greatest struggle has convinced them the Japanese people will support the war effort under the present circumstance for at least five years more.

The common man's living costs in Japan have at least doubled, despite government-pegged prices, they say, and his menu is scanty even by comparison with his common frugality, yet the people patiently await further hardships which they accept as a wartime necessity.

The army is continuing to keep a tight check-rein on both the government and the country. It apparently has silenced all opposition.

Travellers say the Japanese takes in his belt with customary docility, attributing these deprivations to the fact that the empire has been at war six years.

Clothing Poor

Wartime necessity is apparently absorbing all newly acquired raw materials, including cotton fiber, and obtainable clothes disentegrate in three or four washings. Shoes, when obtainable, cost 150 yen a pair and are liable to disappear in the first rain.

(The yen had a pre-war value of about 23 cents.)

Patriots, under government leadership, are intensifying efforts to minimize amusements, but theatres, beer halls, restaurants and geisha houses are jammed.

The government is taking no chances on disbelievers. Gendarmes and "tough police" have so intimidated the commoner and most of the leaders that a Japanese quakes at the sight of an approaching policeman.

As travellers describe current life in Japan, it seems an intensification of the nationalistic whirlwind which I watched sweeping over the country in 1940, the year that marked the beginning of the crystallization of sentiment against the democracies.

Travellers say there has been no deviation from this path way of self-intoxicated jingoism among the majority, while the series of initial victories was a new shot for those who were becoming restless under the sacrifices they bore for the long stalemated China "incident."

France Demands World Voice

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALGIERS, Nov. 3 — (AP). — Gen. Charles de Gaulle said today that "France thinks any European settlement and any major world settlement made without her would not be a good settlement."

Addressing the French provisional consultative assembly, the French leader said the Committee of National Liberation confronts the task of solving many difficult problems "in the presence of forces friendly to be sure, but foreign forces, whose psychology inevitably does not always coincide with ours."

This was an apparent reference to what many De Gaulle adherents regard as interference by Britain and the United States in affairs of the national committee, which De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud head.

"Those within or without who imagine that liberated France will be politically, socially and morally the same France they knew before are completely mistaken," De Gaulle said. "France will have suffered too much and learned too much about herself and about others not to be determined to undergo deep transformations."

A demand that Giraud publicly renounce all ties with Vichy set stage for the assembly, France's first free political forum since 1940.

American Bombs Belabor France

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—American two-engined bombers attacked a German airfield in Northern France today in a renewal of daylight raids on the continent by Britain-based planes, after Mediterranean-based bombers of the new 15th U.S. Airforce wrecked the Messerschmitt plane factory at Wiener Neustadt.

Clearing weather after two weeks of heavy fog and rain in England made possible the latest thrust in the new all-out Allied air offensive against Germany. The bombers, escorted by Spitfires, attacked enemy airfields at St. Andre de Leure.

Wiener Neustadt, near Vienna, received the heaviest Allied aerial blow from a Mediterranean base since the Salerno landing operations.

Evidence that the Germans also are preparing for an intensified aerial struggle has come in reports that the Nazis have developed a new and faster light bomber as well as rocket shells.

The new bombers are understood to have been used in hit-and-run raids over Britain, which have caused 12 alerts in London in the last 3 months, and the British press describes the machine as a powerful twin-engined Junkers-188, carrying a crew of two.

10 Tanks Knocked Out
Quebec Regiment Sends Nazis Reeling

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Three Rivers tank regiment of the Canadian 1st Army Tank Brigade was singled out with the Irish Brigade of the British 8th Army today for official mention by Allied headquarters for victory Oct. 6 in the battle for Termoli.

At the same time Allied headquarters disclosed that the battle resulted from an amphibious operation carried out by the Irish Brigade and the Three Rivers regiment, one of the series of leapfrog movements which Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery has used successfully to speed up the advance of his 8th Army in Africa, Sicily and Italy.

It resulted in an important tank battle in Termoli and its surrounding olive groves, in which the Canadian tanks knocked out 10 enemy tanks, while British tanks accounted for four others. Two Canadian tanks were lost.

This landing helped clear the way for the main body of the 8th Army and played a part in sending the Germans reeling back to their present positions north of the Trigno river, across which the 8th Army has established two bridgeheads.

Wage Bonus Up 35c November 15
Commodity Costs Up To October 2 Show Upward Swing

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—Cost-of-living bonus payments to wage-earners in most Canadian industries will be increased 35 cents a week or 1.4 per cent of wages—depending on wage category of the workers—effective Nov. 15, it was announced today.

The cost of the increase to Canadian employers is estimated unofficially at about $53,000,000 a year.

The maximum bonus now will be $4.60 a week instead of the $4.25 a week which has been in effect since August, 1942. Workers who have been receiving 60 cents a week—the minimum and compulsory bonus—will get 95 cents.

The maximum bonus now is based on a wartime increase of 18.4 per cent in the official cost-of-living index maintained by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The Bureau today announced that during September the cost-of-living index declined fractionally from 119.4 to 119.3—a wartime increase of 18.4 per cent from the figure of 100.8 at August at August, 1939.

"It (the index) now is 1.4 points above the July, 1942, index upon which the last cost-of-living bonus adjustment was made," the Bureau said.

"Food prices, which have contributed the greater part of the advance in recent months, were also responsible for the October decline. The food index dropped from 133.5 in September to 132.9 in October (at October 1.)

Vegetables Down

"Sharply lower prices for potatoes and lesser decreases for lamb, beef, carrots and turnips were of greater importance than increases for eggs and butter.

"Remaining group indexes were unchanged: home furnishings and services at 118.2 and miscellaneous items at 108.3."

A statement by the National War Labor Board said:

"In the case of adult male employees and of other employees receiving weekly wage rates of $25 or more per week, the amount of the weekly increase will be 35 cents. For male employees less than 21 years of age and female employees whose weekly wage rates are less than $25 per week, the increase will be 1.4 per cent. of their weekly wage rates.

"This increase is compulsory for all employers who are subject to the Wartime Wages Control Order P.C. 5963 and the 35 cents or 1.4 per cent. upward adjustment must be added to all cost-of-living bonuses presently being paid to employees who are not above the rank of foreman.

"The maximum weekly bonus will now be $4.60 or 18.4 per cent. of the weekly wage rates, as the case may be.

"The board's general order does not affect the provisions of its special direction made last June for manual workers in the construction industry following representations from the National Joint Conference Board of that industry."

Lady Oakes Says De Marigny Was Spendthrift

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 3 (AP)—Lady Oakes told a Supreme Court jury today that "we tried to make the best of a bad situation" after her 18-year-old daughter Nancy was married to Alfred de Marigny, now on trial for the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian gold mine owner.

Clad in mourning, Sir Harry's widow took the oath in a low voice.

Twice Divorced

She fanned herself nervously as she told of Nancy's marriage to the twice-divorced De Marigny, 16 years Nancy's senior.

"We were frightfully upset," the widow continued, repeating the testimony she first gave at the preliminary hearing.

From the prisoners dock, De Marigny stared solemnly at the witness. Mrs. Paul Ellis, sister of the slain baronet, was present to hear the testimony of her sister-in-law.

"I take it, Lady Oakes, that you did not break with Nancy because of the marriage," said the Attorney General.

"Oh, no, we tried to make the best of a bad situation," explained the Australian-born widow.

A discussion of surgical operation which Nancy underwent at West Palm Beach last spring caused Lady Oakes to hesitate, and again her voice almost broke.

"Before Nancy went to the hospital," she said, "we learned that she was pregnant, and for her health it had to be terminated."

Had Abortion.

"I could not take the terrible responsibility," she added.

"Alfred took her to the hospital at West Palm Beach because I could not accept this responsibility.

"Nancy had two operations to terminate this condition.

"Sir Harry was terribly resentful."

"How did you yourself feel about this matter?" asked Hallinan.

"I felt as any mother would under the circumstances," Lady Oakes replied.

De Marigny received and spent £25,000 (about $112,500) from his second wife, Ruth, since 1940.

He was threatened with a $125,000 suit by Ruth.

He transferred £7,000 (about $31,500) to the account of his friend, the Marquis Georges de Visdelou, soon after his marriage to Nancy

Red Armies Advance Forty Miles
Cossacks Mop Up Nazi Forces In Newest Sweep

LONDON, Nov. 3 —(CP)—Driving across the steppes of southern Russia west of the by-passed Crimea at an unslackened pace, Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin's Cossacks were declared in Moscow dispatches today to be cleaning up the last 30 miles remaining east of Kherson at the mouth of the Dnieper estuary on the Black Sea.

The retreating Germans showed signs of demoralization as the Red Army swept west of Crimea where Germans say they still have strong forces. Forty miles were covered in a single day's sweep beyond captured Perekop, last entrance to the Black Sea peninsula from the north.

The German communique termed the reported Russian invasion of the eastern Crimea south of Kerch "an enemy landing head" and asserted that the Russian holding "was further compressed despite embittered resistance." Moscow has not confirmed the landing.

Still At Krivoi Rog

The focus of battle in the Dnieper Bend was at the iron and rail centre of Krivoi Rog, 120 miles north of the Crimea. There the Germans persisted in counter-attacks in a desperate effort to prevent the northern arm of a Russian pincers from snapping shut a trap on thousands of Nazis.

By German account, the Russians also were attacking southeast and north of the partially-surrounded Ukrainian capital of Kiev and in the Velikie Luki area in the north where snow already covers the battlefields.

The Germans said they sank three Soviet motor torpedo boats in the Gulf of Finland.

The heaviest fighting was in the Ukraine and there the Russians were within 104 airline miles of Odessa and 120 airline miles of Rumania.

Capture Port

Capture of the Black Sea port of Skadovsk, 40 miles southeast of Kherson, further narrowed German aisles of escape from the Crimea by giving the Russians control of a large part of the north coast of Karkinit Bay opposite the northwestern Crimean coast. It also posed a direct flanking threat to Kherson and Nikolaev, as well as rendering the position of any German troops south of Kakhovka untenable.

Other spearheads of Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin's Fourth Ukraine Army captured Kalanchak, 20 miles northwest of Perekop and Bolshayan Mayachki, 30 miles east of Kherson, Moscow announced.

The Russian communique termed the German defeat in this sector a rout, and credited the Red Army Air Force with playing a large part.

Victory Loan Slumps On Last Stretch

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—(CP).—Tuesday was a below-average day for the Fifth Victory Loan campaign with bond sales totalling only $61,576,100, raising the cumulative total with four days to go to $979,238,500 —more than $200,000,000 short of the minimum objective of $1,200,000,000 —National Loan headquarters announced today.

Faced by lagging sales to the general public as compared with payroll and special names subscriptions, loan officials launched an appeal to those who have bought bonds as well as those who have not.

"But An Extra Bond" is the new slogan, aimed at a substantial over-subscription with the aid of the general public in particular. For today and the last three days of the drive "Buy An Extra Bond" will be featured in special advertising and other appeals.

Must Do More

K. A. Henderson, executive chairman of the National War Finance Committee, said:

"If every one of the 1,500,000 persons who has bought bonds could stretch a point now and each buy an extra bond of even as low a denomination as $100, it would add $150,000,000 to the grand total, and would make this loan the greatest record Canadians ever achieved.

"Of course, we know that 100 per cent. of those who have bought bonds could not do so, but the figures are cited to show what tremendous totals can be rolled up by great numbers of small subscriptions. The need is very great. In this loan, the so-called 'little fellow' is the big fellow, when we come to raising the full $525,000,000 or better, which is the aim of general canvass and payroll savings combined.

Dominion Life Assurance Co., Waterloo, Ont., invested $3,000,000; Noranda Mines, Ltd., and subsidiaries, Toronto, invested $4,475,000, and Canadian Canners, Ltd., and subsidiaries, Hamilton, subscribed $825,000. Montreal headquarters announced Lake of the Woods Milling Co., Ltd., has bought $750,000 worth of the Bonds; Winnipeg Electric Co. subscribed $1,500,000; David Spencer, Ltd., of British Columbia $750,000. City of Vancouver bought $700,000 worth of Bonds, its largest subscription in any one Loan.

Canada's armed forces so far have subscribed $27,744,750—$953,100 more than their combined effort in the last Loan and 135.3 per cent. of their original objectives totalling $20,500,000, said Loan headquarters. The Navy has $3,812,050, or 152.4 per cent of quota; the Army, $12,369,200, or 123 per cent.; and the R.C.A.F. $11,563,500, or 144.5 per cent.

In four Loans, Craig Bit Co., Ltd., of North Bay, Ont., has achieved 150 per cent. or better of payroll savings quota. This time the employees won three-star honors with 100 per cent. of the staff subscribing 18 per cent. of the company's payroll for the next six months. Several bought more than one bond, 179 applications coming from 160 employees. The inspection board of the United Kingdom and Canada at Defence Industries, Ltd., at Pickering, Ont., was reported to have passed 150 per cent. of quota with an average subscription of more than $120.

Coal Strike Poses Big Problems
Conditions Serious As Supplies Low In Western Cities

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP)—Conferences aimed at settlement of the strike of 8,500 Western coal miners continued here today as the government took "emergency" measures to restrict the amount of coal going into Canadian homes by limiting deliveries to one ton to a customer.

The settlement conferences, which opened here yesterday, are between labor department officials and reprelabor dpartment officials and representatives of District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America who are led by Robert Livett, their district president.

In addition to limiting coal deliveries, the government's coal conservation measure, announced last night, also provides that coal may not be delivered to anyone with enough in their bins already to last 15 days.

New Directives

Issued by Coal Controler E. J. Brunning, the new order provides that coal may be delivered only to the following:—

1. Another coal dealer for resale.
2. A rail carrier for his own use.
3. An industrial plant for its own use.
4. Ships' bunkers.
5. To a private residence for consumption therein, but only if the quantity of coal on hand is less than 15 days' supply, in which case not more than one ton may be delivered.
6. Any building other than an industrial plant or private residence, but only if the coal on hand in the building is less than 15 days' supply, in which case not more than 15 days' supply may be delivered.
7. Any person holding a special permit from the coal controller.

Rescinds Order

The new order rescinds a previous order under which householders were asked to buy high volatile bituminous coal for one-quarter of their requirements.

Leaders Confer On Coal Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP). — Top authorities on both sides of the latest United States coal mining crisis gathered around a big conference table today as close to 500,000 workers in the fields ignored President Roosevelt's call for a return to the government-seized pits.

United Mine Workers president John L. Lewis talked alone early this morning with Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, conferred afterwards with U.M.W. district presidents, then returned with a group of aides to meet Ickes and the latter's coal experts in a conference room just beneath the secretary's office.

Ickes was designated as United States mine boss when the government seized the struck mines for a second time yesterday.

Implications were that attempts were being made to get together on a contract which would send the idle miners back to work.

Tripartite Talks Achieve Mutual Trust
Ideal Of Global Peace Organization Believed Still Remote

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The world's most important gain from the tripartite conference in Moscow, as I see it, is contained in State Secretary Hull's unemotional statement that the meeting has created better understanding, mutual trust and a spirit of co-operation.

There lies the keystone of victory and peace afterward. Upon it must be built the detailed structure of a new world.

As this column pointed out before the conference met, the greatest thing it would achieve would be to remove the cloud of distrust which has been hanging between the anglo-American allies on the one hand and Russia on the other.

Great Progress

If we now have achieved a spirit of mutual trust, we've broken the back of our problem. While we must remember that there are difficult issues still to ironed out, yet disagreements needn't be feared so long as they are friendly. There are times when the Allies will have to agree to disagree.

It must have been a grand moment for Cordell Hull when this evangelical worker for world peace was able to tell newspapermen in Moscow that the conference had rendered impossible any isolationism on the part of Britain, the United States and Russia, but even so, he was restrained in his language, explaining that the Soviet leaders in turning away from isolationism have accepted a policy of moderate international co-operation. In short he didn't encourage us to indulge in wild dreams.

Agreement that there ought to be a post-war international organization to maintain peace gives hope that at long last we shall have some such as man has been trying to create for 500 years. Presumably this will be based on military alliances among Russia, America, Britain and China, with other nations joining as they wish. I think we should recognize, however, that it's likely to take a long time to achieve the full ideal of global peace organization.

Canadians In Italy Take $612,000 Bonds

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE 8TH ARMY FRONT, Nov. 1—(Delayed)—(CP Cable) — Canadian soldiers and tankmen in Italy have subscribed $612,000 to date in Canada's Fifth Victory Loan campaign, it was announced at the end of the eighth day of the campaign here.

Predicting the $1,000,000 objective would be surpassed, organizers reported demands for bonds was so great that additional application forms were printed.

(Canadian military headquarters in London announced Tuesday that the Canadian Army overseas passed its $2,500,000 objective 12 days after the campaign opened and said money still poured in.)

Austrian Unrest Grows
Police Increased After Moscow Conference

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 3 —(AP)—Caught "flatfooted" by the Moscow conference's promise to restore Austria's independence, the Nazis have clamped rigorous police control over that country to prevent disturbances and uprisings, dispatches to the Swedish press said today.

(Spokesmen for the Free Austria movement said in London yesterday that hundreds of Austrian soldiers were reported to be deserting and a "gigantic" uprising was predicted when the Allied armies near the country's border.)

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler called a special meeting yesterday to discuss the situation as word of the Moscow declaration spread rapidly through the country by the underground grape-vine.

Himmler was said to have ordered new contingents of SS troops rushed to Austria to reinforce the battalion already there. He is also said to have drafted a plan for switching Austrian police to occupied countries and sending the police of these countries to Austria.

An indication of disturbed conditions in Austria was provided by a correspondent who said 400 persons were arrested in Vienna during the first two weeks of October.

Fifth Army Occupies Gallo, Pratell

Canadians Near Isernia In Bitter Drive

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 3.—(AP). — The 5th Army is continuing to advance against the Germans' mountain defences in Italy, it was announced to-day, and is mopping up enemy pockets of resistance.

The 5th Army advanced to points affording them complete observation of German positions across the Garigliano river, and in the Upper Volturno Valley occupied Pratell, near Ailano, and Gallo, about nine miles south of Isernia.

Pressure was being maintained also along the British 8th Army front. Advancing against stiff opposition, the 8th Army on the Adriatic flank gained a second bridgehead across the Trigno river while its left wing, manned by the Canadian First Division, continued to press through the Apennine Mountains northwest toward Isernia.

Occupation of Galla by the American right wing of the 5th Army brought still closer a junction between the Americans and Canadians in their joint drives on Isernia, important hub from which German - controlled highways fan out southwest, southeast, east and north. The territory between the two Allied armies has been cut to less than nine miles. All mountains.

Use Tanks

Tanks were thrown in against the 5th Army in one sector in an attempt to hold up the advance "Our artillery was active and accurate bombing of enemy positions was carried out with good results," the Allied communique said.

Allied bombers returned to Ancona on the Adriatic coast yesterday, bombing rail yards there and at Aquila, while other bombers blasted the harbor at Civitavecchia, north of Rome on the west coast.

(The Swiss Telegraphic Agency quoted the Rome radio as saying that Ancona was attacked by 40 American bombers yesterday morning, that the city virtually "no longer exists" and that the victims numbered "many thousands.")

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 3 —(AP)—The Japanese, whose Bougainville air bases were paralyzed by naval guns and plane bombs as the Allies invaded that last big Solomons Island of the enemy, already have hinted at naval and air battles to come in the showdown struggle before Rabaul.

Allied Headquarters said today that, after United States Marines stormed ashore on Bougainville's west coast Monday at dawn to capture Empress Augusta Bay, a Japanese cruiser and destroyer force was intercepted Monday night and turned back by Allied warships.

It also was disclosed that, after the naval battle, Japanese planes attacked the Allied warships and caused minor damage before they were driven off.

Minister Describes Modern Church Work

KEENE, Nov. 3 — (ENS).— The Hallowe'en social of the Young People's Society held recently was well attended. A program of games and contests was carried out, with Mrs. Ross McIntyre and Tom Gall in charge. After lunch a large circle was formed and the singing of "Blest be the tie that binds" brought to a close a happy evening.

There was a large attendance at the United Church on Sunday when the topic was "The Business of the Church of Christ in Our Modern World." Next Sunday the subject will be "The Influence of the Christian Church." The speaker said the world to-day needs a church that is alive for God and humanity.

Rev. George and Mrs. Murray attended the lectures at Queen's University Theological Alumni Conference last week when the lecturer was the Rev. J. S. Bonnell, of New York, whose subject was "Spiritual Counselling in Wartime." Other lectures were given by professors in astronomy, geology, and biology.

COBOURG

Canvassers Find Subscribers Neglect Loan

COBOURG, Nov. 3.—(ENS).— At the end of the second week of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign, the citizens of Northumberland county had bought only $793,700 of Victory Bonds, or 46 p.c. of the county's objective of $1,700,000 had been obtained, with 67 p.c. of the campaign period over. To reach the objective, at least $906,300 has to be obtained in the final week of the drive.

Only one of the fourteen canvassing districts in the county has exceeded its objective and that was the village of Brighton which, with an objective of $125,000, has obtained 122.4 p.c. of its quota and is still going strong.

Unless a greater number of citizens of the county purchase Victory Bonds in the final week of the drive, the county as a whole will finish up in the inglorious position of last in the province. The latest report from Toronto headquarters showed that out of 61 canvassing units in the province, Northumberland county stood in 54th place.

Payroll Section.

The payroll savings section canvass under Mr. R. G. Parker, which covers the nine large plants in the county, have obtained excellent results, with all plants obtaining or exceeding their objectives.

Breithaupt Leather Co., objective $6,700, results $7,250; Campbellford Cloth Co., objective $15,700, results $16,150; Cobourg Dyeing Co., objective $5,800, results $6,500; Cobourg Matting Co., objective $3,500, results $5,500; Cooey Metal Products Ltd., objective $9,000, results $10,100; H. W. Cooey Machine & Arm, objective $9,000, results $9,200; Dominion Wheel & Foundries, objective $4,200, results $4,200; Douglas-Pectin Ltd., objective $3,100, results $3,200; Edwards & Edwards Ltd., objective $14,400, results $15,200.

The staff of the Ontario Hospital at Cobourg who are canvassed under the Ontario Civil Service payroll savings section subscribed to $5,500 of Victory Bonds. Their objective was $4,000 and the canvass is not entirely completed.

The two group payroll establishments in the county who come under a separate canvassing category have exceeded their objective by a wide margin as follows:

The Bird-Archer Co. Ltd., objective $1,600, results to date $3,000 Gravlin & Balo Ltd., objective $1,600, results to date $2,050. The Bird-Archer Co. have not completed their canvass.

The following plants have supported the drive by making the following subscriptions on company account: Cobourg Matting Co. Ltd. $5,000. Campbellford Cloth Co. Ltd. $10,000, Dominion Wheel and Foundries Ltd. $5,000.

Appeal To Farmers.

Victory Loan officials laid emphasis this week on the contributions which must be obtained from the farmers of the county if the objective is to be reached. With several exceptions, crops in the county have been satisfactory this year and farm income should be high enough to permit the farmers to purchase Victory Bonds. It is felt that most farmers have money in the bank which could well be invested in Victory Bonds where they would earn twice the rate of interest now being earned with the money on deposit in the banks. It is pointed out that these deposits are not helping in the war effort and that if this money were put into Victory Bonds the county objective could easily be reached.

One Victory Loan official in Cobourg stated: "It is only by each individual in the towns, villages and country clearly facing and undertaking the responsibility to invest all the money they can in Victory Bonds will the county obtain its objective in the final week of the campaign. Northumberland is a wealthy county. We know the money is available for the purchase of Victory Bonds. It is up to each citizen to look at his bank book and his future earnings over the next six months and then buy bonds to the limit of his ability. No one can do that for the individual for it is an individual responsibility. For the first two weeks of the campaign, only one out of every 11 persons in the county had bought Victory Bonds."

Obituary

JOHN M. STEWART

WARKWORTH, Nov. 3 (ENS).—John McLaren Stewart, after an illness of nearly two years, passed away at his home Sunday. Before his illness he was manager of the Royal Bank.

He was born in Scotland May 2, 1892, and he is survived by his wife, formerly Irene Legate, one son, LAC. Bob Stewart, Mountain View and one daughter, Mary.

The funeral was held from the family residence today at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in Warkworth cemetery.

MRS. MARY ADELIADE WILSON

MILLBROOK, Nov. 3 (ENS) — Following a brief illness, Mrs. Mary Adeliade Wilson died in Peterborborough, with the funeral on Monday from St. Andrew's United church, Millbrook, at 2 p.m.

The late Mrs. Wilson was the daughter of the late William McBrien, and his wife, Sarah Coe, and was born and brought up in Cavan township. After her marriage to Alexander Wilson, who predeceased his wife by eleven years, their home was for several years at Millbrook, and in this community Mrs. Wilson continued to reside until her sudden illness and subsequent death at the end of last week.

She was a member of St. Andrew's church, and before that of the Methodist communion, and as long as health and strength permitted, was faithful in attendance, and was also enrolled on the membership list of the Boneka Bible Class in the Sunday School. She was a good neighbor, active in her disposition, and her many friends will remember her too for the clever work which she accomplished with her needle.

The immediate surviving relatives include on sister, Mrs. R. J. Kearns, of Peterborough; and a brother, Norton McBrien, of Oshawa. Another brother, Lewis, of Detroit, Mich., was previously deceased.

Rev. A. L. Sisco had charge of the funeral service on Monday. The pall-bearers were N. Lamb of Millbrook, an immediate neighbor; Earl and Harold Kearns, Peter McPhail, and W. and H. Dunlop, all relatives of Mrs. Wilson. Interment was in the Fallis cemetery, beside her husband, in Manvers township.

Dr. J. A. Bannister Is Honored By Staff Of Normal School

The staff of the Peterborough Normal School on Tuesday evening entertained at a dinner in honour of Dr. J. A. and Mrs. Bannister, and Miss Helen Bannister. Dr. Bannister retired in September from the principalship of the school, after a half century of successful educational work, having begun to teach 50 years ago. During the evening an address was read to Dr. Bannister, on behalf of the staff, by Dr. A. J. Madill.

Dr. Bannister was presented with a War Savings' certificate and Mrs. Bannister and Miss Bannister were given rememberances in appreciation of their gracious hospitality and their ever kindly co-operation with the staff.

Born In Port Dover

J. A. Bannister was born near the village of Port Dover. He attended the Port Dover High School and the County Model School at Simcoe where he obtained a Third Class Teacher's Certificate, and began teaching at the age of 17 years. After teaching in Norfolk and Haldimand Counties, he secured an Arts Degree from Queen's University, with specialist standing in Classics. He then attended the Ontario Normal College at Hamilton to prepare for high school teaching. Owing to a surplus of high school teachers, he continued in public school work, at Wallaceburg, Mattawa and Blenheim.

A little later he spent three years in Chicago in educational work, but returned to Ontario as principal of Campbellford public school. Success there led to his transfer to the staff of the high school. He was then appointed classical master of Cobough Collegiate Institute, a position which he gave up to become principal of Chesley high school in 1914. After three years he was selected by the Department of Education as public school inspector for the district of Temiskaming. This was shortly after disastrous fires had swept wide areas of the north. Schools had to be replaced, section boundaries re-adjusted, and new schools organized. The inspectorate stretched from Latchford on the south to beyond Hearst, some four hundred miles, and scattered through it were one hundred and seventy teachers.

Fortunately the T. and N.O. and the Canadian National Railways reached all the larger centres, but isolated schools had to be reached by horse and buggy, by steamer, by canoe, by railway velocipede or hand car on branch lines, and, where all means of conveyance failed, by tramping weary miles with packsacks on back. Some idea of the magnitude of the task may be gathered from the fact that during the years before the inspectorate was divided, the new inspector travelled fifteen thousand miles each year.

The problem of securing qualified teachers for this difficult area led to frequent visits to the North Bay Normal School to consult the principal and staff in the selection of students from the graduating classes. These visits so impressed the late principal, Mr. A. C. Casselman, that when a master was required to fill a vacancy on the staff of the North Bay Normal School, he was insistent that Mr. Bannister should be appointed.

He became English master in 1920, and was able because of his intimate knowledge of the schools and their needs to do valuable work in helping to fit the students for positions in the great hinterland. While at North Bay, he completed the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Pedagogy, which he received from the University of Toronto in 1926.

Came to Peterborough

When the late Duncan Walker became director of professional training in 1929, Dr. Bannister was chosen by the Department of Education to succeed him as principal of the Peterborough Normal School, a position which he held until his retirement in September last. The esteem in which graduates of this school are held by inspectors and trustees is the best indication of the success of his work during 14 busy years. Besides the regular work of teacher-training, much was done to foster a closer relationship and a better understanding with inspectors, by attending conferences of inspectors, several of which were held at the Normal School, and by visits to the various inspectorates, where teachers were seen in their own schools, and much valuable information was secured regarding school needs and conditions.

In no part of the Normal School work did Dr. Bannister find greater pleasure than in discovering students whose progress was hindered by some handicap, and in helping them to overcome their difficulties and enter upon their duties as teachers with a new realization of their possibilities.

Dr. Bannister is a member of Queen's University Council, of the Peterborough Queen's Alumni Association, of the Ontario and of the Norfolk Historical Societies, of Peterborough Rotary, the Fortnightly, and the Nature Club. He is the author of "The Early Educational History of Norfolk County", and of a Manual in Composition, which he wrote for the Department of Education. He contributes occasional articles, mostly historical, for local papers, and has written considerable verse. His hobbies are many, the chief being nature study, handicrafts and history.

Dr. and Mrs. Bannister are remaining in Peterborough for the present, but plan eventually to return to Port Dover.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Splendid

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Real Results.

To get really surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—anyone can do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it's hard to beat, for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a 16 oz. bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid cough syrup—about 4 times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it is actually splendid. It works in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Short-Sighted

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Nov. 3 (AP).—Sheriff Harry Haner jammed on the brakes of his car when he suddenly came upon two lines of children holding a tug-of-war rope, he said, across the dark street. He leaped out and the pranksters scattered, laughing. There wasn't any rope.

Election Trend In U.S.A. Favors G.O.P.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP). — Triumphant in key eastern seaboard contest, Republicans viewed the off-year election returns today as a signpost on the road which they hope will lead back to the White House in 1944. The Democrats were beaten in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Voting, heavier than expected, yielded these results:

New York: Republican Joe R. Hanley was elected lieutenant governor over Democrat William N. Haskell, retired lieutenant general, by more than 300,000 majority. Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell Wilkie actively supported Hanley; President Roosevelt and James A. Farley backed Haskell.

New Jersey: Former Senator Walter Edge, Republican, defeated Vincent J. Murphy, Newark's Democratic mayor, for the governorship.

Pennsylvania - acting mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia, Republican, was elected to a regular term in that office over the Democrat candidate, William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and to France, for whom President Roosevelt had spoken a good word. The state continued Republican.

Kentucky: This normally Democratic state produced a real horse race for governor with Republican Simeon Willis trailing Democrat J. Lyter Donaldson by only a few thousand votes with hundreds of districts uncounted.

Edge's election in New Jersey gives the G.O.P. a majority of the governorships for the first time since 1928. With his inauguration in January, the party will have 25 of the 48 state executives. This would put Republicans in control of every populous state outside the "solid south" except Indiana.

In Detroit, Labor's candidate for mayor, Frank Fitzgerald rolled up an early lead, then slid to the trailing position behind Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, who was on his way toward a third term. The election was non-partisan.

The election was routine in Virginia, and Mississippi, Democrats coasting in as expected in local contests.

French Decorate Cobourg Teacher

COBOURG, Nov. 3 (ENS)—Word was received here yesterday that Major Bob Ostrander of Cobourg had been awarded the Croix de Guerre by the French Liberation Committee in England, for his work in the Battle of Dieppe

Major Ostrander was born in the village of Ostrander and came to Cobourg immediately after graduating from the Ontario Educational College and joined the staff of Cobourg Collegiate Institute. He taught for 7½ years here and then went on active service, being given leave of absence from his teaching duties in January of 1940. He started his military career as a 2nd Lieut. with the 22nd Medium Battery and was later made adjutant of the 1st Field Regiment by Colonel F. P. Lloyd. He went overseas in 1940 and later was made a major.

"It is a great honour for the school," commented R. N. McKenzie, principal of Cobourg Collegiate Institute.

Speed limits are forgotten when H. P. Sauce is on the menu. The main thing is to get there quickly. At home, some wives wonder how to get around the monotony of meals—others serve H.P. with meat, fish, fowl, stews, salads or sandwiches. A few drops of good old H.P.—that grand English sauce—adds a flavour that makes you come back for more.

Economical — thick — fruity H.P. is "tops" when it comes to sauces. Your family will like it too. Get a bottle today.

COBOURG

Witruck Given Short Jail Term

COBOURG, Nov. 3—(ENS)— Andrew Witruck of Toronto, age 19 years, was sentenced to a week in jail by Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday and on expiration of this term will be turned over to the R. C. M. P. for escort to the nearest military training establishment. He was charged that on Oct. 26, while subject to the National Selective Service Mobilization regulations, he omitted to notify the authorities of a change in address.

Witruck told the court that he was guilty but that he had not been familar with the regulations. Corporal Carl Lockwood stated that Witruck was a merchant seaman deserter from car ferry Ontario No. 1 of Cobourg and that he had made two changes of address without notifying the authorities.

No Admittance

William Miller, local resident, was remanded to jail pending consultation with the mayor to see if he can be admitted to the counties home. Magistrate Baxter said that he understood that the matter was to have been arranged for by this time but that apparently nothing had been done.

"It is not my place to commit you to the Counties Home. You say you have been here for 19 years, then the town should look after your admittance to the home. The mayor to-day asked me to, but I feel that it is something that is up to the town," stated the magistrate.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rotarians Told Of Growth In War Effort

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 3 (ENS) —Rotarians entertained their wives at a banquet in the Masonic Temple Monday evening when the annual ladies' night was held. The entertainment feature of the evening was presented by pupils of Miss Mary Forster's School of Dancing in Belleville.

Perhaps the most impressive part of the evening was the flag ceremony designed to emphasize the part dollars are playing in the war effort. The ceremony was one arranged by the National War Finance Committee and came following the dinner to which nearly 160 guests were welcomed by President Stu Stuart.

A summary of Canada's war effort was contained in an address read by Rotarian Bill Hogle, which told of the magnificent contribution Canada was making to the war effort. Canada was the fourth largest producer of war supplies in the United Nations—had begun the war with a naval strength of 15 vessels now grown to 550 ships and a compliment of 67,000 officers and men who have been doing nearly fifty per cent of the convoy protection work; the army of 4,500 men had grown to 460,000 today and the prewar airforce of 4,000 was now 200,000.

Flag Flying

As Mr. Hogle completed his remarks, Rev. G. N. Maxwell spoke of the rules for flying the flag. "Retreat" was sounded. Captain Alex Turnbull sounded the retreat on the bugle as the entire gathering stood at attention and followed this by holding a minute's silence in honor of the dead.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Dr. O. C. Watson, and Mrs. G. N. Maxwell responded, admonishing the gathering not to forget that even when the last shot was fired the war would not be won. She said it was only when the women would go forth to take their place alongside men "can we hope that this war will end war." It is the men who are going to dictate the peace terms and God forbid that it be the muddle it was before."

Forgets Battle To Plan Future

Somewhere in Italy there is an American soldier whose thoughts betimes wander off in space and time to his postwar destiny. He is thinking then of the possibility of setting himself up as a wholesale or retail florist, possibily both.

Somewhere he must have met a Canadian in the shuffle of troops around the Mediterranean, and in his postwar planning he has reached the stage of writing to Mayor Hamilton for information, rather opinion as to the prospects of operating a wholesale and retail flower and evergreen business near Peterborough, that is greenhouses on a highway a few miles from the city, and probably the retail shop in town.

Such was the fancy of Sergeant W. J. Betz, who sent along his identification numbers and regimental connection.

"We get many letters," Mayor Hamilton said, 'but this one sounded quite unusual, and I thought I would have the council hear it."

An official reply will be sent to the nostalgic Sergeant with his dream of a greenhouse, and he is going to be reasonably encouraged to retain Peterborough on his list.

Treasure Spot

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 3—(AP).—Three youths ambled through a viaduct and spied some "dirty green stuff" on the ground. They scooped it up and found $700 in bills, wrapped around $100 in silver. Ray Spann and William Simpson, two workmen who had discovered $250 in the same place a year ago, heard of the boys' discovery, rushed to the spot—and dup up another $240. In all, nearly $1,300 has been found beneath the viaduct.

Ministers Plan Religious Census

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 3. — (ENS).—Final plans for the first religious census this town has ever had were made by members of the Campbellford and district Ministerial Association which met Monday morning as guests of Rev. and Mrs. Donald McKay at the Burnbrae Presbytery.

The census question, which has been promoted by Rev. W. J. Lennox at the October meeting, had been carefully considered by other members of the association during the past month, and all were now agreed the plan should be adopted. It was proposed that each member should appoint at least five members from his congregation to do the actual canvassing and all were of the opinion the work should be completed by mid-November.

Special Canvass.

Also discussed during the meeting was the annual canvass on behalf of the Bible Society and Rev. W. J. Lennox was appointed to arrange for a special speaker who would spend a Sunday in the various churches of the town outlining the work of the Society. The canvass will be held early in the year. The clergy expressed satisfaction at the discontinuance of the Sunday midnight show, a matter which they brought to the attention of the local council last month, and general approval of Council's prompt action was given

Following the customary plan the Association outlined the program which will be used in connection with Remembrance Dal services here on November 7 when Major N. Clark Wallace of Toronto, will be the guest speaker. Members voiced regret at the removal of Rev. E. A Wicks and the proposed removal of Capt. Alex. Turnbull who will preach his farewell sermon here next Sunday.

Obituary

MRS. WILLIAM BROWN

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 3 (ENS) —Funeral services for the late Mrs. William Brown, 76, were held from Burnbrae Presbyterian church, and conducted by Rev. Donald McKay. A native of Seymour township, she passed away in Hamilton following a brief illness.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Collin Cleugh, she spent most of her life in the vicinity of Campbellford and Havelock, becoming the wife of William Brown in 1888. Following the death of her husband three years ago, Mrs. Brown went to live in Hamilton, where she resided up to the time of her death

Mrs. Brown was a member of the Presbyterian church and in her younger days had taken an active part in the work of various women's organizations. There remain to mourn the loss of a loving mother, two sons, George of Hamilton and Edward of Toronto, and three daughters, Mrs. Fred Brown and Mrs. F. Winfield of Hamilton and Mrs. Roland Dinwoodie of Govan, Sask. Another daughter, Mrs. Frank Beavens of Detroit, Mich., died about a year ago. There also survive one brother Robert Cleugh of Seymour East and a sister, Mrs. Nellie Collins, Toronto.

Following the service in Burnbrae church interment was made in Burnbrae cemetery. The pall-bearers were John Cleugh, William Cleugh, Harold Little, William Little, Bert Hay and Thomas Reid.

Dr. Charlotte Whitton's Alternatives

During the past year the problem of social security has become a matter of the deepest concern to Canadians, and has been widely discussed. Discussion has been based on the Beveridge Report, the Marsh Report, and the Heagerty Report; the first of these was prepared to suit conditions in Great Britain, the second might be called a Canadian version of it, and the third is a Canadian scheme for health insurance—in effect a plan for socialized medical service. The Marsh Report and the Heagerty Report are now under consideration by the federal government. In order to bring about a better understanding of what these reports imply Mr. John Bracken, the Progressive-Conservative leader, asked Dr. Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., to prepare a critical analysis of them, in which she would not only find the flaws in them, but make alternative suggestions. Dr. Whitton has now published The Dawn Of Ampler Life, in which she answers Mr. Bracken's request; it is a document of first-rate importance, which should be read by every Canadian who wants to be well informed on the subject of social security.

We do not think that Dr. Whitton's larger work can be fully appreciated unless it is considered in connection with a pamphlet from her pen called Security For Canadians, which appeared some months ago. In its opening chapter she writes these extremely important words: "So widespread has been the attention directed to the Beveridge Report that there is grave danger of a partially informed public opinion precipitating official commitments, in Canada, to proposals advanced thereunder for the United Kingdom, which would be disastrously premature and inapplicable to the Dominion's sharply contrasting conditions and federal system of government. There is also the threat of centering public thought upon social security as income maintenance to exclusion of the fact that there are these three—spiritual, economic and income security—and that bad is our bargain if, in pursuit of one, we forfeit either or both of the others". When we consider this passage, we might with advantage recall Lin Yutang's trenchant criticism of the notion of Four Freedoms: "Two of them are not freedoms at all. Freedom from fear is not freedom, but political security. Freedom from want is not freedom, but economic security. Both may be achieved at the cost of human freedom, and probably will, if we think too much about animal security. Nothing gives such a feeling of perfect freedom from want and fear to a dog as a collar round its neck". The plain fact is that there are not four freedoms, but one Freedom, and we must not allow any scheme of state control to rob us of that.

Dr. Whitton thinks that the Marsh Report and the Heagerty Report both make the mistake of relying too heavily on the power of money to bestow every blessing. Dr. Marsh says that his plan would cost just under a billion a year to operate; Dr. Whitton says that he is too conservative, and that $1,200,000,000 would be nearer the cost. Until a year ago she was Executive Director of the Canadian Welfare Council, and for many years she has been engaged in social service in this country. Therefore we may assume that she knows more about the true situation than Dr. Marsh does; his estimates are based on actuarial calculation, and Dr. Whitton's are based on first-hand experience of Canadian need and unemployment. He would give cash benefits to all who are unemployed, all who are ill or aged, and all who have children. As for Dr. Heagerty, he would give cash benefits not to the receivers of state medical aid, but to the doctors, collecting a base rate of $26 a head from the beneficiaries, this sum being partially supplied by the government in the case of people with low incomes.

Dr. Whitton looks with disfavour on these plans because they are not practical and because she does not think they are good for the soul of Canada. One of the refreshing things about this writer is that she is not afraid to admit her belief that people have souls, and that a country has a soul, and that the salvation of those souls is more important than the provision of the dog collar that Lin Yutang refers to with such contempt. She writes with conviction on this "shackling of the soul" in Security For Canadians saying that "Such shackling can be as effective and terrible through spiritual, economic and political domination as through military oppression. In any sphere the beginning is the concentration of power in the hands of the few, and the seizure and diversion to their own use of all sources of wealth, means and production and labour of the people, and media of public propaganda". If the people of Canada put themselves in the power of the government in return for an assured sum of money that have indeed sold their birthright for a mess of pottage. The animals in the zoo are free from want and fear, they roar as they like and they worship as they like, but they are not free; Canada must not become a zoo in the attempt to gain social security.

But can we, without surrendering our freedom to a bureaucracy and accepting the status of state pensioners, assure the people of Canada of a satisfactory degree of social security? Yes, we can, says Dr. Whitton, and sets out her proposals for doing so. In place of health insurance she suggests health service, which would give medical care and hospital treatment to all citizens up to the level of human necessity; the citizen would keep his right to have additional care, or different care, at his own expense. Thus health service would be comparable to our education service, in which every citizen may send his child to the state school, or to a private school if that is his desire. She recommends social assistance based on need, and not on an arbitrarily established "right". There are, she makes clear, a variety of mishaps which may befall a family or a single person which cause great distress; how often or where these are likely to happen cannot be determined by actuarial calculation. Dr. Whitton favours help in these cases by direct aid, which would be paid for out of state funds but which would be limited to people who really needed it.

Only after these matters are dealt with does Dr. Whitton turn to income insurance, which both Marsh and Beveridge treat as of first importance. The Beveridge plan and its little sister the Marsh plan make their calculations to suit industry, with employers paying a part of the premium and doing the collecting for the state—tax-gathering, in fact. Dr. Whitton says that this scheme is all wrong for Canada, which has a high proportion of non-wage workers. She would relate the "Income Insurance" to the Income Tax, the premiums being collected with the Income Tax. Benefits would be estimated on the Income Tax exemption level, with temporary payments, such as unemployment and sickness benefit coming to half the exemption figure, and pensions coming to 40 per cent. of the exemption. This would give $330 a year to the single worker and $600 to the married worker in case of unemployment or illness. Clearly this is not enough, but Dr. Whitton stresses that it is the minimum, paid to everyone, without a means test. Rich and poor alike would receive it, because they had paid for it. Those who needed more would receive it from the public funds according to their wants.

Only the barest outline of Dr. Whitton's proposals can be given here. For full information, read The Dawn of Ampler Life. But we hope that it has been made clear that Dr. Whitton's proposals aim at keeping the cost of social security down to a level at which the state can support it without a greatly increased tax burden. She makes no apology for those parts of her plan which involve giving "assistance" to those who need it. Dr. Whitton knows social work inside out, and she knows that there will always be people who have to be helped, because they cannot help themselves. Better a dole for those who have had bad luck, or bad judgement, than a concealed dole for everybody, with its seeds of moral and economic rot. No one disputes Canada's duty to provide decent security for all her citizens, and it is good to find a social worker who really knows Canada and its problems putting forward a workable scheme to contest the field with the vastly expensive plans of the economists. For—let no one doubt it—whatever social security scheme we have will be paid for by the people of Canada—not a few of them, but all of them. It is in our interest then, to make the best bargain we can with ourselves, and accept a plan which will give us the most practical benefit at the least expense. Dr. Whitton's proposals point out how this may be done.

The Rationed Reviewer

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IN these days of newsprint rationing the book-reviewer, like everyone else in the newspaper office, often finds himself cramped for space, and has to squeeze several books, which might well be reviewed separately, into a single column. This is such a case, and so let us to the task, to the battle, to the toil....First at hand is a novel, "Heaven Is A Sunswept Hill," by Earl Guy; Macmillans publish it, and all which are to follow. This is a tale about the poor folk of the lower Mississippi, and Mr. Guy is to be thanked for making them reasonable human beings, instead of perverts, crooks and failures. So many modern novelists like to harp on the most repulsive side of rural life that a book about decent people is a pleasant change. The spring floods are the great problem in the lives of Sam and Matty Brindle and their two little girls, and every year they are forced to speculate as to how high the waters of the great river will rise. Sam is not a gifted farmer, and he is hindered by lack of money and lack of education, but he is a decent and determined man, and the story of his struggle with unaccomodating nature is a good one. Readers who like gentle entertainment are recomended to try this book.

A SOMEWHAT more sophisticated novel is "The Choice" by Charles Mills. It might have been no more than another book about the Old South, but it has a broader background and a more universal theme. David Lennox is a Southerner who dearly loves his plantation home, but feels drawn also toward Italy, with which his family has happy associations. Lennox is a man of artistic leanings and sensitive nature; he abhors the crassness and stupidity which disguise themselves as "democracy" and longs for tradition and culture; it takes him some time to dissociate the essential from the non-essential in democratic life. But the process is an interesting one; during his time in Italy Lennox becomes implicated in the Fascist movement, then in its infancy, and makes the not uncommon mistake of assuming that culture and tradition for the upper classes necessarily means oppression and muzzles for the workers. How he emerges from this confusion forms the matter of a well-constructed and interesting story.

AN excellent book for the pocket is the Steinbeck volume in the Viking Portable Library. It contains much of the best writing of the popular American author, including "Of Mice And Men," and "The Red Pony" complete. There are long selections from "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Moon is Down," "Tortilla Flat" and other works of Steinbeck. A better introduction to the work of this important American novelist could not be devised; it will also serve a refreshment for those who are Steinbeck enthusiasts, and who like to carry something of their favourite writer with them on journeys, or to the military camp. The selection has been skillfully made by Pascal Covici.

YET another edition has appeared of that popular work, first published in 1934, "Arctic Trader," by Philip H. Godsell; the present volume is modestly priced and it should be an excellent gift for boys and girls this coming Christmas. Godsell began his work with the Hudson's Bay Company when he was a lad of seventeen, and worked his way up until he became an inspector of territories and a man of importance in the company. He spent much of his time in the Mackenzie River district and on the islands of the Arctic Ocean. His book is a tale of remarkable adventure. Fur trading, man hunts with the Mounties, journeys through the snowy wilderness—all were part of the day's work. A man of intelligence could not help becoming deeply reflective in such an atmosphere, and the book is filled with provocative ideas.

JUMPING from one extreme to another, I strongly recommend "South of the Congo," by Selwyn James. It is a first-rate, well-written account of a little-known part of the world. Its interest is geographical, anthropological and political, for it was in this part of Africa that the Gestapo was busiest, and the German bid for power most menacing. This book has great significance as a comment on imperialism as set forward by two great peoples, and as a thorough study of a most interesting stretch of territory... Finally there is "By Water and the Word," a transcription of the diary of the Rt. Rev. J. A. Newnham, the bishop of Moosonee from 1891 to 1904. It will be of interest to everyone desirous of tracing the missionary development of Canada.

"Softies" In Universities

Noting that 30 per cent of youths of 18 who were examined for the United States Army were rejected, Dr. T. K. Cureton of the University of Illinois, made a test among the freshmen which revealed a surprising lack of athletic fitness among them. He had 2,628 students to work upon.

The record for a mile run is four minutes and two seconds, while a man has walked a mile in six minutes, 21 seconds. Yet 76 per cent of the 2,628 failed to run one mile in seven minutes. The record for running 100 yards is nine and one-half seconds. Yet 68.50 per cent failed run that distance in a fraction under 14 seconds. The record for a standing broad jump is 11 feet, five inches, but 37.35 per cent could not do six and one-half feet. At gymnastics nearly 78 per cent could not "chin" themselves 10 times, and 79 per cent failed to raise their legs 20 times from the floor while lying on their backs and then do 20 "sit-ups." A fit man can do that several hundred times.

Dr. Cureton chiefly attributes these results to "the protected softness" of the lives of young people, multitudes of whom never do any hard work, and to dependence on motor vehicles.

These conditions emphasize the value of exercise for those who have not engaged in work requiring physical effort. A vast number of youths have no contact with physical effort other than in school or college games. The rest of their time is spent in taking things easy, and they seldom walk if they can ride.

Unless they have some physical defect, such as poor sight, poor hearing or a heart condition, all young people can be immeasurably improved by exercise, and whether hard as nails or inclined to be soft, if they are taken into the armed forces, the training they receive and the regular lives they live, make "new men" of them in a surprisingly short time.

When Beethoven Conducted

OUR master could not be presented as a model in respect of conducting, and the orchestra always had to have a care in order not to be led astray by its mentor; for he had ears only for his composition and was ceaselessly occupied by manifold gesticulations to indicate the desired expression. He used to suggest a dimenuendo by crouching down more and more, and at a pianissimo he would almost creep under the desk. When the volume of sound grew he rose up also as if out of a stage-trap, and with the entrance of the power of the band he would stand upon the tips of his toes almost as big as a giant, and waving his arms, seemed about to soar upwards to the skies. Everything about him was active, not a bit of his organism idle, and the man was comparable to a perpetuum mobile. He did not belong to those capricious composers whom no orchestra in the world can satisfy. At times, indeed, he was altogether too considerate and did not even repeat passages which went badly at the rehearsal: "It will go better next time," he would say. He was very particular about expression, the delicate nuances, the equable distribution tempo rubato, and without betraying vexation, would discuss them with the individual players. When he then observed that the players would enter into his intentions and play together with increasing ardor, inspired by the magical power of his creations, his face would be transfigured with joy, all his features beamed pleasure and satisfaction, a pleased smile would play around his lips and a thundering "Bravi tutti!" reward the successful achievement. It was the first and loftiest triumphantal moment for the genius, compared with which, as he confessed, the tempestuous applause of a receptive audience was as nothing. When playing at first sight, there were frequent pauses for the purpose of correcting the parts and then the thread would be broken; but he was patient even then; but when things went to pieces, particularly in the scherzos of his symphonies at a sudden and unexpected change of rhythm, he would shout with laughter and say he had expected nothing else, but was reckoning on it from the beginning; he was almost childishly glad that he had been successful in "unhorsing such excellent riders." —From "The Life of Ludwig von Beethoven," by Alexander Wheelock Thayer. At the Centre of Empire

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Nov. 3 (CP)—As Fleet Street bars go, the Club X stands apart as a cross between an education and a backwoods store.

It squats a bit in off the street, a shabby terminus for one of the countless alleys which make a jungle of the London newspaper world.

It owes its character to the influence of time and a boss with a nonchalant devotion to chaos.

The boss, in fact, is one of the most delightful bodies between Ludgate Circus and Temple Bar. He is a person strange of habit, an eccentric example of the humanity which lurks behind Fleet Street's exterior.

His countenance is that of a man in whom persistent report to liquor has struck a compromise with reality. He is as thin as a London newspaper, as unorthodox as a grasshopper.

He has slept on the Club's X's billiard table since a bomb got his home one night.

On the last day he left the Club X he had his picture taken on Fleet Street, a lanky figure in braces with a dog on a leash and St. Paul's filling the background. That was months ago and the boss hasn't stirred outdoors since.

His chief assistant is an equally unbelievable character, a woman in grey, quiet in appearance but quite capable of serving one customer and outcussing another out of the side of her mouth.

With them as pillars, the Club X has developed its character. Its bar fronts an array of liquor bottles, most of them empty, banners, flowers, snapshots and pictures, a panorama with all the regularity of a European frontier.

With some effort at balance, a picture of an Australian fighter ace on one side is matched with that of the boss and his dog on the other. Otherwise, all is distortino.

There are beer kegs everywhere, strewn impartially through a forest of assorted furniture and sleeping dogs.

Australia Corrects Wartime Error

(By J. E. HOLDSWORTH, Canadian Press Correspondent)

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 3 (CP Cable)—A new classification—"refugee aliens"—to describe foreigners who fled here from Nazi and Fascist tyranny has been adopted by the Commonwealth Government to supplant the old general term of "aliens" which covered both fugitives and those who came from enemy countries as internees.

Commenting on the change, the Sydney Morning Herald said editorially: "It has taken the Australian government four years to correct the injustice officially committed on the outbreak of war against some thousands, mainly innocent European refugees from the wrath of Hitler.

"Neither the present government nor any of its predecessors could plead ignorance, for the agitation against the wrong done has been open and persistent and ministers have been repeatedly reminded that every other English-speaking country, which listened as Australia did to the appeal for succor from the international conference at Evian in 1938, has not failed to distinguish between refugees and true enemy aliens."

The Herald added that Australia undertook to admit 15,000 of them but in effect, because of the war, not more than 7,000 were admitted "and they have been treated without distinction of national origin ever since, as suspected enemies whose residence boded us only harm."

Two members of the touring British press delegation have expressed astonishment at the development of munitions making here. One of the most praiseworthy efforts recently revealed covers shipbuilding and ship repairing. Unlike Canada, Australia had practically no pre-war experience in this field. Since Japan entered the war, one big cruiser with a blown-off bow and another with a quarter of her length chopped away were made seaworthy in an Australian yard.

The leader of the British delegation put his thumb on a sore spot in the Commonwealth's war mobilization when he expressed surprise at the limited use of woman-power compared with Britain. The Sydney Morning Herald's parliamentary correspondent remarked that "observers know that the government had so far faced up to the woman-power question only to decide dodging it." The correspondent added that "fantastically one of the reasons seems to be the essential Victorianism in most Australian ministers' view of women."

The Commonwealth has power to call upon women for interviews to induce them to enter the women's branches of the fighting services or vital munition work but as no penalties are enforced thousands simply ignore the call-ups or the appeals made to them at the interviews. The government appears to be imbued with the idea of voluntary service.

One of the Commonwealth's most striking war projects was construction of a road, hundreds of miles long, from north to south across the middle of the continent. This road, crossing the central desert, links stretches of railway that were built north from Adelaide and south from Darwin and convoys of military trucks make daily trips over it.

A Bible Message

And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil....

And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him. And out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and brought them unto Adam to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof. And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof: and the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. (Gen. 2: 8, 9, 18-23.)

Narcotic Farms

There has been urged from time to time on the authorities of Canada and other countries the advisability of adopting some more practical scheme for the treatment of drug addicts than just sending them to prison because there was no other place for them.

While it is generally recognized that addiction to drugs is a disease, it is only of comparatively recent years that medical treatment has been furnished for the unfortunate victims of the disease, and it was the jails and prisons where it was administered.

The government of the United States has taken a lead in projecting a reform, provision having been made some years ago for the establishment of farms for the care and treatment of persons confined in federal prisons who are addicted to the use of habit-forming drugs.

With such a plan there is hope for a cure of many of these unfortunate people. In nearly every prison there are confined such persons, many of which they cannot get the proper attention nor is there the proper environment to help in the process of the cure.

These farms have been established, other countries should be able to appreciate the character of the work. Probably before many years there will be similar farms in all countries, and these people will not be considered criminals, but sick men and women in need of sympathetic assistance.

The New Medal

Now that the Canada Medal has been designed, it may be too late to nominate recipients. It would not be surprising if the first Canadian honours list had already been prepared with due regard to geographical, racial and political considerations.

If there still is a vacancy on the honours list it is hoped that it will be reserved for an unknown Canadian citizen, perhaps an undiscoverable one, who deserves all honours that are his country's gift.

His citation will read: "John Blank, who, since September, 1939, has never excused his own shortcomings or those of the business, profession or Civil Service department with which he is associated, by uttering these words or their equivalent: 'Don't you know there's a war on?'"—The Printed Word.

Cheese Output Shows Gains

OTTAWA, Nov. 3 — (CP). — Improvements in white cheddar cheese production as compared with last year, following months when the output was lower, now are being reported in Ontario and Quebec.

An open fall and a milk subsidy made effective October 1, have helped increase production. More cheese is urgently needed to meet a 150,000,000-pound contract with the United Kingdom, but officials said the season of low production is at hand and it is unlikely it will be possible to fill the contract.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said recently, however, that when shipments of 7,000,000 pounds of butter were considered, dairy products sent to the United Kingdom this year would be far short of the total covered in the cheese contract.

In the week ended October 30, white cheese gradings in Ontario and Quebec totalled 50,368 cases against 44,870 in the same week last year. Only white, unwaxed cheese is exported, and no colored cheese was reported for the week this year. In 1942, 6,662 cases of colored cheese were graded.

From last November 30 to October 30 gradings totalled 1,442,169 cases of white cheese and 107,539 of colored, compared with 1,757,857 white and 235,744 colored in the previous 12 months.

CENTREVILLE

Presbyterian Church Observes Anniversary

CENTREVILLE, Nov. 3 (ENS). — Centreville Presbyterian anniversary was held Sunday with a good attendance at both services. Rev. Ewart W. B. MacKay of Cobourg was guest speaker.

He chose for his morning text 2 Chron. 27:3 "He built the high gate of the house of the Lord," and maintained that a higher plane of living was offered through Christ and his redemption. And coupled with the evening message taken from Rev. 4:1 "Come up hither, and I will shew thee things," which he claimed was an invitation to rise above material ambitions and that religion was not a part of but the whole of life, meant to give a fuller life in communion with God in every life.

Special music was given by the guest singers from Port Hope, Miss Audrey Box, Mrs. Towns and Walter Roberts and Charles Doney including a contralto solo "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," a baritone solo "Alone," a ladies' duet "Thy Will Be Done," a men's duet, "Rock of Ages," and two mixed quartettes "Moment by Moment," and "Nearer, Still Nearer."

MILLBROOK

Mission Groups Hold Service

MILLBROOK, Nov. 3 (ENS). — That the world conflict has created many grave problems, and that it is definitely a struggle between the things of material, and the things that are of spiritual, value, was stressed by Rev. A. L. Sisco at Sunday morning worship in St. Andrew's Church, in his special message to the members of the Mission Circle, Band and of the senior Auxiliary, who attended in a body and received their annual fall thankoffering.

The text was chosen from 11 Corinthians 4:18: "The things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal," and emphasis was placed upon the fact that it is the duty of Christians to stand up for the things that are of spiritual value; to destroy the old evil world and help build a new world where men may live in the enjoyment of peace, righteousness, and happiness.

During the offertory the choir sang a beautiful setting of the 23rd Psalm, and at the close of the service, the ushers distributed leaflets covering the missionary activities of the church.

RECORD CROWD SEES WHIPPER WATSON TAKE KATAN IN TWO FALLS

Gotch Bathrobe Torn To Shreds

Whipper Billy Watson successfully defended his British Empire title before the biggest crowd of the season at Brock Street Arena last night by defeating Killer John Katan in straight falls, but at that the show was stolen from the idol of Toronto by rowdy Jan Gotch, who caused one of the wildest demonstrations of the current revival.

Gotch was matched against Irish Pat Flanagan in what was to have been the semi-final of the Frank Tunney card, but was moved up to the end of the bill because the former was late in arriving.

The two staged a lively bout with honors even until Gotch went to town on Flanagan at the 22-minute mark with a series of punches that soon had the Toronto Irishman out on his feet. Referee Tommy Nelson tried to stop the onslaught but was knocked down twice with right swings to the jaw, and came to after the second one just in time to see Gotch toss his opponent to the mat with a body slam. The dazed referee counted Flanagan out.

Then came the fireworks. Gotch's arm was raised in token of victory as the Irishman lay prostrate on the canvass. Then the winner went over to Flanagan as if to assist him to his feet but instead he picked up the helpless Toronto grappler, hoisted him shoulder high and then slammed him to the ground and kicked him in the face.

That was the signal for a wild outburst. The crowd, angered at this ruthlessness swarmed around the ring. Two or three of the fans climbed through the ropes but Gotch was taking on all comers and he soon cleaned the ring by landing a couple of hay-makers on the intruders. Finally police came to the rescue of the infuriated wrestler

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—(AP)— For some time boxing men have been arguing that their favourite sport will enjoy a post-war boom as a result of the fistic training servicemen have received . . . Now comes the first real evidence we've seen backing up their speculations . . . Sgt. Jim G. Lucas, a Marine combat correspondent from Tulsa, Okla., sends back a story of how the Marines revived boxing interest in New Zealand during their stay there . . . They stirred up so much fan and participant interest that Capt. C. L. Mullany, chairman of the New Zealand Amateur Boxing Association, presented a loving cup to the C.I. "in appreciation of the splendid spirit and outstanding sportsmanship" of the leatherneck leather-flingers.

Open Air Skating Rink Depends On Main

An open-air rink in the old locrosse bol on Townsend Street this winter will depend on the laying of a water main to the incinerator property before the cold weather sets in, Alderman Glover reported to the Council on Monday night.

The Utilities Commission has under consideration the placing of a hydrant "for protection of the incinerator and the nearby gasoline storage tanks, and if this is done the hydrant would be convenient to the Bowl."

The special committee recommended expenditure up to $300 in clearing out the Bowl and otherwise preparing it for flooding if the water service becomes available.

A motion by Aldermen Glover and Sands asked the Board of Works to take charge of the preliminaries of raking up "rubbish, bottles and remnants of salvage." It was also suggested that one of the beach dressing-rooms might be hauled to the rink.

The estimated cost of $300 was about the average cost of providing another rink.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The special committe of the city council appointed to investigate the possibilities of providing hockey facilities for young players in the lacrosse bowl on Townsend street evidently means business. The committee has already inspected the premises and decided what will be needed there and has recommended the expenditure of $300 to put the stadium in shape for hockey. The whole place will have to be cleaned out of course and heated dressing-rooms provided. Those things the committee has already decided on and the only hitch in the program is the lack of water for flooding purposes. That is a serious problem for as the layout is at present the nearest available water supply is a hydrant on Rink street and that would necessitate the use of a long stretch of hose with the probability of having the hose frozen on cold nights. It is to be hoped that this obstacle will be overcome. Adequate hockey facilities at this spot would be a life-saver for the game and the special committee and the members of the city council generally are to be congratulated upon the efforts they are making to keep the game alive in Peterborough.

Incidentally there should be a real crowd at the citizens' meeting called for tonight in the city council chamber by Mayor Hamilton for the purpose of considering the most effective way of planning for an artificial ice arena and auditorium for this city as a post-war community project. We have been lamenting about the lack of hockey facilities here for years. Here is a real chance to do something about it and it is to be hoped that now there is an opportunity for turning talk into action that responsible citizens will put their shoulder to the wheel and get this drive started. We cannot afford to wait until after the war to do the planning. Now is the time to get the whole scheme shaped up so that when the glad day comes that Hitler has been liquidated and Tojo chained up we will be ready to go ahead without delay. This city recognizes the need of a modern hockey arena, there can be little doubt about that fact and leaders in the community should be ready to lineup and put the thing over. The citizens of Welland are tackling a $150,000 arena proposition now and the drive is meeting with complete success. Surely we have as much enterprise and civic pride as the good folk in Welland. We can prove it by attending tonight's meeting and helping to launch the local campaign.

Here's A New Angles

Scribe Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard makes a new plea for the soldier hockey player, pointing out that the military hockey teams supply entertainment and therefore should be given the same preferential treatment as military shows. Perhaps he has something there. Anyway here are his views: "Something we cannot understand about the sudden decision of the National Defence Department to move all hockey players is that only 150 players are engaged in senior army hockey in Canada and the players attend to their regular military duties while the service forces promote costly shows, with as many as 100 in a company. The shows are for entertainment. So is hockey. The puck teams only travel short distances and take up little space. Shows need, and get special trains."

* * * * * *

"In the services show business only those who see the performances are entertained but in hockey fans who never go near the games are entertained," continues Br'er Walshe. "We do not mean to suggest that the show folks are not doing an important job of helping entertain the troops. They are. But hockey will entertain many more servicemen and citizens, not cost the services any money and will not interfere with the training or service of soldiers. Soldier hockey players will be ready for action overseas, or anywhere, when needed. Hockey fans are also figuring the army is letting them down by not ordering the ban on senior hockey during the summer. With plans all made, money spent for equipment and many thousands of hockey followers anticipating a big season of sport the late decision that will upset all senior hockey was ordered in Ottawa or after Toronto authorities took Turk Broda off a Montreal train."

Good Headwork

One of the interesting results of the association of the armed forces of the United Nations in this glopal war is the fact that the soldiers and sailors and airmen of the various Allied countries are learning something of the favorite games of their allies. Thus Americans in England are being initiated into the mysteries of cricket and soccer and Britishers and Australians are coming into contact with baseball, softball and American football. A Peterborough sailor serving in Newfoundland in a letter to this column tells an amusing story of touch rugby around the wireless station recently and the participants included Canadian, Newfoundland and British sailors. At one stage in the battle the quarterback of one of the teams faded back to throw a forward pass. He spotted one of his side, a British sailor, in the clear back of the goal line and so he drilled a pass at the target. It was a perfect heave, good for a touchdown on any gridiron in the country but the "limey" sailor made no attempt to catch the pass. Instead he headed the ball in soccer style, meeting it squarely with his head and deflecting it over the dead-line. The incident struck the Canadian players as so funny that the ball game was broken up completely.

Perc Nicholls got two goals and Joe Blewett picked up one in the victory of the Kingston Army team over Ottawa Canadiens the other night. The game was another test of the new rules and Bill Walshe, Kingston sports scribe comments as follows: "The new rules again opened the play and fans seem to like them more after a second look. The long pass to centre ice by the defending team breaks up gang plays and starts counterattacks much faster. Although only in the experiment stage it seems to have added a flash to the game like the forward pass did in football. High scores may be expected this season if the Kingston games are any indication in the two game series with Cornwall 20 goals were netted and Saturday 17 were poured into the nets for a total of 37 in three hours. Goal tenders are the busiest players in hockey row. Fans like the scoring and they should get added excitement and action out of the games. In the three hours of hockey there has not been a penalty and only minor injuries; in fact, Rhys Thompson, Kingston defenceman, has run into the only misfortune on the casualty list. He was clipped for two stitches in the last Cornwall game and had another pair added Saturday."

Bruins Defeat Cornwall Army

CORNWALL, Nov. 3 — (CP). — The smooth-working Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League handed Cornwall Army of the Quebec Senior Hockey League a 6-4 defeat in a wide-open exhibition game here last night. The free-wheeling Bruins, short of talent, had a tough time subduing the service club, and earned the win on the superlative net-minding of Bert Gardiner.

Bill Cowley and Bep Guidolin paced the Boston attack with two goals each. Guidolin also helped in three of the markers. The other Bruin tallies went to Herbie Cain and Oscar Aubuchon.

Frankie Mario, Bobbie Laurent, Johnny Denison, and Bud Poile were the Cornwall snipers.

The Bruins took a 2-1 edge in the opening frame, but Cornwall came back in the second to knot the count at 3-3. Cornwall threw all they had into the final session, but were outscored by 3-1 as the Bruins broke from power plays to put the game on ice.

The teams:

Boston — Goal, Gardiner; defence, Jackson and Clapper; centre, Cowley; wings, Cain, Guidolin; subs., Hollett, Calladine, Scherza, Aubuchon, Boyd.

Cornwall — Goal, Dion; defence, Slewchuk and Knott; centre, Poile; wings, Woodward, Fasano; subs., Laurent, Mario, Conacher, O'Flaherty, Imlach, Dennison, Brown.

Referees — E. Contant and T. Ivan.

Complete Plans On Jr. A Series

TORONTO, Nov. 3—(CP)—Arrangements for the 1943-44 Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" series were completed last night at a meeting of Junior "A" clubs and O.H.A. sub-committee.

It was announced after the meeting that a game between Stratford and Hamilton scheduled for Nov. 12 has been postponed because of lack of ice and will be played in Stratford later in the season at a date agreed upon by both clubs. A game between Galt and St. Catharines scheduled for Feb. 26 at Galt has been moved ahead to Nov. 16 to give Galt a home date early in the season.

Ross Clemens, past president of the O.H.A., announced that McMaster University in Hamilton has awarded its O.H.A. Scholarship to William Bryden of Guelph.

One referee and one linesman will act as officials in junior games this season, the linesman to be a hometown official appointed by the home club. There will be one referee and two linesmen for senior O.H.A. games.

CANADIENS DEFEAT RANGERS 2-1 DOMINATING PLAY THROUGHOUT

McAuley Stars In Net For New Yorkers

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—(CP).—It isn't often a goalie can let in 14 goals in three games and still be considerde a stellar performer, but as far as Montreal fans are concerned, that's the way it is with little Ken McAuley of New York Rangers.

Rangers went down to their third straight defeat here last night, taking a 2-1 loss from Montreal Canadiens to add to the 4-1 and 9-3 drubbing handed them earlier by Toronto and Detroit. But if it hadn't been for some work on McAuley's part the score might have been most anything.

Diving, sprawling, splitting and sitting, McAuley made saves on a dozen shots labelled as goals in the first two periods when Canadiens carried much of the play. Rangers finally came to life in the third and forced Bill Durnan in the Canadiens' net to do a little fancy work on his own.

Murph Chamberlain started the scoring early in the first period only to have Jack McDonald tie it up for Rangers close to the end of the period. Phil Watson scored the winner for the Canucks early in the second.

TORONTO, Nov. 3 — (CP). — It was obvious at the National Hockey League opener in the Gardens that fans will attend major league games here this season in as large, if not larger, numbers than last year. The concensus was that the "kids" dished out a lively brand of hockey, but Toronto fans are not overly critical of the game's fine points. If they get action they are well satisfied. More particularly the Saturday night hockey in Toronto is a social event When they have the money, people pay those big prices ($3.00 tops) for the privilege of sitting in on a spectacle. They like to hob-nob, from a distance, with the big shots in the boxes. They can still do that and the hockey itself isn't much different form pre-war years except to the experts. Fans can still see some fast skating, spills, goal-mouth scrambles, fights. They enjoy it. So what.

Changing times:

A notice in the clubhouse at Vancouver's Quilchena Golf Course reads: "Attention of all members is called to the fact that young boys and girls are now being employed as caddies. It is therefore suggested that members be particularly careful of their language while on the course." Okay. But those apoplectic gentlemen must have some outlet—or bust.

Puck patter:

Jack Forsey, Calgarian who played for Toronto Maple Leasf last season, applied for enlistment in R.C.A.F. air crew, but was rejected because of a broken nose. So he joined the Army and was sent to Red Deer, Alta., for basic training....It's doubtful the Nickel Belt League will operate this winter. Frood Tigers have definitely announced withdrawal.... Andy O'Brien of the Montreal Standard caught up with Porky Dumart, the former Boston Bruin, in England the other day. Porky, found honing a pair of skates, told O'Brien he had been reading The Canadian Press News, the overseas service paper, that Bruins were in training camp. "It sort of made me homesick, so I got out my skates and amused myself sharpening them up."

8 Top Horses In Futurity At Pimlico Track

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Eight two-year-old colts were named overnight to go to the post in today's running of the Pimlico Futurity, but no one was predicting that the winner would become the winter-book favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

In recent years the juvenile ranks have been pretty well narrowed down to a few racers by the time of the Maryland Jockey Club's classic, but the two-year-olds have been beating each other with confusing consistency this year.

Must Prove Ability

Whatever colt comes home first in today's 1 3-16 miles run will have to prove its ability against such horses as Pukka Gin, Pensive, Alorter, Twilight Tear, Mrs. Ames and Occupy—none of which will go in the Futurity—before it can claim the divisional championship.

Among the early favorites were two bred by Edward R. Bradley but now owned by other interests. One was Black Gang, a son of War Admiral bought for $16,500 by the Cedar Farm of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bromley, of Philadelphia. The other was By Jimminy, bought at a reported fancy price several months ago by Alfred P. Parker.

Top weight in the event was shared by two Maryland-owned colts, R. Sterling Clark's Smolensko and W. L. Brann's Picotee. Each was asigned 122 pounds in the allowance affair. By Jimminy will carry 119; Black Gang, 117.

Others named overnight were Greentree Stable's Middle Watch, 117 and Broad Grin 119; Clark's Bell-the-Cat, 119; and George D. Widener's Platter, 119.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Stan Musial, the Donora, Pa., outfielder who batted .357 for the championship St. Louis Cardinals during the 1943 season, got a birthday present today—he was named the National League's most valuable player for 1943.

The present arrived a couple of weeks early, but although Stan will not celebrate his 23rd natal day until No. 21, there's no doubt that he appreciated the selection made by a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

Out of a possible 336 points the National League batting champion received a total of 267, getting 13 of 24 first-place votes.

Runnerup to Musial was his teammate. Catcher Walker Cooper, soon to be inducted into the army, who received five first-place votes and a point total of 192.

Big Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs, who socked the most homers, 29, and drove in the most runs, 128, was third. He also received five first-place votes and a total of 181 points.

Count Fleet, champion three-year-old of the turf, already is stabled for the winter at Stoner Creek stud near Paris, Ky., following a successful career during present racing season. The Count, injured in midsummer, hasn't been to the races in several months. He won't run again until 1944. He has gained 150 pounds.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 3—(CP)—A publisher who holds interests in no fewer than 85 different activities, Walter Hutchinson, added another purchase in the Manor Stud, a Hampshire estate steeped in turf history. The stud comprises 100 acres and was purchased for "five figures."

Hutchinson, who raced on a large scale before the war, intends to resume in the near future and is "keen on breeding staying blood." He will bring some horses from Eire.

"There is room for between 30 and 40 horses at the stud and apart from training I shall breed on a large scale," he said.

Oddities surrounded Hutchinson's pre-war activities. At one time he had 31 horses in training and when Broad Oaks won the Autumn Cup at Alexandra Park in 1938 the publisher caused a sensation by giving away a handful of banknotes.

He also owned Ballyscalon, a steeplechaser who was at his best only when his jockey carried a rattle attached to his whip. The ruling body of Jockey Club stewards eventually banned the practice.

Hutchinson won more than $450,000. He bought the 'chaser at auction, entered him in a race the following day. Hutchinson made a large wager on his entry which won sensationally at odds of 63-1.

The publisher's main race hopes revolve around breeding a winner of the Grand National. His last entry in that classic was Tapionis in 1937 which fell during the running.

There was plenty of celebrating—for some—up Stockton way when Screech pounded to an easy, two-length triumph in the seven furlong Tees Handicap. The little bettors—those fellows who lay a couple of bob—received nearly $33 for every 45 cents they bet. That represnets odds of more than 72 to one.

Royal Glory, four-eyar-old winner of the $4,400 Northern Cambridgeshire at Stockton, was a gift horse which narrowly missed being destroyed.

Owned and trained by Matt Peacock, one of England's most successful trainers, Royal Glory prqviously was the property of J. G. Thompson who bought him for $5,525. Thompson became so discouraged with the poor performances of the racer, he told Trainer Peacock to have him shot. Peacock demurred and Thompson then insisted his trainer take the racer as a gift.

Keeping up the high prices being paid for yearlings with a view to post-war racing, a filly was bought at a Dublin bloodstock sale for the equivalent of $11,575. Purchased by Trainer Tom Hall, the animal is a half-sister to Diplomat, which won stakes on successive days at Ascot in 1937 and more than $45,000 in stakes.

Another filly was purchased by the Hon. Dorothy Paget, millionaire racehorse owner and breeder, for nearly $10,000.

Delaney Seeks To Clip Title Holder

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 3 — CP). — Next December, Canada's Al Delaney may attempt to knock the British and Empire light-heavyweight crowns from atop the curly hair of Freddie Mills. Few think he would succeed.

The Canadian army trooper from the Ontario cities of Windsor and Oshawa was promised a match with Mills if he could gain a convincing victory over Allan Robinson, a Leeds giant with a vulnerable chin. Delaney took the nod in 10 rounds at London's Albert Hall but didn't particularly impress as a title hopeful.

Against heavy physical odds the veteran who claimed the Canadian light-heavyweight title when he joined the army did his boxing in patches and appeared to lack condition. At 189 pounds, Delaney was 27 pounds lighter and three inches shorter than the towering heavy, who, however, had no power behind his punches.

While Mills, a sergeant physical training instructor in the Royal Air Force, looked on from a ringside corner, the points victory received a mixed reception from the packed house. Sports writers agreed with the decision—and also that Mills had little to fear from either man.

Peterboro Needs $833,100 In Four Days

Peterborough has four days to subscribe $833,100 of the Fifth Victory Loan to attain for the city and county their joint objective of $4,600,000 by Saturday night. The daily average is $208,275.

That was the prospect of the campaings and its successful conclusion as seen from the advanced ground of the end of the fourteenth day, last night.

Tuesday's returns were satisfactory with subscriptions amounting to $144,200 increasing the grand total to $3,766,900 as compared with $3,622,700 at the close of Monday.

The divisional returns Tuesday were as follows: City general canvass $99,850; employees' canvass, $25,900; and rural canvass $18,450. Total $144,200.

Residents of the city who comprise the general canvass accounted for the bulk of Tuesday's total with close to $100,000, keeping the percentage still above the required percentage at the close of the fourteenth day. The percentage last night was 81.89 as compared with the required 77.77, leaving the surplus percentage margin at 3.14 as against something like 15 points to the good around the middle of last week.

Peterborough's nose is still above water, but that required average of $208,275 for the next four days is the final form and crux of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign challenge to the people of the city and the county.

Ahead of Percentage

The sections of the city and county organizations that were out in front of the required percentage of 77.77 Tuesday night were:

Special Names	104%
Havelock	103.55
Employees' Canvass	86.05
Belmont-Methuen	85.4
Smith	84.83

These are the presently plus groups, and two of them, Special Names and Havelock, are secure above the 100 per cent level.

As to the ultimate issue, if any comment may be permitted in a news report, every citizen of this city and county who is anxious for the success of the Fifth Victory Loan will have to decide his and her action in the light of what they have subscribed and what they can do further by applying extra pressure upon themselves.

There are no Storm Troopers pushing in your doors with brutal demands to hand over everything you possess.

The Loan is money that will come back to you with interest. But, all that story has been competently and persuasively explained in the course of the Bankers' Broadcasts endorsing the Loan, with the further appeal that the least you can do is to pledge part of your income for the next six months in the spirit of the employees' canvass division who pushed their percentage up to 86.05 yesterday with subscriptions amounting to $25,900.

That is the story and the situation in brief, $208,275 a day for the next four days.

If enough Peterborough people, urban and rural, decide that it will be done, then there is nothing to worry about from now until Saturday night.

The county's week-end splurge receded yesterday to $18,450, but city subscribers stepped into the gap with a well timed digging up of funds in the amount of $125,750, adding together the general canvass $99,850 and the employees response of $25,900.

Belmont and Methuen

In subscription percentage gain Tuesday, the eastern townships of Belmont and Methuen, where H. T. Mathison is directing the effort, led the entire county with 7.4 as they moved their total from $19,500 to $21,350, a gain of $1,850.

Lakefield was second with 6.83 up in percentage, City General canvass 6.44; Smith township 6.17. Those were the front runners in the Tuesday performance.

The day's returns from the rural municipalities were: Smith $5,550; Lakefield $4,100; Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos combined $2,150.

Belmont and Methuen $1,805; Dummer $1,400; Havelock $1,300; North Monaghan $1,000; Douro $800; and Norwood, Ennismore and Asphodel each $100.

Nothing was heard from Otonabee whose total is already $91,350 leading the other rural areas; but their objective is the bulky amount of $130,000. Otonabee, for example is being asked to subscribe $40,000 more than Smith's $90,000.

Havelock Pushed On

Perce Lancaster's community boosted their percentage from 100.13 to 103.55 Tuesday, in first place in the percentage summary.

Belmont and Methuen moved up from 4th place to 2nd and Smith retained third place. North Monaghan in the 4th slot dropped back from second. Asphodel and Otonabee were unchanged as 5th and 6th.

The northern townships, Harvey Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos advanced from 8th to 7th place, and Dummer from 9th to 8th. Norwood dropped back from 7th to 9th. Douro was unchanged as the 10th. Lakefield pulled out of the 12th position to 11th and Ennismore fell back one notch to 12th.

Complete Summary

The summary of the fourteen days' results are shown as follows, reading across the column, objective, amount subcribed and percentage:

City general canvass: $1,550,000; $963,750; 62.18.

North Monaghan: $35,000; $28,750· 82.14.

Otonabee: $130,000; $91,350; 70.27.

Asphodel: $38,000; $27,600; 72.63.

Norwood: $58,000; $34,800; 60.

Smith: $90,000; $76,350; 84.83.

Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther, Chandos: $45,000; $28,550; 52.58.

Lakefield: $60,000; $31,550; 52.58.

Ennismore: $12,000; $6,000; 50.

Douro: $35,000; $18,950; 54.14.

Dummer: $34,000; $21,000; 61.76.

Belmont and Methuen: $25,000; $39,350; 85.4.

Havelock: $38,000; $39,350; 103.55.

Obituaries

JAMES MANLY

GORE'S LANDING, Nov. 3—(ENS)—The death occurred Tuesday night of James Manly of Gore's Landing, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Roy Dodge of Cobourg.

In his 88th year, Mr. Manly had been in failing health for some years and had been removed to Cobourg a week ago. Recently he and his wife celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. A retired farmer, Mr. Manly had lived for many years in Gore's Landing.

He is survived by his wife, who is herself very ill at the present time; by his daughter, Mrs. Roy Dodge of Cobourg; and by two sons, Bruce of Cobourg and Cecil of Gore's Landing. Two other sons, Will, a veteran of the last war, and Earl predeceased him.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 3 p.m. in St. George's Church, Gore's Landing, followed by interment in St. George's Cemetery.

JAMES McINROY

MARMORA, Nov. 3 — (ENS).—The death occurred at his home in Marmora township on Monday, November 1 of James McInroy, who in April of this year reached his ninety-first birthday.

He was a native of Rawdon township where he had spent the greater part of his long life before moving to Marmora township some years ago. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy, pioneer settlers in Rawdon township. Until his retirement he lived an industrious life and well respected by his neighbors. His wife predeceased him a few years ago.

The late Mr. McInroy is survived by nine children, Isaac, Charles and Wallace of Rawdon township; Bruce, Marmora township; Earl at home; Mrs. Ross Cummings (Ethel) Toronto; Mrs. Walter Lidster (Bernice) Thurlow township; Mrs. Herbert F. Cook (Tessa), Toronto; Mrs. Norman Day (Hazel) Detroit.

The funeral takes place on Wednesday leaving his late residence at 2 p.m. for service in the Springbrook United Church. Interment will take place in Mount Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook.

MORE ABOUT—

In a statement issued last night the Labor Department detailed the background of the western strike, in which the miners are seeking wage increases of $2.00 a day, and said the situation was reviewed at yesterday's opening meeting.

The union delegation issued no statement following the conferences but it was understood they indicated a desire to negotiate with the government for increased rates. It also was learned they criticized the National War Labor Board and the extent of authority empowered in a Royal Commission established to investigate the miners' wages.

The Labor Department officials were understood to have replied that the Labor Board was the one body with legal authority to make wage adjustments and that the government, in any event, could not negotiate while the strike continued.

Hope For Action.

CALGARY, Nov. 3.—(CP).—Western Canadians hoped to-day for an early settlement of the coal strike in Alberta and British Columbia where 8,500 men laid down their tools Sunday at midnight, jeopardizing the short coal supply situation.

With bitter cold likely any day, thousands of householders await delivery of fuel. Even the strictest conservation of existing supplies, it was feared, would not prevent suffering should the strike continue for any length of time.

Householders, industrial plants, civic buildings, and military establishments have reported only sufficient coal for about two weeks.

"The gravity of the situation cannot be over-emphasized," said Premier Manning of Alberta.

Moves to reduce use of electricity supplied by plants obtained from steam coal units moved ahead. Mayor John Fry of Edmonton, issued orders to enforce dim-out regulations on Edmonton streets.

Drumheller Valley, in Central Alberta, which was without electricity since Monday, will be supplied power to-day. However, miners in the area agreed to guarantee a supply of coal for the Canadian Utilities, Limited, plants at Drumheller and Prince Albert, Sask., if the strike continues.

McIlmoyle Brothers Meet Overseas

GNR. RUSSELL McILMOYLE PTE. IVAN E. McILMOYLE

Pte. Ivan E. McIlmoyle, of the Lincoln-Welland Regiment, recently arrived overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McIlmoyle of Young's Point. A brother, Gnr. Russell McIlmoyle, has been in England nearly three years and is with the 4th Anti-Tank Battery. The brothers have met and are celebrating a leave in Scotland.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

PARKING PENALTIES

Eighty-seven parking tickets were turned in at City Clerk Outram's office during October at one dollar each.

PARKS PHOTOS

The photographs which were used in the city's Christmas card greeting to the men and women of Peterborough who are serving in Canada's armed forces were selected from the Parks studio.

STILL BLOOMING.

A small but perfectly formed yellow rose, possibly a Peritana, was brought into the Examiner on Tuesday. It was growing in the garden of W. T. Whaley, 335 Mconnel Street, and was picked on Sunday.

NOT THE SAME ONE

The Gordon Scriver who was charged in police court the other morning was not Gordon Scriver of 164 Aylmer street, who is just recovering from an appendicitis operation.

BULB DEMONSTRATION

Flower lovers are reminded of the demonstration of potting bulbs for winter growth to be given by John A. Smith at the Horticultural Society meeting Thursday evening in the office of the Department of Agriculture, Hunter street. A general invitation is extended.

CARELESSNESS CAUSED CRASH

According to an item in C.G.E. Works News, the glider tragedy which occurred in St. Louis several weeks ago killing the city's mayor, the glider company's president and eight others was caused by the careless machining of a fitting which some lax workman bored down to 2-32's of an inch in thickness when it should have been 12-32's of an inch. This was revealed by the War Department, in suspending two civilian inspectors and grounding over 100 gliders similar to the one that crashed. When the glider cut loose from the tow plane on her maiden flight, new stresses snapped the too-thin steel and the craft fell 1,500 feet.

These are two supper time features over CHEX which are offered with special recommendation.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Percy McGahey, Windsor, was to have been sentenced in police court this morning with obtaining $100 under false pretences from Sheldon Huffman of Peterborough, to which charge he had pleaded guilty last week. However the accused found himself facing a new charge of beating a board bill at the Hotel Champlain to the tune of $9.85 and sentence on the original count had to be delayed until this afternoon when the hotel charge was to be first disposed of by the court.

H. McGinnis Pleads Not Guilty To Murder Of William Howard

LINDSAY, Nov. 3—(ENS)—A plea of not guilty was entered by Howard McGinnis, 35, of Lindsay appearing before Mr. Justice A. Green, in Supreme Court sitting here yesterday of charge of having murdered William Howard an Indian of Peterborough.

The accused was defended by I. E. Weldon, K.C., of Toronto and W. B. Common, attorney general's headquarters of Toronto conducted the prosecution assisted by Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson of Lindsay.

Evidence was given yesterday by Kenneth Lidale, engineer, who produced scale maps of the Hudson home where Howard was killed. Fulton Stewart, photographer, who identified photos he had taken following the tragedy. George Hudson, owner of the house in which Howard met his death and Wilbur Johnson, a neighbor, who loaned McGinnis shotgun shells according to his evidence.

George Hudson told the court that McGinnis had rented two rooms from him and that on February 6 Mrs. Catharine Coursey had called to see McGinnis about 11:30 in the morning. McGinnis was working and she stayed in his room waiting for him to return. Hudson identified a 12 guage shot gun produced in court as his own. "I am a hunter and trapper," he stated, "and I left that gun standing in the kitchen all the time. McGinnis knew it was there and also knew that there was a box of shells beside it."

On being questioned as the relations between the accused, Mrs. Coursey and Howard, Hudson stated that Mrs. Coursey visited McGinnis often but that Howard had never come to the house while the accused

A. Jennings' Accident Causes Court Dispute

The question of whether or not Alfred Jennings brought his car to a full stop at the intersection of Charlotte and Water street before entering the latter thoroughfare took a lot of time, the services of two lawyers, the magistrate and court stenographer, and the evidence of two policemen and three civilian witnesses in police court this morning and had not been settled when the court adjourned for luncheon.

The charge of failing to stop before entering a through street involves a maximum penalty of a fine of $5.

The case arose out of a recent traffic accident in which Jennings car was involved and this morning three witnesses swore that the accused had driven east on Charlotte street on the night in question and failed to stop before entering Water street.

Eastern Star Gives $25 To War Victims

When one speaks of a Star in the East, the first thought that comes to a person's mind is the story of the Nativity, and Him whom the wise men were seeking to play their tribute in gifts of gold, myrhh and frankincense.

Through the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund an opportunity is still afforded to all to pay tribute to the Birth of the World's Redeemer, in the Babe of Bethlehem, by doing good in His name to those who have suffered the ravages of war from air attacks over Britain, and specially for the blessed season that celebrates His Birth.

Nothing perhaps could be more appropriate than that a group of people using the name of "Eastern Star" should be counted among those who are taking their part in raising the special donations to give these people in Britain who have been thus afflicted, something of the joy that came into the world on that first Christmas Day.

In today's receipts a gift of $25 for this purpose is recorded from the Peterborough Chapter No. 161 Order of the Eastern Star, through Mrs. H. Beatty, their W.M., and Mrs. A. Heckman their treasurer, which speaks for itself. This represents part of the proceeds from a draw on a quilt made and donated by Mrs. Beavis who is quite advanced in years, which they recently concluded.

More Personal Gifts

At no time of the year is personal giving more universal than at Christmas time, in fact it is overwhelmingly so, a fact which should encourage a far more wider use of the facilities the fund affords in cabling these gifts direct to the source of their use without any deductions whatever for necessary expenses.

In this way citizens can feel that they have taken a personal part in helping boys and girls who through no fault of their own become in many cases bereft of their parents and have no real home of their own to live in.

Today's list of receipts carries no less than three such personal donations, which if they can give inspiration to others to follow suit, will not only do good on their own account, but serve as an incentive which could have much more far reaching results for good.

Ruth Falls Wins In Quiz Finals

The final School Quiz program was held Tuesday evening and broadcast over Radio Station CHEX. Ruth Falls, Grade 8, of Bobcaygeon, was declared the winner. Her prize entitles her and any two escorts to be the guests of the Robt. Simpson Company and she will take part in the Provincial Quiz Program which will be broadcast from the Arcadian Court, Saturday. While in Toronto they will be registered at the King Edward Hotel.

When the time for the quiz had expired four contestants were left standing and the judges, P. Windrim, B.A., H. Gainey, chairman of the Separate School Board and Mr. M. Singleton of the Y.M.C.A. staff, had to make a decision in choosing the winner.

Ruth Falls, Bobcaygeon, with Mr. G. E. Mitchell as her teacher, was chosen winner; Gwen Wilson, Nestleton, who attends Caesarea School, came second; David Weir, Omemee, was third and Richard Diespecker, of the Lakefield Prep School came fourth. Other entries were Alma Beatty, Grafton; Audrey Dunk, Meyersburg; Betty Campbell, Lakefield; Bill Ferguson, Egypt; Ralph Newell, Fenelon Falls, and William Duignan of Peterborough.

Mr. E. W. Simpson, Organizer, Public Relations Section, National War Finance Committee, was the speaker and expressed sincere appreciation to Mr. C. D. Munro, who has been the chairman of the School Committee, to all the judges, and others who have given of their time and ability at the various broadcasts.

Alderman Objects To Repair Allocation

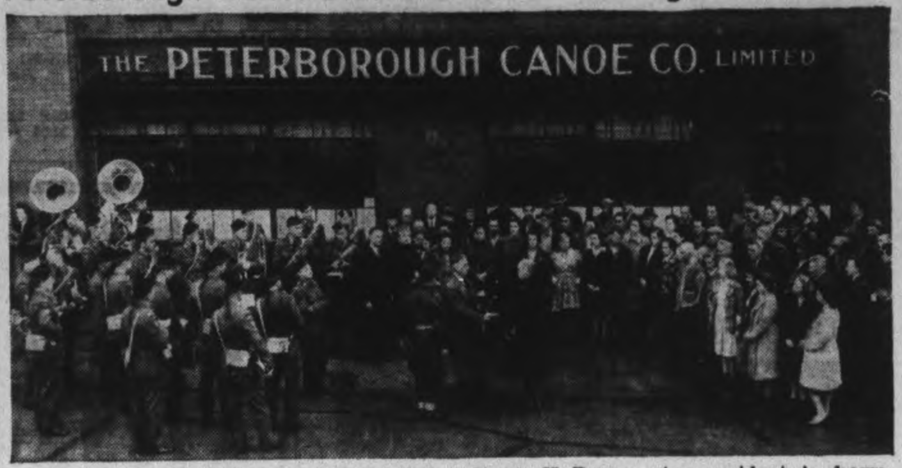
Alderman Gordon spotted an item in the finance committee's report of payments Monday night showing $453.68 and asked for information.

Alderman Bradburn turned over the bills which were produced from the files, and it turned out that repairs of all the trucks were going to Hood and Cumming.

"I don't think that is fair to the other dealers we buy from," Alderman Bradburn said.

"There doesn't seem to be much system to it," Alderman Gordon remarked, and the query was passed on to City Engineer Parsons and Alderman Dutton, chairman of the Board of Works.

Peterborough Canoe Staff Awarded "V" Flag



Employees of Peterborough Canoe rolled up their Victory Loan subscriptions to 181 per cent. of their objective in an outstanding plant campaign as their contribution to the success of the Peterborough drive for continued financing of Canada's war effort. And they have not yet closed their books. Claude H. Rogers, vice-president, is shown ABOVE receiving from W. A. Reid the congratulations of the War Finance Committee. The company supported the employees' organization with gifts of War Savings Certificates for which there will be a draw early next week. (Parks' Studio Photo.)

Canoe Company 81 Per Cent Over Objective

With the practical support of the heads of the plant, the employees of Peterborough Canoe Company put on a smart campaign to reach 181 per cent. of their Fifth Victory Loan objective.

Their quota was $7,600, and the total amount of subscriptions was $13,750, or 181 per cent. of their objective.

Claude Rogers, who himself knows what warfare is from his experience in the 1914-18 struggle against Germany, received the "V" three star flag of the present Loan, and expressed his appreciation of the drive the shop teams had carried on so successfully.

Four teams assumed the shop canvass. They were as follows,

"Cruisers"—A. Gillies (captain), George McIntyre, R. Hewie and J. Cullen.

"Fairmiles"—F. Clancy (captain), W. Bothwell, H. Boyd, B. Miller.

"Destroyers"—W. Hardwicke (captain), A. Jenkenson, V. Brown, F. Batten.

"Corvettes"—R. Wildman (captain), E. Cheel, D. Moffatt, K. Boyd.

Offered Prizes.

The management stimulated interest at the outset by offering $2 worth of War Savings Stamps to all purchasers of Bonds from the high-selling team, and one dollar's worth to those from the second team.

Every buyer of a $50 Bond received a numbered ticket for the draw which closed the campaign. The draw prizes were in War Savings Stamps: 1st, $35; 2nd, $25; 3rd, $15; 4th, $10; 5th, $5.

The Peterborough Canoe draw has been suspended until the national campaign ends. Winners may not be known until early next week. Some of the staff might be able to squeeze another Bond or two.

Friendly Rivalry.

Throughout all Peterborough factories a fine spirit of team play and friendly rivalry keyed up the canvass more than ever, and at the Canoe plant the salesmen injected more vigor than ever into the plant campaign. In some instances they found that they could sell two Bonds instead of one by reason of the prospect of the draw for the War Savings Stamps prizes.

The net result was that the staff just about doubled in subscriptions the amount of the objective.

The Essex Scottish Band was present at the ceremony of presentation and raising of the Peterborough Canoe flag.

Mayor Decides No Holiday Armistice Day

Mayor Hamilton said today that this year Remembrance Day, November 11, will not be observed as a Civic Holiday in Peterborough.

"Reports from our industries indicate that production needs are so important at this time that it would be a disservice to our country and to the memory of the men who fought and died in the Great War if a holiday were declared" said the Mayor.

He emphasized that he was in sympathy with the Canadian Legion members in their desire to attach special importance to Remembrance Day this year since it is the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice." I hope we can make it a fully significant Remembrance Day but nothing at this time should keep us away from our jobs of producing the tools to win another and more lasting peace," he concluded.

Special Days In Final Loan Appeal

As Peterborough proceeds through these remaining days of the climax of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign, the most important announcement directed to its success was made this morning:

Thursday—Special Canvass Day.

Friday—Special Bank Day.

The aim of this concentrating on two departments contributing to the total subscriptions of the Loan is to reduce final effort to the most promising and helpful sections through which the Peterborough objective may be accomplished.

Each canvasser has been asked to make a list of a dozen or more citizens whom he regards as prospects for a second call, men and women who are in a position to take more of the Loan than they subscribed in the first advance of the campaign.

If you are one of those to whom the canvasser knocks again at your door, the broad implication is that you are being asked in a very special approach to help the Peterborough drive "Over the Top." So, you are asked to get set, and if you are overlooked, please telephone 9784 or 3692.

Friday At Banks

Friday is special Bank Day from one end of Canada to the other. The managers of Peterborough's banks have told the people of the city and county in their series of CHEX broadcasts that they are urgently recommending the Loan to depositors with funds in their accounts which can be safely and prudently transferred to the purchase of Victory Bonds.

These addresses have been given wide publicity in this city and county.

Much is expected of these citizens in the final stage of the campaign, and much depends on them.

Headquarters declares that the success of the Loan may be guaged by the response from the action on Thursday and Friday.

City Council Enjoys Tossing Around Quips

A little assortment of brickabats tossed by Alderman Gordon in various directions Monday night!

A Kitchener resolution urged the Liquor Control Board to provide more equitable distribution of beer, wines and liquors, and asked the city's support.

"They don't observe any liquor laws in Kitchener; at least they didn't some years ago," Alderman Gordon remarked.

Some one enquired about a report expected from the Chief on a proposed building at Peterborough Canoe works.

"Maybe he is too busy at the Legion," Alderman Gordon laughingly said.

"It might be bowling," Alderman Bradburn suggested.

"We'll have to wait till the season is over," Ald. Gordon added.

Chief Gimblett arrived at the meeting in response to a telephone call, and explained that he and City Engineer Parsons had inspected the premises. He said he understood that Mr. Parsons was preparing the report and that both were to sign it.

While he was waiting to be heard the Chief received a fire alarm call by phone and was gone 15 or 20 minutes.

Bandsman Thinks Peterborough Swell Place Gets Girl, Return Invitation In Few Hours

A young hornblower of the Essex Scottish Band booked an invitation to Lindsay Monday evening as one result of his visit to Peterborough. He blows a tenor or baritone horn in the band, a young fellow of about twenty-one; no family back in Vancouver whence he came; mother died four years ago; "and I've been on my own ever since.

"I think we've a pretty nice little band. Anyway we get invited back to places. Been in Lindsay three or four times. Monday night there was a dance at the "Y.W.", and we just got in town in the afternoon. I certainly like what I've seen of this city. Never here before. Stranger at the dance, but right at the start I meet a girl I met some time ago in Lindsay.

Nice girl too. And we are talking about the year getting on toward Christmas, and she asked me where I would spend mine. I told her I suppose it would be in camp. The fellows are all right and we get along well, but—well, any way, this Lindsay girl suggested that I go up to her place for Christmas.

"I'm sure mother would be glad to have you with us," she said, well, she's a mighty nice girl, and so I said right at once that if it would be all right with her mother, I'd be happy to spend Christmas with them."

Deserves Break

And he's the type of boy probably the average mother would like to see coming to visit her daughter at Christmas or any other time. Doesn't smoke, doesn't swear, may be an occasional stray dam—but there I am, take me or leave me. A bit assertive you understand, but obviously a young man of independent spirt.

"I hope you don't mind me not taking a cigarette; may look uncivil, but I never started ..Well, I've had a swell evening, and Peterborough is a fine place; Lindsay is too."

It was about 1 a.m., and the young baritone player was lost, looking for the Military Training Centre ..They gave us a swell hut, warm and comfortable...I'm late getting in, but they won't say anything because we were invited to a party...Twenty-one and everything set for Christmas!

Ackerman's And Utilities Awarded Flags

The honor of receiving the Three Star "V" flag of the Fifth Victory Loan, awarded to the employees of Peterborough Utilities Commission, was allotted to James Curran, now on the retired list, whose employment with the utilities began in 1883, long before the Commission came into being.

The staff of Utilities subscribed $9,650 or 111 per cent of their $8,700 objective. G. S. Matthews, chairman of the Commission presided at the ceremony of receiving the flag and raising it, and warmly congratulated the staff on their response to the Loan.

Flag At Ackerman's

Hugh F. Waddell, secretary-treasurer of B. F. Ackerman, Son and Company, Limited, was the recipient of the "V" Three Star flag won by its employees. This group and others of the industrial division who are being mentioned this week had most of the subscribing completed days ago.

The Ackerman staff were assigned a quota of $4,800, and their participation in the Loan was to the extent of $5,050, for 105 per cent of their objective.

The presentation was made by W. A. Reid, representing the War Finance Committee, and the Band of the Essex Scottish played several numbers in the course of the ceremony.

Council Plans To Attend Boat Christening

LINDSAY, Nov. 3. — (ENS).— Mayor Charles Lamb and members of the council were given an invitation Tuesday by Lieut. C. V Thompson, R.C.N., commander of the new Corvette "Lindsay" to be in attendance at the christening and commissioning of the vessel which will take place in the near future.

The council voted to accept the invitation and will be present when the ship is taken over by the Navy personnel from the ship builders.

Last spring when it was learned that a Corvette was to be named after Lindsay the council appointed a special committee comprising Miss Ada Greave, and Aldermen H McFadden, L. Braunton and B Hick. The committee appealed to the public for funds and an excellent response followed. Many gifts of electric equipment, clothing, games and books were given to the committee to be turned over to the commander of "H.M.C.S. Lindsay" for the comfort of the men serving aboard.

Customer Wins In Coal Deal With Merchants

One thing to be said of the "gimmees" or grabbers of anything and everything from soap and matches to anthracite coal, they get the stuff and stow it away and you don't.

For instance there was the head of a family, as related by a local coal dealer, who went to one fuel office and signed for a supply of coal, getting his name down for two tons which were rather promptly delivered. In the meantime he went around to another fuel office and signed for more coal, and incredible as it may seem after all the palaver about internal organization, this "gimmee" got four tons of coal dumped into his cellar. And that was not last March or April.

A neighbor telephoned to the first dealer when she saw more coal arriving from another fuel yard. Dealer No. 1 telephoned to his competitor, and a note was made of the affair, and even then the fourth ton of coal went on its way.

In the second office it was said that a clerk "forgot" the telephone message. So, if you think the meek will inherit a lot of coal by standing aside while the termite grabbers are at work about all you are likely to acquire is an an acidulous opinion of human nature.

That story of a comparatively recent occurrence is vouched for by a prominent member of the local fraternity.

The court held Dr. Robin Pearse of Toronto responsible, finding that "his want of skill and care caused the injury."

Victory Loan Sidelights

A number of inquiries have been received by headquarters concerning the correct procedure in flying the "V" flag. The "V" flag may be flown in conjunction with the Union Jack on the same flag pole provided it is flown underneath the Union Jack. There may be space of from one to two feet between the two flags in order to avoid the possibility of rubbing.

The question has also been raised as to whether there has been any restriction against illustrating the award on company stationery, such as letterhead, envelopes, visiting cards, etc. There are no restrictions in this respect. It may be reproduced with or without cut lines. If reproduced in color, naturally it should adhere as closely as possible to the actual color design.

The A.22 R.C.A.M.C. Band will be returning to Peterborough on Friday, November 5. WO.1 Albert Croasdale is the bandmaster. This band was in Peterborough the week of October 25, and it was by request that they are returning.

Special announcement is made today from local Victory Loan headquarters that "if" the county of Peterborough reaches its objective by the end of the Victory Loan drive, on November 6, a "Victory Band Concert and Dance" will be held at the Training Centre drill hall. This is through the kind permission of Lt.-Col. Walter Bapty, commanding officer.

Homemaker's Duty To Check Food

HAVELOCK, Nov. 3 — (ENS). —"Today's challenge to the Homemakers" was the special paper given at the Home Economics program, Monday afternoon, by Miss E. E. Wright at the Women's Institute.

In a recent government survey of Canadian children, it was shown that half a million are undernourished, proving that poor health is the silent saboteur while proper food is fighting food. Food is a weapon, and it isn't how much is eaten that matters, but what is eaten and how. More careful planning of menus is needed, she said, and more skilful cooking in order to get the full value from the food.

"Time lost through illness of Canada's munition workers would build 750 bombers a year, and after a first analysis of these worker's lunches, only one-third of them were found adequate. It has been stated that home management means the utilization of the home's resources of money, goods, services, time, energy and the personal abilities of members to provide optimum development of the family and their service to society. In short, home economics includes everything that makes for a satisfying home-life."

Place Wreath

Miss Margaret Johnson sang "Flow Gently Sweet Afton," accompanied by Mrs. R. Campbell at the piano. A quiz contest on Home Economics was conducted by Miss M. Seeney. Owing to the nearness of Remembrance Day, the memorial wreath was placed in front of the flag, in memory of those who died in the First Great War and also in this war. Mrs. Annie Anderson read the revised version of "In Flander's Fields."

The president, Mrs. R. Jones, presided over the business meeting. The treasurer reported the receipts of the Hallowe'en Dance at $79.10. A letter was read about the convention in Toronto and the resolution to be voted on at that time. Mrs. Robert McCutcheon was the delegate appointed to represent this branch, with Miss E. E. Wright as the alternative. After a vote on the resolutions, it was decided to vote 'yes' on the first two resolutions and 'no' on the last one.

Discuss Corps

Inquiries had been made regarding the forming of a Saint John Ambulance Corps, but this was laid over until full particulars will be learned. It was decided to hold another dance at the latter part of November. The funds to be used for war activities at the discretion of the branch. Mrs. C. Taylor is the convener of the December program and there will be white gift donations. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Hoard, McMullen and Chiles.

Prince Escapes

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 31.—(Delayed)—(AP)— Prince Gorm of Denmark, 24 year old nephew of King Christian, has reached Sweden after escaping the country with other Danish officers following their release from custody by the Germans.

Prince Gorm was among officers who directed an active revolt against the Germans Aug. 28 when Denmark was placed under a Nazi military dictatorship. The Germans recently freed officers who were interned after the revolt, but the officers feared the Nazis would start re-arresting them.

Early Christmas Shopping Early Christmas Mailing is Patriotic Co-operation!
7 Weeks—about 40 Shopping Days—to Christmas!
Ordinarily that would be "lots of time" for Gift-buying; but these are not ordinary times. There are at present hundreds of thousands of men and women in the SERVICES IN CANADA!
Too: Thousands of men and women in Wartime Industry are away from home.
Thousands and thousands more Christmas Parcels will, therefore, be going through the mails than usual, from all parts of Canada to the Armed Services stationed in this country, and to the many others whose wartime jobs will prevent them from spending Christmas at home.
You can readily imagine, then, what a very difficult situation could develop for Stores, Post Offices and Transportation facilities, were Christmas Shopping and Mailing to be confined to the usual two-weeks-before-Christmas. For this reason we earnestly urge you to SHOP EARLY!
We do not wish to over-stimulate Gift Purchases. We believe, however, that it would be generally beneficial to eliminate the rushed-and-hurried buying and mailing of Gifts that ordinarily comes between December 15 and Christmas Eve. This can be done by starting to shop for Gifts now, and by mailing parcels early, thus allowing for extra-busy wartime conditions.
Retail, postal and transportation facilities already are working under difficulties created by wartime. Let each of us resolve not to add to these difficulties with Last-Minute Gift Shopping. LET'S NOT JAM THE WORKS!

Site Of Peterboro Staked In 1818 As Corner Of Monaghan; First Industry Planned In 1819

By HARRY THEOBALD

"A reserve was made in the survey of the township of North Monaghan in 1818 for the site of the future town of Peterborough."

This is a quotation from Dr. Thomas W. Poole's sketch of the early settlement of Peterborough, written in 1867. By that time Peterborough had become an established town, gradually advancing its community bounds on both banks of the Otonabee River, and even then the figure of that first land surveyor was growing dim in the town he visualized and predicted as an eventual development at the confluence of the river and its tributary creek.

Peterborough was foreseen not in the exactness of detail which was to materialize before many years went by, but as an industrial community utilizing the water power that tumbled and splashed in stretches of rapids which up to that time were only stretches of portage labor for the Indians along their path and paddle ways between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario.

Pioneer Science

The judgment of that forgotten land surveyor one hundred and twenty-five years ago was gleaned from the Poole history in the course of a quest for information to associate with an article in the Peterborough Weekly Gazette on Saturday, August 15, 1846, to which F. M. Dela Fosse of the Public Library had called attention.

Poole's pages had been perused in other turning of the leaves, but it was not until yesterday that the original surveyor of Peterborough emerged to one reader in at least the outline of personality.

He was the first man of science ever to put foot where the future streets of Peterborough were to be determined more or less by his professional skill. And his training and knowledge immediately inspired an opinion that some day a town would arise in the bush through which he was then working.

This prophetic provision of 125 years ago should be of permanent interest to the people of Peterborough, especially from the background and aspect of the time as mentioned by Dr. Poole: "Prior to 1818 the county was covered by an unbroken forest in which the settler's axe had never echoed."

He also affirms that in 1818 a few settlers made their way into Smith township.

Creek A Factor

Those who attended the recent dinner meeting during Safety Week at which W. H. Munro of Ottawa, formerly of this city, was the speaker, remember his acknowledgment of the obsolete utility of the Jackson Park creek as the original source of water power for a string of industries that were operated along its banks from the vicinity of Jackson Park to Spaulding's Bay at Townsend street.

As an engineer, Mr. Munro pointed out that the creek was readily harnessed by the primitive and direct hydraulics of a century or more ago, building dams and diverting the water over wheels which turned the machines of those almost ancient industries.

The volume of the Otonabee River was beyond the control of the pioneers, who were necessarily exploring individualists, forced to make the best use of the natural aid that was within their command. Subsequently the river was tamed when the community had reached the stage of ability to construct a series of big wooden dams above Hunter street, at London street, and at other tractable reaches here and there upstream to Lakefield and Young's Point.

Perhaps Mr. Munro has never caught a glimpse in imagination of that lonely figure of the first surveyor in these parts, precursor of the professions of learning and science, looming attractively through the dim mist of time and anonymity with his understanding and foresight of posterity's choice as he deliberately drove stakes for a townsite along the converging streams amidst the virginal bush.

A Natural Park

Some other account of the virtual discovery of the timbered acres that were to become Peterboropgh has left the information that the western bank of the river from Hunter street almost to Charlotte street was a natural park, with an easy gradient down to the water's edge, with tall and agreeably spaced pines, and a deep carpet of their needles fringing the sunlit grassy space of nature's lawn.

This beauty spot became a favorite landing place, and it is related of the pioneers that they camped there and tended through the night fires that glowed into the darkness on the rippling water. Incidentally, one may wonder how those fires were lighted.

Prospecting Party

When Adam Scott and a party of gentlemen arrived here in 1919, according to Poole, and camped somewhere along the bank north of the bay, "Scott discharged his gun, and then by means of the flint of the lock a fire was kindled, the party assisting in gathering the wood for that purpose. After a lunch, which sufficed for supper, they lay down around the fire, beneath the spreading branches of the trees, and slept."

The first date mentioned by Poole is that of 1818 when the first survey was made an a few settlers arrived in Smith township. Perhaps when that surveyor returned to "the front", probably Port Hope, he talked about the river and the creek he had seen up in the woods. At any rate the next year "the party of gentlemen" already mentioned arrived in 1819.

Their purpose was to select a mill site, and otherwise "prospect" in the new townships. Those men were: Charles Fothergill, at one time M.P.P. for Durham; Thomas Ward, of Port Hope, Clerk of the Peace for the district; John Farrelly, Surveyor; Adam Scott, Millwright and Barnabas Bletcher. Possibly, Farrelly was the land surveyor previously mentioned by Dr. Poole.

"John Edmison, now of Smith, then an intending settler, who had already drawn a lot of land at hazard, accompanied them."

That was in May 1819. Several of the men went on to Mud Lake, and on their return the party discussed the project of a mill.

Dam At King Street

Says Poole: "By damming up the creek, which still traverses the site of the town, and conveying the water along a short excavation to the steep bank of the Otonabee River, an eligible mill-site would be obtained, and at a trifling cost compared with the expense of attempting to control the rapidly descending waters of the Otonabee, at any point in the neighborhood."

And that was the first industrial conference in Peterborough. Poole provides its sequel: "Well pleased with the results of this exploration visit, the party returned down the river, and across Rice Lake on the same evening. The little piece of engineering thus projected was successfully carried out, and in about two years Adam Scott had a small saw and grist mill in operation under one roof. The same water privilege is still (1867) in use, though turned to much better account in the large frame mill in active operation at the corner of King and Water Streets."

The engineering project mentioned by Poole was the damming of the Jackson Park creek at King street forming a bay in the present block between King and Charlotte streets and expanding across Louis street. A narrow water course was dug along the north side of what is now King street, crossing George and Water streets, and this artificial flow toward the Otonabee river turned the crude machinery of the Scott mill, Peterborough's first industry.

Poole also says this mill "though necessarily a small structure, and the machinery imperfect, was nevertheless a great boon to the early settlers.

Those first dates, to mention them again, were 1818, the year in which the first survey of the town and township was made, and 1819, the year in which the first industry was planned.

1825 Immigration Year

The only inhabitants of the town of Peterborough in 1825 were Adam Scott, the mill proprietor, and a workman or two who assisted him. Poole also comments: "The settlers in the adjoining townships were few, and their prospects far from encouraging."

Then came the Robinson immigration of 1825. That event has been referred occasionally in the Examiner.

Two memorable facts stand out up to that time. The original townsite was staked out as a corner of North Monaghan township in the first survey of 1818, and the first industry was conceived in the following year.

E. A. Peck, K.C., explained to the Examiner yesterday, that the long block between George and Aylmer streets was influenced by the Jackson Park creek and the millpond above the long forgotten dam in the creek at King street. The town was originally planned to permit at that time the fullest industrial use of the creek, and although its riparian industries eventually disappeared the effects have remained down through the years, especially in the modern traffic problem centring about the corner of George and Charlotte streets.

Ottawa Ideal As Site For Empire Council

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(CP Cable.)—A suggestion that Ottawa would be the ideal location for headquarters of a permanent Empire Council such as was recently envisaged by Prime Minister Curtin of Australia was made Tuesday in the House of Lords by Lord Elibank.

Geographically, he said, Canada is the centre of the Empire and is the natural link between the Empire and the United States.

He said he agreed with the Australian Prime Minister that Britain could not manage the Empire after the war on the basis of a government sitting in London.

Besides an Empire Council and permanent secretariat of men expert in the problems of peace as suggested by Mr. Curtin, Lord Elibank thought that a permanent body might be established to deal with Imperial defence and upon which the combined staffs of the Commonwealth might be represented.

Lord Mottistone said machinery for getting the Dominions together exists in the committee of Imperial defence but that it had not been properly used. He asked for a guarantee that after the war the present committee should have its functions extended and amplified so that many things which Mr. Curtin planned for his proposed Imperial Council could be discharged by that body.

He said it would be embarrassing for efficient conduct of defence if a move was attempted to a point so far away from London as Ottawa. He added Britain could start bringing the Dominions together now by inviting to London parliamentary delegations representative of all parties.

Delegations should come at regular intervals, he said, and delegations from the British Houses of Lords and Commons should visit the Dominions at stated intervals.

Mrs. M. Bertois Returns Home

Mrs. Mary Bertois, whose husband Theodore Alphonse Bertois, died very suddenly in Hollywood, California, recently, has returned to Peterborough, her home city, to reside with her mother, Mrs. P. S. White, 549 Bethune street.

The late Mr. Bertois had been in apparent good health, he suffered an acute heart attack and within a short space of time passed away. Mr. Bertois was born in Cascade, B.C., and in 1936 he was married to Miss Mary Louise White of this city. He was connected with the Sales Department of the Electrical Appliance business and spent twelve years of his business career in Canada. At the time of his death he was connected with the D. E. Sanford Co.

The funeral service was held in the Chapel of Sacred Memories, Glendale, California, and it was conducted by the Rev. Bruce Black, pastor of Wiltshire Baptist church, Los Angeles. Six members of Mr. Bertois' staff acted as pall bearers. There were many and lovely floral tributes from Canada and States. The burial took place in Valhalla Memorial Park, San Fernando Valley.

Surviving are his widow, Mary Louise Bertois, Peterborough; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bertois, Cascade, B.C.; two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Warman, of San Francisco, and Mrs. J. H. McGinnis of San Diego.

Good Crowd At All Saints For Congregational Meeting

All Saints' Parish Hall was filled Monday evening for the annual congregational gathering. The meeting was in charge of the Church Women's Year.

The platform was decorated with ferns and flowers and a number of articles which had been made to send to the British war victims. There were also 18 ditty bags on display. The president, Mrs. J. Adams, was in the chair and welcomed the large audience. Mr. T. H. Boddy read the opening prayers and the Bible lesson was read by Mrs. W. Longan.

The months then came forward with the money collected. The treasurer reported that the sum of $170.28 had been received for October. Mrs. R. N. Jones reported for the Navy League. Thirty-one articles had been knit for the month. The 18 ditty bags had also been filled during that period. Mr. F. M. Warren, in the absence of the people's warden, Mr. P. Hooper, announced that the appointment of Rev. W. A. Filer as Rural Dean, of the Deanery of Peterborough had been confirmed by the Bishop.

Mr. Filer then took over as chairman. After a few words of welcome called on Miss Joan Pitchford who sang two solos. Mr George Gatfield played two violin solos. Mr. Filer introduced the speaker, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church. Mr. Sutcliffe gave an address on the subject "We Live by Lifting."

He stressed the fact that we must lift and help others up if to be lifted up ourselves. Miss Margaret Hooper sang two solos. Mrs. Arnold Mackay brought the program to a close by singing two numbers. Mrs. W. H. Logan was the accompanist for the soloists.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. H. Jay and her assistants.

Piano Recital Given At Y.W.

The pupils of Mrs. R. T. F. Brain presented a musical recital in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. Tuesday evening. The recital was sponsored by Mrs. Brain on behalf of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, and the proceeds from the sale of tickets went to this group.

There was a good attendance and the following program was presented: A solo by Barbara Clark, a minuet by Ruth Curtis, a sonatina by Elizabeth Blackwell, a gavotte by Ruth Gaskell, Melody in F by Nancy Sootheran, "Song of the People" by Margaret Walker, a minuet and a waltz by Jane Hall, "Album" by Unise Moncrief, the Scherzo and Rondo from the Sonata in A, by Anne Young, 2 solos by Eleanor Shirley, an etude by Nancy Sootheran, and "Fantasia" by Ruth Gaskell.

Miss Nancy Sootheran and Miss Ruth Gaskell also played 3 duets, and Jimmie Johnston and his father played 3 duets.

South America W.M.S. Subject

The great steps made in missionary work in South America were the chief topics of the address given by Mrs. P. G. Buck, who was guest speaker at the Women's Missionary Circle meeting of Murray Street Baptist Church, held in the church parlor on Monday afternoon. The president, Mrs. G. R. Scott, was chairman. It was the annual Foreign Mission thankoffering meeting, and the speaker, who has spent 25 years in South America, told of the definite strides made in missionary work.

The first step, she explained, was the liberation of the Indians on the Peniel Hall farm, when 32 families were given their freedom, and a plot of ground. This farm was visited and inspected by Vice-President Wallace of the United States on his visit to South America last spring.

The second step, Mrs. Buck went on, was the introduction of broadcasting. In La Paz and Oruro, she reported, evangelical messages and hymns are broadcast twice each week.

The opening of the Bible College at Cochamamba was the third step, she said, because there the most promising of young people are given training to become nationalist pastors Rev. Alexander Haddow is the director of this college.

Mrs. Buck told of the many demands made on her as the wife of a missionary, such as playing the church organ, teaching music, typewriting, meeting visitors during the class sessions, and supervising the entertaining. She said that the students conducted open-air services and did a great deal of visiting, and that the people were more receptive to the Gospel messages now.

The meeting was in charge of Group No. 1, and the Scripture lesson was read by Miss Burke, followed with a prayer by Mrs. A. W. Wray. A vote of thanks to the speaker was given by Mrs. L. J. Pettit.

Meeting Stresses Service Theme

The November meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Williamson, 337 Reid street. The president, Mrs. H. Clegg, opened the meeting with a short reading, "He Does Care," and the daily prayer was repeated in unison.

During the business period, the Stewardship Secretary, Miss Mary Morton, read an article on Stewardship urging an increased interest in "tithing," and gave a report of the financial standing of the Auxiliary up to the end of October.

Mrs. E. Mesley gave the report of the nominating committee. Mrs. J. W. Denike conducted the worship service with the theme, "The Bible, the Foundation Stone of the New Order," and quoted from one of Queen Elizabeth's speeches, "It is on the strength of our spiritual life that the right rebuilding of our national life depends." Scripture readings were given by Mrs. D. Gourlay and Mrs. I. J. McRae, and Mrs. Clegg led in prayer.

Special Capers

The next chapter in the study book, "For All of Life," was read by Mrs. G. Hutchison, who directed the attention of the members to a list of questions to be answered after four papers were read. They were as follows: The Work of the Non-Medical Missionary in First Aid, by Miss Ruth Waldie; A Travelling Clinic in Guatemala, by Mrs. Gourlay; A Child Welfare Clinic in West China, by Mrs. Zufelt; The Training of Medical Assistants in Angola, West Africa, by Mrs. Donaldson.

Mrs. Hutchison then gave an account of the work of Dr. Gilchrist among the lepers of Africa from "Out of the Overflow," and the meeting closed with the singing of a hymn, and a prayer led by Mrs. Denike.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Mesley and Mrs. McRae, the nominating committee, received nominations for the various offices.

I.O.D.E. Planning Soldiers' Dance

The second last meeting of the Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Dawson, with Mrs. W. B. Gordon presiding. The regent extended a welcome to the six new members, and for their benefit, a paper explaining the I.O.D.E. and its work was read by Mrs. R. Honey.

It was decided that books were to be sent to the newly adopted school at Chandos, in Peterborough county. Books for the Training Centre library will also be collected. Christmas parcels of cakes, apples, candy and magazines will be sent to the Chapter's adopted ship. A wreath of flowers will be sent to be placed on the Cenotaph on Armistice Day.

Members from this Chapter volunteered to assist at the Blood Donors' Clinic during November, and entertain soldiers at a dance which will be given on November 29.

On Saturday, November 6, a tea bazaar and a sale of home cooking will be held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

Peterborough Girl Marries Airman

A quiet autumn wedding was solemnized in First Baptist church Fort William, recently, when Phyllis Isabelle Mann, Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mann, Elgin, Manitoba, became the bride of Sgt. Robert Thomas Neville, R.C.A.F., of Sudbury, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Neville, King's County, Ireland. Rev. B. Francis Rice officiated.

The bride wore a dressmaker suit of navy tricotine, featuring high revers and shoulder epaulets, with a white tailored blouse and navy accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty Roses.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Groves, the brother-in-law and sister-in-law of the bride, were the attendants. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was held in the Royal Edward Hotel.

After a brief visit in Fort William, Sgt. and Mrs. Neville left for Sudbury, Peterborough, and points east. Sgt. Neville will be stationed in the east, and Mrs. Neville will return to Peterborough where she will be a member of the staff of the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom and Canada.

I.O.D.E. Gives Donation To Training Centre

The monthly meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Miss Margaret Morgan, 61 Robinson street. The regent, Miss Margaret Preston, presided. During the business session, the treasurer gave a very favorable report on the Peterborough Temple Band Concert held at the Collegiate Auditorium, and the regent and the convener expressed thanks to all who took part in the concert. It was moved that a donation be given towards camp libraries. The war convener is Mrs. George Barnes.

Guest of the evening was Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, who is an honorary regent. The induction of new members took place, and the following ladies joined the group, Misses Helen Talbot, Joyce Alexander and Mildred Rowan, Mrs. Arnold Reynolds and Mrs. L. A. Craig.

Arrangements were made for the social evenings which are to commence at the next meeting. The committee in charge of the bridge tournaments, which are to be the entertainment for these evenings, is made up of Ruth Kingan, Jean Dorris and Isabel Graham.

Mrs. Craig was nominated to place the wreath for the Chapter on the War Memorial on Armistice Day. This Chapter is also to be in charge of the dance for the soldiers, to be held at the Y.W.C.A. on November 22.

Volunteers are going to assist at the Blood Donor's Clinic on November 8 and 10, and members will visit the Military Training Centre Hospital, and take comforts for the boys. They will also be in charge of the Uptown Canteen for November.

28 ditty bags were filled ar turned in by members of the Chapter, and Mrs. George Barnes was in charge of this project.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the annual Christmas dance sponsored by the Major Bennett Chapter, and Miss Betty MacDonald is the convener.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Orma Lacheur, 550 Gilmour street, and, as previously decided, will take the form of a bridge tournament and social evening.

LAKEFIELD

Cpl. Mary Birch Weds Tpr. Merrell S. Meyers

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 3—(ENS)—St. John's Anglican Church was the scene of a wedding recently, when Cpl. Mary Noreen Birch, eldest daughter of L./Cpl. and Mrs. Charles Birch, became the bride of Trooper Merrill S. Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Meyers of Hastings.

The altar was decorated with French marigolds. Rev. S. A. R. Wood officiated and Mrs. J. Twist supplied the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, George, the bride wore a street-length dress of heaven blue miracle crepe, with soldier blue accessories. Her off-the-face hat had a shoulder-length veil. She wore a gold pendant set with diamond chips and precious stones, a "Booth" family heirloom from England. She wore a corsage of white mums and pink roses.

L./Cpl. and Mrs. Ivan Clements of Warsaw were the attendants. The matron of honor, frocked in beige crepe with brown accessories, wore a corsage of bronze roses and yellow mums.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the bride's home. The bride's mother received in blue printed sheer with black accessories and wore a corsage of white mums and pink roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a mauve printed crepe with black accessories and corsage of white mums and yellow roses. The house was attractively decorated with pink and white streamers. The silver used on the bride's table was over 100 years old, a family heirloom from England.

The bride cut the cake with Mrs. W. J. Webster's cake knife which has been used for numerous wedding cakes in the village.

The bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. For travelling the bride chose a blue tweed box coat and matching accessories.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. L. Waldon of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Digweed, Miss D. London, Mrs. S. Windsor and Miss Audrey Windsor of Peterborough.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, November 4.

Swift and sudden events may pile up to make this day a memorable one and of far reaching significance. There may be much excitement, commotion, and extraordinary activities, in which ambitious and major projects are likely to reach surprising crises, under some strange or inexplicable impulsion. While this visitation may be dramatic and breathtaking, it will require keen ingenuity sustained by a strict adherence to sound policies in order to reap success against some unreasonable impediment or opposition. Keep poised.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared to encounter a year of thrilling and dramatic events, with much commotion and surprise that may affect the life radically and reach far into the future, its fortunes and its adventures. These may be romantic and uprooting, although based on a rather mysterious set of circumstances, unprecedented and unpredictable. With poise, calm, and outstanding ingenuity and adhering to the code as much as possible under unortrodox precipitation of curious events, it may be possible to circumvent some sort of influence working at cross purposes.

A child born on this day may have a most exceptional make-up with its impulses, emotions, and mental complexion under urge of the unique, inexplicable, romantic and dramatic. It may have exceptional success in an unusual career.

WOMAN'S WILES MAY NOT FOOL MAN BUT HE WON'T ADMIT IT

Why Business Training Vanishes in Presence of a Blond One of Life's Mysteries.

A CORRESPONDENT asks: "Do men see through the arts and wiles that women use to catch them?" Ah, who knows? If we could answer that question, we would have solved one of the the greatest mysteries in life, for nothing else is so strange as that men who are hard-boiled, astute, shrewd judges of character apparently park these qualities when they come to dealing with women and are so guileless that a girl baby can fool them.

A pertinent illustration of this is found in the fact that it is practically impossible to convict a young and pretty woman of any crime, no matter how strong is the evidence against her. A blond with golden locks and a peaches-and-cream complexion can literally get away with murder. The twelve good men and true who view her charms from the jury box are convinced that no one with such a willowy figure and eyes that look like violets drenched in dew could be anything but angelic, and that if she did kill her husband, no doubt he deserved it.

Man Ignores Training

And look at the ease with which divorcees remarry! It often seems that two or three decrees absolute are an asset instead of a liability in acquiring a new husband. A man would be leary about going into a partnership with a man who had failed to make good in all of his previous business connections. He would wonder if the man was cantankerous and hard to get along with, or if he was lazy and trifling, or if he wasn't a square-shooter, but he doesn't make any inquiries concerning why the lady's previous mates lost their taste for her. If she is a good-looker, he just takes her at her face value and lets it go at that.

And look at the way men marry. Not silly adolescent boys in the throes of their first attack of calf love, but hard-headed, canny, old business men who have piled up their fortunes by turning a cold and suspicious eye upon every venture and to whom no man could sell a gold brick, though he spoke with the eloquence and persuasiveness of a spellbinder. Yet every day we hear of aged millionaires leading to the altar girls young enough to be their granddaughters in the firm belief that they are loved for themselves alone.

And there is the vast army of men who marry women they are not in love with and don't want to marry, whom they never intended to marry, and who spend the balance of their lives wondering why they did it. If these men were weaklings with no minds of their own, you could understand how they fell victims of the husband-hunters. Or, if they were dull and stupid, you could see how they happened to stumble into the traps that were laid for them. But they are not. They are strong men, clever men, men who know their way about, men who are wise to everything except the ways of women.

Are Males as Dumb as They Seem?

Or are they? It seems so incredible that they don't see through the arts and wiles of the fair sex that it keeps women wondering if men really are as dumb as they seem. When a pretty little gold-digger rolls her eyes at a rich old man and asks him pretty, please, to give little Sweetums a diamond bracelet because her itsy, bitsy heart is set on it and she wants it so-o-o bad, does he really believe that she is the artless child that she is pretending to be, or an expert holdup artist?

When a man's wife dies, leaving him with a houseful of little children, and all the marriageable ladies of his acquaintance, who have found no takers, begin to pursue him with invitations to dinners and lunches, and to develop an abnormal affection for his poor darling little motherless ones, doesn't his Guardian Angel ever whisper to him that he had better watch his step, or else he will find himself in the Marriage License Bureau before he knows it?

When a man whose attentions have been without intention and who is tired of a girl and is trying to break away from her, lets her weep on his breast and tell him that it will break her heart to give him up, doesn't he know that she is using woman's oldest and most true and tried weapon to get her man, and that by the time he has wiped her tears away she will be planning the wedding?

Not being idiots or blind, men must see through all of women's transparent little ruses, and why they fall for them, goodness only knows. Maybe they get a kick out of playing with TNT. Maybe it flatters their vanity to be the object of feminine pursuit. Maybe it amuses them to see how cleverly women play the love game. Only men know, and they won't tell.

HAVE YOUR CLOTHES DRY CLEANED REGULARLY

War ecenomy calls for many substitutes and sacrifices, but you'll not be sacrificing your good appearance, when your clothes are cleaned by our thorough, gentle methods.

CLEAN CLOTHES LAST LONGER

HERE'S WHY:

1.—A chief enemy of fabric is perspiration. Our cleaning removes it.

2.—Tiny saw-toothed particles of grit work down into the fabric and chafe the fibres. Our cleaning gently removes them.

3—Fabric fibres tend to become less flexible when natural oils are removed.

Our cleaning relubrictaes fibres, and restores soft finish and lustre. All this is topped by the most detailed and long-lasting pressing.

Gotch Bathrobe

and escorted him through the milling crowd to the dressing-room.

In the middle of the confusion some fan got possession of Gotch's fancy bath-robe and it was torn to shreds.

The Whipper Wins

Whipper Billy Watson defeated Palermo John Katan in the main event but not until the challenger, rough and tough as usual, had put up a real battle. Katan had an edge in the early stages, punishing Watson with repeated applications of his unconscious chin lock, and while Referee Tommy Nelson made the Panther break the hold, he kept on the pressure long enough to weaken the champion. Watson showed his customary speed and cleverness in getting out of tough spots but at that Katan made it plenty tough for him and would have taken the first fall at the end of 22 minutes hard wrestling if his own bad temper had not let him down.

After softening up Watson with a series of elbow smashes Katan slapped a double leg lock and crab hold on the British Empire title-holder and pinned Watson's shoulders to the mat. He had won the fall then and there but refused to obey Referee Nelson's orders to break the hold. He continued to put on the pressure in spite of repeated warning and finally Nelson disqualified the Panther and awarded the fall to the Whipper.

Katan rushed at the referee in mad protest. He pulled Nelson's tie off but the Irish official did not back up any. On the contrary he whipped off his shirt and defied Katan to attack him. The Killer quieted down for the moment.

He was still hot under the collar when he came back for the second round and for the next few minutes Watson had to take a lot of punishment. Katan repeatedly applied his chin lock and worked in a few punches and jabs, and the champion had a tough time. However, he finally worked loose, softened the Panther with a few lusty swings, then slapped on his now famous Commando hold, and in a few moments it was all over. Watson applied the pressure so effectively that he had only to drop the helpless challenger on to the mat. The Killer was out cold. In fact he was still out long after Watson had reached the dressing room. Referee Nelson worked on his neck and slapped him several times to bring him around, but he was still in a dazed condition five minutes after the champion had left the ring When he finally revived he complained that the hold was a strangle but he got no backing on that protest from anybody.

A Good Exhibition

Freddy Steele of Glendale, Cal., and Mike Demetre of Montreal gave a clever exhibition of holds and releases in the opening bout which went 30 minutes to a draw. There was little to choose between the two. Demetre specialized on punishing arm holds and had Steele in difficulty with that form of attack but the Glendale grappler always managed to weather the storm, and he too introduced some punishing grips that the Montrealer had trouble in getting away from. It was clean most of the way, with a little flurry of punches adding variety toward the end.

Tommy Nelson refereed all three bouts and Fred Scates handled the timing and did the announcing.

McGinnis Pleads

was there. Attorney Common questioned him closely as to the accused's condition when last he saw him on February 6th. "You saw McGinnis that night about 6:30 when he returned from work," he questioned. "Yes."

"What was his condition?" "I would not say he was tight."

"Did you notice any appreciable change in his condition?" "Not very much," confirmed Hudson.

Was Not Drunk

The witness stated he left his home in the evening and saw McGinnis later that night in the Kent hotel. "He looked different but It would not say that he was drunk, he said. Hudson then told of returning home about 11:45 a.m. and finding his house full of police and the dead body of Howard laying on the floor. "I noticed that everything seemed to be smashed up in the room," he said. Asked to be more specific he stated that the kettle was on the floor, the flat iron laying across the hall, chairs disarranged and broken glass laying around.

Wilbur Johnston, the next witness, told the court that he resided across the street from Hudson house and on the night that Howard was killed had loaned McGinnis two Canuck shot gun shells. "He came over about 8:30 p.m." Johnston stated, carrying a gun, and said he wanted a couple of bullets to shoot a jack rabbit. As rabbits are fairly common around our houses I gave him two shells. Five minutes later McGinnis returned and said the gun, which I saw was a 12 gauge pump had jammed. He went out into the kitchen and then I saw him put one shell in the spring magazine and the other he held in the open slot with his hand. After McGinnis left the house I waited a few minutes and went to see him shoot the rabbit. I heard the report of the gun and saw the flash near the north window of the Hudson house. The light in that room went out at the same time.

"How did McGinnis appear," he was questioned.

Heard Scream

"He was in as good a spirits as I have ever saw him."

"Was he sober?" "I would not say he had a drink. His spirit was clear."

"Did you hear anything after you saw the flash of the gun?" "I heard Mrs. Coursey scream 'Oh Howard' three times.

Johnston stated that after hearing the screams he went back into his own house. "In about five minutes Mrs. Coursey came over and I went with her up to the Hudson home. When I entered I saw Bill Howard laying on the floor and McGinnis was sitting on a chair."

He said he told McGinnis to get a doctor but he said Howard would be all right in a few minutes and that he was only laid out for a while as most of the shot had hit the wall. I then went home and Mrs. Coursey came with me. The witness told the court that the accused followed them within a few minutes. I remember saying to him, "Johnston said that if I had known what he had intended doing with the shells I would not have given them to him." McGinnis answered "It doesn't make any difference as I had a knife ready anyway."

Questioned closely regarding statements made by the accused Johnston said that he remembered McGinnis saying in regard to Howard, "that he had been asking for it for a long time and now he had got it." McGinnis said he was going to report to the police and left the house with the comment: "Good by Johnston I am going for a long ride and with a smile too."

The witness stated that following the accused's departure, he and Mrs. Coursey also left and informed the police.

Dr. Hugh Logan, coroner, told the court that when he had examined Howard at about 10:30 p.m. he was dead. He had then ordered a postmortem which was performed by Dr. C. Arnold.

SYNOPSIS OF BY-LAWS FOR THE EARLY CLOSING OF LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR STORES AND DRY GOODS STORES IN THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Having received Two Separate Petitions praying for the passing of By-laws compelling the Earlier Closing of Ladies Ready-to-Wear Stores and Dry Goods Stores and these Petitions having proved to be properly signed and presented, the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough, at a Meeting held on November 1st, 1943, passed By-laws 4355 and 4356, which provide respectively for the Closing of Dry Goods Stores and Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Stores at 6 o'clock each Saturday Evening throughout the year and that these Stores shall Remain Closed until Five o'clock in the Forenoon of the next business day. These By-laws were passed in accordance with the requirements of Sub-Section 5 of Section 82 of the Factory, Shop and Office Building Act, R.S.O. 1937, Chapter 194.

Both these By-laws provide the usual penalties for persons convicted of violating their provisions, and both By-laws take effect on the 13th Day of November, 1943.

DATED November 3rd, 1943.

E. A. OUTRAM,
City Clerk.

Home and School

CONFEDERATION.

The November meeting of the Confederation Home and School was held Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. W. White, in the chair. During the business session the secretary's and the treasurer's reports were heard. The members were asked to remember the annual church service to be held in St. Paul's Church Sunday evening, November 7. A new member was welcomed to the group, and it was decided to hold a rummage sale in November. Rev. E. C. Moore of St. George's Church was the guest speaker, and gave an inspiring address on Citzenship. Mrs. N. Moffat played a piano solo. Refreshments were served by the social convener, Mrs. Aitken.

Trim Bright Slip Cover Simple to Make Yourself

BRIGHTEN YOUR HOME

With winter almost here, and less sunlight, you naturally are thinking of freshening up your home. You'd like to have new slip covers made for the furniture but find it too expensive. Why not make them yourself? It is so much cheaper and you will also be sure of getting what you want because you will be doing it yourself.

Do not be discouraged and think it too difficult. They are really quite simple to make and your own originality in color and design will lend a definite "touch" to your home.

Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step directions and diagrams for making slip covers for chairs, sofas and other sundry seats, also for automobile seats, if you will be using your car during this year of gas rationing. It also has suggestions for choice of appropriate materials.

No longer mere dust covers for protecting fine upholstery, today's slip covers are so decoratively important that they are used the year round, instead of being taken off when winter comes.

For your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

COLLECT FULL VALUE

WHEN SOMEBODY collects from you for a debt you owe, he generally insists on getting the full amount of the bill. You should be the same way about making use of a valuable entry to the weaker of your two holdings, when you are the declarer. This will ordinarily be the dummy, and it may have only one entry. Consequently, when you are over there, you should figure out what is the most valuable way to use the opportunity to cash some established card there or lead toward your own hand.

North: ♠ 5 2 ♥ K 5 ♦ 10 9 6 3 ♣ J 10 8 6 4

West: ♠ 4 3 ♥ J 10 7 6 2 ♦ Q J 7 4 ♣ Q 7

South: ♠ K Q 8 7 6 ♥ A Q 8 4 ♦ K 5 ♣ A 5

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1♣	1♠	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2♥	Pass	2♠

In order to prevent the declarer from using the dummy's spades to trump losing hearts, West led the spade 4. East took it with the A and returned the J. South scored his K and Q of trumps, and then went to work on the hearts, leading to the K and taking the A. When he then led the Q, East ruffed with his spade 10 and returned the club 2. South scored his A then and let West have the heart 8 with the 10. West then took the club Q and led the heart J, which South ruffed. This left South a trump and his two diamonds. He therefore had to lose two diamond tricks at the end, and so was down one.

What a cinch this contract should have been to make. If South had paused to consider that the heart K was dummy's only entry, he might have made better use of it. After scoring it, there was no point to leading another heart just then, but a great deal of point to leading toward the diamond K. Ordinary foresight should have shown him that sooner or later he would want to lead toward that card, and that he would never have another chance. Had he done that, he would have lost only one trick in the suit, instead of two. This one, plus two tricks to East's spades and one each to the defenders' hearts and diamonds would have made only five all told.

48th Highlanders Pounded Hard By Nazi Heavy Gun Barrage

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Oct. 31 — (Delayed)—(CP Cable). — The 48th Highlanders from Toronto spent four days and nights under shellfire before they crossed heights and took a little town, objective of a drive they made on the Canadian left wing of the British 8th Army.

A company commanded by Capt. J. R. O. Counsell of Toronto was in the town only two hours before German shelling started. Once it got going it continued for 96 hours with shells smashing into the town's stone buildings at regular intervals.

Enemy guns sat back on a mountain under good concealment and Canadian artillery was brought up to the outskirts of the town to engage it. Opposing artillery bellowed at each other for hours.

Shellfire provided the greatest opposition the 48th encountered during their valley crossing and advance across rolling ground leading to the town.

The troops crossed brown slopes, fired upon almost at point-blank range by 88-millimetre guns established on dominating ground ahead. From positions further back heavier enemy guns pounded the ground.

Tank Support.

The Highlanders had the support of tanks which survived the heavy shelling and turned their guns on enemy machine-gun positions under the direction of Capt. Hamish MacIntosh of Toronto.

The troops occupied the town shortly before dawn and had barely settled down when the enemy guns got down to their work. Practically the only safe places in the small area under fire were basements.

Pte. D. V. Thicke of Kirkland Lake, Ont., had one of the narrowest escapes when a shell crashed into the top of a high stone building in which he was standing by a wireless set. A blast tossed the set outdoors and knocked Thicke to his knees without hurting him as the shell exploded against an interior wall barely 10 feet away.

Padre Capt. W. B. East standing nearby was also uninjured.

"I'm a church-going man from now on," said Thicke, surveying the damage later and wiping his brow as he examined a three-inch hole cut by shrapnel in a door near where he was standing.

The Canadians realized the determination with which the Germans were pumping shells into the town when there were some casualties as the troops went about their business in streets and exposed square.

After the first day the men remained indoors except when they had work outside. Ptes. Ken O'Halloran of Parry Sound and Clarence Henry of Toronto set up bunks in a little cellar which was one of the safe places.

Patrols went out regularly and one captured a German non-commissioned officer who had come to within 200 yards of the 48th's lines.

The troops got to know the time the enemy would do his heaviest shelling and worked during breaks in his firing schedule.

Box Social Gets $50 For Red Cross

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 3 (ENS). —A large crowd attended the masquerade and box social last week in the Foresters' Hall. The proceeds, which amounted to over $50, was in aid of the local Red Cross branch. The first event of the evening was the judging of the costumes. The judges were C. Hartman, G. Ball, Rev. G. Mutton and Lt. Gordon Ray. Those winning prizes were as follows:

Ladies' fancy costume, Mrs. Karl Blewett; gent.'s fancy costume, Karl Blewett; ladies' comic costume, Mrs. Jack Smith. The judges were unable to decide between Earl Blewett and Ernie Connors for the men's comic costume, and they left the decision to the response from the spectators. The prize went to Ernie Connors. Prize for girls under 12 years was won by Florence McKay; boys under 12 years, Bobbie Hardill.

The fancy baskets were auctioned off by Fred Jopling, with Mr. MacDonald assisting. Some of the baskets went as high as $5.00. After lunch dancing was enjoyed to the music of Twomey's Sod Busters.

British Unit Gains 8 Miles Across Western Italy 8th Army Tanks Move Up

Canadian Troops 6 Miles From Isernia
In Heart Of Apennines
Lines Now 85 Miles From City Of Rome

By N. NORGAARD—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 4—(AP).—Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark's British units of the Anglo-American 5th Army drove forward on a 40-mile front for gains of five to eight miles on the western Italian sector, advancing to within 85 miles of Rome and throwing the enemy back in a steady retreat across the broad Garigliano River valley, Allied headquarters announced to-day.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army also advanced in nearly all sectors, moving up the Boiano-Isernia road in the Canadian sector on the 8th Army's left wing and battering its way into Castelpetroso, less than six miles southeast of Isernia, the Apennine mountain highway hub in the centre of Marshal Erwin Rommel's present defence line.

The advance to Castelpetroso represented a gain of up to four miles through hilly country from the last previously-reported positions in the Canadian sector, Cantalupo and Macchiagodena. Occupation of these two points near the Boiano-Isernia highway was announced Monday.

Gen. Clark's British troops swept the Germans from their last strongholds around Massico Ridge, the massive anchor of the strongly-fortified mountain line which the Germans apparently hoped to hold until winter, and brushed them out of their last footholds on lofty San Croce mountain to the northeast.

On Coastal Road.

At the end of the day yesterday, by steadily rooting out nests of resistance, British troops were astride the main coastal road to Rome at a point north of Sessa Aurunca, between the two mountains.

In addition to Sessa Aurunca, the pursuing Allies also had occupied Roccamonfina — capture of which was announced yesterday — five miles northwest of Teano at the foot of San Croce, and Presenzamo, northwest of San Croce and five miles southeast of Mignano, a key point on a highway running northwest in a valley north of the coastal mountains.

The 8th Army forced new crossings of the Trigno river on the Adriatic front, but a savage battle raged around its original bridgehead at the railway station of San Salvo where the Nazis threw tanks and artillery into repeated attempts to hurl the British troops back over the river.

At least 20 Mark IV special tanks participated in the enemy's desperate but futile counter-attacks and at the end of a day of bloody fighting, Gen. Montgomery has driven them all back and gained some ground and taken a considerable number of German prisoners.

Castelpetroso, a village less than seven miles southeast of Isernia on the Boiano-Isernia highway, fell to the troops of the left wing of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army.

Raid on Greece

At sea, American patrol boats sank an enemy tanker off the island of Elba.

The air command said bombers attacked the German airfield at Araxos, Greece.

On the Adriatic end of the battle line, the Germans threw 20 Mark IV tanks against General Montgomery's forces at San Salvo but headquarters said they were beaten back and the British forces extended their Trigno river bridgehead and took a number of prisoners.

General Sales Way Down In Victory Loan

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 — (CP). — [W]ednesday sales of Fifth Victory [L]oan bonds climbed above average [t]o $72,379,700 as the "buy an extra bond" drive got under way, boosting the cumulative total past the billion-dollar mark, National Loan headquarters announced to-day.

With three days to go, the three-week campaign stood at $1,051,618,200 — about $150,000,000 from the minimum objective of $1,200,000,000.

"While this compares with $959,-707,300 in the previous loan (when the objective was $1,100,000,000), a considerable part of the increase arises from earlier reporting of payroll results and from the collective subscriptions of Special Names," said headquarters.

"General sales, while somewhat up over the last loan are only so moderately."

To bolster the general sales front, Graham F. Towers, general chairman of the National War Finance Committee, last night appealed to individual Canadians to respond with more new subscriptions and more money in the final

Coal Conference In Third Day

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—(CP).—Conferences between government and labor officials on the strike of [8,]500 miners in the coal fields of [A]lberta and British Columbia [w]ent into their third day to-day [w]ith no indication of immediate [se]ttlement.

Ending of the strike of United [St]ates coal miners with agreement [in] Washington last night aroused [in]terest here but officials of Unit[e]d Mine Workers of America, re[p]resenting the Canadian strikers, [in]dicated the outcome of the Am[er]ican dispute had no bearing on [th]e western Canada tie-up. Gov[er]nment labor officials made no [co]mment.

Here is a comparison of wages [pa]id the Canadian miners, who [ar]e seeking increases, and those of [th]e United States miners, whose de[m]ands for more money were met in [la]st night's agreement:

Canadians—$5.57 to $5.78 for an [ei]ght hour day, plus $4.25 weekly [co]st-of-living bonus for full work [w]eek; men striking for a basic $5.79 [ra]te, plus a $2-a-day general in[cr]ease in addition to the cost-of-[liv]ing bonus.

[A] M G Operating In Italy

[D]iversified Problems Engage Officers

[W]ASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP). — [Th]e machinery of Allied military [go]vernment (AMG) is running [mo]re smoothly in Italy than it [di]d in North Africa, but some of [its] main bearings still need oil.

The problems of the AMG fall [in]to two broad categories, one in[vol]ving top policy and interna[tio]nal politics, the other local ad[mi]nistration with its overlapping [mi]litary and civilian requirements.

Inquiries today in official quar[ter]s directly concerned with AMG [pro]duced word the entire situation [is] receiving continual and close [scr]utiny; that present methods [an]d form are not accepted as [eit]her final or satisfactory.

There is full awareness that even greater difficulties await governments in France, the Low Countries and Germany, for instance, and the Italian developments accordingly get minute study for future blueprints.

The Italian situation is still far from clarified. The decisions are not being made purely on the basis of military expediency, however, for the military command has the advise of civilian governmental departments.

Military necessity dictated acceptance of the Badoglio government as a co-belligerent, and its later use by the Allies as rallying point of the Italian people to counter the Nazi-puppet Fascist republic with Mussolini at its head.

Will Peterborough Fail

Faced with the task of raising $231,666 in each of the three remaining days of this three-week Victory Loan campaign, Peterborough citizens, both rural and urban, must do better than the records have shown during the past three days of this week.

Sales have been lagging and the final result is very much in doubt, Gordon Matthews, chairman of the National War Finance Committee, said today. Peterborough has never failed on a Victory Loan let, but if we are to succeed this time our sales must be even more than they were for the last three days of the Fourth Victory Loan, and everyone who followed the sales will admit that they were large.

"I appeal to those who have only bought small bonds and have yet large deposits in the bank to buy larger bonds and to the hundreds of others in this unit to buy an extra bond. Peterborough must not fail her boys in the services, we are duty bound to them and we want them to speed the victory. This is not a day for paltry offerings. Buying bonds is a duty on every citizen, fixed, undeniable and unavoidable.

"Remember an extra bond and a loosening up of the bank deposits are the only ways Peterborough will be able to do her share," Mr. Matthews said.

Federal Order With Teeth Outlaws Big Coal Strike

OTTAWA, Nov. 4—(CP).—An Order-in-Council was passed October 14 providing fines or imprisonment for any person taking part in a coal mine strike, it was disclosed today.

The Order, published in Canadian war orders and regulations, had not previously been announced by the Department although officials had termed the current strike of 8,500 western coal miners "illegal."

Labor Minister Mitchell was not immediately available for comment, but a Departmental spokesman said the Order "definitely" applies to the strike in Alberta and British Columbia.

The Order was passed at the same time as an Order establishing a Royal Commission to investigate wage rates in the western mines.

It provides that: "No employee employed in the operation of any coal mine in Canada shall go on or take part in any strike during the state of war now existing." Mine operators are prohibited from causing a lockout.

Employees who strike are liable to a fine of from $25 to $100 or imprisonment of from one to three months—or both fine and imprisonment—for each day or part of a day they are on strike.

Lockouts Barred.

A section dealing with strike leaders says: "No person shall, during the state of war now existing, incite, encourage or aid any operator of a coal mine in Canada to cause a lockout from a coal mine in Canada or any employee employed in the operation of a coal mine in Canada to go on or take part in any strike."

For violation of this section penalties of not more than $2,000 fine or imprisonment for not more than a year, or both, are provided.

Any operator causing a lockout is subject to a fine of from $100 to $1,000 and imprisonment of from three months to a year, or both, for each day that the lockout continues.

With the western strike now in its fourth day the 8,500 striking miners would be subject, if convicted in court under the Order, to fines of from $100 to $400 each—a total of from $850,000 to $3,400,000 — or to imprisonment for terms of from four months to a year, or both.

Robert Livett, president of District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America and head of a delegation now in Ottawa for conferences with Labor Minister Mitchell in an effort to settle the western strike, said to-

Eight Million Huns Homeless

BERNE, Nov. 4—(AP)—The Swiss weekly, Die Nation, today said that conditions inside Germany were "much worse than 25 years ago" and said the cumulative effort of Allied air raids was having a vital effect on German morale.

Eight million bombed-out or evacuated citizens, approximately 1/10th of the population, comprise the core of defeatism and discouragement which Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo is striving to combat, Die Nation said.

The weekly declared that "every bombardment increases the number by thousands or tens of thousands."

Since a previous visit to Germany six weeks ago, the writer of the article declared, "the panic of the people of Berlin has by no means abated." He said the "bitter silence" of the population is mostly the result of action taken by Himmler immediately after he became interior minister.

The article said that mistrust within the German nation has increased to such a degree that 'it is now reported that certain sections of the population must give up their radio sets. Since the formation of the Free Germany committee in Moscow the Moscow radio has gained the interest of the German people. But this does not necessarily mean that the German people sympathize with communism. Even bombed-out persons prefer an Anglo-Saxon victory if the enemies must win."

"As to rumors of serious differences between the leading military officials and Hitler," the article went on, "it may be assumed that the Fuehrer's position must be firmer than ever before, since the military has the greatest interest in letting Hitler's complete responsibility be as apparent to the nation as to the whole world."

Reds Batter Remnants Of Hun Army

Cossack Cavalrymen Lead Columns Decimating Nazis

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Nov. 4 — (AP). — The whole German position in South Russia grew worse by the hour to-day as the Red Army reached the lower reaches at the Dnieper River in strength at numerous places and approached the port of Kherson at its mouth.

In other sectors, Soviet bombers and Stormovik planes blasted hundreds of Germans trying to make their way to the western bank.

(The Berlin radio announced a new Russian landing in the Eastern Crimea south of Kerch. The Germans asserted that the three-day-old bridgehead south of the Crimean port had been reduced.

(The Germans also announced a renewed Russian offensive pointing north and west of Kiev in the sector north of the Ukrainian capital).

Peril Grows.

The Russians have not intimated a crossing of the lower Dnieper. The river in the south is broad. Banks are a combination of mud and sand. Pontoon bridges across the river will require extreme engineering dexterity.

Time is on the side of the fleeing Germans and the Russians are eager to follow up their successes by keeping contact to chop and trap the foe.

Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin's Fourth Ukrainian Army which sealed and by-passed the Crimea was filling the eastern bank of the Lower Dnieper swiftly. A crossing anywhere from Nikopol in the bend to the Kherson sector would increase the peril to thousands of Germans still in the Dnieper elbow and around Krivoi Rog.

The swift-charging Cossacks and Red Army motorized columns were pictured as cutting through the Germans as they streamed back from the Ukraine while the Soviet planes pounded the Nazis unceasingly from the air.

Yesterday's advance of 10 miles netted the Red Army 80 towns in the steppe region between the Dnieper and Karkinit Bay on the Black Sea, Moscow said.

Red Army columns plunging southwest of Dnepropetrovsk captured seven villages, the Soviet bulletin declared. Nazi counter-attacks were beaten back on all parts of the advance.

German prisoners were quoted by the Russians as saying that many of their infantry companies had been reduced to an average of 15 to 20 men apiece, with the 15th German infantry division in particular suffering enormous losses.

For the second straight day the Russian communique last night made no mention of fighting inside the Crimea. Berlin broadcasts said Russian units from the Caucasus had launched amphibious attacks on the eastern shore of the peninsula below Kerch but had been held to beachhead positions by the German 17th Army.

The Russians also made no mention of the situation at Krivoi Rog, Dnieper bend mining centre, where heavy fighting has been raging for days.

Radio Aspirations

TORONTO, Nov. 4—(CP).—It may have been that the Toronto Transportation Commission conductor had radio-announcer aspirations or perhaps he missed his calling. In any case, early passengers were startled to hear the street-car conductor say "Ladies and gentlemen, the correct time is now eight thirty-nine and one-half minutes."

Churchill Lauds Guerillas In Yugoslavia

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP). —Prime Minister Churchill disclosed to-day that British liaison officers are with forces of Albanian guerillas, who he said are fighting by the thousands in the mountains and are being counted upon for a part "in the future military developments in the Mediterranean area."

In confirming that Allied officers have been sent into Albania as well as Greece and Yugoslavia, the Prime Minister told the House of Commons that the British officers had paid high tribute to the fighting qualities of the guerillas.

Mr. Churchill's comment was made in reply to a question about the government's policy toward the Albanian guerillas and he said the policy was to "see Albania freed from the Axis yoke and restored to her independenme. Her frontiers, of course, will be considered at the peace settlement."

Meanwhile in Yugoslavia the Partisans of Gen. Josip Broz (Tito) today announced capture of Priboj, a railroad town on the Sarajevo-Nis line in south central Yugoslavia, after inflicting heavy losses upon the German and the Mihailovic forces. Their communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, said the town which lies on the Lim River near the Montenegrin-Serbian border, was occupied by units of the 5th and 2nd Partisan divisions.

Seizure of Priboj, 60 miles south east of Sarajevo, severed the railroad which winds through the heart of Yugoslavia from the Dubrovnik area on the Adriatic Sea and connects with other railway lines running south to the Aegean Sea and Bulgaria.

Farther north, other Partisan columns severed the rail line between Zagreb and Varazdinske Toplice at several points, and have driven off German attempts to recapture strongpoints in their possession, the communique said.

Record Potato Crop Reported In Simcoe

ALLISTON, Ont., Nov. 4.—(CP).—Three South Simcoe potato growers set an Ontario record this year, with crops yielding 500 bushels to the acre. Average yield in Ontario is 70 bushels to the acre. The three were honored last night at a dinner here along with 15 other growers who raised more than 200 bushels in their tested one-acre plots. Dr. I. G. Christie, president of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, said the growers had made history in Ontario with their crops this year.

Cologne And Duesseldorf Take New Pounding Mosquitoes Bomb France

19 Bombers Lost, 4 Canadian, In Big Armada
Which Battered War Plants
Bomb Load Sets New High For R.C.A.F. Unit

By FOSTER BARCLAY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 4—(CP Cable).—The strongest force of heavy Canadian bombers ever to operate from British bases went out with the R.A.F. last night to spread new destruction in battered Duesseldorf and Cologne.

The great raids came as a swift sequel to the smashing daylight attack on Wilhelmshaven by the largest force of American aircraft ever thrown against the Reich.

The Canadian effort included several squadrons of big Lancasters and Halifaxes toting the largest weight of bombs since the R.C.A.F. bomber group was formed at the start of the year. Canadian Mosquitoes also carried out intruder patrols over northern France.

Of the 19 bombers missing from the night's operations, four were Canadian.

The main blow was concentrated on Duesseldorf, making that big Ruhr armament centre probably the world's most heavily bombed city next to Hamburg, while a diversionary assault by a smaller force was made on Cologne on the Rhine. Mosquitoes also bombed objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

The size of previous attacks on Duesseldorf and the fact the R.A.F. has had two weeks of bad weather in which to prepare last night's offensive hinted that it may have been the greatest effort yet.

Hit May 23

The steel manufacturing centre of 500,000 received a packet of 2,000 long tons of explosives in its next-to-last raid on May 23 and on June 11 was hit by the R.A.F.'s biggest heavy bomber force up to that time.

The Air Ministry described the new attack as concentrated and effective, and a greatly weakened German defence was indicated in the loss of only 19 raiding aircraft engaged in that and the other operations.

Duesseldorf, Germany's third-ranking inland port is the site of the great Rheinmetal Iron and Steel Works, almost comparable to Krupps at Essen, as well as Vereinigte Stahlwerke, one of Germany's "big four" industrial outfits.

Dispatches from Stockholm quoted the Social Demokraten as saying more than 1,000 persons were killed in Tuesday's attack by the United States heavy bombers based in the Mediterranean theatre on Wiener Neustadt, Austria.

Cologne, previously attacked 122 times, has many vital war targets.

Murder Trial Nears Final Stages

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 4—(AP).—In a witness stand appearance to defend himself against a murder charge, Alfred de Marigny said to-day that the slain millionaire, Sir Harry Oakes, "was very rude to me" after Sir Harry's daughter Nancy, the witness' wife, underwent an operation to terminate pregnancy.

Oscar Bedford Daly, the Chief Justice, had given the accused son-in-law the alternatives of remaining silent, making an unsworn statement from the prisoner's dock, or testifying under oath from the stand, and thus laying himself open to cross-examination.

"I will testify," De Marigny had said without hesitation.

Higgs led De Marigny through the account of his meeting with the Oakes family, of his courtship and marriage to Nancy and of Nancy's near fatal illness at Mexico City in the summer and fall of 1942.

All of this time, the witness said, Sir Harry seemed friendly to him.

But when the couple returned from Mexico City to Palm Beach last winter, Nancy was pregnant and

ARP Volunteers Not Required

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 — (CP). — A.R.P. Volunteers in Quebec west of the confluence of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers and in all of Ontario now may be excused from further duty due to lessened risk of air attack, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced to-day.

In British Columbia, the Maritime Provinces, and Quebec East of the confluence of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers, there should be "no relaxation by A.R.P. organizations," which should be maintained "intact and in a state of constant readiness," Mr. King's statement said, adding:

In these areas where A.R.P. should be continued there is "either a definite risk of attack or a possibility of attack."

The Prime Ministers statement was based on a reassessment by the Cabinet War Committee of the risk of air attack in various parts of Canada, "in view of changed war conditions."

"It is felt that volunteers in these areas now may be excused, with the knowledge that they have served their country well through a period of danger."

Crafty Japanese Plan 25 Years Ahead

Seek To Form Asiatic Bloc And Pit Eastern Races Against Whites

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Japanese militarists, — the real rulers of Nippon—are said by competent observers in the Orient to recognize they will lose this war but are hoping to secure a liberal peace and meantime to create an Asiatic bloc of countries which they can lead against the white race 25 years hence.

That sounds fantastic, but it isn't. It fits in with the signs of the times, and represents a menace more deadly than Prussian militarism, because it's calculated to pit the East against the West—a racial conflict.

My own observations in the East have convinced me of that. There's real danger of the formation of an Asiatic block. The Japanese are working the "big-brother" game smartly in spots, as witness Burma and Thailand (Siam) which actually are fighting for the Mikado.

Fresh word of this trend has been brought out of a Japanese interment camp in the Philippines by Raymond P. Cronin, who was chief of the Associated Press bureau in Manila when the Nipponese invaded the island. Cronin is on the exchange ship Gripsholm which has reached South Africa en route to America.

Sowing Seeds

The A.P. correspondent says his informants expressed the belief that Japanese military men in the field are attempting to sow the seeds of brotherhood among the Asiatic races in preparation for the next war. A similar report comes from another AP correspondent, Russell Brines, who also is on the Gripsholm after nearly 2 years interment in Shanghai and Manila.

This Japanese effort to establish an Asiatic bloc isn't a thing to brushed aside lightly, because we can't say in advance that victory by arms over the Mikado's forces will eliminate the political danger. The Japanese are trading circumspectly, and we can see the danger signals in such places as in Burma and Siam, which apparently accept Japanese leadership willingly.

As I've reported in this column previously, there is a widespread feeling in the Orient that the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter aren't intended for the peoples of the east at all, but only for the West. Even China, our ally, has been concerned over this, as has neighboring India.

Need Bombers.

LONDON, Nov. 4 — (CP Cable).—The Daily Mail to-day published a report from its New York correspondent, Don Iddon, that Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the United States Army Air Forces, told a group of manufacturers and labor leaders in a "secret session" last week that Japan could be knocked out of the war without a single soldier setting foot on the Japanese islands. If the Allies were given the necessary bombers.

Expect Invasion On Riviera

Nazis Hustle Troops To South Coast

MADRID, Nov. 4.—(AP).— Reports of the movement of strong German forces into Southern France this week and elaborate defence preparations being taken along the Riviera give every indication Berlin believes an Allied offensive against Southern France is imminent.

These preparations are on such a scale that the Riviera coastal road has been closed to passenger traffic between Mentone and San Rafael and the German labor corps has been moving freight around the closed area, where new fortifications apparently are being erected.

Travellers from France reported that the movement of German troops toward the south appeared general. They also declared all cities in Southern France, including some as far inland as Avignon and Carcasonne, are the scenes of great activity.

Reports of Allied troops concentrations on the island of Corsica have resulted in a strengthening of German coastal garrisons from Toulon, France, to Leghorn, Italy, Charles Foltz, Associated Press correspondent, said in an NBC broadcast last night from Madrid.

"Nearly 2,000 Italian Badoglio troops hold the mountains behind Monte Carlo and Nice, threatening the narrow German corridor between Italy and France, and more anti-Nazi Italians are organizing," he added.

CONCENTRATED 45-MINUTE RAID SHATTERS BASE IN SOLOMONS

Allies Riddle Rabaul Fleet Bag 3 Destroyers, 129 Planes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 4—(AP).—Allied air might has blasted into twisted hulks the warships and transports Japan massed at Rabaul to counter-smash the northern Solomons invasions. In a display of power, the Allied bomber force sank three destroyers and eight large merchantmen or transports at Rabaul Tuesday and ripped open the hull of a heavy cruiser while other planes dived and swirled in day-long battles to keep Japanese fighters away from the United States marines driving enemy soldiers back into the jungles on Bougainville's west coast.

In all these operations, nearly 100,000 tons of Japanese shipping were sunk or damaged, 129 enemy planes were destroyed or crippled and more than 200 tons of explosives tore into the enemy's power to resist.

Under such formidable air cover, the drive to oust the Japanese from the rest of the Solomons and lunge at Rabaul gained ground. The marines expanded the beachhead won Monday at Empress Augusta Bay on Bougainville.

Japs Scattered.

In co-ordinated invasion operations to the south, New Zealand and American troops on tiny Treasury Island scattered its 200 Japanese defenders in the jungles. On Choiseul, Allied paratroops captured the barge depot of Sangigai and chased fleeing Japanese toward the southeastern end of the island.

Tuesday's Rabaul smash was devastating. More than 150 medium bombers and fighters swept into strike for 45 minutes at vessels the Japanese had rushed down from Truk for counter-invasion action.

26 Ships Hit

Twenty-six ships either were either were sunk or damaged. Fifty thousand tons were represented in the three destroyers, eight large merchant ships and four small coastal vessels sunk. One heavy cruiser was left listing with a large hole in the hull. A second took a direct hit. Seven large merchant vessels, aggregating 30,000 tons, an 8,000 ton tanker and another of 6,000 tons were knocked out of action.

Japanese resistance was fierce, both by 150 fighters and by anti-aircraft batteries. Despite that the score was at least 85 to 19 in favor of the Allies. Fighter shot down at least 41 of the interceptors and probably got 10 more. Bombers bagged at least 26 and possibly 39 in the air in addition to destroying 1 parked planes.

Nine bombers and 10 fighters were lost.

Report Indicates Alles Wrong

TORONTO, Nov. 4 — (CP). — Premier Drew to-day issued a report by O. E. Lennox, Assistant Master of the Ontario Supreme Court, finding there was no discrimination on the part of the Ford Motor Company of Canada in dismissing from its employ A. N. Alles, C.C.F. M.P.P.-elect for Essex North.

Mr. Lennox, appointed a commissioner to investigate the dismissal, submitted an 18-page report of his findings at a two-day public inquiry at Windsor, October 6 and 7.

Mr. Alles was dismissed as a Ford payment clerk September 22 after five days' absence from work during which he attended the Canadian Congress of Labor convention in Montreal, and a caucus of C.C.F. members of the Ontario Legislature in Toronto.

Findings of the report were summarized in these words:

"I....find that there has been no discrimination in administration of the company's rules respecting leave of absence; that the charge of discrimination generally has not been established, on the contrary Mr. Alles sought dismissal, and accepted his dismissal, outwardly, on friendly terms. The question of his right to reinstatement had not been referred to me, and is now pending before the Selective Service Board."

an operation was decided upon, De Marigny said.

Sir Harry came to Palm Beach several days after the operation.

"He treated me peculiarly," the son-in-law said. "He was very rude to me."

He added that he was puzzled by the ill feeling.

They had known each other for months, he said, when he went to New York in March, 1942, for medical treatment. He saw Nancy often while there and made a trip to California with her in the company of Mr. and Mrs. George de Rapp.

When they returned he underwent an operation.

"I told Nancy that if it turned out all right, we would be married," he said.,

"On May 19, 1942, we were married at New York."

Had $31,500.

De Marigny told Higgs that he had more than £7,000 (about $31,500) at the time of the marriage, including £1,000 owed him by John H. Anderson.

His story moved swiftly to the time last fall when Nancy became gravely ill in Mexico City of typhoid fever, and Sir Harry and Lady Oakes hurried to the scene.

"Sir Harry seemed very friendly when he arrived at Mexico City," De Marigny related.

Lady Oakes paid the expenses caused by Nancy's illness, the witness related, but he did not agree for her to do so.

"I paid £4,000 to Lady Oakes," he said. "She transferred this amount back to our account and I transferred it back to hers."

Lady Oakes testified yesterday that she and Sir Harry became angry with de Marigny when they learned that she was pregnant while she still was recovering from the typhoid fever.

"How long had this condition existed?" asked Higgs, referring to the pregnancy.

"Since sometime in December," de Marigny said.

The witness told of a trip to Nassau with Sir Harry. He said the Canadian millionaire mine-owner at the time offered him a tract of land saying "I would like to give this property to you and Nancy because I bought it for that purpose."

De Marigny said he would not accept the property.

Lady Oakes yesterday told a story of family difficulties growing out of the marriage of Nancy to the defendant.

Defence attorneys indicated the tempo of the trial, which began its 16th session today, would be speeded up with the accused, son-in-law of Sir Harry, completing his testimony in two days.

The jury is expected to visit De Marigny's chicken farm and Sir Harry's ocean-front estate, Westbourne, where the Canadian multi-millionaire was slain, before taking the case under final consideration.

There were indications that the trial, now in its third week, might be concluded in another week and a half. The defence has approximately a score of witnesses awaiting call.

Canadians Get 11 Planes In Day's Raid

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With The R.C.A.F. Somewhere In England, Nov. 4 (CP Cable)—Canadian airmen yesterday scored what the R.C.A.F. in a communique called "the greatest single victory of the war to date for the Dominion's fighter pilots" when they shot down nine Messerschmitt fighters while escorting medium bombers from a raid on the Schipol airdrome at Amsterdam. The action brought the day's Canadian score of downed planes to 11.

The nine were destroyed by a fighter wing commanded by Wing Cmdr. Lloyd V. Chadburn of Aurora, Ont., as the Canadians blasted a path through a swarm of Messerschmitts for the bombers. The other two victims — both Focke Wulf 190s—were destroyed by members of the Red Indian Squadron, Sqdn. Leader Charles Magwood of Toronto, the commander and Flt. Lt John Sherlock of Calgary, while escorting other medium bombers in attacking the airport at St. Andrew de l'Eure, France.

The communique said that, as in almost every battle in which they have engaged the Germans, the Canadians who downed the nine enemy planes fought against a numerically superior force.

Twice Before

Twice before the Canadians have made scores of nine for a single day's fighter operations—at Dieppe Aug. 19, 1942 when 91 Nazis were destroyed by Allied airmen, and again last Oct. 3. But the score by Chadburn's airmen was easily the best single operation against the Nazis' dwindling fighter strength.

Chadburn, who destroyed two Nazis himself, reported no opposition taking the bombers into the target but said that on the way out they ran into a "mixed force" of Germans so numerous "we didn't bother to count them."

Chadburn and Flt. Lt. Jack Mitcher of Kitchener, Ont., each got two planes before the Germans broke off the fight after 15 minutes. Then the wing's second squadron, which Chadburn kept behind, met a dozen stragglers from the formation, scattered in the original action, and five more German planes were blown up.

In the wind-up fight, Flt. Lt. Danny Nooan of Kingston, Ont., was credited with 1½ planes destroyed, showing that he shot down one and figured in the destruction of another, while Flt. Lt. Arthur Sager of Vancouver was credited with another half plane.

Flt. Lt. Doug Booth of Vancouver, Flt. Lt. Jeff Northcott of Minnedosa, Man., and a Toronto flying officer named Jacobs collected one each.

Canuck Patrols At Night Risky Business

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8th ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 27 —(Delayed)—(CP)— Night after night Canadian reconnaissance patrols creep into no-man's land.

These patrols of a dozen men, faces blackened and carrying tommy guns, Bren guns and grenades, must proceed with cat-like stealth. At the first betraying sound they may be raked with fire by Germans in concealed positions.

Too, each step may bring death from mines or booby traps.

"It's the funniest feeling going," confided Lieut. Nelson Verge of Quebec in explaining the night patrols.

"It's an eerie feeling going out into no-man's land not knowing whether you'll come back," added this 31-year-old member of the Royal Canadian Regiment. "You feel the whole German Army is against you. You're on edge all the time.

"What happens when the enemy knows you're there?. They give you everything they've got. For about five minutes you just stand pat, wait, and then take him on."

These patrols aren't spur-of-the moment affairs. Orders are given some time beforehand and the men are instructed to move off at a certain hour and told when to return.

The patrol's commander and second-in-command decide on the route to avoid hedges and roads as much as possible and any other place where they might encounter a German position.

Often a patrol penetrates a German position unknowingly. This occurred on one Verge led.

"We reached a spot and suddenly a voice called out in English 'Who's there,'" Verge related. "The accent definitely was German. We just lay doggo for a while and the bombers engaged the caller. I think we got him but the rest of them opened fire on us and we didn't answer until they had stopped and then we opened up.

"Afterwards we returned to our positions by another route."

Two Liquor Permits Found On One Man

Wesley Johnston struck a bit of bad luck Wednesday night when he was picked up by the police.

In the first place he had a half-empty bottle of Canadian rye in his pocket and secondly he had two liquor permits.

This morning in police court he was charged with illegal possession of liquor and also with illegally possession two permits. He pleaded guilty on both counts and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs on each by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

His explanation of the two liquor permits was that he thought he had lost the first one and applied for another. Then the original permit had turned up.

"You failed to surrender it," commented the Magistrate and the accused admitted that that was so.

First Bottle Convinced Her Syntona Was Great Medicine

Was Nervous, Rundown and Full of Aches and Pains After a Serious Illness. Appetite Was Poor, Stomach Upset and She Couldn't Sleep.

All around us are grateful men and women who have used Syntona and found it to be just what they needed to put new energy in their rundown systems and to relieve common ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels. Syntona produces these results by cleansing the system of irritating waste matter and by aiding in the proper assimilation of food to build strong, healthy nerves and sound bodies. Here, for example, is the interesting experience of Mrs. Olive Spring, 14 Keith Street, Hamilton, as verified only recently:

"Last summer I had a serious illness and it left me very nervous and rundown. I suffered with dizzy, bilious spells, backache, headaches, and there were pains all through my arms and shoulders. Sometimes those pains were so bad I couldn't even sit up or do light work like knitting. At night gas crowded into my chest so badly I couldn't sleep. For the longest time I couldn't seem to regain my strength and I just dreaded the thought of all the work that had to be done.

"It was then that Syntona was recommended to me, and I must say I began to feel better before I had finished my first bottle. It relieved me of that stomach gas, dizzy spells and headaches, so my nerves were better and I could sleep. Then, as I continued with the medicine the pains gradually went away and my energy returned. For several months now, I have been able to do all the work for my family and I feel more happy and healthy in every way."

MRS. OLIVE SPRING.

Let this grand herbal tonic help you as it has hundreds of other local men and women. Syntona is pleasant to take and it contains no harmful drugs or depressors.

Go to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

COBOURG

Farmers Find Situation Much Improved

COBOURG, Nov. 4—(ENS)—Following one of the most hectic spring seasons in history, Northumberland County may be said to have had a satisfactory year in 1943. Agricultural representative R. C. Banbury points out that nearly all farm factors were favorable in the final analysis, except cereal grains. The seed situation is serious but there is believed to be sufficient available if each farmer will get his supplies now.

No one should feel secure who has not suitable seed stored in his granary before Christmas, he said. If Western grain were not available, and if the farmer did not have fair returns from his other crops with which to purchase concentrates, their situation would have been sad indeed, but the production of milk was good and income from this source satisfactory. With a keen demand for cows, money was made from sales to the United States, and butter production was enhanced owing to favorable prices and need of a supply of skim milk on which to raise surplus heifers, with a consequent reduction in cheese production.

All canning crops have given fair returns and in each class some phenomenal fields and yields have been reported. In potatoes and cabbage, great quantities have moved to the dehydrating plants, and outlet bringing considerable returns, which did not previously enter into the pictures. Barns are bulging with hay, corn crops were good and it may be said that roughage has seldom been more plentiful. In consequnce ruminants and horses will winter well, but there is some doubt regarding milk production unless second cut clover and alfalfa is available, as protein feeds, such as oil cake, are almost impossible to secure. Some of the surplus dollars will go for feed grain needed to keep the pigs and poultry producing, but on many farms there will be more money for the Victory Loan Bonds than was available last fall.

The apple crop has been a fair one with all factors better than anticipated. With the wet spring, spraying was difficult and a high percentage of cull apples, owing to fungus spots, was expected. Excellent weather during the fall months, however, tended to cut this down and good progress was made in picking, packing, and storing. No small part of this work was done by women, who in ordinary times, did not help with farm work. Some uncertainty was caused by anticipated ceiling prices but it seems to have worked out fairly satisfactory. The mark-up of 7 cents per hamper, or 20 cents per barrel for December and the 10 cents for each following month per bushel is encouraging cold storage and those are filled to capacity. Others with common storage are finding ready sale.

Young People Hold Conference

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 4. — (ENS).—The Young People's Congress of the Cobourg Presbytery held its second meeting of the season (the first ever held in Campbellford) here Wednesday night when Rev. Manson Doyle, B.D., of Toronto, was the principal speaker and delivered a spiritual message at the close.

As a preliminary to the meeting of the main body in the evening, some forty members of the executive met at six o'clock at St. John's United church, where they sat down to a supper and followed this by a general discussion of plans. By eight o'clock registration was complete and there were ninety names tabulated representing groups from Baltimore, Bethesda S., Canborne, Carmen, Colborne, Frankford, Hilton, Plainville, Roseneath, Shiloh, English Line, Hoards, Stockdale. Miss Helen White of Port Hope, took the roll call and Mr. Edgar Buttar, of Plainville, the Presbytery president, presided for the meeting.

The session got under way after a short sing song conducted by Arnold Bates of Campbellford and Miss Loretta MacDougal, Peterborough. Baltimore Young People took charge of the worship service and this was followed by an official welcome on behalf of the local organization by its president, Miss Leitha Mitchell.

Give Suggestions.

Eight department conveners, named at the Port Hope meeting last April, were called on and each in turn gave his plans for the year. The suggestion that each Union should have its leadership training convener was made by Rev. Floyd Honey, Baltimore, who neads that department and Rev. G. N. Maxwell, religious training convener, discussed the annual program. Other conveners to report were Marguerite Macklin, Fellowship; Vera Arkles, Missionary; Harold Pitcher, Citizenship; Muriel Kennedy, Culture, Ruby Macklin, Dramatics; Kay Hibbert, Publications.

Mr. Doyle was introduced to the gathering by Rev. G. N. Maxwell and he told them not to let the fact that there was a war which had created other things which must be done, allow them to drop Christian activity, for "if the world is ever to have peace and permanent liberty it will be through the establishment of Christian principals." Dr. Doyle declared one reason for the existence of the church was to produce personalities that would be willing to make sacrifices for Christ's sake and for no other reason. In his opinion Christians required to become more realistic and more outspoken in the social group.

Strike Ended Coal Miners Given Increase

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—(AP).—Coal mines in the United States returned slowly to production today, released from the grip of a paralyzing three-day strike by an agreement increasing the bituminous miners' earnings at least $1.50 a day or about $11.50 for a six-day week.

The miners, after virtually ignoring the appeal of President Roosevelt to report for work yesterday, started back to the pits on orders of John L. Lewis, president, and other officers of the United Mine Workers who advised them of a satisfactory agreement" with Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, the U.S. fuels boss.

The War Labour Board said it would consider the agreement "first thing" today.

While the reaction among the miners was generally favorable actual coal digging was slow to get under way. Normal production before next week was considered unlikely at many mines.

Have No Contract.

The union miners have been without a contract since May 1. There have been four strikes this year as a direct outcome of the wage arguments and President Roosevelt has ordered the mines seized by the United States Government twice. Originally, the U.M.W. asked approximately $2 a day more pay boost; some operators offered 88 cents. The Illinois contract, offered as a model, provided $1.50. The War Labor Board said $1.12½ could be approved but more than that would violate the hold-the-line policy against inflation.

If the W.L.B. approves the $1.50 boost, it will do so under its own interpretation of the wage stabilization policy. The miners will get more money but will mean increased working time in most cases. They will get paid for underground travel time, but only after 40 hours a week. Another possible result is higher coal prices, a factor the agreement did not mention. Increases probably would vary between 15 and 45 cents a ton.

Girls' Club Begins Winter Activities

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 4 (ENS)—Girls' Club work is off to a good start for the winter months according to reports made by the secretaries of the parent organizations. The group sponsored by the Seymour East branch of the Institute and headed by Mrs. George Airhart has decided to meet on Thursday afternoons this season and a busy program is being planned.

To direct the destinies of the Janie Canucks throughout the coming months, the following officers were named—president, Dorothy Eagleson; vice-president, Muriel Todd; secretary, Enid Hay; treasurer, Shirley Hutcheon; press reporter, Mrs. Doris Thompson; pianist, Marjorie Wallace.

At their first meeting held in Connelley's school the group sponsored by the Seymour West Women's Institute, held its first meeting which was called by the leader, Mrs. Mac Waddell. Still undecided as to the name for their Club they left that matter till the next meeting and discussed instead materials for club work and record books. The following officers were named—president, Betty McCulloch; secretary, Leita Kelly; song leader, Barbara Long; press reporter, Arlie Bright.

Members Of Canadian Corvette Receive Awards For Rescue Work

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 — (CP). — It's become mere routine for the Canadian corvette Morden to pick up survivors at sea—she already has rescued 357 shipwrecked persons in the past year —but her latest exploit, rescuing the full complement of a torpedoed merchant freighter, has brought awards to three crew members.

In addition to picking up the 102 man crew of the disabled ship the Morden put a skeleton crew aboard a launch salvaged from the freighter and they piloted it safely to port after a hazardous 300-mile trip through storm-tossed waters.

In a press release describing the action, the Navy did not reveal its time and place.

For his work one of the Morden's officers, Lieut. Douglas Watson, R.C.N.R., of Westmount, Que., and Timmins, Ont., was made a Member of the British Empire, while the corvette's commanding officer, Lieut. J. J. Hodgkinson, R.C.N.R., of Verdun, Que., and Saint John's, Nfld., was mentioned in dispatches, as was Chief Petty Officer Howard English, R. C. N. R., of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The freighter, one of a large convoy which Morden was helping to escort, fell out after a direct hit by a bomb during an enemy air attack, and the corvette was ordered to stand by and escort her.

The crew was ordered to abandon her when it became apparent the freighter would sink. They made their way in lifeboats to the escorting corvette and were taken aboard.

When Lieut. Hodgkinson called for volunteers from his crew to form a party to board the sinking ship, 69 men volunteered. Only 13, including Lieut. Watson, were picked for the job. They boarded the ship to cut adrift three motor launches on deck.

Two were cut loose, but the third was left because the bomb had pierced the bottom.

Their job completed, the boarding party went to their lifeboat to go back to the corvette, but a scramble net became entangled in the propellor, and for a few moments the men were in danger of

Reflections On The Coal Strike

With winter almost at hand, Canada has been confronted with the largest strike of coal miners in her history. The fuel situation in the country was bad before the first of November, as everyone knows; now there is an emergency which may develop to any proportions. How has this come about?

The grievance of the miners is this: they were the first workers in Canada to sign a contract which froze their wages at the pre-war level for the duration of the war and one year afterward; the pre-war wage and the cost-of-living bonus was to be their reward for essential war work. At that time such agreements were not compulsory, and it was not until two years later that they became compulsory. During those two years, the miners claim, workers in other and easier jobs managed to boost their wages above the level of mine wages, and when they made their contracts they were frozen at these high wages, and got the cost-of-living bonus as well. The miners demanded more pay and threatened to strike; a commission was formed to look into their grievance and things were going along quite well until John L. Lewis decided to call a strike in the U.S. Our western miners had no choice; in trade-union democracy everybody jumps when the Big Boss cracks the whip.

The situation could scarcely be more humiliating for Canada. A union boss in the U.S. has more influence with our miners than our own government; his demands are more potent with them than the demands of patriotism, or loyalty to the cause for which thousands of their fellow-Canadians are fighting; the followers of Hitler are not more abject in their submission to the master's will. John L. Lewis has a private war with the government of the United States, and so Canadians face a desperate shortage of fuel. Is it any wonder that Fascists think democracy a feeble and impractical political philosophy?

It is difficult to see what the miners in Canada can hope to gain by their strike. Negotiations to deal with their special problem were under way, but they have come to a dead stop now. The strike in our west goes on although the U.S. strike is now over. Whatever the American strikers got out of it, the Canadian strikers stand to lose. Now they are not getting even the wages which they thought unsatisfactory, and the adjustment made in the U.S. will not mean a raise in pay for them; they will have to deal with the government of Canada.

Does anyone either in labour or management really think that it is a good thing for Canadian labour to be controlled from outside Canada? Is membership in an "international" union really a good thing for a Canadian worker? In the present instance the Canadian miners stand to lose heavily because they were tied to an American union, like a can to the tail of a dog, and had no right to speak for themselves. Canadian labour will always be too small to have an effective voice in American squabbles. What persuades Canadian workers to accept this poor-relation status, striking for something which is no affair of theirs? Does it give them any satisfaction to feel that they are creating an unprecedented shortage of essential goods? Do they like sabotaging the war effort? We do not think so. Why then have they been so stupid, and so dead to every dictate of patriotism and citizenship as to hitch themselves to a machine over which they have no control? The government has declared the western strike illegal. True, it is that. But it is also pathetic and half-baked. The western miners are apparently organized only in order that they may not have to think, and act, as sensible men.

Churchill has been offered a quarter of a million dollars by an American publisher to write his own story of the war when it is over. Peanuts! That book will be cheap at a million!

Two Significant Dispatches

Two dispatches have arrived in our office which, read together, should have significance for every Canadian. The first from Madrid, tells of inflation in France. The Spanish press reports that "the present cost of a glass of wine in any cafe would have fed a whole family in a good restaurant in 1939". A man's suit of clothes is reported to cost 12,000 francs. An ordinary meal costs 500 francs. A cheap radio sells for 10,000 francs. Necessary food is to be found only on the black market, and even the employees of the Vichy government who are retained to investigate black market abuses buy their food there, and are demanding raises in pay in order that they may be able to afford the extortionate prices.

The second dispatch is from Ottawa, and it concerns the cost-of-living bonus in Canada. The bonus is to be increased on the 15th of this month. But if it should be necessary to make an adjustment to stabilize the cost of living, and to keep the wage dollar at its present value, the government will do it by means of subsidies rather than by further increases in the bonus. The government is determined to maintain its policy of price-ceilings.

The significance of these dispatches is clear. We in Canada have been lucky in our system of price controls; our cost of living has increased, but within reason. We know nothing of the misery which is caused by the sort of inflation reported from unhappy France. We must make sure that nothing of that sort happens here. And we can only do that by supporting the policy of ceilings on prices and wages with all our power, and throwing the full weight of public opinion against any attempt to pierce the ceilings. As for the black marketeers, if they do not know what horror they can bring to Canada by their manipulations, they must be taught a sharp lesson. One thing is clear, however, and that is that the black market will soon disappear if it has no customers. Anyone who buys black market goods is a saboteur, and should be regarded as one by every loyal citizen.

Death Of a Great Romantic

The death of Max Reinhardt at the age of seventy takes a great romantic from the stage of life and from the theatre. Reinhardt had the grand manner. His productions were grandly conceived and grandly carried out. Sometimes the grandeur swamped them, but more often it revealed the true nature of the play in hand. Readers of du Maurier's Trilby will remember Svengali, the pianist who took the music of other men and added a greatness to it which was peculiarly his own; they will also remember that Svengali was unable to do this with the music of the great masters. The same thing might be said of Reinhardt. he could take a play which fell just short of greatness and illuminate it with his own genius; when he approached really great plays the results were often disastrous.

It is unfortunate that Max Reinhardt was best known on this continent for a particularly clumsy, over-ornate and vulgar movie of A Midsummer Night's Dream. That was a bad example of what happened when Reinhardt attempted to tamper with the work of a great dramatist; in that movie Shakespeare and Reinhardt met and clashed, and the result was an incoherent mess. But playgoers who remember The Miracle, or who recall his fine production of Everyman, know what a great director Max Reinhardt was. In his own field he was without a rival

He did more than any other man to shape the German stage of his time. Performances at his Kleines Theatre, and later at his Kammerspielhaus, revolutionized European ideas of what theatrical entertainment was, and how a play should be presented. Reinhardt was one of the great men of modern German art. But he was a Jew, and so when Adolf Hitler came to power he had to leave Germany, and leave the great Salzburg festival which he had done so much to build, and seek his fortune in other lands. But he never deserted his great ideals; he lived in a world where money did not exist where people had no feelings, and where nothing was impossible, and working upon these articles of belief he brought greatness to the theatre wherever he went. He will long be remembered for his contributions to theatrical art

Citizens' Forum — "Of Things To Come"

By J. R. MITCHELL
President, Ont. Secondary School Teachers' Federation

THIS great educational project is the culmination of a series of conferences on "Education for Reconstruction," the most recent of which assembled at Macdonald College, Que., on September 10, 11 and 12. That conference, sponsored by the Canadian Association for Adult Education, was attended by one hundred and sixty-five persons representing one hundred and twenty educational organizations. Among the delegates were men and women from the ranks of business, industry and labour; from the professions and the armed forces; from men's service clubs and women's organizations. In this diversified group, representing a cross-section of Canadian society, there emerged a unanimity of belief that a better society can be evolved in the world of tomorrow and that the time to plan for improved conditions must not be delayed.

IT IS impossible in a brief space to give expression to all the decisions of an eventful three-day conference but some of the basic conclusions are herewith summarized:—

1. A program of education for reconstruction must aim primarily at the preservation of our democratic way of life. Democracy can function only if there is a considerable body of informed public opinion.

2. It is the duty of every citizen to assume responsibility for the future well-being of our people both in relation to internal and external affairs. This is a responsibility which cannot be delegated. Leaders of themselves cannot assure for our people a happy and prosperous future.

3. The objective in a program of education for reconstruction must be idealistic as well as realistic. Our people desire economic security, but that should be the result rather than the aim. A lofty ideal to capture the imagination and inspire our people both as individuals and as a nation to put forth their supreme effort in attaining a high degree of culture is the only aim worthy of our support.

4. The program must be such as will reach out to the individual to create in him a sense of dignity and importance. The individual citizen must feel a sense of community fellowship and an awareness of participation in achievement that is worth-while.

5. The task of reconstruction is by no means an easy one. It will require effort equivalent to that required in carrying on the war. It will mean struggle, unpleasantness and sacrifice, but the war has demonstrated that individuals and nations are prepared to sacrifice for a worthy objective.

TO achieve the desired objectives, the conference drew up many concrete plans and recommendations which will utilize various mediums, including radio, films, lectures and discussion groups. It was decided to give immediate attention to a "citizens' radio forum" program.

In the first place, a series of national radio broadcasts on a variety of topics concerning reconstruction will be initiated over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network, on November 16 at 8:30 p.m., and continued each Tuesday at the same hour for twenty-three weeks. These programs will be supplemented by printed material relative to the topic of broadcast. This material may be obtained at least one week in advance of the broadcast. The purpose of the broadcasts, which will be given in dialogue form by nationally known individuals, is to provide some information of an authoritative nature which will stimulate discussion. The main objective is to secure a maximum of individual participation. Thousands of citizens across Canada will listen to the broadcasts as individuals. This is desirable, but the primary objective is the formation of "forum groups" in every city, town, village and hamlet of the Dominion; groups of people who will listen to the broadcasts, discuss the problems and issues raised and thus prepare themselve for community action, at the appropriate time, in making the world a better place to live in.

THE office of the Canadian Association for Adult Education will act as a clearing house to co-ordinate the work across the provinces. A headquarters office has been established in each province from which assistance and direction will be given to agencies, in cities, towns and villages, interested in organizing discussion groups within their own municipality. Such agencies may obtain from the provincial office (1) printed material for distribution to leaders, which will be useful in the formation and conduct of local or community groups, and (2) printed forms on which weekly progress reports may be submitted. It is hoped that a small portion of the broadcast time may be devoted to reports from "forum groups." All communications for Ontario headquarters should be addressed "Citizens' Forum"; Simcoe Hall, University of Toronto, Toronto.

ANY active organization which meets regularly may decide to meet on Tuesday evenings and adopt "Citizens' Forum" as its program for the season, or community groups may be organized for the specific purpose. The group should be a small one. It may be a club or society; it may consist of three or four couples living in the same "neighbourhood." Some one must take the initiative in organizing a "forum," but everyone in the group should be encouraged to express himself freely and frankly. Each group should elect a secretary who will keep in close touch with his city or town organization or with the provincial office.

The following points to help make a local Citizens' Forum successful have been suggested by Mr. K. W. Gordon, Assistant Director, Department of University Extension, University of Saskatchewan:—

(a) Regular attendance.

(b) Everyone on hand at the beginning of the broadcast.

(c) Study material (sent out the previous week) read and digested.

(d) A lively discussion after each broadcast.

(e) A written record kept of conclusions reached and points discussed at each meeting.

(f) A brief report sent in to provincial headquarters each week.

(g) Distribution of study material for the next meeting.

(h) Appointment of a discussion leader for the next meeting.

The persons responsible for this educational program have undertaken it in a spirit of adventure, believing that through the creation of an informed public opinion new meaning may be given to our democratic way of life. As a result, conclusions may be formed and constructive activities initiated at community, municipal, provincial or national level. Democracy will function most efficiently when action proceeds from the community toward the centralized authority as well as from the central authority toward the community.

Literacy Is Not Enough

THE idealistic proponents of universal education believe that people able to read and write would automatically be wiser and more capable of intelligent self-government than illiterates. But we are beginning to learn that mere literacy is not enough. People who think like savages can continue to do so even after learning to read. As the result of the necessary abstractness of our vocabulary, general literacy has often had the effect of merely making our savagery more complicated and difficult to deal with than it was under conditions of illiteracy. And, as we have also seen, rapidity and ease of communication often make savagery infectious. Universal literacy has brought new problems of its own.

Because words are such a powerful instrument, we have in many ways a superstitious awe rather than an understanding of them — and even if we have no awe, we tend at least to have an undue respect for them. For example, when someone in the audience at a meeting asks the speaker a question, and when the speaker makes a long and plausible series of noises without answering it, sometimes both the questioner and the speaker fail to notice that the question has not been answered; they both sit down apparently perfectly satisfied. That is to say, the mere fact that an appropriate-sounding set of noises has been made satisfies some people that a statement has been made; thereupon they accept and sometimes memorize that set of noises, serenely confident that it answers a question or solves a problem....This undue regard for words makes us tend to permit words to act as barriers between us and reality, instead of as guides to reality.—From "Language in Action," by S. I. Hayakawa. (New York: Harcourt, Brace.)

Whitehall Notebook

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Nov. 4 (CP)—"What," asked one, "became of Ja Ja's £10,000?" and, asked another, "is the minister of agriculture aware that the Essex War Agriculture Executive Committee has issued a letter head 'OUR REF. H.Q.-TD-F. STUFFS-DH-(1)B 886-MM?' "

Such are the problems the British M.P.'s throw at their ministers in question time, the hour set aside each ordinary sitting day to answer the multitudinous queries which sprout throughout the land.

But Ja Ja was a bit out of the ordinary, even in the variety of 445 questions down for one session.

Ja Ja has been dead these 50 years, and forgotten until a Labour M.P. came across the information that the British Government of 1892 had promised to pay his descendants £10,000 compensation for his death in exile from his native Nigeria.

Ja Ja, it turned out, was a former slave, freed in 1867, who founded the Nigerian town of Opobo. But the coming of British traders led to friction and they exiled Ja Ja in 1887, an act which promoted an irked foreign secretary, Lord Salisbury, to order it cancelled.

The order, however, arrived too late and Ja Ja roamed for five years, then died on his way home in 1892.

He was granted a state funeral and the British Government promised compensation — but not before 30 years and not after 50. The 50 years were up in 1942.

And what, asks the Labour member, is being done about it?

The colonial office admits the claim but is snarled up in doubts about Ja Ja's heirs and by loss of the documents involved.

The Ja Ja case is not typical of question time but it is an indication of the purpose it serves. The hour in the past has remedied grievances, changed government policy, led to legislation, provided the government with a mine of information.

Some queries are answered orally, others in written form. Each minister answers only questions which relate to his responsibilities. The prime minister replies to questions regarding defence and any matter which concerns more than one department.

Keeping Little Fellows that Way

(THE PRINTED WORD)

THE Toronto Daily Star suggests every now and then that the principle of the excess-profits tax should continue after the war. The excess-profits tax in this war, and in somewhat different form in the last war, is a political device designed to prevent persons and corporations from profiting in money from wartime prosperity when so many of our citizens suffer in blood. The theory is splendid. The practice is quite effective in most instances.

Proposing that such a tax be a peacetime feature of our economy may strike citizens as a good idea, especially in these times when there are politicians battening on the theme that it is a sin to make money. We think that such a tax in peacetime would be all right if it were properly named—not an excess-profits tax but rather "A tax to prevent up-and-coming young men and women from going places."

Perhaps the Toronto Star wouldn't care, but we think that it would not now, with its weekly, have become Canada's largest consumer of newsprint if there had been an excess-profits tax through the years of its spectacular growth. It not only would mean that the Star's own profits would have been fixed on a standard prevailing in its early years, but it would have meant that many of the Star's present advertisers would not have grown to the point where they could afford to become the great and successful advertisers they are. And it would have been bad for the previously-established Telegram, for that paper could have viewed with equanimity the unequal struggle of an ambitious rival in the Toronto journalistic field held down to a picayune standard profit. The Telegram would not have had to be on its toes.

An alternative name for a peacetime excess-profits tax would be "A tax to prevent little fellows from competing with big fellows." Present rules makes excess-profits taxes apply to annual incomes of more than $5,000. John Wanamaker, one of the great merchants of his time, and his company still one of the world's great advertisers, would have had to stay pretty small. That is, if there is truth in the legend that he bought his first stock on credit and spent all his first day's sales income ($40) on advertising for the next day.

What chance would the Timothy Eatons and Robert Simpsons of future generations have if future Ilsleys established a standard which kept everyone small in the future and seemingly guaranteed that everyone now large would stay that way.

If the descendants of the early immigrants who came to this country because it was a land of opportunity have inherited any of the ambition of their parents, this proposal of the Toronto Star will not be popular—if understood.

A Bible Message

Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?

And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.

And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat. (Gen. 3: 1-6.)

On Being Kept Track Of

Not long ago, a Canadian immigration offic[ial] was heard to remark, as regards travel acro[ss] the boundary, that he hoped that the regulatio[n] requiring passports would continue. He said [it] helped to keep track of people.

And now comes a Canadian Press dispatc[h] from Ottawa suggesting that some Ottawa pe[o]ple think it might be a good thing to contin[ue] national registration in time of peace. Provinci[al] authorities, it is argued, find the registratio[n] cards useful in various ways, including the sa[le] of liquor. And they also help in cashing [a] cheque.

Being skeptical of "think" stories that come o[ut] of bureaucratic centres, we suggest mildly th[at] the Ottawa report is the product of some ci[vil] service brains which have been realizing that [it] would be a shame if all that neat filing syste[m] established in 1940 to learn which of us can m[ilk] a cow were discarded after the war. It's a fili[ng] system that must make a lot of jobs. It would [be] a pity, from the bureaucratic point of view, if t[he] filers were sent out into a cruel, hard world [to] do something useful.

As for keeping track of people, there may be few people so strangely unorthodox, in the[se] times, as to think that free people who are la[w]abiding should not be kept track of. Parents a[nd] wives and sons and daughters and other re[la]tives, not to mention neighbours, do a fair [job] without the assistance of a perpetual nation[al] registration. And if a citizen who is not want[ed] by the police doesn't want to be kept track [of] officially he should have that privilege.

It used to be his privilege. Why not again? The Printed Word.

Speaking of Great Mistake[s]

William Green's statement in Louisville th[at] Stabilization Director Vinson's veto of an 8 ce[nt] an hour raise for non-operating railroad e[m]ployees was "the greatest economic mistake in [the] history of the world" is exaggeration stretch[ed] beyond the point of hyperbole. Even allow[ing] some rhetorical license to a supercharged spe[ak]er, how is the president of the American Fede[ra]tion of Labour going to describe, for exam[ple] the labour decrees of the Hitler regime if [the] language he has applied to Mr. Vinson's or[der] is even remotely applicable? Or has Mr. Gr[een] forgotten altogether that the enemy of [this] country these days is the Axis instead of [the] Board of Economic Stabilization?....

He goes further. He says that whatever po[licy] the rail workers adopt, the 6,000,000 members [of] the A.F.L. will support it. In other words, if [the] rail workers throw overboard the no-st[rike] pledge, so will the A.F.L. What is that excep[t a] promise to stand behind the rail workers [in] whatever course they take, however reckless? The Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky.

Committee Formed To Make Plans For An Artificial Ice Arena

Mayor Hamilton unloosed a lively spirit of community enterprise for an artificial ice rink at the public meeting he convened Wednesday night in the council chamber. All its seats were occupied with what might be called a cross section of Peterborough's sports supporters, a representative gathering of fans facing the sheer necessity of putting this city back on the hockey map of Ontario as soon as possible.

Sentiment was unanimously in favour of action, and it then remained only for the appointment of a provisional committee to get things started.

The organizing committee named last night was: Alderman Bradburn, representing the city council; Fred Cripps, Retail Merchants; Bob Abbott, industrial heads; J. E. Thomas, Curling Club; Alderman R. M. Glover, Peterborough Hockey Club; George A. Macdonald, Chamber of Commerce; Ted Weir, Bill Johnston, Charlie Cummer, Lou Ingram, Harold L. Garner, John R. Marshall, and the service club heads: Alderman Adam Sands, Mort Riddell, Dick Raine and Jim Dutton, Jr.

This group was requested by Mayor Hamilton to undertake the preliminary details of nominating a slate of officers and considering the first steps toward financing and generally promoting the project of a new artificial ice rink.

The prospects for providing a modern home for winter sports in this city were stoutly bolstered by the report of Alderman Bradburn, Frank Buckland and J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, indicating the satisfactory returns from the new rinks in St. Catharines and Owen Sound.

Civic Undertaking.

The Owen Sound rink is a civic property, seating 1,900. Their first year receipts were $38,548 and expenses $20,468, Mr. Dorris said, assuming that principal and interest charges were included in the statement. At the present time the Owen Sound management has a surplus of $20,000.

The accommodation of the St. Catharines arena is 3,207 and about 1,000 standing room. It is equipped for operation only during the winter months, in contrast with Owen Sound who planned for an all year round community centre.

The St. Catharines revenue for the season of 1941-42 was $25,390 and expenses $15,630. Mr. Dorris reminded the assembly that when an artificial ice arena was discussed some years ago when Carl Salmonsen was here, the accommodation then contemplated was around 3,200, and it was ascertained that when that figure got up around 5,000, the building cost estimates advanced 40 per cent.

The recent good reports brought back from St. Catharines by Alderman Bradburn and Alderman Sullivan and Mayor Hamilton were endorsed by Mr. Buckland and also by the financial statements which Mr. Dorris had obtained from both those cities.

Mr. Buckland said Owen Sound's rink bonds sold at $103 when the city's credit was placed behind it, and that premium paid for a sectional floor which was used after the hockey season ended. He strongly recommended the floor detail as a means of extending the production revenue through the summer.

Discussion last night was partly reminiscent as well as projecting forward into the nearest future that will permit the rink being undertaken, and Mr. Buckland reminded the fans that, during the years of his management, the teams were never able to get off on the right foot because ice was generally not available until the turn of the year. The best season any of the Buckland teams had in early fitness was one year when they went twice to Oshawa for pre-season practice.

Winter Attraction.

Alderman Glover was called by Mayor Hamilton as the first speaker. His topics in favor of a new rink were the need of community attractions during the long winter period; the liveliness which a good hockey season stimulates among the people, and especially among men who come here from other places to work; also the provision of a means of expression for the 'teen age youth of the city, and the aid to health of mind and body and morale.

Alderman R. S. Cotton recalled that the plans of a rink which were drafted when Colonel Ackerman was trying to persuade the city to

By FRED D. CRAIG

The attendance at the citizens' meeting called by Mayor Hamilton last night to considering ways and means of organizing a campaign to give Peterborough a modern artificial ice arena after the war and the enthusiasm shown at the gathering gave a most encouraging start to the drive. It was apparent that the representative citizens who attended were thoroughly sold on the need of such an arena in this community and determined to do everything possible to put the thing over and with a spirit like that in evidence the campaign cannot fail to go over the top. The committee that was appointed to consider the details of the proposition and to draw up concrete proposals will inspire general confidence for it is made up of well-known citizens whose judgment can be relied upon and who are of the calibre needed to give effective leadership to a drive of this nature. With such a start and with public opinion in the city firmly massed behind the scheme the drive to supply a community asset that has long been needed here is well on its way. Peterborough, once it is aroused to the desirability of such propositions as this, has never failed to measure up to the challenge and there is small likelihood of it failing in this particular effort, the success of which will mean so much to this city and surrounding district.

Canadians and Yanks in Italy find time between attacks to work in softball battles, Capt. Jack Baird, former Peterborough softball player and fan who is in Italy with the Canadian artillery declares in an airgraph message to this column, dated October 8. "The bigger game of war is going well for us all," writes Captain Baird. "By the way I still play softball. We play the Yanks' team on their airport diamond in between raids." The Peterborough soldier says that he felt very badly when he heard of the passing of Shrimp McDougall and Norman Lewis. "Both good chaps and will be greatly missed by the sporting fraternity" is his tribute. Capt. Baird adds "Padre Zufelt (Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, formerly pastor of Knox Church) is with us and we manage to see the odd Examiner away over here in Sicily and Italy."

Another former Peterborough athlete has been heard from. He is none other than Bob Doll, the American infielder who played a lot of third base for the Peterborough ball club a few years ago. Doll, a good fielder and a timely hitter was a tower of strength to the Petes and he was one of the most popular "imports" to wear a local uniform. Local fans liked his playing and liked him for his many good qualities. They will be interested in learning that the former Peterborough third-sacker is far away from home right now. He is at present in Iran where he is serving with the United States Army Air Corps. J. J. Dorris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and former secretary of the ball club has received a message from Doll written from the Middle East.

Another Chance, Or Is It?

Ever since Gentleman Jack Clayborne lost his last bout with Killer John Katan by diving out through the ropes in trying to nail the Panther with a flying tackle the South African has been begging Promoter Frank Tunney for a chance to come back to Peterborough and reinstate himself in the good graces of the local fans. The Black Comet has appreciated the support he has got from Peterborough followers of the mat game and he has been down in the dumps ever since the last Katan bout, feeling that he rather let his friends here down. Clayborne, of course, points out that he was the victim of a tough break. Had that tackle landed on Katan the fall would undoubtedly have gone to the colored grappler. But the Panther ducked, Clayborne sailed through the ropes to crash on the arena floor and his big chance had gone. Now he wants an opportunity to come back. Katan, naturally, refuses to meet him again—for the present at least. "I have beaten that bird three times in four bouts and should have made it four straight if Maxwell had been on the job," the Palermo battler declares and that is that.

* * * * * *

Promoter Tunney however has decided to give Clayborne another opportunity to prove his worth before Peterborough fans. He is tossing the Black Comet in against none other than Jan Gotch in the main bout here next Tuesday night. If Clayborne can hand the works to that back-alley fighter he will have more than regained his popularity with Peterborough fans. Gotch, centre figure in the stormy session here Tuesday night became one of Peterborough's pet hates by reason of the unsportsmanlike manner in which he dealt with Pat Flanagan. The Toronto Irishman has a host of friends here and they are resentful over the treatment accorded him by Gotch. To pick up a helpless opponent, slam him down on the canvas and then kick him in the face and all this after the bout was officially over was too strenuous a demonstration and the only feeling that fandom here has in regard to the match billed for next Tuesday is one of fervent hope that Clayborne will take the rowdy Gotch apart and leave him that way. So far as Peterborough followers of the game are concerned the colored battler can forget all about being called "Gentleman Jack" on that occasion. They want to see him take the conqueror of Pat Flanagan for a memorable ride.

Still on Oven Footing

Hamilton Wildcats and the Toronto R.C.A.F Hurricanes are still tied for the senior O.R.F.U. leadership with Balmy Beach breathing on the backs of their necks. The Krol-sparked Cats had an easy time last night walloping the Toronto Indians in a flood-light game 32 to 0. The Hamilton team was much too strong for the Earl Selkirk outfit, despite the fact that Joe Krol only contributed one scoring point. Flying Wing Peterson was the big gun in the Wildcats win. In an afternoon game in Toronto the Hurricanes tucked away a fighting Navy squad 16 to 10. The Fliers kept Fred Kijek, Bob Cosgrove and Mike Ozarko out of the lineup to rest up from injuries but had enough left to set the pace throughout the battle. And apparently it was a battle for the service rivals fought it out all along the line and the officials were kept busy handling out penalties. The Navy boys would have loved to hand the Hurricanes a trimming and they gave everything they had in an endeavor to do that very thing. Now the rugby interest will settle on the Balmy Beach-Hurricane battle on Saturday. It should be a honey.

Says the Ottawa Journal: When the late Knute Rockne was making gridiron history with great Notre Dame teams they used to say they called them "The Fighting Irish" because the Irish had to fight so hard to get a place on the team.... A glance over the current Notre Dame powerhouse reveals the situation unchanged with such "Celts" as Bertelli, Perko, Czarobaoski, Yonakor, Rykovich, Mello, Kuffel, Berzney, Signaigo Ruggerio, Szymanski, Stratuto, Lujack, Kulbitski Palladino, Duncewicz, Terlep and Nemen....And by some of the inquiries heard in the past few weeks there'll be at least a few Ottawa men who find business in New York coinciding with the Notre-Dame-Army game... If confidence means anything Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack will be right at home filling the shoes of the great Angelo Bertelli, who has played his last game with Frank Leahy's squad.... When Leahy handed over the quarterback assignment to Lujack, he said: "I think you will be an outstanding success." Replied Lujack: "I think I will, too."....

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Kingston Army Frontenacs came from far behind to tie the Boston Bruins in an exhibition game last night. The N.H.L. outfit set up an early lead but Kingston caught them coming down the stretch....The run of the game does not indicate that the Bruins set any new record in backchecking during that final period....Peterborough hockey was represented on both teams with Bill Calladine playing for Boston....The annual banquet of the Girls' Softball League is billed for a week from tonight....Incidentally the draw conducted by the league in aid of the British War Victims and the Peterborough Corvette fund is proving a great success and tickets are going rapidly ...The Girls' Basketball League gets under way a week from Friday with a double-header.

Big London Bout Again Postponed

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 4—(CP)—A sparring partner threw a punch in the final grooming of a championship contender and knocked Britain's most extravagant and ill-fated fight of all time into a cocked hat.

The match was a controversial affair with a vacant British and Empire heavyweight titles at stake. It collapsed finally, when giant Jack London went to hospital just four day before he was to face "Fearless Freddie" Mills in a London club with limited space and luxury prices.

The latest communique from the Queensbury Club, the scheduled fight scene, said there was a prospect of the two scrappers meeting in about two months' time. Many ring followers and sport writers, however, feel that if the fight is held at all, it will be an open air event next summer with austerity admission prices prevailing.

Indefinite postponement came after London, at 217 pounds the biggest gent in the professional ring, suffered an injured rib during a final training bout. A medical report said he was unfit to fight for some time. The fellow who caused the injury was Tom Reddington, a medium-class heavy never credited with possessing a powerful punch.

Meanwhile Mills was busily bashing his hired help in a London gymnasium. He had put two to sleep and was working on a third when word of the accident came through.

London Much Heavier

Mills, no midget himself, holds the British and Empire heavyweight crowns. He was to meet a much heftier man. London, a former West Hartlepool docker, would have entered the ring with at least a 35-pound edge. Both are the same height—five feet, 10 inches.

These two air force physical training sergeants were first scheduled to decide ownership of the heavy crowns at a Birmingham football ground last August. A month previously, London injured a shoulder and the classic was postponed.

When they met previously, in a non-title bout nearly two years ago both were ascending the fistic ladder and Mills took a decision. London at that time was recovering from a shoulder injury.

Following the Birmingham postponement, the fight was tranferred to London's Queensbury Club with seats limited to 1,750 and the prices ranging from $115 ringside to $9. That brought howls from the press and public who claimed the arrangement barred the little man who was the very backbone of the game.

Mills and London were to draw a purse of more than $15,400 for the scheduled 15-rounder. Now they must sign fresh contracts for the bout but before doing so, Mills, through his manager, canny Ted Broadribb, is demanding that London's backers post a $2,200 forfeit to guarantee his appearance in the ring.

Outboard Marine Wins Fraser Cup

The Fraser Cup, emblematic of the championship of the Industrial Softball League was presented by the donor to the winning Outboard Marines club at an enjoyable banquet in their honor tendered by the Johnson Motors Social and Athletic Association in the Empress Hotel Tuesday evening.

In presenting the trophy bearing his name to the champions, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., stressed the value of sport in war time as a morale builder for industrial workers and also as a developer of the team spirit that was essential to a successful war effort.

The cup was accepted by Manager Jack Heffernan and he, Coach Gordon Webb and chief rooter Dick Fowler, spoke briefly.

Three executives of the league, Deb. Hillier, Clarence Corbett and L. L. Maguire were guests of the Association.

Clarence B. Neal was the efficient chairman of the very enjoyable function.

HURRICANES TROUNCE NAVY 16-10; WILDCATS DOWN INDIANS 32-0

Winners Tied In Top Spot Beaches Close

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Balmy Beaches are strictly quantity "X" today in one of the most puzzling play-off problems the Ontario Rugby Football Union has presented in several seasons.

Everything depends on Beaches. They're three points behind the co-leading Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, but Beaches have two games to play while Wildcats and Hurricanes have only one left—and the Airmen's lone remaining contest is against Beaches in Toronto Saturday.

If football form stands up, the race for the Union's two play-off positions should rest strictly between Beaches and Hurricanes. Wildcats appear almost certain to clinch one of the contending spots by sinking Toronto Navy in Hamilton Saturday. Beaches, on the other hand, must defeat Hurricanes Saturday and Navy in Toronto next Wednesday to enter sudden-death playdowns Nov. 13 for the right to meet the Quebec Rugby Union representative Nov. 20.

Scrambled

The standings were left in this scrambled state as an aftermath to yesterday's O.R.F.U. doubleheader, Wildcats crushing Toronto Indians 32-0 under floodlights at Hamilton and Hurricanes trouncing Navy 16-10 in an afternoon game at Varsity Stadium devoted to promoting Bond sales in Canada's Fifth Victory Loan.

The Hamilton-Indian encounter was simply a breeze for Wildcats. Their top scorer, long Joe Krol, was held to a single point but the power which enabled Hamilton to accumulate 203 scoring points in nine league games exploded in other parts of the lineup. Paul Peterson collected two touchdowns, Art Stollery contributed six points on a touchdown and convert while Eddie Remegis and (Polly) Niocinovich tallied a touchdown apiece.

The Toronto game between the two all-service rivals was featured by a pre-game parade. At half-time the R.C.A.F. pipe band from Centralia, Ont., played while an Army gun crew gave a demonstration of Bofors gun handling. Screen stars Gail Patrick and Pat O'Brien were unable to attend.

Touchdowns by LAC. Red Heron and AC2. Doug Smylie, both converted by Sgt. Charlie Prince, plus a placement and single by Prince gave Hurricanes their victory. OS. Steve Karry scored his first touchdown of the season for Navy and kicked a single. Other Navy points went to OS. Sandy Milne, who was good for a placement and a single.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 — (AP). — Credit an assist to Dud de Groot, Rochester U. coach, on Sammy Baugh's new pro football passing records. It was De Groot, spotting from the stands, who saw that the Dodgers' defence was bunched and tipped Sammy to throw long passes instead of short ones....Jimmy Jamieson, a good defence prospect whom the Rangers have parked with the Rovers until they need him, won't have the troubles that many hockey players encounter crossing the Canadian border....He's a full-blooded Cayuga Indian and members of his tribe are regarded as citizens of both the United States and Canada.

Angler Engel on it:

When E. T. Bales of the Chattanooga, Tenn., News-Free Press asked Joe Engel to explain why Branch Rickey first released Leo Durocher then re-hired him as Dodger manager, Joe remarked: "If a southern league owner pulled such a deal, the majors would brand it as nothing more than 'typical bush league,' but since I am a bush leaguer, the only thing I can say of the Brooklyn deal is that it is 'typical bush league.'"

Kingston Army Ties 9-9 With Boston

KINGSTON, Nov. 4—With a wild last-period stampede Kingston came from behind to earn a nine-all tie with Boston Bruins in an exhibition game here last night. Boston built a 7-to-3 lead after the second period and added another at the start of the third, when Kingston rallied for six scores and the tie. During the game Dit Clapper presented a cheque to the Kingston Hall of Fame committee as a gift for the hockey memorial.

The largest crowd in the history of the Jock Harty Arena was thrilled at the wide-open game. Bill Cowley starred for Boston, figuring in eight of the Bruins' goals.

Boston: Goal, Gardiner; defense, H. Jackson, Clapper; centre, Cowley, wings, Cain, Guidolin; subs, Hollett, Calladine, Scherza, Aubuchon, Boyd, Art Jackson.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Only the old-timers will remember when Bob Fitzsimmons won a 20-round decision over George Gardner for the light-heavyweight boxing championship of the world 40 years ago tonight at San Francisco. It was billed as the first battle for the title in that division but actually Gardner won the crown with a 12-round knockout over Jack Root at Fort Erie, Ontario four months earlier.

Fans Flocking To NHL Games

By The Canadian Press

It may well be that assorted witticisms directed at the National Hockey League this season have served to whet the public appetite for a glimpse of what the League has to offer.

The first fire games have drawn an aggregate of more than 60,000 fans although N.H.L. team moguls are the first to admit that the calibre of clubs riddled by enlistments and other wartime regulations is below previous seasons.

Whether the booming attendance is simply due to early-season curiosity about the league's combination of extreme age and extreme youth or whether it may be an all-season condition may be clarified somewhat in the two games scheduled for tonight.

In one the Toronto Maple Leafs, fresh from victories over New York Rangers and Chicago Blackhawks, play the Detroit Red Wings, who won their one start from Rangers, in Detroit. In the other the Montreal Canadiens, who played Boston Bruins to a tie and defeated Rangers, play the winless Black Hawks in Chicago.

Tonight's game in Detroit will provide the stiffest test yet for the Leafs and such stand-out rookie performers as centre Gus Bodnar and defenceman Elwin Morris. Jack Adams has an imposing number of last year's team available and is the choice of some of the experts to lead the league handily.

TORONTO, Nov. 4—(CP)—Will someone please explain why all-round athletes so often name rugby football as the game they like best? Football players get only about one game a week and for that they sweat through two-hour practices four or five nights a week. Injuries are more common than in any other game. In some ways the game is less spectacular than hockey or baseball.

Take the case of Elwin Morris, rookie defenceman of Toronto's National Hockey League Leafs. Morris, a high-class senior baseball shortstop, was a clever football player with Toronto Argos and, last year, with Toronto Navy.

When Morris joined the Leafs I asked him which game he liked best. "Well," he hesitated. "I guess now I'd better say hockey." But he finally broke down and admitted football is his first love. "I guess it's the body contact," he said. "There's a real thrill in smacking into a line or planting some fellow with a good tackle."

Maybe in Morris' case, football took first place because he hit top ranking in that game first. In 1940-41 he was a well-regarded backfielder with Argos. In the same years he was only a so-so hockey player with Toronto Marlboros, first as junior, then senior. He didn't find himself as a hockey player until he became a star last season with Toronto Navy.

"I don't know what hapened last year but I suddenly gained confidence," said Elwin. "Coach Pick Hines helped me a lot." Morris, now 22, took longer in finding himself as a hockey player than most. At that his case doesn't approach that of Ching Johnson, the former New York Rangers star who never played organized hockey until he was 21.

Morris joined the Navy here in December, 1942, and was discharged last June 7 for physical reasons. He's stocky, carrying 187 pounds on his five-foot seven frame.

Hap Day paired him on Leafs' defence with Babe Pratt. "Morris can carry the puck," said Day, "but he's the kind of player who will stay back and take care of the defence while Pratt makes use of his puck-carrying ability. They make a good team."

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Hal Trosky, former heavy-hitting first-baseman of the Cleveland Indians, yesterday came out of voluntary retirement to be restored to the active player list and a prospect for the winter's trading deals in major league circles. Trosky dropped out of circulation two years ago for a variety of reasons including the recurrence of headaches.

Apart from the chronic head condition, Trosky had grievances, one of which was a cut from $19,000 to $10,000 in the contract which was offered him for the 1942 season by Roger Peckinpaugh which the player rejected. He also resented the charge he was responsible for the 1940 rebellion against manager Oscar Vitt claiming he was only one of the participants, and he took a dislike to playing in Cleveland stadium where home runs were hard to get. So he remained on the farm in Iowa. Trosky is married, now has three children and will be 31 next week, all of which will keep him from the army for some time. Cleveland would sell him, however.

William Cox, owner of the Phillies, announced yesterday the club was practically set for 1943 except for catchers. The Phils have added Charley Ehanz, a 15-game twirler from San Diego; outfielder Hal Pike, purchased from Indianapolis; infielder Ford Mullen, bought from Seattle, and pitcher Dale Mathewson, recalled from Trenton, N.J., as well as Charles Letchas who was drafted from Toronto for second base.

Platter Comes In

Platter, owned by George E. Widener, yesterday raced to victory in the $40,520 Pimlico Futurity, the juvenile classic of the Maryland Jockey Club. The son of Pilate previously had been a non-winner but the crowd of 11,291 made him the favorite before post time.

That Canadian soldiers in Italy can have their sport arguments while the fighting is going on was revealed in a letter to an Ottawa newspaper, received yesterday, asking for information to settle a bet on whether King Clancy had ever managed the Montreal Maroons. The answer was yes, for six months in 1936-37.

Slide Rule finished three lengths ahead of Boysy in the muddy going at Empire yesterday to capture the $30,000 Westchester Handicap, closing-day feature of the Fall meeting at New York.

Western Finals Start Saturday

WINNIPEG, Nov. 4. — (CP).— Winnipeg R.C.A.F. bombers, seeking the seventh successive Western Canada football championship for the Manitoba capital, and their opponents, Regina All-Service Roughriders, put their finishing touches to training to-day for the opening of the two-game total-point title series here Saturday.

Bombers have a good chance to bring home the championship said Coach Reg Threlfall of the defending champions, while Coach Dean Griffing of Regina predicts the Airmen are going to get "quite a surprise."

Griffing now says Roughriders, who have lost three league games to Winnipeg's gridders, 10.2, 29-0 and 34-24, were "lousy" all season because they were not able to send a full team into those battles. This week, he said, the full team have been working together while he has added a new experienced player, had one injured man return, and two others are now travelling at their best lick.

Coldwell Raps Strike Methods

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, expressed today in a telegram to Marcel Francq, secretary of the Quebec Provincial Federation of Labor, his "condemnation" of the Government's use of troops and the arrest of labor organizers in the aluminum strike at Shawinigan Falls, Que., "instead of applying a proper labor policy."

The wire was made public today by Mr. Coldwell's office.

Mr. Coldwell said the C.C.F. had urged a national labor policy to enable "rapid and just" resolution of disputes and "absence of such a policy" had been "solely responsible for most of the work stoppages which have interfered with necessary war production."

Russians Cart Piano With Artillery

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Nov 4 — (AP). — A piano, it seems, is sometimes as essential to a soldier as a gun.

You find out about such little things of a big war from soldiers such as Vasily Nikiforvich Marko, a smiling, laughing Ukrainian lieutenant who has arrived in Moscow from the Southern Front for a well-earned rest.

Vasily sat down to have a little talk, but I saw that he was in a hurry.

"Why the hurry?" I asked him. "You have been hurrying after the Germans so long, why don't you take a rest? Or are you rushing off to a girl?"

Vasily's broad face broke into a wide grin.

"No," he said, "my girl Im sure of. It's my violin I'm worrying about. She is such a fickle mistress. I've got to get her some new strings."

I told Vasily it must be nice to get back after the rigors of war to be able to sit down and play again.

"Oh, no," he said, "my violin, she is at the front with my Tovarich. She goes everywhere."

"A violin at the front and you carry it?" I asked.

"Of course I carry my violin. Do you know," he explained, "our company carries a piano with it."

"A piano?"

"Sure," he said, "a real piano. We have carried it for many months. To a Ukrainian music is as important as food and ammunition."

Vasily said every time his unit encamps and there is time for tea and rest, they unload the piano.

He explained the piano is transported along with the big guns. It almost received a direct hit once, and there was great rejoicing when it was found safe.

"I feel more tied in in Moscow than at the front," Vasily said, yawning. "Good-bye. I've give your regards to our piano."

Rapid transit in Canada's metropolitan cities in 1868—and up to as late as 1891—meant a legal maximum of 6 miles per hour. Even so the horses usually lasted only a year in the service. The driver's wage was $1.20 for a 12 hour day.

WAR accelerates the inventive genius of man. It was war that first gave rise to the preserving of foods in bottles and cans. France offered a prize for some method of keeping nourishing foods fresh and good over extended periods for her armed forces. In 1812 Nicolas Appert won it and established the world's first cannery.

Since that time, and more particularly since Libby's establishment 75 years ago (31 years manufacturing in Canada), modern processing methods have been developed to capture and preserve the garden-fresh goodness of the choicest fruits and vegetables. Many of Libby's more than 100 foods are recognized as excellent sources of vitamins, calories, minerals and phosphates. Every can and bottle bearing the Libby's Label offers you perfected quality and exquisite flavour consistently maintained in every pack.

To attain and maintain such superb quality, Libby's interest in the finished product begins in many cases with the seed. Libby's "Gentle Press" Tomato Juice, for instance, owes much of its overwhelming popularity to Libby's own work with the growers in developing tomatoes heavily laden with juice rich in Vitamins A and C. If you don't agree it is the most delicious Tomato juice you've ever tasted, return the label and Libby's will pay you double the purchase price.

MILLBROOK

Women To Help In Guide Work

MILLBROOK, Nov. 4 (ENS). — The initial meeting of the women's organization which has been formed to stand behind the local Girl Guide movement, was held in the school library Monday evening, with the chairman, Mrs. T. A. Campbell, taking charge, and Captain Honor Gibson, of the Guides, giving much necessary information in regard to the business of the hour.

The matter of supplying the girls with uniforms was discussed, the cost being reported as $3.15 for the dress, $1.25 for the hat, 75 cents for the belt and 15 cents for the tie—$5.30 in all. Since the original plan of buying a bolt of material and making the dresses had to be abandoned owing to war conditions, it was decided to have the uniforms purchased from headquarters in Toronto, and to help the girls with the expense involved the local Company will hold a "Cookie Day" on Saturday, November 13, orders being taken beforehand, and the women present offering to help in supplying the cookies. Other women will be asked to help with this enterprise, and also will be urged to join the association. Those present paid the fee of 25 cents per year.

Full Cheque

Captain Gibson reported that she must send the full amount for the uniforms in the cheque remitted to headquarters when the uniforms are ordered, and with over thirty Guides enrolled, this will amount to approximately $180.

The leader also extended a warm welcome to any member of the Association to attend the regular Guide meetings, held Thursdays at the school at 7 p.m., and assured the ladies that, as far as possible, the girls will buy their own uniforms, urging that they be given opportunity to earn money toward that end, in the home and otherwise, as fully as may be feasible.

The local Guide Company has been divided into five patrols, the leaders and their seconds including: Wrens: Francis Tickner and Margaret Elson; Swallows: Betty Thornton and Melba Ball; Scarlet Tanagers: Kathryn Elson and Dorothy Coulter; Kingfishers: Ada Earl and Lola Gardiner; Blue Birds: Mary Sanderson and Rosemary Stinson.

"Now we must all buy more War Savings Certificates"

The Rules are Easy

THESE are the health-protective foods. Be sure you eat them every day.

MILK—½ pint for adults, more than 1 pint for children (evaporated or bottled). And cheese as available.

FRUITS—One serving daily of tomato or citrus fruits or their juices and one serving of other fruit.

VEGETABLES—(in addition to potatoes)—two servings, preferably leafy green, or yellow, and frequently raw.

CEREALS AND BREAD—one serving of a whole-grain cereal and 4 to 6 slices of Canada Approved bread.

MEAT, FISH, etc—one serving a day—liver, heart or kidney once a week.

EGGS—at least 3 or 4 weekly.

Then add other foods you wish.

National nutritionists place milk first in the food programme. Irradiated Carnation Milk provides all the food values of milk, whether you drink it or "eat" it in cooked foods and frozen desserts—and an extra amount of "sunshine" vitamin D. It is a safe, convenient, economical milk supply.

"My children are protected with all the Vitamins and Minerals they need"

What a comfort for a mother to be able to say that! She just follows the simple rule of serving 3 average-good meals a day and Ovaltine night and morning.

Authorities say 3 out of 4 people are under-par—undernourished—for lack of enough Vitamins and Minerals. But experts agree with 3 average-good meals a day and Ovaltine you are getting all the extra vitamins and minerals you can profitably use—except Vitamin C which is plentiful in fruit juices.

Ovaltine is recognized not only as a rich source of vitamins and minerals but, equally important, as a well-balanced dietary food supplement prescribed by doctors the world over for those who are thin, nervous or under-par.

So don't worry about vitamins and minerals. Rely on Ovaltine to give you all the extra ones you can use—in addition to its other well-known benefits. Just follow this recipe for better health—

Fifteenth Day Of Fifth Victory Loan Canvass In Peterborough Falls Short By $70,000

Peterborough's subscription of the Victory Loan Wednesday was $138,100, increasing the accumulated total to $3,905,000, leaving for the last three days of the campaign $695,000 to level off at the objective of $4,600,000.

Diivsional returns yesterday were City General Canvass $85,450, Rural General Canvass $36,100, and Employees' Canvass $16,550 total, $138,100.

Actually Peterborough City and County, with their combined subscription of $138,100 failed by $70,000 in round numbers to raise the day's required amount of $208,275. The deficit for Wednesday, on the basis of reaching the objective at the end of the week, was $70,175.

That lapse in making the daily ends meet imposes an increase on the average for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Daily subscriptions from here in must be at least $231,666. Otherwise, Peterborough is going to reports its first Victory Loan defeat.

The changing story of the progress of the Peterborough campaign takes on a definitely grim aspect since the Fifth Victory Loan drive began.

As a matter of still comforting fact the cumulative objective at the end of the fifteenth day was still showing a plus sign, 84.89, as against 83.32. That safety margin has been pared down to 1.57, sharpening the anxiety for success not only in official circles, but also among the people of the city and county who have so far done everything expected of them on the "home front."

City Sustains Effort.

The city general canvass passed the million dollar mark yesterday to $1,049,200 as compared with $963,750 on Tuesday night, a percentage advance from 62.18 to 67.69, an improvement of 5.51, only fractionally below the day's required percentage of 5.55. And the city's objective of $1,550,000.

Rural Peterborough turned in subscriptions for $36,100, up from $425,600 to $461,700; and a percentage improvement from 70.93 to 76.95, a gain of 6.02 points as against the day's required percentage of 5.55.

The Employees' Canvass increased by $16,550 from $817,550 to $824,100. Their percentage gain was only 1.75, from 86.05 to 87.8. The employees' section is only 12 points from their 100 per cent, and at headquarters there is a feeling of confidence that the remaining subscriptions from the industrial front will carry through to their objective.

The problem, therefore, remains with the general public in the city and county, and their task has taken on the weight of $231,666 daily to Saturday night. Possibly the two special days, Thursday's appeal to all canvassers for a concentrated effort, and Friday's hope in bank depositors turning more of their funds into Victory Bonds, may have the desired effect of raising approximately half a million dollars. If there is still any shortage as the campaign begins its last day— but that prospect might as well be left for scrutiny from the viewpoint of the eleventh hour.

County Survey.

Ten of the twelve municipalities in the county contributed to the subscription increases Wednesday.

North Monaghan headed the procession with $5,950, equivalent to 17 points in the percentage column, and bringing them to absolute certainty of attaining their objective. The township stood last night at the 99.14 per cent mark.

The northern townships, Harvey, Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther, were second with $5,600 for 12.45 per cent.

Lakefield was third: $5,500, or 9.17 per cent improvement.

Asphodel reported $5,450 for 14.34 points in the percentage column, fourth in the day's advances.

Otonabee with $5,000 was fifth. Norwood $4,350, Ennismore $2.600, Dummer $700, Smith $500 and Belmont-Methuen $450.

Havelock and Douro were silent yesterday.

Those were the cash conversions into Bonds. The corresponding percentage points in order transferred Ennismore to the top for Wednesday with 21.67, and the others in order were: North Monaghan 17, Asphodel 14.34, Harvey Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos 12.45, Lakefield 9.17, Norwood 7.55, Otonabee 3.85, Dummer 2.06, Belmont-Methuen 1.8, and Smith .56.

Summary of Totals.

The city-county summary at the end of Wednesday, reading across the column: Objective, amount subscribed, and percentage, follows:

City General Canvass— $1,550,000; $1,049,200; 67.69.
North Monaghan—$35,000; $34,700; 99.14.
Otonabee—$130,000; $96,350; 74.12.
Asphodel— $38,000; $33,050; 86.97.
Norwood — $58,000; $39,150; 67.55.
Smith — $90,000; $76,850; 85.39.
Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos — $45,000; $34,150; 75.89
Lakefield— $60,000; $37,050; 61.75.
Ennismore— $12,000; $8,600; 71.67.
Douro — $35,000; $18,950; 54.14.
Dummer — $34,000; $21,700; 63.82.
Belmont-Methuen — $25,000; $21,800; 87.2.
Havelock— $38,000; $39,350; 103.55.

The rural sections and other divisions ahead of the required percentage Wednesday night were: Special Names section, Havelock, North Monaghan; Employers' Canvass, Belmont-Methuen, Asphodel, and Smith.

Those were the campaign leaders as the third last day's effort began. Attention to-day will be fixed on that remaining percentage margin of 1.57, and how it fares when the Thursday tabulation is made up this evening.

Rural Changes.

In the rural standing yesterday, Havelock was coasting in front. North Monaghan gained two places from fourth to second, displacing Belmont-Methuen, which moved back to third. Asphodel was up one to fourth, and Smith retreated from third to fifth.

The four northern townships advanced from seventh to sixth place; Otonabee lapsed from sixth to seventh; and Ennismore strode out of the last position to eighth. Norwood was unchanged in the ninth hole.

Dummer was down two to tenth, Lakefield was unchanged as eleventh, and Douro retreated to the twelfth spot.

The night attacks were the first large-scale raids since October 22, when R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers tore Kassel apart with more than 1,500 tons of high explosives and started fires that raged for a week.

Fog And Rain.

Since then fog and rain had prevented the R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and U.S. A.A.F. from continuing their big combined day and night smashes.

Yesterday, however, armadas of American planes—estimated unofficially to total more than 1,000, including fighters—took advantage of the weather break and bombed the North Sea port and naval base of Wilhelmshaven.

The attack was the seventh U.S. planes had made against that base and an official announcement yesterday said the load of bombs dropped was greater than in all the previous raids.

Bomber gunners also downed 18 German fighters while the fighters bagged another 16, which added to 11 bagged by the R.C.A.F. and three others shot down by R.A.F. fighters brought German plane losses for the day to 48.

This was exclusive of two reported down over England during the night as the Nazis staged another light nuisance raid. Some damage and casualties were reported.

Archer, Campbellford.

Dinner Given Col. Lawrie

A testimonial dinner was given in honor of Lt. Col. Douglas J. Lawrie, retiring commanding officer of the 43rd Field Regiment, in the Prince of Wales Rangers officers' mess at the Armouries Wednesday night, and the entire complement of the regiment's officers was on hand to pay their respects to the former leader of the 43rd, whose retirement came of effect on Oct. 16.

On behalf of the officers of the regiment, Hon. Capt. E. C. Moore presented Col. Lawrie with a cigarette case. In his remarks he stressed the long and hard work Col. Lawrie had given to the making the 43rd Regiment an effective and well-administered unit. He said that he had been impressed by the way the men at camp this summer had been taken care of by their commanding officer, who had been there himself and had looked after the needs of the men as if they had been his own sons. In these circumstances, Capt. Moore added, no parents needed to feel any hesitancy about having their sons away from home with the regiment.

Replying, Col. Lawrie expressed his warmest thanks and stated that the time inevitably comes when the oldsters must give way; that he felt that time had arrived for him, but that he retired with implicit confidence in the ability of the younger officers to carry on in the best traditions of the regiment.

Speaking also at the dinner were Major G. J. Edwards, now acting commanding officer of the 43rd; Major A. H. MacDonald, adjutant; Major G. H. Dundas, O.C of the Cobourg Battery; and Capt. Roy Phillips, O.C. 4th Reserve Heavy Anti-Aircraft Battery. Capt. G. W. Smith presided.

Smith Passes $90,000 In Loan

Farmers of Smith township cleared their Victory Loan objective of $90,000 this morning, following Havelock in the county communities going "over the top."

Subscriptions of $13,650, thrust the Smith total up to $90,500, and that total is likely to continue mounting before Saturday night closes down on the campaign.

Gordon Hancock, one of the township canvassers, associated with A. I. Edmison, brought in the good news to headquarters this morning.

"This canvassing work is really a wonderful experience," Mr. Hancock remarked to the Examiner at noon. "At house after house the people were waiting with the money. Not only were they prepared to help the Victory Loan, but they wanted Smith township at the top of things. Day after day you can't help but get a deeper feeling for the sentiment of Smith. It makes you feel glad to live in a community like that."

The report sheet shows Mr. Hancock handled the subscriptions of around $50,000, but his comment was that the credit belonged to the people of the township.

Victory Loan Sidelights

Some more returns from the group payroll section of the Victory Loan drive were announced by Jack Sinclair at headquarters this morning:—

Grand Hotel:—233 per cent of its objective.

Review Printing Company:—100 per cent of their objective.

J. K. Hughes:—100 per cent of their objective.

CHEX Broadcasting Company:—100 per cent of their objective.

Mr. Sinclair suggested that special mention be made of Hal Cooke of CHEX in making its objective. Nine of the staff had bought Bonds through their banks, but rather than turn in a CHEX report under that 100 per cent mark, Mr. Cooke did some extra financing himself to keep the record up to his standard for CHEX performance.

WO.-1 Albert Croasdale and his Royal Army Medical Corps Band from Camp Borden are returning to Peterborough around noon Friday. By popular request a special invitation was sent to them requesting them to return for the two closing days of the Victory Loan drive in Peterborough.

If the weather permits, the Band will make its first appearance in a parade from the Training Centre at 2 p.m. Friday. The route will be up George street to McDonnel street, to Aylmer, returning to George street. It is expected that a detachment of the soldiers in training at the Camp will accompany the Band on this parade.

The Army Corps Band will be heard in a concert over CHEX beginning at 9 p.m. Friday and another Saturday at 4 p.m.

S.S. 10 Emily Makes $30 For War Victims

It was indeed an inspiring scene at the stall on the market last Saturday in aid of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, to see the exuberance displayed by a group of students from School Section No. 10, Emily, and the zest with which they worked to dispose of the splendid display of homemade cooking and farm produce given them by citizens of this section to help the cause of the fund along for the special donations it is hoped can be cabled over a few days before Christmas.

Led by their teacher, Milburn Jones, who undoubtedly displayed real talent for guiding his charges in deeds of good for others, this group composed of Clifford Faulkner, Sherman Harrison, Gerald Blackwell, Donald McPhail, Florence Bell and Jean Dunlop were quite happy in this service, and through good organizing in the matter of securing donations to sell, as well as cash contributions, they rolled up a total effort which has seldom been passed for a school group operating the stall on behalf of the fund.

Chicken Donated

Through the sale of tickets for a draw on a chicken donated by Mrs. Vincent Jones, of R.R. No. 2, Omemee, they realized the sum of $6.80, which added to $18.10 from sales at the stall, and $5.35 received in cash donations give them a splendid total of $30.25 as their contribution towards the Christmas donations.

Their work on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain this year, could very well inspire other groups of school children to give a helping hand so that their brothers and sisters in Britain may have something of the real spirit of Christmas, for this same school turned in the results of another notable effort just prior to the summer recess from school duties last June.

The draw for the chicken was made by Miss Norma Cain and resulted in ticket No. 367 being drawn which gave the prize to N. Davis of R.R. 1 Omemee, thus sending it back close to the place from which it came.

Personal Giving Repeats

Personal giving has a really great force when it is repeated again and again, and when one has made thirty-three donations of $10 each, they must have done a tremendous amount of good from the total sum of money involved, besides giving one of the finest examples of a steadfastness of purpose in all the history of the fund's operations. The lady known under the contributing name of "In As Much" is credited today with her 33rd gift to the fund.

Next Saturday on the market, the stall will be operated and supplied by Mrs. John E. Parker of Norwood, this effort being particularly for the purpose of giving the Christmas Cheer fund for children a boost. It is another in the long series of assists that have been so beneficial to the fund by this one family.

Windsor Man Given 6 Months

Percy McGahey, Windsor, was sentenced to six months definite and three months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court Wednesday afternoon on a charge of obtaining $100 under false pretences from H. Sheldon Huffman, of Peterborough, to which he had pleaded guilty.

McGahey entered a plea of not guilty on a charge of beating a board bill of $8.95 at the Hotel Champlain, but was convicted on that count and sentenced to an additional five days in jail.

H. S. Huffman, in giving evidence, stated that he had seen an advertisement in The Examiner of a cruiser for sale. He had gone to the address, seen McGahey and bought the boat from him, paying $100. Later he had received a message from Windsor where McGahey had gone for the ostensible purpose of shipping the cruiser to Peterborough, stating that $75 more was needed to pay the charges, and he had sent that sum to the accused. The boat had never been delivered, the witness said.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., produced a record showing previous convictions against the accused on both sides of the border.

Defence Springs Surprise In Potato Case

Hearing of a charge against B. R. Strano of wholesaling potatoes to a number of local retailers at price higher than the ceiling price during the period came to a sudden halt in police court this morning when the production of another order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, asked for W. J. Arthur Fair, defence counsel, gave the case a different complexion.

Strano had been charged with selling potatoes at a wholesale price of $3.91 a bag around July 1st last and George Rogers, inspector for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had sworn that the wholesale ceiling price at that time as set forth in Order 236 was $3.01 a bag.

The inspector said in answer to a question from Mr. Fair that the potatoes were undoubtedly new American potatoes.

Mr. Fair called the attention of the witness to a bulletin issued by the board in which reference was made to Order 273 of the board setting a wholesale price of $5.50 per 100 lb. bag for new potatoes.

The witness stated that he had not a copy of Order 273 with him and at the request of the defence the court adjourned to allow him to produce a copy.

When the document was produced showing a ceiling price of $5.50 for new potatoes, Magistrate Gee adjourned the case until next week to allow Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who prosecuted for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board a chance to consult with the Board as to what action they wished to take under the circumstances.

At the opening of the court Mr. Gordon had announced that if Strano would plead guilty to the charges, similar charges that had been laid against Mrs. Strano would be withdrawn but Mr. Fair declined.

"We're here to plead not guilty," he declared.

Mrs. Frances Latimer, proprietor of Latimer's grocery, 235 McDonnel street testified to buying a bag of potatoes from Strano at $3.91 a bag and George Rogers, inspector for the board, produced a statement which he said had been signed by Strano in which the latter said that he had purchased ten bags of potatoes in Toronto for $3.01 a bag.

It was at this stage that the introduction of order 273 brought the proceedings to a halt.

McGinnis Testifies Blow On Head Leaves Mind Blank Over Shooting

LINDSAY, Nov. 4 — (ENS) — Howard McGinnis, 35, of Lindsay appearing in Supreme Court here Wednesday night, charged with the murder of William Howard, 31, an Indian of Peterborough, stated in evidence that his mind was a complete blank following a blow struck him on the head by Howard and that he had no recollection of anything that happened during the time he is alleged to have shot and killed the Indian.

Following an all-day session during which startling evidence was given by Mrs. Katherine Coursey of Peterborough, McGinnis was placed on the stand by his counsel, I. E. Weldon. He told of a long standing feud between himself and Howard concerning the affections of Mrs. Coursey and states that fear of the Indian had caused him to move away from his own residence.

The accused stated that he had lived with Mrs. Coursey from August 1939 up until the time he was called for army service in August, 1942. He was rejected but on returning home found that Mrs. Coursey had left to board at Albert Johnson's. Shortly afterwards she went to live as a boarder with Herbert Wendt where William Howard also was boarding.

Feared Howard

"When I went to visit Mrs. Coursey at Wendt's Howard beat me up," McGinnis said, "knocking me down and kicking my eye open. Later when I went to see Mrs. Coursey while she was living with Howard on George street, he again knocked me down and made threats about what he would do. Just before Christmas I happened to meet Mrs. Coursey on the street and was walking along with her when Howard drove up in a car. He jumped out and knocked me down. I ran away." McGinnis confessed that he was very much afraid of Howard who outweighed him by nearly one hundred pounds and stated that the Indian had even assaulted him in his house.

On the day that Howard met death the accused said he had been working at the Panel Veneer Company. During the day he, along with two other employees, Barney Mackins and Ralph Quibell, had drunk several pints of beer. The accused said he had taken two bottles of wine home with him and drank one along with Mackins before supper.

"When Mackins left," he said, "Mrs. Coursey came downstairs. It was the first that I knew she was in my rooms. We had supper together and I had several more drinks of wine. William Howard entered the house while Mrs. Coursey was washing the dishes. He called both her and myself abusive names and struck her across the mouth. I told him he better not start any trouble or I would call the police and he answered that he would break my neck. He threw the kettle at me and demanded a drink of wine. It was impossible to calm him down and he demanded Mrs. Coursey get her hat and coat, grabbing her by the throat and cursing her, swearing that he would slaughter the two of us."

Can't Remember

McGinnis told the court that he had tried to get around the cupboard to get out the door when Howard caught him kicking him in the legs and punching him on the forehead and on the ear knocking him into the hall.

"That is all I remember," he said "until someone pulled my hair and asked me to get up. I found that I was in jail and that it was the next morning. It only seemed like a few minutes. I showed the marks of Howard's blows to Drs. M. White and R. Parker as well as to the jail keeper."

The period of time for which McGinnis has no recollection is when he was alleged by police to have taken a shot gun out of the house. Borrowed shells from a neighbor, W. Johnston, and returned and shot Howard through the window.)

Startling evidence was given by Mrs. Katherine Coursey of Peterborough, the pretty 30-year-old brunette admitted that she had lived as a common-law wife with McGinnis some time previous to taking up resident with William Howard. Mrs. Coursey admitted that she was probably the cause of bad feelings existing between the two men.

Questioned by Prosecution Attorney W. B. Common, she stated that on the morning of February 6 she had told William Howard that she was going to leave him.

"I took my personal belongings", she said, "and went to where Howard McGinnis was staying at the Hudson home. He was at work but I stayed there and tidied up, later returning to George street to get the rest of my belongings." Mrs. Coursey said that McGinnis came home that night about 6 o'clock accompanied by another man. She stayed upstairs until the visitor had left and then came down and had supper with McGinnis. "There were two glasses on the table with a little wine in each" she stated.

"I was finishing the dishes when William Howard came in the front door."

In A Temper

Questioned as to Howard's condition, she stated that she thought he was drunk and that he was in very bad temper. He wanted to fight, she said, "and upset a dishpan of water. When McGinnis, who was outside came in, he was courteous towards the Indian and tried to calm him down. Howard asked McGinnis for a drink of wine and when the accused stated he had none, Howard called him a liar saying there was wine in the house and he was going to have a drink. He then started swearing, cursing and using abusive language."

"Did Howard have a grievance against McGinnis?" questioned Attorney Common.

Had A Grievance

"Yes, he had", answered the witness, "he thought that McGinnis was responsible for having him arrested one time for being drunk. He was also angered at my presence with McGinnis and made because he could not get a drink." Mrs. Coursey almost broke down as she told of the scene in the Hudson home. "When Howard slapped me across the mouth," she said, "McGinnis asked me to sit down but I just stood there screaming and crying. Howard picked up a glass and other things and threw them around the room swearing and cursing all the time. I tried to go out and he grabbed me by the arm and threw me back. He grabbed hold of McGinnis and pushed him out of the door and when I tried to get out he stopped me. Howard then argued with me and told me to get my hat and coat and go home with him. He said "I will kill you before I leave here if you don't go."

"When I refused to go, he backed me against the door, choking me. He picked up his windbreaker swinging it and knocking over the lamp chimney then I heard the sound of the window breaking and Howard slumped to the floor. He lay there all crumpled up and I had to push him aside to get out the door".

Several Fights

Cross-examined by defence counsel, I. E. Weldon, Mrs. Coursey stated that accused had been beaten up several times by the Indian, Howard, and admitted that he had also beaten her many times both at home and in public.

"I was afraid of him and afraid to go to the police," she said. "He even tore my clothes up and my goloshes so that I could not go out."

She said that two of the shotgun pellets fired through the window of the Hudson house had struck her and she had removed them herself while in jail, being held for preliminary hearing. Mrs. Coursey denied the accused having made the statement that he had a knife ready for Howard, as stated by W. Johnston, a previous witness.

Chief of Police R. H. Lawler gave evidence regarding his investigation and submitted a statement signed by McGinnis which read as follows: "I rented rooms in George Hudson's house. I went home from work that evening about 5 o'clock, Hudson was there. I was going to get cleaned up and go up town, but didn't get that far. I don't know why. Then it seemed a rumpus took place and I don't know what happened after that".

Constable Percy Mark told the court that following several hours search by police, he, accompanied by Provincial Constable C. Siple, had found McGinnis sleeping in a chair at the home of Albert Smoke.

"We could not waken him up so we carried him out to the car," he said. "There were some signs of intoxication but he walked into the police station straight enough."

Citizens Rallying To Call To Support Fifth Victory Loan In Peterborough

The spirit of the 'little more and how much it is' was manifesting itself in telephone calls to Victory Loan headquarters this morning as citizens were evidently rallying to the emergency appeal to subscribe that extra Bond.

One of those who telephoned this morning was R. H. Ruskin, 336 Aylmer street, who said he was reading the progress reports of the Loan, and the need for a special effort before the week ends. After scanning his budget he felt that he could buy another Bond, and requested that one of the canvassers call at his store. That is Jim Skinner's territory, and the Ruskin message was turned over to him.

Family Conference

Another telephone call was from a girl who reported that her family held a gathering of the clan last night to consider what they could do to help the cause, and as a result of that figuring of ways and means she was going to call at headquarters to buy another Bond.

Peterborough's emergency was gathering deeper seriousness at the George street office on estimates of th local canvass being down around $50,000. If that is the day's results when the summary is prepared late today, Peterborough is going to be behind its cumulative total for the first time since this campaign opened.

The Peterborough 'home front' has reached the 'backs to the wall' stage in the Fifth Victory Loan.

Lost 5 Nights Child 7 Lives

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (CP) — Jean Lariviere, seven-year-old son of Alde Lariviere, farmer of suburban Navan, was found alive Wednesday, after being lost for four days and five nights. He is now in hospital, in a serious condition from exposure.

The boy was found about a mile north of the Montreal road and six miles from the child's home. He had been missing since he wandered away from other children on the way to attend a Children's Mission at Orleans.

So-Ed Classes Are Ready To Start Work

A well-rounded educational, recreational and social program of a type not attempted before in Peterborough begins next week under the joint sponsorship of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. Called Social Education—"So-Ed" for short. It combines study groups, instruction in recreational skills and a social hour of dancing and games. Programs of this type have been inaugurated in numerous localities, and in recent years have achieved a wide popularity.

The program is to start next Tuesday, November 9 and meetings will be conducted on each Tuesday evening through December 14. Registrations are being accepted at both the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. and those interested are urged to join not later than Friday as not more than 150 persons can be accommodated in the program this season.

Designed to appeal to a wide range of interests, the So-Ed evenings will offer a group of study courses and courses in recreational skills to choose from, highlighted by qualified speakers who will conduct the various sessions and develop for discussion different topics dealt with in the courses. Five study groups running concurrently will be presented between 8:15 and 9:25 p.m.; six classes in recreational skills will follow between 9:35 and 10:35; and the evenings will be finished off with a social hour and get-together where everyone will have the chance to take part in games and dancing.

Special Courses

These are the titles of courses in the study group, with speakers' names following. "Effective Presiding": Rev. Dr. George Easton, Trinity United Church; R. L. Hale, Peterborough Collegiate; F. B. Smitheram, Peterborough Normal School; D. G. H. Melton, Dominion Woollens; Mrs. J. G. Wharry. "Your Life": G. A. MacDonald, De Laval; Miss Z. Slack, secretary Y.W.C.A. National Council; Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Murray Street Baptist church; J. Dutton, Wonder Bakeries; Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H.; Rev. J. D. Smart, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. "Of Things to Come": Dr. Lorna C. Thomas, and discussions based on C.B.C. broadcasts of the Citizens' Forum. "How Many Cents In Your Dollar": Maurice Holt, Household Finance; K. Jones, Prudential Life; R. E. MacDonald, Bank of Nova Scotia; C. H. Saunders, Richard Hall; J. E. Keyes, Bank of Commerce. "Reading for Busy People" will be conducted by J. M. Singleton, secretary, Peterborough Y. M. C. A.

Courses in recreational skills are as follows. "Musical Appreciation": Miss Isabel Weddell, Peterborough Collegiate; "Hobbies and Crafts": Robert Scrutton, Queen Mary School; N. Stricker, Normal School. "Talking of the Theatre": Mrs. Brenda Davies, former stage manager of the Old Vic Theatre, London, England. "How to Look at Pictures": Robertson Davies, Editor, Examiner. "Bridge": Mr. and Mrs. H. Barker, Mrs. R. F. Nott and W. Jones. "Recreational Leadership": Quirt McKinney, Normal School; Miss Z. Slack, secretary Y.W.C.A. National Council; Rev. George Kelly, Lakefield; Arnold Ward, secretary High Park Branch, Y.M.C.A., Toronto; Miss Roberta Kiefer, girls' work secretary, Y.W.C.A.

Directors for the social period following the evening courses will be Jack Marshall, Miss E. Slack, Arnold Ward and Laura Byrans.

Popcorn Vendor Purchases Victory Bond

A familiar and well-loved character to the people and children of Peterborough is Peter Cosieris.

Peter is the popcorn man who makes his daily rounds on the streets of Peterborough.

Every Victory Loan it is the privilege of the loan headquarters to write of the virtues of Peter. He was born in Greece, in Corinth, to be exact, and has been in Canada thirty years. On the 10th of March next, he has been in Peterborough seven years. When he left Greece, to make his fortune in greener fields, he had to leave his wife and daughter. Time has passed quickly and the war brought havoc, making it impossible to bring his wife to Canada. His daughter is now married and has two children of her own.

During every Victory Loan drive Peter buys a Victory Bond from Vic Tully, local canvasser. He knows full well the seriousness of this war. From time to time a little mail dribbles through the censors and he learns of the poverty, the cruelty and the misfortunes his loved ones are having to suffer. In Greece the homes are taken from the people, their crops are taken before they are hardly ready to be harvested, their farms are taken from them, all by the destroying Germans.

It is not possible for Peter to send money over to his loved ones so in his opinion the next best investment is Canada's Victory Bond. Peter is proud to live in Canada, and he enjoys living in Peterborough where he rooms at 338 Stewart street. He has staunch friends in Spiro Zakos and his wife, Sophia, better known as "Sophie," who are more or less the guardian angels of Peter. You see, he can't speak very good English, although he tries very hard, but even so, it is possible for the ordinary individual to know what he is trying to say.

Yesterday Victor Tully sold Peter a substantial Victory Bond. Yes, that bond will buy two five hundred pound bombs and three depth charges to send submarines to the bottom of the ocean and completely outfitting three soldiers, including all necessary equipment along with his bayonet and anti-gas equipment. How many can say they have bought as much?

When talking to Peter he said that he was going to let his money stay in Victory Bonds until the war was won and then he would like to go back to Greece.

Since he has been in Canada a very good friend of his passed on and left a wife and son behind. Peter is this young lad's godfather. John Bouris, for that is his name, is now ten years old and lives in Toronto. Peter is not just a godfather in name only, he is also a very worth-while godfather, in that he helps support John, and during the last Victory Loan drive purchased a bond for John, which will be turned over to him when he comes of age.

With such a spirit of patriotism and a good investment to boot, on the part of a Greek friend, will Canadians too not gather to the fold and put Canada's Victory Loan drive over the top?

Court Dismisses Jennings Charge

After a hearing which took most of the morning session of police court yesterday and spread into the afternoon, a charge against Alfred Jennings of failing to bring his car to a stop before entering Water street, was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

The crown called three civilian witnesses, four police officers and City Clerk E. A. Outram while Jennings and a young woman who had been in his car at the time testified for the defence. They both swore that Jennings had stopped his automobile before entering Water street on the night in question.

T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared for Jennings and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Declaring that in his opinion it was not a penalty case at all and that the remedy lay in a civil action, Magistrate Langley said that in his opinion the charge had not been proven beyond a reasonable doubt and therefore there would be a dismissal.

How To Deal With Huns, Main Problem

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP). — Complete long-term military occupation of Germany and destruction of all major German armaments industries after the war were among the possibilities mentioned in speculation here to-day on what was decided at the Moscow conference.

How far the foreign ministers reached definite agreement on those points has not been disclosed, but the communique issued at the conclusion of their meeting said the question of Germany's future had been taken up.

Main problems facing the Allies on how to deal with Germany after the surrender are:

1. When to deal with and whether to allow the continuance of any German government.

2. How to divide up the responsibility of occupation.

Partitioning Germany into zones of Russian, British, American and other Allied occupation spheres has been suggested, but the United States view, it was learned, is that the matter should be handled by an Allied commander-in-chief, perhaps under a joint commission.

Establishment of the advisory council to deal with Italy set a pattern for the type of committee which may be formed for Germany. It was announced at Moscow that those questions which were not finally decided were referred to commissions created to study them.

The European advisory commission to be established in London was considered here a likely parent body for subsidiary groups to deal with various regional problems as they arise.

Whom to deal with in defeated Germany hinges closely on the question of how military occupation is carried out. Also it depends on who presents the German surrender.

Officials here said this government would prefer to have Hitler or General Von Keitel, army chief of staff, sue for peace since then the German people could not proclaim later that they did not lose the war but had been betrayed, as they did after 1918.

Internal Unrest Flares Anew

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 4 (AP). — The Svenska Dagbladet, quoting reports from travellers reaching Malmoe from Denmark, said today that serious disturbances have occurred in Germany and that a state of emergency has been declared in many cities, including Berlin and Flensburg, on the German-Danish border.

Rumors of internal unrest in Germany first began to circulate in Stockholm more than a month ago but were still officially unconfirmed today. It was recalled, however, that following heavily Allied raids on German cities during recent months, strict military control had been decreed and a limited state of emergency enforced until normal conditions could be re-established.

Prisoner In Last War Takes $1,000 Bond

Henry Batten of North Monaghan who has been helping to keep North Monaghan's total close to the township's objective reported yesterday a subscription of $1,000 from a farm worker who was a prisoner in the last war.

He had made several other calls on this man who was badly wounded in the other victory over the Boches, and his three brothers were in that four-year conflict. He offered himself when the fighting started again, but his scars of 1914-18 and his years have left him at home.

However, this North Monaghan man had decided to have some part in the present war, at least in passing the ammunition, and he wrote his name for $1,000 which he saved out of his earnings, hoping that it would help a lot.

KEENE

Citizens Meet To Plan Program

KEENE, Nov. 4 — (ENS). — A meeting was held in the Town Hall on Monday of representatives of the village and community which was presided over by the Rev. George Murray. The purpose of this meeting was to form an organization which would look after the welfare of the community and especially that of the young people in providing places of recreation.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Fred Nelson; vice-presidents, Delbert Coward, Jack Bolin and Bob Renwick; secretary, Tom Weir; treasurer, Tom Gall; auditors, David McNevan and David McIntyre; Advisory and Building Committee, John Hope, Robert Keitel and Mac Short.

After the election of officers there was a discussion as to the work and program of this organization. It was the unanimous decision that a lobby for the open-air rink be erected at once and that it be well equipped. Ways and means of raising money were presented. Already subscriptions had been made to this work and it was decided to canvass the community for funds. The president and the secretary were appointed to confer with past organizations as to the community funds which have been lying idle for years.

Pupils Organize Hallowe'en Party

FAIRVIEW, Nov. 4 (ENS)—The schoolhouse of S.S. No. 11 Smith was the scene of a Hallowe'en masquerade Tuesday evening, when the teacher, Miss Olga Wilson, and her pupils entertained their parents and friends.

Prizes for costumes were awarded to Audrey Patton and to Bobby Cockburn.

Recitations were given by Jean Patton and Russell Bryce, and a two-part song by Mary Milburn, Audrey Patton, Caroline Trotter, Betty Cockburn and Naomi Trotter. Miss Wilson and her grade 8 pupils amused the audience with a number of humorous contests. Kenneth Patton provided music on the organ for community singing.

A feature of the evening was the inspection of the interior of the school which has just been decorated. The walls and ceiling are cream trimmed with blue and matching curtains on the windows. This work was done entirely by Miss Wilson and her pupils.

Elmer Milburn expressed appreciation for the splendid effort which had been put forth. Lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Factories Halt Production Of Cheese Lots

The weekly record of the seasonal progress of Ontario's farm industry has reaches the last of the harvest, the crop of turnips.

Apple picking is finished, dairy cattle are in the barns at night, cheese factories are closing for the winter or are on their last legs, the fall wheat seeding is more extensive than a year ago and has made good growth, and most of the fall plowing is done.

Durham says fall wheat acreage is 25 per cent more than 1942, and recent rains have developed "a fair top". Red clover seed has been spotty with few farmers reporting more than two bushels to the acre.

Two more weeks of good weather will be required to finish plowing.

Factories Close

Hastings county cheese factories are closing, and in Northumberland they will cease operating about the middle of this month. Peterborough mentions heavy runs of hogs to the Canada Packers.

Prince Edward flocks are laying well; flow of milk is one the decline; recent rains have filled the ditches and streams. Factories are still planning pumpkins.

Oxford county remarks that the quality of western grain has been satisfactory, and Holsteins are selling well privately and at auction.

Purchases Less

Purchases of feeder cattle are less than 50 per cent of what they were a year ago. Farm work in Lambton is well advanced. Weanling pigs are down to $2.50 and $3 each in Middlesex. Farmers in Simcoe continue "to market their sows and young pigs are difficult to sell."

Grade cows to freshen bring $125 to $150 in Frontenac, and auction prices of farm machinery are about at the level of the original prices paid to implement dealers. Many herds in Leeds are now stabled at night.

Plantagenet Egg and Poultry Co-Operative shipped 5 tons of dressed poultry last week, and Prescott-Russell farmers are still complaining about a scarcity of baling wire. Many Renfrew farm workers are now employed in bush lots and lumber camps.

British Prepare Burma Landings

NEW DELHI, Nov. 4 — (AP)—A heavy air offensive by British and American planes slashed at Japanese-held towns, railroads, and troop positions over wide areas of Burma yesterday, with all aircraft returning safely from the punishing attacks, two Allied communiques disclosed today.

(A Berlin broadcast quoting Tokyo dispatches asserted the Allies are "making further preparations for landings on the Burmese coast as well as on the Andaman and Nicobar Islands and perhaps on Sumatra," and that heavy fleet reinforcements had been sent to the Indian Ocean.)

The broadcast, heard in London by the ministry of information, said "four or five Anglo-American battleships, three or four aircraft carriers, seven or eight heavy cruisers and more than 10 destroyers have been transferred from the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean during the last few weeks."

Indian Choir Sings At Service

BEWDLEY, Nov. 4 (ENS). —An anniversary service was held Sunday at the Bethel United church when Rev. F. A. Craik, of St. James' United church, Peterborough, was the guest speaker.

The choir of Bethel church supplied the music in the morning service and in the evening the Indian choir of Alderville was in attendance. They sang three anthems.

Mr. Craik chose as his evening subject, 'What Think Ye of Christ?' Prior to the service, the oldest lady of the Alderville reserve, Mrs. Black, played the piano and led in a short service of hymn singing, then by request she sang a hymn in her own native tongue.

The minister of the Alderville church, Mr. H. Lander, was also present and in a few remarks he mentioned the absence of many young men in the choir. There are forty-three men from the little Indian reserve of Alderville in the armed forces.

HASTINGS

Trinity Church Has 80th Anniversary

HASTINGS, Nov. 4 (ENS)—The 80th anniversary of Trinity United Church Hastings was observed Sunday.

Interest was shown by a very large attendance. Rev. E. E. Pugsley of Norwood, was the guest speaker for the morning service and Rev. M. Murray of Keene for the evening service.

The choir was assisted by Mr. Charles Hemsley of Lakefield, who sang two solos at the morning service, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Hold Thou My Hand." For the evening service he chose "Out of the Depths." The choir numbers were "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates" and "Evening Peace." At the close of the evening service many stayed for a fireside hour in the basement, at which Mr. Hemsley gave an address.

Personals

Mrs. Grant Goodwin and daughter, Mary Teresa, of Brantford, and Mr. Joe Sullivan of Ennismore were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. F. Barry.

Mr. Felix O'Reilly, Misses Eleanor and Marion MacDonald of Oshawa, Miss Eileen Convey of Peterborough, and Miss Mary Farrell of Stirling were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Reilly.

Mrs. Dit Clapper has returned from Montreal where she visited friends and attended the hockey game.

Jane Eyre Once Again

Bonwit Teller

It was Rochester's dressing gown . . one of many . . which inspired this copper colored sheer wool dress. The double-breasted effect over the surplice closing is achieved by Victorian watch chains, a la Rochester.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE head of the English Department in one of New York's largest high schools tells us that the three most popular books in it year after year are Jane Eyre, Pride and Prejudice, and Little Women. Listed as "required," the 'teen-agers fight for them as if for the last piece of cake, and re-read them throughout the whole school year.

To these adolescents, Jane Eyre is not a story nearly a century old, but a tale of yesterday, perhaps fifteen years old. These unexpected facts may explain another Hollywood go at Jane and Rochester, a film played by Joan Fontaine and Orson Welles. Nor will the children any more than their grandmothers confuse Jane's Rochester with Jack Benny's.

Nettie Rosenstein, famous American fashion designer, has created a series of modish gowns inspired by the Victorian elegances which dress the new film. One of the frocks appears above.

Making Good Use of Apples By Serving Them Daily

By MARY MOORE

Would seven times a week be too often to serve apple desserts to you? With the markets full of them and some windfalls selling as low as $1.50 per bushel, it's our bounden duty to conserve this grade of apples during the fall—so that most of the fancy quality can be stored for mid-winter and spring consumption.

We decided to try the family's patience and discernment and at the same time satisfy their dessert appetite esthetically — but mainly to save money by using up the two bushels of windfalls two kind friends had left us.

First dinner we served apple fritters. This meant to make them perfect I had to leave the table after our main course and be the chef—sending Marianne in with little platterfuls of hot fritters to the dining-room, as they came from the pan. We shook a little powdered sugar over them and they were crusty and good. Here's how:

Emem's Apple Fritters

(This recipe calls for very little sugar.)

One cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup milk, 1 egg (yolk and white separated), 5 or 6 tart apples. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add milk to yolk and mix. Beat white well. Add milk and egg mix to dry mix, and fold in white. Core apples, but do not pare them, and cut each apple into rings, about four to each medium sized apple. Dip in butter, allowing as much batter to adhere to the apple rings as possible, and drop into deep hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. and fry until brown. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

We served the following mouth-watering dessert when we had no potatoes in our main course:

Apple Crow's Nest

Four tart apples, cored, pared and sliced, 1½ tablespoons butter ¾ cup sugar, 2½ teaspoons cinnamon, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup milk. Arrange apples in greased pie plate and dot with butter. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1½ teaspoons cinnamon. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and ¼ cup sugar together twice. Cut in shortening with a knife or finger-tips. Add enough milk gradually to make a soft dough. Spread over apples. Bake in hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. until apples are tender—it requires about 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out upside down. Mix remaining sugar and cinnamon and stir into tops of apples without disturbing too much. Serve hot with top milk, sprinkled with nuts — serve with whipped cream when available.

Applesauce Cake

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup thick unsweetened applesauce, 1 teaspoon each salt and cinamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1¾ cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda. Cream shortening, sugar and egg together. Dissolve soda in applesauce and add. Sift salt, cinnamon, and clove with part of the flour and add to the first mixture. Add enough more flour to make a fairly stiff batter. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 50 to 60 minutes (350 deg. Fahr.). One cup raisins is a common addition to applesauce cake.

One-Crust Apple Pie

Four large or six medium tart apples, ½ cup sugar, few grains nutmge, 1 tablespoon fat or butter, plain pastry, whipped cream or Baumert cheese. Wash, pare and core apples. Cut in thin slices. Put them in the bottom of pie pan and sprinkle with sugar and nutmeg. Dot with small bits of fat. Roll plain pastry thin and fit over the apples. Trim off edges of the pastry and press with fingers or fork to make fancy edge. Prick top to allow escape of steam. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 to bake 20 minutes more. If served warm this is delicious with unsweetened whipped cream (we tip a little from each bottle of jersey milk when we want it badly and it will whip), or if served cold use Baumert cheese as a topping. This is a good dessert for a meatless meal.

Apple Rice Pudding

One tablespoon gelatin, ½ cup rice boiled until tender in milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup heavy cream from top milk, whipped, 4 stewed or boiled quartered apples. Soak gelatin in 3 tablespoons cold water 5 minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Add rice, sugar, salt and vanilla. Mix well. Cool. Whip cream and add it and apples and fold into mixture. Mould or pile in dessert dishes. Serve cold. This is delicious and cheap and may be prepared in the morning and stood in refrigerator until moment of serving.

For Friday, November 5

Decisive and swift action may be most successfully applied to launching important projects, either new and ambitious enterprises, or old efforts that need a fresh infusion of new life and energy. This may best be atacked with individual initiative, since there is little promise of co-operation from those whose position or resources might be helpful. There may be opposition or obstruction, but in all be patient and persevering and bring tact to bear on difficult situations. As well be logical and reasonable.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a splendid opportunity to attend some important goal in a new direction, or to accelerate a lagging matter, by quick attack and initiative, although it may be necessary to surmount obstacles or peculiar circumstance, either by compromise with superiors or by very determined and direct action, based on wisdom and experiece or special skill. High marks of achievement may be reached by needed restraints, even with bold initiative and tact.

A child born on this day should have energy, enterprise, ambition, good judgment and initiative, with which to combat certain antagonisms in its career.

DOROTHY DIX

FAMILY QUARRELS TEAR DOWN DREAMS NEEDED IN MARRIAGE

Husband, Wife Reveal Illusions, Suspicious, Jealousies Never Afterward Retrieved.

DEAR MISS DIX—When husbands and wives quarrel don't they really tell the truth to each other? I mean, don't they really bring out all the little grudges that they have against each other and say what is actually in the back of their minds and hearts? If husbands and wives want to know how they stand with each other, let them note what each says when they have a fight. That will give them the low down.

G. H.

Anger Upsets Discretion

ANSWER—There is an old proverb that says that truth lies in the bottom of the wineglass. When people are drunk all inhibitions have been swept away and they say what they really think. The same thing is true of anger. When people lose control of their tempers they say the things that prudence, or self-interest, or even common decency makes them keep silent about at other times.

That is what makes a family quarrel such a devastating thing. It is because when they are angry with each other the husband and wife drag out into the open all of their disillusions, all of their suspicions and jealousies, all of their boredom. It is when they vituperate each other and call each other names and throw into each other's faces all the habits and shortcomings that have gotten upon their nerves, and openly regret their marriage.

No quarrel is spontaneous. It may come to a head suddenly and without any adequate cause, but the material with which it is made has been slowly gathering for a long time. Sometimes for years. It is the unspoken thoughts of each about the other.

After the quarrel the husband and wife may apologize and kiss and make up, but what has been said cannot be taken back. Each knows how he or she looks to the other, and something of fineness has gone out of their marriage that they can never get back again.

For the happiness of marriage depends so much upon our illusions, our beliefs that our mates do not see our faults and peculiarities, that we never lose our attractions for them, that they always see us as young and beautiful and desirable. And when in some unguarded moment of passion they tear down this house of dreams, it leaves our spirits lonely and desolate and homeless.

Not many of us can bear to know the truth about ourselves.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have just been reading the letter you received that was signed "Four Army Wives" who are worrying over whether their husbands, who are in the army, are faithful to them or not. I might answer back, how do we know whether our wives are being loyal to us or not while we are away? We don't. We have to take them on faith.

While I am speaking for myself, I am also speaking for about ninety-five percent of the other married soldiers in the Service. I don't say that we wouldn't look at a pretty face or a nice pair of legs, but as far as being disloyal to our wives, that's an entirely different question. Dearie, you couldn't hire me to do such a thing!

I've got a little girl 18 months old. Do you think that I could go home on a furlough and let her put her arms around my neck and call me Daddy if I were harboring a guilty conscience of having run around with some woman? I couldn't look my wife in the face, either, for she is still that cute little blond who used to live down in the next block. She's my wife and the mother of my little girl. I wouldn't let her down for anything.

So I say, my dear Army Wives, if you will just have a little more confidence and a little more faith in your soldier husbands, you will find that your faith and confidence will be completely justified.

SOLDIER.

Most Soldiers Loyal to Wives

ANSWER—This tribute to the high morality of the married men in our Armed Forces is backed up by a recent article in one of the magazines, written by a famous war correspondent in China, who speaks with admiration of the fact that there are very few philanderers among the air force. He says that the great majority or the men are as loyal to their wives as they expect them to be to them, and to them there is just one woman in the world who is desirable, and that is the wife they have left behind them.

It is hard enough for the wives to be separated from their husbands, and it is a pity they add to their troubles by picturing their husbands as being gay Lotharios, who have forgotten the fealty they owe to them and their little children, and who are running wild with wild women.

Such is far from being the case. Perhaps the men who are living in the shadow of death are not concerned with frivolities. They are wanting to keep their slates clean, just in case.

DEAR MISS DIX—Several years ago my nephew was in trouble and I borrowed money for his bond and release. My friends have been very patient and considerate concerning this financial matter, but now I would like to repay them, and this is my problem:

Should I pay back his debt entirely myself, or should I tell my nephew that it is his debt and that he should pay it? He knows about this loan and the people from whom I borrowed the money. He is married and has a family and is earning a fair salary.

RELATIVE.

ANSWER—It is certainly your nephew's obligation and you should make him assume it, not only because it is fair and just, but because it will impress upon him, as nothing else will, that as we sow, we must reap, and that for our wrongdoing we must suffer.

If you pay back all of this money, your nephew will feel that there is no use in going straight when you will get him out of trouble and pay the piper for his dance.

Gotham Gold Stripe Hose

The stockings of rayon have a sporty dull finish and a wide, soft ribbed weave. The shoes are not rationed, but combine wheat color cotton and rayon cloth with plastic caps, heels, soles.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE stocking industry has had a hectic two years keeping our gams clothed as close as possible to the fashion to which they have become accustomed . . . and they've had two mediums, rayon and cotton, to turn the trick.

Newest rayon hose definitely have a better fit, prettier weaves, greater variety and longer wearing qualities. You'd have to be a hosiery manufacturer to know the sweat and strife that this gain represents; you can, however, appreciate the results. One can't tell too often the few basic tips on rayon hose handling important to the owner: Wash the hose before you wear them; dry for at least 36 hours, and keep wet hose out of direct heat while drying. Remember, rayon hose stretch.

Tuesday Group Meets

The Tuesday Evening Group of St. John's Church, composed mostly of former A.Y.P.A. members, held a social and educational evening this week in the Parish Hall. The educational part of the evening was in charge of Arthur Bacon, and the social in charge of Jack Marshall. Refreshments were later served under the convenership of Mrs. Rolly Krant and Mrs. Bert Graham. The next meeting is being held on Tuesday, November 16, and is to be a work night, in which the members are undertaking to repair the choir music.

The club will welcome any former A.Y.P.A. member, or any one of like age who is interested.

W.V.S. Look After Soldiers Plan More Entertainments

The November meeting of the Peterborough Women's Voluntary Services was held in the office on George street Wednesday evening, with Mrs. N. D. Seaton presiding. The different conveners gave their reports.

Mrs. J. Matthews, convener for War Savihgs Stamps, reported the "Miss Canada" girls had sold $94.50 worth of War Savings Stamps during the month of October. The greater part of this total was sold at the booth in the Canadian Department Stores, and a total of 36½ hours were put in voluntarily at this work. There are now 64 "Miss Canada" girls, and the response was encouraging following the talk given the girls at junior assembly in the Collegiate by Mrs. M. Pringle. She said more girls are needed for this vital war work, and the W.V.S. office is open every afternoon including Saturday, for the benefit of those wishing to enroll.

First Aid Class

Mrs. R. Honey, physical fitness convener, reported that all girls interested in physical fitness have been contacted regarding the new classes starting at the Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. Pope, convener for first aid, said that those who had enrolled for first aid work have been notified regarding the St. John Ambulance classes, which had started Monday. They were also reminded, she went on, that it is the only class to be given this winter, and that the hospital aid course will start after Christmas.

The Red Cross convener, Mrs. Johnson, reported that the appeal for knitters from the W.V.S. for the special socks had been met in full, but it is still open and more knitters will be needed from time to time. Information regarding this special sock for seamen will be gladly given.

Soldiers Entertained

The hostess convener, Miss Gertrude Cox, gave the following report: The work of her department is now well under way for the fall and winter. There have been 14 soldiers entertained per Sunday in Peterborough homes, and entertainment arranged for larger groups elsewhere. The citizens' committee requested that letters be sent to the various young people's groups in the church organizations, asking that they remember the soldiers who are in hospital at the Training Centre, and that they organize visiting groups.

Miss F. Bonny, the canteen convener, reported that her workers had put in 235 hours at both Centres during the month of October. The report of the rationing convener, Mrs. W. Fanning, was as follows: The rationing board meets regularly, their object being to assist the rationing administration with any new ideas of simplify the mechanics of the distribution of the new ration books.

The library convener, Miss Fowler, told of the work going on at the local Training Centre, where the need for more of the better class of magazines is urgent.

A discussion on ways and means followed the conveners' reports, and it was suggested that the W.V.S. offive be kept open at night while voluntary clerical work was being done by members. In this way people wishing to enroll can do so in the evening. The date of the introduction of this plan will be announced later.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Plans Bridge

The monthly meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. was held Wednesday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A., with the regent, Mrs. A. Leach, presiding. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read, and Mrs. B. W. Harvey, sewing and war work convener, spoke of the continued success of the regular sewing meetings, and announced that another bale was almost ready for packing. A number of ditty bags have been filled—five by the Business' Girls' Club and one by Miss Molly Brown, formerly of the staff of the Peterborough Examiner, and now in the R.C.A.F.

"The Chapter," said Mrs. Harvey, "is grateful for the interest shown in this work, and would like to take this opportunity of saying thank you."

Mrs. D. Bell, 505 King Street, offered her home for the next sewing meeting, to be held November 8. It was reported that books for the Navy are urgently needed. Mrs. G. E. Keele and Mrs. H. Beatty, conveners for the month of November, are planning a bridge to be held at the Y.W.C.A. Each member of the Chapter is to be responsible for at least one table.

Toronto Girl Weds Thomas McCarthy

St. James' Chapel, Kingston, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Bonnie Louise Carson, Reg. N., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edmund Carson of Toronto, and granddaughter of Mrs. Clara Jarvis of Morrisburg, to L.S.B.D. Thomas Francis McCarthy, R.C.N.V.R., Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McCarthy of Peterborough.

The bride wore a long gown of ivory crepe, a shoulder-length veil caught with a cluster of tulle and a gardenia, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and bouvardia.

She was attended by Mrs. Wilfred Quinn, who wore a gown of rose crepe, a matching veil held with roses and carried a bouquet of roses. LAC. Richard McCarthy, R.C.A.F., Toronto, brother of the groom, was best man. A wedding breakfast was served at the La Salle Hotel.

For travelling, the bride chose a two-piece suit of aster red velvet, matching hat, and black accessories.

Auxiliary Urged To Watch Prices

In her address to the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of George Street United Church, Mrs. H. H. Graham, district chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trades Board, who was guest speaker, urged her audience to watch food prices and report infractions of existing regulations.

The meeting was held Tuesday afternoon, and the first vice-president, Mrs. W. G. McLaren, was in the chair. A poem entitled "Recompense" was read by the chairman, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. H. Foote had charge of the worship period and Mrs. W. K. McGee read the Scripture and Mrs. H. L. Roberts led in prayer.

During the business period, Mrs. James Fanning and Mrs. A. Girven reported on the calls on the sick and shut-ins made during the month of October, and letters of appreciation for flowers and letters of sympathy sent during the month were read. Miss Mary Elliott, in her report on the Christmas boxes, said that over 80 boxes had been sent to boys and girls overseas.

A nominating committee was appointed to bring in a new slate of officers for the December meeting.

For the entertainment of the ladies, Miss Helen Parkinson sang a group of songs. She was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Renaud.

Steak Roll with Celery Stuffing

12 slices day-old Bread
1½ cups finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup butter or shortening
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1½ teaspoons sage
1 bouillon cube, dissolved in ⅓ cup cold water
1½ lbs. round steak, ¼ inch thick
salt and pepper

Tear bread into soft crumbs. Add celery and onion to the butter or shortening melted in a skillet, cover, and cook slowly for 3 or 4 minutes, stirring frequently. Add salt, pepper and sage to breadcrumbs and toss to distribute; then add vegetables and dissolve bouillon cube, and again toss lightly to mix. Wipe steak with a clean damp cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Turn dressing out onto center of steak, roll steak around the dressing, and tie it securely. Brown the roll in a little shortening in the skillet. Add 1 cup boiling water, cover, and simmer gently for about 1 hour, or until meat is tender; add more water if it boils away. Make gravy of liquid remaining in the pan, and pour over meat. Serves 8.

My husband's one of those hearty-eating men whose idea of a perfect meal is a big thick steak and potatoes fried in butter — or a rare roast and baked potatoes simply drooling . . . more butter! He'd put us right into coupon-poverty poorhouse in about two meals. Then I learned a secret.

I learned that I could stretch the flavor of the meat with bread. And what's even more important he thought the dish was simply grand.

A little bit of ingenuity, a little study of the many new bread recipes, and a little more time in preparation simply produce flavors that are the delight of the household. And it's so patriotic to stretch scarce foods with bread because it is non-rationed and so healthful, combining needed proteins with precious vitamins and minerals.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE—My mother is from southern Europe and my father is a Scotsman and I have lived in Canada for many years and have used all their ideas and my own in cooking. I have tasted a dish here that is called chop suey, but it is something like what we call goulash—goulash is a very cheap and delicious dish—similar to your stews because it is cooked a long time. I am sending you my version of it.

Goulash

(Mrs. de Palencia, contributor)

One lb. round or flank steak cut thick, 2 onions, 1 cup tomato puree, 2 tablespoons flour pepper, salt and paprika 10 small potatoes, raw, 2 tablespoons fat. Dice the steak and brown it in the melted butter in a frying pan. Add pepper, salt and plenty of paprika. Add the onion, chopped fine, and flour and stir until smooth in the fat, then add the tomato puree and 1 pint water. (Instead of water you may use consomme if possible.) Let this simmer until meat is almost done. Add the potatoes and cook until they are done. (You may use rice instead of potatoes if you can get it and prefer it for a change.) Serve on hot platter, border by rice or noodles if rice is not used in the stew, and sprinkle with cheese and garnish with parsley.

Thank you Mrs. Palencia—We call so many things "goulash" it is interesting to have a genuine recipe for it.

QUESTION: I wonder if you would be able to help me plan a week's menus. I seem to have such a time keeping within my budget, as far as food is concerned, and at the same time to give a sufficient variety to maintain health.

Our family consists of two adults and one child of 16 months and one baby of four months. I have $35.00 a month to spend on food. My husband has to carry lunches with him to work.—Mrs. D. G. Ingram.

ANSWER: Theoretically, if the 4-months-old baby is breast fed you should be able to maintain health, but on a very restricted scale, at $35.00 per month.

Actually, with two infants to attend, I don't see how you can do the careful shopping this would require.

If you could buy potatoes by the bag, apples by the bushel, flour by the hundredeight, and other large units, you could reduce costs, but would require storage space to keep everything in good condition.

However, it can be done and could be made quite feasible if your husband is the kind that likes to pick up your grocery order when he is driving or coming home. A great deal of co-operation between the adults would ease the tension.

Breakfasts.

(1) Tomato juice, cornmeal porridge with top milk and brown sugar, toast and jam, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, coffee for adults; (2) Whole wheat pancakes with molasses or corn syrup, toast, whole raw apple, milk for mother and 16-months child, coffee for adults; (3) Lemon juice and water for all, rolled oats porridge, with top milk and brown sugar, whole heat toast, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, coffee for adults; (4) Tomato juice, mixed whole-grain cooked cereal with top milk and brown sugar, whole wheat toast and marmalade, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, tea for adults; (5) Applesauce, French toast and corn syrup or jam, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, coffee for adults; (6) Prunes, hot cracked heat cereal with top milk and brown sugar, whole wheat toast and jam, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, coffee or tea for adults; (7) Fried cornmeal mush and corn syrup or molasses, sliced orange, milk for mother and 16-months-old child, toast if desired, coffee or tea for adults.

Lunches or Suppers

(1) Potato and Onion Soup (in thermos for carried lunch); peanut butter sandwiches, cabbage salad, raisin pie for adults, stewed raisins for 16-months old, milk for all; (2) poached egg on toast for home lunchers (hard cooked egg sandwiches for carried lunch), whole raw carrot, chocolate blanc mange pudding (in covered jar for carried lunch), cookie, hot cocoa (in thermos for carried lunch); (3) clam chowder (excellent for all—nursing mother, 16-month old child and carried lunch in thermos), cheese sandwiches; head lettuce, applesauce (in covered jar for lunchbox), cookie or chocolate cake, milk for all; (4) spaghetti in tomato sauce (in thermos for lunch-box), meat sandwiches for lunch box, bread for home lunchers; celery hearts; canned plums (in covered jar), cookie, milk for all; (5) hard cooked eggs, bread and butter sandwiches, carrot and celery strips (in waxed paper for luncher), canned peaches, crackers and cheese, cocoa (in thermos for carried lunch); (6) potato and bacon and celery salad, peanut butter sandwiches, dry prunes, applesause, ginger snaps, hot cocoa; (7) corn chowder (in thermos for lunch box), cheese and lettuce sandwiches, wedge of raw cabbage, lemon-gelatin pudding, vanilla squares, milk for all.

Dinners

(1) Liver loaf, baked potatoes, baked onions, apple crumb pudding; milk for mother and 1 child, coffee or tea for both adults; (2) creamed canned chicken haddie, boiled potatoes, sliced boiled carrots, peach tapioca cream, milk for children, tea for adults; (3) baked beans with salt pork, baked onions or casserole of escalloped cabbage, baked apples or raisin bread pudding, milk for mother and child, coffee for adults; (4) mock ducks (from stuffed rolled flank steak), baked mixed parsnip and carrot strips, creamed cauliflower, lemon pudding, milk for child and mother, coffee or tea for adults; (5) Welsh rarebit, mashed potatoes, chopped beets, prunes in lemon jelly, milk for child and mother, tea or coffee for adults; (6) kidney and onion stew, mashed turnips with potato, cabbage and parsley slaw, cinnamon toast and jam, milk for mother and child, tea and coffee or postum for adults; (7) oxtail soup, hashed brown potatoes, Chinese lettuce salad, chocolate blanc mange or chocolate rice pudding, milk for mother and child, coffee or tea for adults.

NOTE: If milk bill is too high order skim milk for adults every other day.

Soft felt is shirred with a forward to back movement into winged flanges which are joined by a twist of matching velvet ribbon, and perked upward by velvet bows beneath them.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE smartest hats, and the prettiest, are seemingly simple combinations of line and quality which appear to spring naturally from a modish coiffure, above an attractive face. Matter of fact, if the hat is expert enough, it's the hat which makes the hair and face appear attractive whether or not they are.

Says the milliner who made this hat (and who makes hats for women all over what's left of the world): "Have everything pretty upstairs, cherie, have there the right expression..." as she puts a hat on your coiffure. And Nikki is right: A pretty expression of millinery makes a pretty woman.

Leah Dunford Bride Of Ross Lowes

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 4— (ENS).—The marriage of Leah Levina, daughter of Mr. Alfred Dunford, and the late Mrs. Dunford, to Ross Lowes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lowes, of Toronto, formerly of Otonabee, was quietly solemnized at the home of Rev. George and Mrs. Kelly.

The bride was lovely in a white silk jersey dress, street length, and princess style. She wore a shoulder length net veil, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ida Dunford attended her sister in a powder blue silk jersey, fashioned similar to the bride's, shoulder length veil, white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

John Baldock, of Norwood, now stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Lakefield Hotel, where the bride's step-mother, Mrs. Alfred unford, received in a gown of British navy crepe, navy accessories, and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, was frocked in wine crepe, with wine accessories and corsage of tiny yellow 'mums.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Ottawa. For travelling the bride chose a blue wool dress, navy coat and black accessories.

On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests present included: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lowes and Miss Leta Lowes of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Belfry of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lowes of Otonabee, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harry Freeburn of Young's Point.

Flattering And Fanciful

Nicole de Paris

Soft felt is shirred with a forward to back movement into winged flanges which are joined by a twist of matching velvet ribbon, and perked upward by velvet bows beneath them.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE smartest hats, and the prettiest, are seemingly simple combinations of line and quality which appear to spring naturally from a modish coiffure, above an attractive face. Matter of fact, if the hat is expert enough, it's the hat which makes the hair and face appear attractive whether or not they are.

Says the milliner who made this hat (and who makes hats for women all over what's left of the world): "Have everything pretty upstairs, cherie, have there the right expression . . ." as she puts a hat on your coiffure. And Nikki is right: A pretty expression of millinery makes a pretty woman.

Leah Dunford Bride Of Ross Lowes

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 4— (ENS).—The marriage of [illegible]ah Levina, daughter of Mr. Alfred Dunford, and the late Mrs. Dunford, to Ross Lowes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lowes, of Toronto, formerly of Otonabee, was quietly solemnized at the home of Rev. George and Mrs. Kelly.

The bride was lovely in a white silk jersey dress, street length, and princess style. She wore a shoulder length net veil, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Ida Dunford attended her sister in a powder blue silk jersey, fashioned similar to the bride's, shoulder length veil, white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

John Baldock of Norwood, now stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Lakefield Hotel, where the bride's step-mother, Mrs. Alfred unford, received in a gown of British navy crepe, navy accessories, and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, was frocked in wine crepe, with wine accessories and corsage of tiny yellow 'mums.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Ottawa. For travelling the bride chose a blue wool dress, navy coat and black accessories.

On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests present included: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lowes and Miss Leta Lowes of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Belfry of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lowes of Otonabee, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harry Freeburn of Young's Point.

FAMOUS DETECTIVE DIES

build a new rink were still available.

Alderman Dutton said he was heartily in favor of the rink idea, and cited the example of European cities which provided many facilities of public recreation, sports arenas, theatres, operas and so on, all recognizing the need of supplying the interests of the people in their many phases of activity.

"I think the municipality should be prepared to take a large share of the responsibility for an artificial ice rink" Alderman Dutton said, "and that steps should be taken to see that no one would be left out on the end of the limb in the long run."

The keynote of the meeting was sounded by Alderman Bradburn in his favorable impressions of the trip which he recently made to St. Catharines and Kitchener on municipal business, including city hall and arena.

The atmosphere of enthusiasm was created of all the support expressed by the speakers whom mayor Hamilton requested to present their opinions. Among them were: John R. Marshall, Frank Jobbitt, Fred Scates, Dave Leether, Bill Johnston, Ross Downey, Mr. Abbott Mr. Garner, Clare Collins, J. E. Girven, Frank Edgar, Charlie Cummer, and others.

Mayor Hamilton told his audience he had letters and telephone calls from ten or twelve other men who expressed regret that they could not be present to signify their endorsation of the rink project.

Dave Leether rather grimly recalled such necessitous extremes as having to take a team of young players to Lakefield and pay twenty-five cents to get into the rink to practice. In such circumstances there was no chance for the young lads of the present and Mr. Buckland mentioned the further humiliation of having to apply to the hockey authorities for permission to operate here this winter with open air rink.

That is an outline of the discussion which led entirely to the common desire get a new and modern roof for Peterborough hockey and get back in the big time again, at least as big as Peterborough can hope to reach.

Only one controversial note was sounded, and it was but a minor matter of opinion. Fred Overend suggested rather cautiously, as he said, the idea that the rink should be made entirely a civic project, but William Tinker objected that the move from now on should be to relieve property of more of the burden of taxation, rather than increase it. He said he had no objection to the city taking a substantial share in the rink project. Rents were frozen, Mr. Tinker said, and in that circumstance, the tenant would contribute nothing to extra taxation expense. It would all become a charge against the owner.

Mayor Hamilton said he agreed with Mr. Tinker's contention that official attitude today was urging action that would serve to lighten the taxation load on property.

As an indication of the wish of the meeting last night to get things moving, it was decided to hold the first committee meeting Friday night.

Turkish Minister To Confer With Eden

ANKARA, Nov. 4 (AP). — The Turkish foreign minister hastened toward Cairo today for conference with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, less than 24 hours after this neutral nation's president more clearly aligned the country with United Nations' ideals.

Numan Menencioglu and Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, British Ambassador to Turkey, were en route by special train to Adana where they will enplane for Cairo. The Turkish foreign minister took a strong staff of assistants, indicating the importance attached to the meeting.

Have Some Games on Hand for Two or More

PLAY CHINESE CHECKERS

Almost everyone has at one time or another played Chinese checkers—it's a game that can be played equally well with just two people or five or six, if you like. The winner is the one who gets all his glass marbles away first—and it's fun trying to think of ways of outwitting your partners.

However, you don't need a game of Chinese checkers to keep your friends amused. If they drop in suddenly to see you, all you need is a piece of paper and a pencil and there are lots of pencil and paper games. The only other equipment needed is mental.

Particularly these days when you're entertaining servicemen to such an extent in your homes, you should be prepared and have a few games on hand.

Our 32-page booklet is full of games that need little preparation at all. There are quiet games and active ones; baffling stunts and magic—planned for such times when one or more friends call in, or for small parties and family gatherings.

Be prepared — don't let your friends be bored when they come to see you!

For your copy of GAMES AND STUNTS FOR TWO OR MORE send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

VARIATIONS ENDLESS

THERE IS no limit to the number of different things that can happen on a series of deals. With some of them, even the most exhaustive study, with all four hands in sight, could not enable you to think of all the things which actual human beings would do to those cards. That is equally true of both the bidding and the play. After you have thought of every possible variation you can conceive, the score slips of a duplicate game, plus a questioning of the players involved, will sometimes disclose events that never occurred to you as the most remote possibility.

Declarer took the club Q opening with the A and led the spade J, putting on the 9 when East played low. Next the spade 10 was led, East scoring with the A and returning the club K, which South ruffed with his heart K. The heart 3 to the J was taken by the A and the 2 returned. The 7 was taken by the dummy's 8 and a diamond led. With that order of play to the early tricks—or any order for that matter, South was sure to take ten tricks unless he slipped, as he needed to lose only one trick in spades, one in hearts and one in diamonds.

Play about like that occurred everywhere, except where one South botched the hand, but the bidding varied greatly. Who would think, regardless of the time he spent on the matter, that East would pass South's bid of 1-Heart if North passed it? That is exactly what developed at one table, and East therefore got a tie for top score since his opponents, not having bid a game, could not get the 500-point premium for game. One other pair missed bidding the game, because South jumped to 3-Hearts over East's 1-Club, and everybody passed it. Some bid 2-Hearts over the 1-Club and reached game.

Canadian Bomber Squadrons Take Names To Go Down In History

Written for The Canadian Press
By SQDN. LDR. T. C. McCALL.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN ENGLAND, Nov. 4 — (CP). —A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but you can't make the lads of the R.C.A.F. bomber group believe it.

Around airfields of the Canadian bomber group names have come to mean something, and many squadrons now operating have acquired nomenclature for themselves other than the dry, official combination of numbers.

For example, blank-blank-blank squadron has become known to Canadians everywhere as the "Moose Squadron," a name which conjures up visions of might and devotion. The Moosemen are proud and jealous of their name and have reason to be. It was given them by a former commanding officer, the legendary Wing Cmdr. John (Moose) Fulton, D.S.O., D.F.C., A.F.C., reported missing more than a year ago. "The Moose" left behind him a name which has been perpetuated by what is regarded by many as the ace bomber squadron of the R.C.A.F.

Goose Squadron.

Then there is the "Goose Squadron" whose crest bears a Canada goose in full flight. The name was chosen because it was wholly Canadian in character, and the motto "For Freedom" has a meaning which Canadians with a long tradition of freedom under the British Crown can appreciate. Wing Cmdr. W. D. S. (Tiny) Ferris, D.F.C., Edmonton, commands the squadron.

The Indian camps of Canada's West gave a third R.C.A.F. squadron its name. When a former commanding officer, Wing Cmdr. S. S. Blanchard of Brandon, Man., who is presumed dead, asked for suggestions, the name "Thunderbird" was brought forth. These nights when the Lancasters now commanded by Wing Cmdr. W. H. Swetan, D.F.C., of Kapuskasing, Ont., take to the skies, with them goes the name and the spirit of Canada's original citizens.

The tribe of Indian warriors who through the early days of Canada's settling fought alternately with and against the British, have lent their name to another squadron. This is the unit commanded by Wing Cmdr. W. F. (Bill) Newson, D.F.C. of Victoria, B.C., which recently adopted the name "Iroquois."

Bluenose Squadron.

When another Halifax squadron commanded by Wing Cmdr. C. E. Harris of Annapolis Royal, N.S., began its operational career, a name was sought which would typify some characteristic of the squadron. A canvass of personnel indicated a large number of residents of Canada's Maritime Provinces and the name Bluenose of the Lunenburg fishing fleet, was adopted.

One of the better-known squadrons of the group is the "Lion Squadron" commanded by Wing Cmdr. R. S. Turnbull, D.F.M., Govan, Sask. The Lions owe their names to the enterprise of their adjutant, Flt. Lt. Jay Chasanoff Winnipeg, who succeeded in having a large motion-picture company—whose trade-mark, incidentally, is a lion—"adopt" the squadron to the extent of providing comforts for the members, letters and photos of beauteous film stars and free passes to theatres throughout the world for squadron personnel.

City of Bradford Squadron.

An English city, Bradford, early this year formally adopted another R.C.A.F. bomber group squadron which at the time was commanded by Wing Cmdr. J. A. P. Owen of the Royal Air Force. Subsequently the squadron became known as the "City of Bradford' squadron, and it is now led by Wing Cmdr. J. D. "Pat" Pattison, D.F.C., Toronto.

The most recent R.C.A.F. squadron to acquire a name is that commanded by Wing Cmdr. C. W. A. McKay of Vancouver, which will be known henceforth as the "Leaside Squadron" in honor of the town of Leaside, Ont., near Toronto.

NAZI DEFENCE LINE CRACKED IN ITALY

Four Young Airmen Killed In Early Morning Crash In Orchard Near Garden Hill

Crash Occurred During Rainstorm
Men Killed Instantly
Plane Completely Destroyed By Fire

Four R.C.A.F. fliers died at two o'clock this morning when a twin-engined Avro-Anson training plane crashed in an orchard half a mile north of Garden Hill, and seven miles south of Millbrook along the Middle Gravel Road.

The crash occurred during a rainstorm with a freezing temperature, and it is believed ice forming on the wings contributed to the accident.

The plane was from Malton on a routine night flying trip and was on its proper course travelling in a northwesterly direction when it struck the ground, and burned. All were killed instantly, and the crew included a Canadian, who was pilot, a New Zealander, an Englishman and a Pole, who was to have graduated next Friday. This Polish flier had spent two and a half years in a Russian internment camp before coming to Canada.

The plane crashed on the farm of Dr. Stuart Wright, and prior to the smash-up the roar of the motors awakened Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mercer, who live within 200 yards of the spot. They heard the crash, and Mr. Mercer, partially dressed rushed to the scene. He was unable to do anything for the men, and in his excitement discovered he had only one shoe on.

"The noise gave us an awful start" Mrs. Mercer said.

Alec Cruthers, school teacher at Garden Hill, phoned the Police at Cobourg, and Provincial Constable A. Macleod went to the spot, and kept all spectators away from the immediate vicinity.

Later Captain F. G. Stinson with C.S.M.1 Kent and Staff-Sgt. E. Hawke from the 2nd Midland Regiment at Millbrook patrolled the scene of the crash

The last fatal plane accident in this area took place three years ago when the Hon. Norman Rogers' plane crashed near Newtonville about 15 miles south-west of the spot where today's major tragedy took place.

Late this afternoon the R.C.A.F. released the name of the pilot, who was Harry Chambers, 23, of Toronto who has only been married a few months the others are cable addresses.

The plane in coming down apparently landed on right wing tip, indicating the pilot was banking, and a deep hole was torn in the ground for twenty feet. Wreckage was strewn over the orchard for more than 200 feet, and one large aerilon was found hanging in a fir tree about 20 reet from the point of impact.

Simonds Named To Command Armored Division

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 5—(CP Cable)—Amid speculation that more Canadians may move from Britain into the Central Mediterranean theatre, Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds has been promoted to command an armored division and it is taken for granted that command of the Canadian 1st Division in Italy falls to 39-year-old Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes of Winnipeg and Ottawa.

Youngest Canadian general, Vokes has been promoted from the rank of brigadier to acting major-general. In the Sicily campaign, serving under Gen. Simonds, he commanded the 2nd Infantry Brigade, composed of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Royal Edmontons and the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, and won the D.S.O.

The change-over regarding Gen. Simonds gives rise to unofficial speculation that possible more Canadians may move to the Mediterranean theatre—possibly including an armored division which Gen. Simonds could lead.

Gen. Simonds is to succeed Maj.-Gen. C. R. S. Stein of Que-

De Marigny Calm In Witness Box

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 5—(AP)—Attorney General Eric Hallinan today held up Alfred de Marigny to a Bahamas Supreme Court jury today as a man who spent the money of one of his wives and continued to live with her long after they were divorced.

Hallinan subjected the defendant to a long cross examination following his testimony of yesterday that he did not beat and burn to death his father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, last July.

The court chamber was packed.

Hallinan questioned the calm witness about his financial transactions with his former wife, Ruth Fahnstock, from whom he was divorced about two years before he married 18-year-old Nancy Oakes, the eldest daughter of the man he is charged with killing.

Hallinan drew from De Marigny the admission that some of the money a financial account showed he received from Ruth was used for "non business purposes." The account also listed £10,000 (about $44,500) "separation agreement."

"After you divorced Ruth you continued to live with her?" asked Hallinan.

Refugees Claim Rome Is Mined

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BARI, SOUTHERN ITALY, Nov. 3.—(Delayed)—(AP).—Refugees arriving here from Rome to-day said that city has been heavily mined and quoted the Germans as saying they will do to Rome what they did to Naples, "eternal city or no eternal city."

Nazi engineers are mining all large buildings. There are tons of explosives under every ministry and all large hotels, bridges and the main aqueducts have been mined.

Some of the mines, the refugees reported, are equipped with time devices designed to set them off after the city is occupied by the Allies.

The refugees said the Germans planned to destroy all Italian government records in order to leave a chaotic situation for those who come in to administer the country.

$350,000 Must Be Raised

Peterborough city and county were within $350,000 of their Fifth Victory Loan objective at noon today. This announcement from the office of the National War Finance Committee was intended to take the public into its fullest confidence as to the prospects of Peterborough fulfilling its assignment and obligation to subscribe $4,600,000 of this Loan.

If any citizens think that the committee is withholding any subscriptions for the purpose of sharpening anxiety for the success of the Loan and stimulating loyal-hearted effort to additional buying in the purpose of accumulating a surplus beyond the objective, that notion falls apart on the stark statement that unless Peterborough city and county subscribe $350,000 this afternoon and Saturday, their job is going to be marred by a deficit when the National campaign closes Saturday night.

That is the cold fact, and as reported during this last week of the local campaign, the committee has become increasingly concerned about the difficulty of raising the final $100,000.

The spirit of Peterborough does not need to be whipped up into subscribing action. The responsibility is there, and there is only one remaining day to meet it. If you have funds in your bank that are idle, a special appeal is directed to you to turn them into the Victory Loan channel and place Peterborough where it has been in all the War Loans, in the company of the communities that oversubscribe their objective.

The official statement to the Examiner this morning was: "We need $350,000 by Saturday night."

Canada's Fifth Victory Loan Is Nearing Its $1,200,000,000 Objective

OTTAWA, Nov. 5—(CP).—Fifth Victory Loan subscriptions totalled $76,082,100 Thursday, bringing the cumulative total to $1,127,700,300 with two days to go, national loan headquarters announced today.

If Friday bond sales equal Thursday's total, the biggest loan campaign in Canada's history—for a minimum objective of $1,200,000,000—will be over the top.

The receipts for the corresponding Thursday in the Fourth Victory Loan last spring were $76,023,350, just a trifle below yesterday's business, and the cumulative total was $1,035,731,150. The national quota in that drive was $1,100,000,000.

Quebec Over Top.

Headed by a $22,500,000 subscription from Sun Life Insurance Co., province of Quebec, became the first province to go over the top Thursday night.

The subscription was the largest amount contributed by a Canadian company to any of the war loan campaigns to date. Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director, on signing the application, said that the amount represented the savings of the many thousands of Sun Life policyholders from every province throughout the Dominion. This brings the total investment of the company in Canadian, United States and British Empire government bonds up to $420 million, an increase of $284 million since the outbreak of war.

Montreal Island also passed its over-all objective. Quebec's quota was $326,000,000, of which $254,000,000 was for Montreal Island. The province is still short of its objective for general canvass.

Officials again urged steady application to the task of increasing subscriptions from individuals in the general canvass category. There are indications, the statement said, that the "drive within a drive" under the slogan "but an extra bond" is gathering momentum.

The Armed Services reported a grand total of more than $30,000,000 or nearly 150 per cent of their combined objective of $20,500,000. The Navy has contributed more than

McGinnis Gets 12-Year Prison Term

Jury Reduces Charge To Manslaughter In Shotgun Slaying

LINDSAY, Nov. 5 (CP)—Howard McGinnis, 34-year-old Lindsay laborer, was sentenced last night to 12 years in jail after an Ontario Supreme Court jury found him guilty of manslaughter in the shotgun slaying last Feb. 6 of William Howard, 31-year-old Peterborough, Ont., Indian.

McGinnis was unable to speak when asked to stand up for sentence, although he had been calm throughout the trial which started here Monday.

The jury deliberated three hours after a one-hour address to the jury by Mr. Justice Ainslee Green, who said that while he believed that McGinnis had suffered from provocation by Howard, under law there must be "sudden provocation." Illustrating, he said McGinnis was forced to leave his own kitchen by Howard Feb. 6, which might have provoked McGinnis to sudden anger, but evidence indicated it was not until later that the slaying occurred.

I. E. Weldon, defence counsel, asked leniency, saying "if ever there was a man gored to the stage of provocation it was McGinnis."

Great Provocation

In addressing the jury, Weldon stated that a verdict of manslaughter should be rendered. He stressed the point that in taking the gun from the Hudson home, McGinnis could also have taken shells that were in a box beside the gun and which evidence had conclusively verified that he knew was there.

"Instead of doing this the accused is said to have gone to a neighbor and asked to borrow two shells," Mr. Weldon said. "Would he have done this if he had been in his right mind?" He reiterated the fact that both Mrs. Coursey and the accused had gone in fear of the Indian Howard. "There can be no doubt," Mr. Weldon stated, "that this Indian made life miserable for McGinnis and on this occasion had attacked him even in his own home."

Crown Counsel W. B. Common in his address told the jury that while McGinnis might have had provocation he certainly had time to cool off during the period of time in which he had borrowed two shells from W. Johnson, returned to Johnson's home with the shells jammed, fixed it and then went back to the Hudson home and allegedly shot the Indian.

Memory Clear

He pointed out that in the plea of Mr. Weldon under the provocation clause, that the law clearly states that murder charge might be changed to one of manslaughter if the deed following provocation had taken place suddenly. In regard to the accused's plea of loss of memory, Attorney Common said there was no doubt but that his own clear evidence had proven McGinnis knew what he was doing until he was struck by Howard and that the evidence of Dr. Tennant proved the accused must have still been in possession of his faculties when he borrowed the shells and returned to the Hudson house with the loaded gun.

Mr. Justice defined the charges of murder and manslaughter clearly to

Russians Hold Territory East Of Dnieper

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 5 — (AP)—The Russians held virtually every foot of land east of the Dnieper today from its mouth south of Kherson and along its 650 mile course through the heart of the Ukraine north to Gomel as the prize of their summer campaign, which they said inflicted 2,700,000 casualties on the Germans.

Marshal Stalin's resume of four violent months of combat listed 900,000 Germans killed 98,000 captured and 1,702,000 wounded, thus hoisting German casualties listed by Russia to an astronomical 11,000,000 of which the Russians said 5,000,000 are dead.

Swift sweeps over the Black sea sands of the Southern Ukraine brought the Cossacks to the river banks opposite Kherson, 65 miles northwest of the sealed - off Crimea

Limited To Crimea

Official maps published to-day showed the Russians in possession of all the east side of the Dnieper from Gomel to Zaucezhe in the bend. South of Zaporozhe the only German holdings east of the Dnieper are limited to the Crimea a thin strip 52 miles long opposite Nikopol, and in minute bit of land in the Dnieper delta due south of Kherson.

(Moscow said nothing of the Crimea, but the Berlin radio said "German troops were engaged in heavy fighting on beachheads south and east of Kursk and on the northern approaches to the Crimea." The Germans said a tank battle was being fought near Perekop and "in another sector Rumanian grenadiers repulsed the Soviets in a counter-attack.

Moving into newly-won positions achieved in two break-throughs of German lines, other Red armies were pushing westward toward the Latvian border and toward the Polish frontier.

Still other forces resumed their drive to capture Kiev, curling 20 miles to the northwest to take Dimer.

The surge across White Russia overran Novokhovansk, 54 miles from Latvia. The seizure of Zhulevo in the Nevel area carried the Red army within 50 miles of Poland.

The official announcement of the fruits of the summer campaign showed the Russians had achieved an enormous tactical, as well as material, success for further prosecution of the war.

5th and 8th Armies Advance On All Sectors In Italy; Fall Of Venafro Is Imminent

Allies Close In On Gargliano River
As Enemy Floods Roads
To Hinder Fast Moving Spearheads

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 5—(AP).—Moving with hard, swift punches deeper into central Italy over the collapsed German defence line which ran from the Massico Ridge on the Tyrrhenian Sea to the Trigno River mouth of the Adriatic, Allied 8th and 5th Armies advanced in all sectors, Allied Headquarters said today.

The fall of Venafro, one of the two inland highway hubs which held the line together, was believed imminent. The storm strongpoint, Isernia, was captured yesterday by troops of the 8th Army's left wing, believed to be units of the Canadian 1st Division.

(The BBC correspondent in Algiers said American troops are "fighting in the outskirts of Venafro.")

Allied troops who took Isernia in a fierce, pre-dawn attack were announced today to be sending patrols out of the northward to probe the dispositions of the withdrawing Germans and seize further sections of the mountainous terrain. Possibly the sending out of these patrols foreshadowed a Canadian drive toward the snow-clad hills of the Sulmona area to the northwest.

Two Armies In Contact.

The Apennine region around Isernia was further mopped up by the 8th Army's capture of Carpinon, six miles east of Isernia, and the taking of San Agapito, three miles south of Isernia, by the American right wing of the 5th Army. The two armies now are in contact in this area.

Making further inroads in the centre of the line, American units crossed the Upper Volturno River where it bends northeastward in front of Venafro, capturing all high ground dominating the upper valley.

On the extreme left the British wing of the 5th Army smashed through German positions to reach the vicinity of the Garigliano River, 80 miles south of Rome. Its low banks along the Tyrrhenian had been flooded by the Germans to delay the pursuit.

Far to the right, near the Adriatic, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British veterans routed enemy resistance in the San Salvo area after several days of fierce battling and captured that town and railway station with the assistance of the British destroyers Queensborough and Raider, which shelled the German positions.

(The German high command said today in a communique broadcast from Berlin that an Allied landing attempt had been made in the Pescara area 40 miles northwest of the 8th Army's present position on the Adriatic in an apparent renewal of General Montgomery's leapfrog tactics.

(The communique said a second landing attempt also had been made in the "area of Istonia," but claimed both attempts were defeated by coastal artillery and that one motor torpedo boat was sunk.)

Cross Trigno River

In the Montemitro area, some 12 miles inland from the Adriatic Gen. Montgomery's troops made further crossings of the Trigno River and prepared to exploit the advantageous positions gained when the fall of Isernia cut the only lateral road in the area which the Germans could use to shift reinforcements rapidly. The next good lateral road across Italy is some 60 miles back of the present advanced Allied positions.

Mosquito Fleet Hits Germany Huns Hit Back

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(AP).— American heavy bombers escorted by American fighters, blasted targets in western Germany to-day while medium bombers attacked targets in Northern France, U.S. Air Force Headquarters announced.

The daylight assault came within a few hours after R.A.F. Mosquito bombers hit the same general area last night in the wake of the most devastating 24-hour punches yet thrown at the Reich

Five aircraft were lost in operations which included the laying of mines in enemy waters. Since May the Mosquitoes have made 150 attacks on German cities, 27 of them directed at Berlin.

There was no official report on the force of four-engined bombers which coastal observers saw heading across the Channel last night in massive formations, but these may have been engaged in minelaying.

The returning Mosquito fliers said fires still burned in Duesseldorf bombed Wednesday night by a huge R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. fleet which

Heavy Damage To Destroyer

OTTAWA, Nov. 5 (CP) — Strong indication one of Canada's destroyers suffered heavy damage in a recent attack by 20 German bombers off the coast of Spain was given today in a Naval press release.

There has been no official announcement of damage to a destroyer—the largest type of ship in the Royal Canadian Navy—but today's statement said a 2,000-pound bomb "ripped through the port bulkhead of the signal room" and careened out the starboard side, "exploding at the water line."

In bombing terminology an explosion close to a ship is known as a "near miss" and often the concussion causes severe hull damage.

Since the Navy's practice is to announce sinkings rapidly, is can be taken for granted the destroyer was not sunk.

One British sloop was hit amidships by a bomb and sank within 40 seconds, the Navy statement said without naming the craft.

Sailor Injured

The hint of serious damage to the Canadian destroyer was buried in a press release of an interview at "an Eastern Canadian Port" with 21-year-old telegraphist Chuck Kent, R.C.N., of Calgary, who lost the lower part of both legs when the bomb struck. He is still in hospital

Winter Lashes Huns Now In Retreat

Russians Back Enemy Hordes Into One Way Trap As Crisis Approaches

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Out of northern Russia a new ally — winter, the giant of the steppes — is moving its mighty weight southward to the aid of the Red Armies which are battling to close the great Dnieper bend trap on Hitler's retreating forces.

This boon is developing as the Muscovites arrive at the expansive lower reaches of the Dnieper opposite Kherson. Winter soon will freeze the Dnieper and the fields of mud which the autumn rains have created. It will expedite the movement of troops and engines of war.

The fierce cold and snows, which smashed Napoleon with one stroke have had two goes at Hitler. This bids fair to be the third and last.

The mouth of the Dnieper-bend trap, which opens westward towards the fatherland and temporary safety (or does security lie that way?) is between the strategic rail centre of Krivoi Rog on the north and the estuary of the river at the Black Sea. That gate is about 90 miles wide.

This 90-mile stretch affords the only escape for the large German forces which remain inside the trap. Many troops have been moved through the opening, although thousands have been killed or captured by the pursuing Reds, and vast quantities of Nazi war material have been abandoned. Estimates of the number of Hitlerites still within the trap are guesses, but undoubtedly the total runs to scores of thousands.

Disaster is setting the pace for the Germans, in what is one of the greatest crises of the war. Already they have suffered catastrophe. Today's news from Moscow claims 2,700,000 Nazis casualties during the four months' offensive, and of these 900,000 are killed.

A complete breakdown and debacle of the German forces could grow out of the present position. However, the final returns aren't yet in. Despite the terrible losses they have suffered, and still are bound to have, they may be able to fall back to fresh positions for another stand.

Allies Plan Chinese Action

Leaders Discuss Operational Questions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — (AP) — President Roosevelt announced today that the United States, Great Britain and China, had reached a complete agreement for new military operations in the Chinese theatre and that it would mean bad news for the Japanese.

The President disclosed at a press conference that the agreement had just been reached at a successful conference at Chungking among Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, new British commander-in-chief in the Southeast Asia area, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his Chinese military advisers, and General Stilwell, Chenault and Somervell for the United States.

He said the agreement was mostly on operational questions and concerned the methods for handling what he called the continental campaign in the Far East.

Mr. Roosevelt said he could not give any details at this time but that the presence of Gen. Somervell, chief of the American Army forces of supply, meant that supply problems were involved. He reported Somervell had returned to the United States.

Japanese Internees Riot

1,000 Troops, Dozen Tanks Take Control of Camp

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—(AP).—The United States army moved into the Tule Lake segregation centre for disloyal Japanese to-day after the internees were reported to have staged another uprising.

The Chronicle said 1,000 troops with a dozen tanks took control of the camp in Northern California after a civilian security guard was badly beaten.

When the soldiers arrived, the Chronicle said, internees seized a number of automobiles and trucks belonging to camp administration officials and attempted to run down army guards.

The Japanese, who gathered in an angry demonstration last Monday, were quickly subdued. No shots were fired.

Accounts of sabotage and openly avowed loyalty to Japan came to light yesterday in further renewations of what happened Monday at the centre. Ernest Rhoades, former fire chief at the camp, told interviewers all fire alarm telephones had been destroyed, sand and broken glass were tamped into hydrants, and automobiles were damaged.

Total German Losses Set At 5 Million Killed Since Huns Invaded Russia

Stampeding Russian Armies Reach Dnieper Opposite Kherson Surge Over White Russia Near Latvia

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 5—(AP).—The Red Army's 1943 campaign has cost the Germans 2,700,000 in dead, wounded and prisoners, a special Russian communique announced today, bringing the Soviet count of the total Nazi manpower losses since the war started to more than 11,000,000, including 5,000,000 killed.

Of the 2,700,000 casualties suffered by the Germans between July 5, the start of the present offensive, and November 5, 900,000 were killed and 98,000 captured, the communique said, and as a result the Russians have gained a great tactical advantage for the further prosecution of the war.

The triumphant announcement carrying these staggering figures of German losses on the Russian front came just after the regular daily communique had told of further gains by the Soviet Ukrainian armies under Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin Red Army columns were reported in Aleshki, on the eastern bank of the Lower Dnieper River opposite the Black Sea port of Kherson, at the river's mouth. The Russians also announced their troops had stormed and captured the west bank highway town of Dimer, 20 miles north of Kiev, and had surged across White Russia to take Novokhovansk, 54 miles from the Latvian border in a move to outflank Vitebsk.

Moscow again failed to mention developments on the by-passed Crimean peninsula, but Berlin broadcasts said fresh Soviet shock troops from the Caucasus had landed south of Kerch to reinforce beachheads established three days ago.

The Soviet announcement recited an impressive list of victories in which the Russians had advanced from 185 to 280 miles along a 1,200-mile-long front to recapture 135,000 square miles of territory since July 5.

The communique said that 38,000 settlements were liberated, of which 162 were large cities, freeing millions of Russian subjects from German domination.

Colorful Jewish Officer Escapes Japs

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Nov. 5—(CP-Reuters)—Gen. Morris Abraham Cohen, a 51-year-old Jew who left the docks and the Limehouse area of London to become one of the most powerful figures in China, was among Allied repatriates reaching here in the exchange liner Gripsholm from Japanese-occupied territory.

Gen. Cohen became an intimate adviser to Sun Yat-Sen after the founder of modern China credited him with saving his life in Canada.

Gen. Cohen went to Western Canada at an early age and raised a Chinese labor battalion in the Dominion during the last war. He fought as a private with the Canadian forces in France. Sun Yat-Sen, who fled at the time of a revolution in China, was addressing a stormy meeting of thousands of Chinese when an attempt was made to kill him.

Gen. Cohen intervened. When Suna Yat-Sen returned to China he made Gen. Cohen his aide de camp. When Sun Yat-Sen died, Gen. Cohen became adviser to Chiang Kai-Shek, now president of China, covering many fields of military and economic problems. He played a large part in training the Chinese National Army and travelled thousands of miles abroad on missions connected with the war against Japan.

The Japanese once put a price on his head. In interment, Gen. Cohen lost 80 pounds but otherwise is fit.

Missing 18 Months

Gen. Cohen had dropped out of sight since his capture under unknown circumstances by the Japanese. On March 5, 1942, a Winnipeg newspaper reported it had heard that Cohen had been shot by his captors. Since then nothing had been heard of him until his arrival at Port Elizabeth.

At one period in his Canadian residence he peddled clothes in Vancouver's Chinatown. In Edmonton they called him "Two-gun Cohen" because he could throw two coins into the air and shoot both before they hit the ground.

In 1932 when the Japanese smashed at Shanghai Gen. Cohen was credited as being largely responsible for the desperate defence the Chinese put up against crack enemy troops. Gen. Cohen is said to have organized and drilled thousands of the Cantonese army in that period, using British and Russian officers.

Old-Age Pension Gets $5 Boost

TORONTO, Nov. 5—(CP)—An increase in the maximum old-age pension from $23 to $28 monthly and upward revision of mothers' allowances were announced yesterday by Dr. R. P. Vivian, Public Welfare Minister of Ontario.

Cost of the increase in old-age pensions, effective last Monday, will be borne by the Dominion and Provincial governments on a 75-25 basis, Dr. Vivian said. Details of increases in mothers' allowance will be announced shortly.

Dr. Vivian also disclosed negotiations are under way with the Dominion government in an effort to modify existing regulations governing the method of calculating income allowable pensioners. He termed these regulations unjust since some pensioners would not be entitled to the maximum increase.

"The province must, for example, consider five per cent of the assessed value of property owned by a pensioner as income. "This is a great hardship to pensioners with home."

Old age pensioners were receiving medical care through an agreement with the Ontario Medical Association and "this plan will continue." Improved housing for aged persons without homes of their own was being studied by departmental officials.

14 Japanese Warships Lost In Raid On Bougainville

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 5 —(AP).—Japan's Navy, lured more and more within range of Allied ships' guns and bombers by threatened loss of the Solomons, already has paid the price of 14 warships sunk or damaged this week without getting closer than 40 miles to the United States marine beachhead on Bougainville.

An enemy cruiser and four destroyers were sunk, two cruisers damaged out of a task force of 12 which tried to sneak down from Rabaul through darkness and blinding rain early Tuesday and shell the marines at Empress Augusta Bay.

Forty miles out, United States fighting ships shattered that attempt and, after a two-hour running battle, sent the remnants fleeing toward Rabaul. It is considered likely that the survivors of the naval encounter were among the three destroyers sunk and two heavy cruisers damaged in a bomb blitz of Rabaul's harbor nine hours later by Allied bombers.

Headquarters, in releasing today preliminary accounts of the naval battle, said the American warships emerged scarred but entirely afloat.

At dawn that Tuesday, those same ships were attacked by 67 Japanese planes, sustaining more damage but weathering the raid and shooting down 17.

The ground stabs into the last Solomons holdings of the enemy penetrated deeper. At Empress Augusta Bay where the marines surprised the Japs by landing Monday 45 miles northwest of the enemy's strong Bougainville garrison at Buin, Japanese soldiers now have been routed from Puruata Island near the beach and from strong positions on a cape.

Thirty miles south of Bougainville, New Zealand and American soldiers have won complete control of Treasury (Mono) Island.

CAMPBELLFORD

Institute Hears Health Lecture

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5 (ENS) —A health lecture and demonstration by Miss J. B. Malcolmson, Toronto highlighted the November meeting of Rylstone Women's Institute on Wednesday when members gathered for an all day session to discuss health and first aid.

The meeting, held at the home of Mrs. William Stewart, began at 10:30 in the morning with the vice president, Mrs. Charles tSewart, who later introduced the speaker, presiding. During the morning the speaker emphasized the care of the human body, and illustrated her remarks with a number of books and pahphlets. At noon about 20 sat down for a pot-luck dinner, and the meeting was re-convened at 1:30 as the President Mrs. F. M. Rutherford called the group to order. She announced the completion of arrangements for packing 10 overseas parcels at the December meeting and following the usual custom of replacing first aid kits in three district schools a committee comprising Mrs. Ernest Irwin and Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn was appointed to procure necessary supplies.

More Disinfecting

Resuming her remarks Miss Malcolmson next dealt with communicable diseases and laid special emphasis on those which spread in the school. She urged greater vigilance in the disinftcting and cleaning of equipment particularly in rural schhols and maintained that school boards had a definite responsibility to supply both soap and towels for the use of pupils.

The speaker cited a number of infections and told how they could be spread. She advised cleaning garden tools carefully before they were put away. A tool which had come in contact with poison ivy could infect anyone who came in contact with it when it was used the following spring. The speaker concluded with a complete list of first aid remedies for the home and school togetherw ith suggestions as to their proper application.

During the afternoon, the president led members in a brief sing song.

bec as an armored division commander, it is understood and Gen. Stein is to receive a new appointment. Gen. Stein, an engineer, is 46. He is retiring from command of an armored division in England which he headed since early this year.

Military authorities here consider Gen. Simonds' appointment a definite promotion and the result of brilliant handling of his former command, the Canadian 1st Division, in Sicily.

This 40-year-old officer from Kingston, Ont., is looked upon as a commander with a bright future and it was almost inevitable that he would eventually get an armored division command to give his talents further sweep and broaden his field experience.

Speaking of Gen. Simonds following the Sicilian campaign a high 8th Army officer said, "If the war last long enough Guy Simonds will become a corps commander."

This new move is possibly in that direction, although complete battle experience with an armored force would likely have to come first.

Robt. Falconer Dies At Age 76

TORONTO, Nov. 5—(CP)—One of Toronto's best-known educationists and a distinguished student of international affairs, religion and classics—Sir Robert Falconer—died at his home here last night.

The 76-year-old former president of the University of Toronto and one-time principal of Pine Hill College, Halifax, was sick only a few days although he had been in poor health for a number of years.

A resident of Toronto since 1907, when he was appointed president of the university, Sir Robert was widely-known as a speaker and his talents were much in demand both in the Dominion as well as in Great Britain and the United States.

Since his retirement in 1932, he had kept in close touch with educational affairs and social matters, mainly in an advisory capacity.

Sir Robert was born at Charlottetown, P.E.I.

During his life, he wrote many articles on New Testament and educational and public topics in English and American reviews and encyclopaedias. Among his books are "The German Tragedy and Its Meaning for Canada," and "Citizenship In An Enlarging World."

His widow and two sons, Dr. J. Gilbert Falconer, and Robert D., live in Toronto.

in smashing German communications.

Four-engined bombers hit the west coast at numerous places between Leghorn and Civitavecchia, north of Rome, interrupting service on that important supply artery. Bomb-carrying fighters made simultaneous assaults on the railway viaduct at Terni, north of Rome, scoring direct hits on that key junction.

R.A.F. Wellingtons in the wake of these daylight blows, pounded the freight yards at Orte 53 miles north of Rome.

More than 100 enemy motor vehicles moving from the battlefront along the Avezzano - Isola road were strafed and at least 16 vehicles were left smouldering.

Fighters strafed two motor vessels off the Adriatic coast near Pineto and attacked enemy motor launches near the harbor of Split on the Yugoslav coast.

Carpinon lies six miles east of the key defence town of Isernia, seizure of which yesterday morning by 8th Army troops believed to be Canadians broke the main German positions on the left wing of the 8th Army.

This left wing now appears to have two possible courses in exploiting the Isernia victory which cut a main lateral highway. It could strike northwest, with its Canadian troops continuing the role of mountain fighters they have filled for a month, and drive for the snow-topped peaks of the Slumona region, or turn southwestward down the Volturno valley to outflank Venafro, objective of the American right wing of the 5th army.

Already, headquarters said, 8th Army patrols are probing the territory north of Isernia, extending the Allied hold on the mountainous terrain.

Take San Agapito

The Americans have captured San Agapito, three miles south of Isernia, it was announced today, while to the southwest they have occupied all high ground dominating the upper Volturno valley.

The German positions at Venafro appeared imperilled to such an extent that an enemy falling back from that highway town, one of the bastions of their crumbling line, would not be a surprise.

It is threatened from the northeast where the right wing of the 5th Army and the Canadian left wing of the 8th Army have joined forces around Isernia, from the south by Americans pushing up the highway from Vairano and Presenzano, and from the southeast by 5th Army troops standing on dominating heights adjacent to the city.

On the Adriatic end of the line the 8th Army, overcoming enemy resistance to its drive north of the Trigno River, has captured the town and railway station of San Salvo in heavy fighting and made several new crossings of the river.

In the air R.A.F. and American units made a smashing attack on German communications throughout yesterday and last night. Heavy bombers hit the west coast railway at numerous places.

Enlistment Age Cut To 38 For Volunteers

VANCOUVER, Nov. 5—(CP)—Reduction of army enlistment age from 45 to 38 years except in special cases was announced in a Defense Department order received at Pacific Command headquarters today.

The order is as follows:

"Enlistment of volunteers will be restricted to those who have attained their 18th birthday but not their 38th birthday.

"In individual cases, recruits will be accepted who have reached their 38th but not their 45th birthday, have trade or technical qualifications, and are considered physically able to carry out the special duties for which they are enlisted.

"Personnel who are coal miners, coal deliverymen or science students may not be enlisted except by special order."

The Province in a newspage story yesterday said that National Defense Headquarters has issued orders reducing the maximum age for compulsory service from 41 to 38 and removing from combat units all personnel below "A" category.

Other changes listed by the Province were:

1. Members of the armed forces who have been granted leave from their units to work in coal mines, on the railroads and on farms will be discharged if they are below category "A."

2. Troops of the Canadian Forestry Corps or less than "A" category who returned to Canada to work in logging camps and mills in the Dominion will be discharged from the army and will work as civilians.

The Province said the revisions are designed to prepare the revamped 6th Division for duty overseas as well as supply needed manpower to carry on essential war industries.

Finland Seeks Separate Peace

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 5.—(AP). — The newspaper Social Demokraten said to-day the Finnish government had instructed Juhu Paasikivi former Minister to Russia, to be ready to go to Moscow—presumably to discuss negotiations for a separate peace.

Paasikivi played an important part in the negotiations which brought an end to the Finnish-Russian war of 1939-40.

"Finland's fate will be settled within a few days," the Social Demokraten declared.

There was no official confirmation of the report with regard to Paasikivi either in Helsinki or Stockholm.

The best information available from the Finnish capital, however, was that a new intensive effort to get Finland out of the war as a partner of Germany was under way and one Finnish informant said that Paasikivi's dispatch to Moscow did not appear improbable.

U.S. Sub Summary Climbs To 487 Ships

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP). — Sinking of 10 Japanese merchantmen and damaging of three others by American submarines was reported by the Navy today, bringing to 487 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by American underseas craft.

The navy's communique also reported the sinking of a 1,000 ton freighter by a navy reconnaissance plane off Ocean Island, 750 miles northeast of Guadalcanal.

Among the ships sunk, all of them in use in supplying Japanese bases, were six freighters, a large cargo transport and two tankers. The damaged vessels included two more freighters and a tanker.

The area in which the submarines operated was not disclosed but previous navy reports have said submarines were operating off the Japanese mainland.

Hatton Property Gets Mail Carrier Service

Letter carrier service will be extended to the Wartime Housing area in the Hatton Property and the racetrack, commencing Monday, Nov. 8, it was announced by Postmaster Charles Lacheur this morning. The area includes the Staff House, and with the new service coming into effect at the beginning of the week all Wartime Housing areas in the city will receive one delivery a day in the afternoon.

Owing to the extension of letter carriers deliveries, two additional letter carrier routes are to be established and this, Mr. Lacheur said, would necessitate a revision of the present carrier walks. In some cases residences which are now receiving a morning delivery will be changed to an afternoon delivery, and vice versa. But in any event, the Postmaster said, the one-delivery-a-day service in residential areas will remain.

the jury. "You can only bring in a choice of three verdicts," he said, "acquittal, murder, or manslaughter. I have no hesitation in stating that at time Howard entered into the rooms occupied by McGinnis his actions gave excuse for sudden provocation. However there is a doubt for this excuse in that considerable time might have elapsed between the period when the accused left his own place to borrow the shotgun shells and returned. It is up to the jury to decide if McGinnis had time to cool off and committed the crime as alleged in a clear state or if it was committed while still angered and confused by the insults and assault of Howard."

Following the leaving of the jury, Mr. Justice Green concurred in a request of Mr. Weldon to call the jury back to explain that provocation as reason for the changing of a murder charge to manslaughter might be less for an intoxicated man than for a sober person.

Following the verdict of the jury, Mr. Weldon made a further plea on behalf of the accused. "This young man," he said, "has never been in serious difficulties. He is not a common criminal and if ever a man had real excuse to commit a crime it was McGinnis. I have read books of similar tragedies but never have I heard or read of a case that could compare with this one in giving cause to provocation for drastic action."

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, Nov. 5 — (CP).— Receipts of dressed chicken are heavy and are in excess of demand, both in the city and outside points. Receipts of dressed fowl are light but there is a surplus which is being stored away, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. While receipts of live chicken and fowl have declined, they are in excess of the demand. Live poultry dealers are content with the volume because of limited storage space.

Local demand is good but this has been affected to some extent by producers delivering direct to retailers and also by more plentiful offerings of fresh pork on the market. Enquiries from the Maritimes and Northern Ontario points have fallen off and shipments to Montreal are light owing to the shortage of storage space at that point.

Demand for turkeys, geese and ducks is good but receipts are very light. One carload of fowl from Western Canada, consisting of grades B and C was offered but no sales were made.

Export shipments of chicken from here during the past week totalled 22,000 lbs. The quality of chicken is showing some improvement but there is a considerable amount of undergrade fowl arriving.

Dealers are paying producers and country shippers for poultry, loose packed, delivered Toronto:

Cecil G. Frost Gives Up Tory Leadership

TORONTO, Nov. 5—First general meeting in more than five years of the Progressive Conservative Association of Ontario has been called, to be held in Toronto Nov. 12, when Cecil G. Frost, Lindsay, president since July, 1938, has announced he will resign.

Mr. Frost said last night that only pressure of his legal practice and the decision that "young blood" should carry on leadership of the party which older stalwarts had brought to power after being "out" since Mitchell F. Hepburn's Liberal triumph in 1934 prompted his action.

Election of new officers, he said, also would open the field for women, and he pointed out that there is nothing in the association's constitution to prevent a woman being chosen to its highest office.

Gardiner Possible Choice

Report from authoritive sources has it, however, that Reeve Frederick G. Gardiner of Forest Hill Village may very likely be the choice as new association president. He is now first vice-president and, it is said, would be acceptable to those who would oppose appointment of a Toronto man. Ashton R. Douglas, London, vice-president from Western Ontario, and Elmer Johnson of Brockville also are mentioned.

Party policy, already set down by the Port Hope and Winnipeg conventions, is not to be of paramount importance at the Nov. 12 meeting, to be attended by some 540 delegates from Ontario Provincial and Federal ridings. The meeting is for only one day as it is ostensibly to name officers only.

But President Frost admitted possibility of a snap Federal election would be under discussion and "organizational matters as they apply to the present-day scene."

Sword Under Cloak

"We certainly have the possibility of a Federal election in mind," Mr. Frost said, and recalled the comment of Federal Leader John Bracken that "Mr. King has a sword under his cloak."

Premier George A. Drew and his entire Cabinet are to meet the delegates and Mr. Bracken also is expected to attend.

Changes in the association's constitution are problematical. The Ontario Liberal convention last spring, it will be remembered, changed its constitution to bar from office in the association any member who held Provincial or Federal Cabinet rank.

COBOURG

Rival For Girl Given Suspended Term

COBOURG, Nov. 5.—(ENS). — Wilbert Smith of Cavan township, was given two years' suspended sentence and bonded to keep out of trouble in the sum of $150 when he appeared in police court Thursday for sentence on a charge of sending a letter to Roy Breckenridge of the same township in which he threatened to set fire to his premises. At his trial last week, Smith, 29, intimated that there was girl trouble between him and Brackenridge and that he had sent the anonymous threatening letter to "give him something to think about."

"I am informed by his father that they operate a farm. His mother is not well and his parents need him on the farm," commented Crown Attorney Harry Deyman. "If I thought that he'd carry out his threat to set fire, I'd suggest a long term in prison. Perhaps your Worship can arrange that he make some guarantee to behave himself."

Wrong Approach.

Smith told the court that he still felt that he had a grievance but realized that he had gone the wrong way to square things up. He admitted that he should have appproached Brackenridge personally.

"You certainly did take the wrong course of action," stated Magistrate R. B. Baxter. "You should have gone to him and threshed it out with him. I don't mean fight over it, but you should have had the courage to talk to him and see what could be done about it. Your father has told me that he thinks you should have told Brackenridge to go his way and you would go yours. It certainly would have been the wiser thing to have talked the matter over with him instead of threatening to set his place on fire.

"As is usually the case the parents suffer. Your mother and father are getting up in years and should be gettng comfort and help from you instead of embarrassment. The Crown Attorney suggests that you and your father enter on a bond and that you be placed on suspended sentence. I accordingly suspend sentence for one year and I hope that while you have been in jail you have thought things over. If for some reason or other Brackenridge's barn had burned, regardless of the cause, suspicion would have immediately rested on you. Let it be a lesson to you to keep your head."

At the request of Smith, the magistrate increased the term of suspended sentence to two years.

General Free To Act

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 5 (AP)—The Interior Ministry yesterday announced the resignation of seven of the country's 14 provincial interventors (federal appointed administrators) and three of nine territorial governors. A communique said the move was designed to give the new minister, Gen. Luis Perlinger, freedom of action.

Utilities Staff Awarded Victory Loan Flag

The employees of Peterborough Utilities were presented with the Three Star "V" flag, symbol of achievement in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign. It is being held by Robert Fenn (LEFT) of Harry Beatty's crew, and James Curran (RIGHT), who is on the Commission's retired list. He was chosen to receive the flag from W. A. Reid of the National War Finance Committee, a tributary gesture to a veteran of the civic service. Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Commission, presided at the little ceremony concluding the Utilities drive.

Flight Lieutenant Lloyd Parnall Describes Raid On Bremen

At the request of the National War Finance Committee Flight Lieutenant Lloyd Parnall of the R.C.A.F. spoke over CHEX last night in an appeal for the Fifth Victory Loan. He arrived home from overseas several days ago after an absence since the end of the summer of 1941.

Flight Lieutenant Parnall's account of his first bombing raid over Bremen and his fine tributes to his companions of the air, were striking features of his address from which his audience must have drawn the inference buying of Bonds for the Fifth Victory Loan is an infinitely easy way of contributing to Victory as compared with dodging Hun flak, and also with the daily hazards of wartime flying.

So many people have asked me how I felt the night of that first raid. To be perfectly honest, I can't really tell you. We had known since 10:30 in the morning that we (our crew) were to go and from that time onward my stomach did things that I didn't believe it was capable of.

Waiting For Night

We carried out the normal pre-operational tests on our aircraft which was "L. London." These were completed before lunch and we had the afternoon to ourselves since briefing wasn't until 1900 hours (seven o'clock) in the evening. After briefing was over we had nearly three hours to wait until take-off. Carefully we checked all our equipment making doubly sure that everything we could possibly need was in its proper place. We donned our flying clothing, our two gunners, of course had to put on more warm clothing than the rest of us. Even in the middle of summer the temperature is well down below the freezing level at 2,000 feet.

As we sat and smoked on the grass in front of our aircraft, we could hear other slower aircraft passing over our heads. They created a steady drone and as the last light of day faded in the west we could see their navigation lights shining high up in the black sky. Soon it was our turn and we were in the air to join the host of others.

Close to Target

I don't know whether all the other members of the crew are as fortunate as the navigator but I found I hadn't time to think of the dangers that awaited us in the night. In less than an hour we were across the enemy coast and very frequently from then on I heard the gunners warning the pilot about flak and searchlights. It wasn't long until I called out to the boys that we were 20 minutes away from the target and less than five minutes later the pilot and front gunner reported the target ahead. So I left my table and went up to bomb-aimers compartment and set up the bombsight ready for bombing.

The last five minutes into the target seemed like years. One could see the bombs of the other aircraft bursting on the city ahead. The incendiaries look like sparklers when they first strike, but as they gradually catch hold a huge fire appears which casts a bright red glow over the whole sky. There were three or four of these fires, each one of them would represent an area equal in size to Peterborough.

4,000 Ton Bomb

We managed to do our bombing run down the river and after the necessary corrections were made the pilot held the aircraft straight and level and we released our bomb. I say bomb because we had only one, a 4,000 pound block buster and when it was released there was absolutely no doubt about it because we could feel the aircraft rise very materially.

Like our outward journey the trip home was very uneventful. You can rest assured we didn't hang around over the target but rather put the nose down and saw the last of it in short order. Only once before we crossed the enemy coast were we picked up by a cone of searchlights. Our pilot very cooly and skilfully manoeuvered us out of them without damage even if we did lose 10,000 feet during the four or five minutes.

Last Plane Home

We returned to base to find we were the last aircraft back, but that didn't bother us. We had successfully completed our first trip and believe me, the feeling of relief and satisfaction can never be put in words.

But enough of my experiences—they are tame in comparison with hundreds of others. They go out night after night never knowing what is ahead of them. Some of them are boys of 19, 20 and 21, and other are more matured. They see their comrades take off with them and when they land, they learn that perhaps one or even, two crews from the squadron have not returned. Seven men in each crew drawn closely together by the task that was theirs and by the dangers they faced had gone forth into the night and had not returned. No word received, the last we had seen of them was when they set course over base and headed out toward enemy territory. I can't tell you how we felt or how our hearts ached for their loved ones back home. There was so little we could tell them in their time of sorrow.

But, I can say this, they were all men—real men. They saw their duty and grimly and determinedly faced it. They died in the service of their King and Country that you and I might have a better and a safer Canada. The fathers and mothers of each and every one of these boys can well be proud of them. They are the heroes of this war like every other war. But never let it be known that those for whom they sacrificed their lives were not worthy of the trust. We all have our part to play and I do mean ALL. Every single person can do something and not the least by any means is your investment in Victory Bonds.

What Your Money Buys

When I see the figures of finance compiled for our information they are beyond my powers of comprehension. But, do you realize just how much it costs to train seven men who are capable of delivering a taste of hell and destruction to our enemies. The training alone for a seven man crew costs in the neighbourhood of $200,000. The bombers they fly costs $250,000. Every aircraft that takes part in a night raid at present (and the total isn't very far short of a 1,000) requires 1,800 gallons of gas on the average. Those are just a few of the expenses. I haven't mentioned the cost of maintenance or transporting the gas, etc., nor the cost of the bombs or mines. Mines for example cost nearly $5 per pound of weight. Every day new equipment is coming out which makes it safer for our boys to fly over Germany. Your bond may be the one that will enable a still greater invention to come forth for the protection of your son or of somebody else's.

Security in Canada

Surely we don't ask too much. If the government were asking you to GIVE money instead of investing it, there still wouldn't be any

Joy Riders Take Car

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5. — (ENS).— A car reported stolen at 11.30 last night was recovered shortly after midnight by Police Constable D. Bowen. The vehicle was owned by Earl Dunham of Seymour township, who had parked it on Bridge street near Tice. It was recovered in a shallow ditch on Havelock road, where it had been abandoned. No damage had been done to the car and about a gallon of gas remained in the tank, so police are of the opinion it was taken by joy riders.

Rebekah Officers Are Installed

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5. — (ENS).—The presentation of a past president's jewel by the vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly, Sister Edith Hall of Kingston, was a feature of the annual installation ceremony held at Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge here Wednesday evening. The presentation was made to Sister Laura Lowe. An additional tribute to Sister Lowe for her energetic leadership took the form of a beautiful bouquet of 'mums.

The installation ceremony was conducted by district officers from Lindsay, including the District Deputy, Sister DeBoise and Grand Marshall Sister Shaw, with the assistance of local officers. Upwards of 75 were present and included visitors from Frankford, Trenton, Lindsay, Peterborough and Havelock. After the investiture all enjoyed a social hour which concluded with a sumptuous supper.

Council Ready To Consider Having Airport

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 5 (ENS) —An airport is going to be the number one item on the list that will go before this town's post war planning committee, Mayor Frank Long told the council Thursday night when a delegation from the local branch of the Canadian Legion appeared at the meeting requesting the matter be given consideration.

The Mayor named the whole council as a committee for post war planning, saying the idea was too big for anything short of a committee of the whole council, and suggested citizens might be called for a general meeting to discuss the matter.

The Legion delegation comprised Major J. M. Bygott and Major A. T. Linton, who explained they felt this town should look into the question of a landing field for post war years. Major Bygott declared similar proposals were under consideration by other municipalities, and he assured council of support in the matter if they would take the initiative. The mayor declared the suggestion would receive careful consideration at the initial meeting of the committee.

As Legion President Major Bygott also invited council to attend in a body the Remembrance Day services planned for 2.30 Sunday, and on motion council accepted the invitation to march from the Armouries with the Legion and other groups.

Midnight Shows Halted

Councillor Taylor reported the local theatre had complied with the request to discontinue the Sunday midnight show. He also reported "progress" on the anti-noise by-law which is being studied. Finance chairman Calver said when his committee budgeted for the collection of $7,000 in arrears of taxes last January, they had felt at the time it was too optimistic, but the amount has been exceeded by $300. He suggested that the 1944 council might study a new scale of commissions for the tax collector, whose income under the present system goes down each time the tax rate is reduced. To compensate the collector for this he moved that a $100 bonus be paid to him for the current year, and this carried, the amount being added to the pay sheet.

In his tax collector's report J. C. Birmingham said that of the total roll of $63,131.83 there had been $42,897.92 collected, leaving a balance of approximately $15,000 to come in.

In October the tax department collected $665.21 in current taxes and $251.55 on arrears while the total arrears collected for the year amounted to $7,304.69. In his capacity of School Attendance Officer Mr. Birmingham revealed total enrolment at the Public School was 370 and October attendance was 91.56 per cent.

Purchase Wood

The question of buying a reserve supply of fuel wood, originally discussed at the October meeting, was again aired by members. Councillor Mason declared his committee had already negotiated the purchase of 50 cords of mixed wood, with a further 50 to come if it was satisfactory. Council ratified this action and decided it should be placed on the property east of the Water and Light Commission's buildings.

Communications included the request for renewal of an accident policy on town permanent employees with the E. A. Bell agency at a premium of $178.79—referred to the Finance chairman; from Mayor James Hamilton of Peterborough, expressing sympathy on behalf of that body on the death of Councillor John O'Sullivan. Mayor Long made a motion that the letter be acknowledged and inscribed in the minutes. At the opening of the meeting Council had observed a minute's silence in honor of Mr. O'Sullivan.

No Information

In response to a request from the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter the Council agreed to pay postage on their overseas parcels. Councillors Taylor and Mason made the motion and inserted in it provision for paying postage on Red Cross parcels.

Council got little satisfaction from Selective Service officials in Peterborough from whom they had requested information regarding a raid conducted here on October 7. Following a wave of criticism they had instructed the Clerk to write the Board requesting an original list of the names given to police for rounding up. With the polite refusal of the Board to give any information council focused attention on its police department and on motion of Councillors Taylor and Brady the Police Ociel will be requested to appear before the next regular or special meeting for questioning on the matter.

How Long Will Germany Resist?

There is a growing body of opinion which holds that the war with Germany is nearing its end. By no means all of it can be dismissed as wishful thinking; there are too many reports of conditions inside Germany which lend support to the idea. Germany's shortages of food are growing to the proportions of famine; the morale of the civil population is falling daily; the impossibility of dealing effectively with Allied air blows has been amply demonstrated; the disaster of the Russian expedition is now apparent even to the victims of Dr. Goebbels' Ministry of Culture and Enlightenment.

The German people now are not in a much better position than the peoples of the occupied countries in the matter of food and ordinary comforts. Inflation of German currency is reported to be greatly on the increase, and business and the export trades have been crippled by the total mobilization of every able-bodied person for the war effort. The middle classes have suffered very heavily, and a decline in their morale and enthusiasm for the war must have a profoundly depressing effect on the whole population. Most Germans are now working for the state, and inevitably there is an immense bureaucracy controlling them; as always when bureaucracy becomes inflated beyond reason, there is a great deal of barefaced corruption.

Germany may not be able to last longer than next spring. It is true that German troops are still fighting very capably in Italy and Russia, and that progress in Italy this winter will undoubtedly be slow. But German discipline is seen at its best in the fighting forces. The breakdown, when it comes, will come on the home front.

The question is: will the German High Command risk a breakdown? It is well established that, whatever may come, the military caste will attempt to retain their hold on Germany, and they will not want to run the risk of serious revolution or complete demoralization of the civil population. As Miss Dorothy Thompson has pointed out, the German commanders are realists, and they have no wish to prolong a war which they cannot win. It must have been clear to them for some time that nothing short of a miracle would bring them victory in the present conflict. Will they accept that fact, and sue for peace as quickly as they can, in order to salvage what they may from the wreck of Germany?

Food and morale are inextricably linked. The food situation in Germany now is not as bad as it was in 1918, but it is rapidly dropping toward the 1918 level; it will have reached that level by next spring. The internal economic reserves of Germany are in a more exhausted condition than they were at the end of the last war. The manpower situation is more strained than it was in 1918, and the presence of eight million foreign workers in the Reich has a depressing effect on morale—the similarity between the fate of these "subject" workers and the true-blue Aryans is too poignant to be borne. And the submarine war has failed, which is a crushing blow to German faith in the efficacy of machines and terrorist methods of warfare. The Allied raids are a greater terror to Germany than her submarines ever were to us.

As this paper has said before, it would be most unwise for us to count on a German collapse, and to relax in our efforts in so doing. But all evidence shows that a German collapse is near, and that extra effort on our part will hasten it. That is the only safe way to look at the matter.

Patriotism Stops At The Pocket

At present Canadians are being asked to put their money in a safe investment at good interest, in order to help the war effort, and quite a few of us are doing so. The attention of the nation has also been drawn to the matter of union organizations, owing to the strike in the western coal mines. For these two reasons, the following item of news from Toronto is interesting: Last week a Theatre Guild production of The Patriots visited the theatre there, with the celebrated actor Walter Hampden at the head of the cast. It played all week, and on Sunday last the company stayed in Toronto to give a special performance for members of the armed services. This caused some re-arrangement of their timetable, but they did it, and what is more they did it for nothing, as a contribution toward entertaining our men and women. These actors were Americans. But some Canadian musicians were needed for the afternoon, and they charged a full day's pay for their services. The stage hands charged double wages because it was Sunday. The patriotism of these people, it appears, stops before it reaches their pockets. One of the curious things about some union organizations is the way in which they stifle any generous instincts which their members may have.

This incident recalls a story about that great and ingenious lady, Miss Lilian Baylis, who for many years managed the Old Vic—the London theatre which specializes in productions of Shakespeare and the classic repertoire. During the last war she was getting up an entertainment for soldiers in her theatre, which was at that time lighted with gas. "Write to the Gas Company, dear", she said to her secretary, "and tell 'em that if they'll give the gas free for this performance we'll put it in the program. And tell 'em that if they won't, we'll put that in too!" Perhaps the threat of a note in the program would have convinced the Toronto musicians and scene shifters that there is a Canadian solidarity which is more important than union solidarity, and that they should not shame their country before the generous American visitors.

King Victor Is Asked To Leave

It is ironical and humiliating for King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to be asked to abdicate by Pietro Badoglio, for Badoglio is tarred a black, or blacker, than the King with the Fascist brush. That the King must go is fairly obvious; that Badoglio should ask him to go must be a bitter pill.

Victor Emmanuel is reaping now the wretched crop he sowed twenty years ago. He was weak, he was opportunist, he was short-sighted; men in great places cannot afford these faults, and now it looks as though they would cost him his throne. It is doubtful, however, if he will shed many bitter tears over that throne; it has been an uneasy seat for a long time. If a regency is created for the little Prince of Naples the dynastic ambitions of the House of Savoy will be satisfied, and Victor Emmanuel will be well out of an awkward and uncomfortable position.

Report has it that Italy is eager for a republic. This will cause enthusiasm in some countries, perhaps, but not in all. Republics are well enough in their way, but they are a direct reflection of the people who comprise them. Are the Italians ready for a republican experiment yet? There are practical advantages in democratic government under a constitutional monarchy which cannot be hastily set aside. There is stabilizing effect in the existence of a king whose powers are few and limited, but impossible to question or usurp; a throne is a bulwark to which a whole government may successfully be related. Republics lack such time-honoured and accustomed bulwarks, and they are more easily shifted. Italy would do well to reflect before she throws her monarchy overboard.

Badoglio is reported to be working in close association with Count Carlo Sforza, an Italian of truly democratic opinions, and Benedetto Croce, the philosopher who flirted with Fascism and found out its true nature too late to use his influence against it. What Sforza and Croce find to ally themselves with in Badoglio is one of the mysteries of our time. If the Italians establish a government with the former Fascist at its head the chances for Italian democracy are considerably lessened.

NOTE AND COMMENT

All that a lot of girls are going to have to hang up this Christmas is an empty paint bottle.

There are two sides to everything. Doubtless there are hockey players who feel that too much attention is being paid to the war.

"Gorgeous Gams of Marlene Dietrich Gleam With Gold Paint From Hipbone to Toenail", says a movie press release, for the benefit of those who worship the Golden Calf.

The New York Herald Tribune says that the reading of editorial pages has increased by more than 75 per cent. among men and 50 per cent. among women. Which, we vigorously maintain, shows that there is progress in the world, whatever the pessimists may say.

Canadian Verse

By PROF. ROY DANIELLS
Of the University of Manitoba
From the Winnipeg Free Press

THE perfect anthology, like the perfect marriage, is a highly individual affair and exists more often in imagination than in reality. But in an imperfect world great praise is due to the anthologist who can combine good judgment and real taste with common sense. Mr. A. J. M. Smith's Book of Canadian Poetry is a most satisfactory handling of the domestic issue. And in presenting Canadian verse in a setting of Canadian biography and history he has not forgotten the large issues of poetic truth and of permanent values. Nor has he forgotten the reader's first and most legitimate need—for delight. Above all things, poetry should give pleasure. "See," said the prince in the very old story, "how mine eyes have been enlightened, because I tasted a little of this honey."

It is a heart-warming discovery how much good verse is now being written by poets of whom the public has scarcely heard. To quote from one who is perhaps the best among the younger group, from Margaret Avison whose poetry is (in the primary sense of both words) both shocking and alarming, a poetry of pure ecstasy and pure pain:

An uproar,
a spruce-green sky, bound in iron,
the murky sea running a sulphur scum,
I saw a butterfly, suddenly.
It clung between the ribs of the storm, wavering, and flung against the battering bone-wind.
I remember it, glued to the grit of that rain-strewn beach that glowered around it, swallowed its startled design
In the larger iridescence of unstrung dark.

Or if one desires pain and ecstasy to be completely controlled and patterned, there is this, by a poet already well and favourably known, a sonnet by Robert Finch. We have nothing in our tradition more perfect of its kind.

It is over, the ceaseless search is over,
Souls may collide but not like bodies mate,
After collision they must separate,
Minds are not twins as Calais is to Dover.

Searching was half the world while searching lasted,
Finding was all the world created new,
Losing was hardest to believe come true,
But search, find, loss, not one of them is wasted.

That sheds this timeless moonlit week on week
In an uncumulative series. Frost
Could not quietlier gild and geld the fall.

There is no search when nothing is left to seek,
Nothing to find when what was found is lost,
Nothing to lose when what is lost was all.

BUT the display of particular and often unexpected beauties in the anthology is against a framework of historical development, a ladder whose rungs reach down to songs of the Haidas and ballads from Old France. The book, in fact, makes visible in one sweep the tradition of Canadian poetry and the foundations of our claim to a tradition of our own, separate from, however closely allied with, the American and British poetic traditions. To quote Mr. Smith's own words:

Canadian poetry, indeed, is the record of life in Canada as it takes on significance when all the resources of sensibility, intelligence and spirit are employed in expressing it or understanding it. Some of the poets have concentrated on what is individual and unique in Canadian life and others upon what it has in common with life everywhere. The one group has attempted to describe and interpret whatever is essentially and distinctively Canadian and thus come to terms with an environment that is only now ceasing to be colonial. The other, from the very beginning, has made a heroic effort to transcend colonialism by entering into the universal, civilizing culture of ideas.

"To trace this twofold purpose back to the beginning of Canadian literature" is the task Mr. Smith proposes to himself. He makes many discoveries, some illuminating, some merely curious. Few of his readers will know anything of Charles Heavysege, who came to Canada in his late thirties in 1853, and produced an impressive dramatic poem of ten thousand lines, called Saul, full of Shakespearian echoes, but with resounding passages of great beauty. Beside this English carpenter who had read his Bible, most of his contemporaries seem slight. Another surprise for the average reader is a Canadian poet named Oliver Goldsmith, a relative of the author of The Deserted Village, who complemented his great-uncle's gloomy picture of Ireland with a cheerful poem of Canadian settlement, The Rising Village.

The favorites of the Canadian poetry books are all represented, and in more realistic proportions than usual. Charles G. D. Roberts is compressed to a few pages, half the number given to E. J. Pratt, and he emerges all the better for this operation. Mr. Smith, in fact, in rescuing the best from the mass, performs for Roberts the same service that Matthew Arnold performed for Wordsworth.

Every reader (and the readers should be many) will be sorry to see one or more of his own special interests omitted, and this reader would like to have found Lionel Haweis represented, a poet to whom justice has yet to be done. And, on the lighter side, something might have been included from that superb flowering of humour, unconscious as well as intentional, that lurks in the undergrowth of Canadian letters. My own anthology would take in A. W. Crawford's "I'm a little strawberry," and a gobbett or two from the works of that apocryphal poetess Sarah Binks, a magnificent home-grown genius of whom her creator, Paul Hiebert, has written: "No other poet has expressed the Saskatchewan soul: no other poet has caught in deathless lines some of its elusive spirit, some of the baldness of its prairies, the alkalinity of its soil, the richness of its insect life. And no wonder Saskatchewan took her to its broad flat bosom."

TO get back, however, to the contents of Mr. Smith's anthology. If our first surprise is the excellence of our contemporaries — A. M. Klein and Earle Birney, for further example—the second is to find how good and enduring is the nature poetry of men born in the 1860's. How homely and yet how dignified is the close of Roberts' sonnet "The Mowing":

The crying knives glide on; the green swath lies.
And all noon long the sun, with chemic ray,
Seals up each cordial essence in its cell,
That in the dusky stalls, some winter's day,
The spirit of June, here prisoned by his spell,
May cheer the herds with pasture memories.

Between the older and the younger men it is pleasant, but no surprising, to recognize the figure of E. J. Pratt, who in terms of his total achievement is easily our most impressive living poet.

The book, then, is both an historical ladder leading out of the past into the present and a springboard of hope for the immediate future of Canadian verse. It should be in every schoolroom in English-speaking Canada. It should be, but it will not be; in that fact we have an embodiment of the one staggering generalization that may safely be made of Canadian poetry, past, present, and far into the future: its excellence has sprung from the vision, the self-nurtured impulse, the self-taught craftsmanship of a handful of individuals in the face of an immense public indifference, deadly though unspoken: and none the less menacing because it is polite.

Suggests Site for City Hall

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—The City Council are to be congratulated on the study they are making and the thought they are giving for the site of a new city hall.

It seems to me that this building should not be thought of apart from a general scheme linking up some badly needed improvements. Let us take a look at plans already in the offing.

The land for the new postal-customs office has been purchased by the Dominion Government. It comprises a strip along Charlotte street from the Greene Building to Lewis street and south as far as King street. This building will no doubt be set back from the street line giving a chance for some decorations in the way of shrubs or flowers.

Why could not the city take over the property from Lewis to Aylmer and from Charlotte to King. The city hall would face on Charlotte street, with the building line corresponding with that of the Post Office. The rear of the city hall at Aylmer and King streets would be an ideal place for the new artificial ice rink and convention hall combined.

There will be a good deal of room for parking at the rear of the Post Office and Aylmer stret could be continued south from King street to Sherbrooke street at its present width in front of the C.N.R. freight sheds, giving more space for night parking at least.

The present market hall building is most unsuitable for that purpose. So let us plan for a new market with a one storey building which would obviate the climbing of stairs. It would have a dual purpose of a place of selling and buying produce, and for more parking space.

The property from King to Sherbrooke and from the creek to Aylmer has no very important buildings on it, and could be cleared without too great an expense. This would fit in with the other proposed buildings, and would make an ideal set up.

The City Fathers would do well to consult some professional town planning and landscaping expert, and at least get his opinion on this matter, as it is too important to make a mistake since we are planning for a great number of years to come. The City Trust Commission has been wise in conserving its funds for just such an investment, and with what has been given to the people by the W. G. Morrow estate, the burden on the taxpayers would not be too great.

May I suggest, Mr. Editor, that you encourage the citizens to use your columns to express their views on a site for the new city hall.

J. S. MIDDLETON.

A Fort Against Winter

AS autumn passes, it seems more and more important that we go out and see this country just as it is before winter makes it something else. Long walks now through fields and woods and loitering drives over winding back roads. Dwellings, freed from vines and and the foliage of yard trees, can be seen clearly now. The general mass of house and shed and barn, joined together as a fort against the onslaught of New Hampshire winter, is good....

The forehanded householders have banked up their house foundations to keep winter chill from the floors and frost from the cellar. Such banking is a most ancient custom, perhaps an evolution of the caves in the earth which settlers made for themselves at the very first. It is generally done by making a sort of bin around the foundations with boards and stout stakes driven into the ground, filled perhaps with sawdust, of which New Hampshire has a plenty.... The severely practical leave this banking naked and unashamed, but others cover it with boughs of evergreen.

In the dooryards Michaelmas daisies and China asters may still be bright, for they ignore light frosts, and as the frosts get harder the farmer's wife covers the plants every night with burlap or old canvas to save them as long as may be. Long "traces" of golden or garnet seed corn hang by the barn doors, and on the ground below, stacks of orange and blue-gray squashes and tawny pumpkins are curing in the sunshine. On long clotheslines hang multicoloured patchwork quilts brought down from attic chests to air before winter use. Do the farmer people know they are painting a canvas, putting on a show? It seems so in the way they have arranged the colours and in the publicity of the places they have chosen for the display.

And the big woodsheds, too. The end toward the road is open, built that way, and is like a show window. The well-saved great sticks, with the ends all toward the passer-by, are packed in with an eye not only for thrift and order but also for "looks." Della Lutes, not a New Englander, has applied the word "smugly" to that handsome storing of wood. I do not like that word. Our woodshed art is no more smug than any other sincere art and it has that most honourable beauty—the beauty of the utile....

All trees now reveal their structure and character; a maple is a maple and an ash an ash; and along the roadside the feathery and starry forms of dried goldenrod and asters, still intact, are seen more clearly now the colour is gone....

What late wild fruits the autumn affords become conspicuous. The sumac shows among a few scarlet leaves its velvet, cone-shaped clusters. High-bush cranberries though frost-damaged hang brilliant above wayside walls. And high above, unharvested apples, golden-green or dusky red or brown, in careless orchards and on wild trees, hang down-drooping and decorative, like lights, like gifts. — From "A Sense of Humus," by Bertha Damon (New York: Simon & Schuster.)

A Bible Message

And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden. And the Lord God called up to Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou. And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself.

And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat? And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And the Lord God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou are cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life: and I will put enmity between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel....

And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.... In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return. (Gen. 3: 8-15, 17, 19.)

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 —(CP)—In all recent discussions of the part the United States should play in the post-war world, one word has been bobbing up with increasingly frequency—"sovereignty."

It appears in the Republican declaration at Mackinac Island, the Connally resolution in the Senate and the declarations of many unofficial organizations. It is used to suggest that the United States should join with "free and sovereign nations" or participate "among sovereign nations" to enforce the peace.

The Moscow declarations, however, stress equality of sovereignty among nations, large and small, in the maintenance of international peace and security.

It has been suggested here, although never officially or publicly, that one reason for the inclusion of the word "sovereignty" in the Republican resolution calling for participation "in post-war co-operative organization among sovereign nations...." was the constitutional status of Canada and the other dominions of the British Commonwealth. According to some sources, the Republicans wished to exclude Canada from any post-war organization on the old and discredited theory that Canada lacks sovereignty.

That Republicans might wish to exclude Canada is something this reporter has failed to discover. Likewise, I have failed to find any Republican leader who would admit Canada was the reason for the use of the word "sovereignty."

NAVIES IN POST-WAR

High officials of the United States government are giving detailed study these days to technical problems arising from plans to make the British and American navies an effective police power in the post-war transition period until some form of international authority can assume responsibility for enforcing the peace.

The two navies, supported by the warships of Canada and the other United Nations, now co-operate on well-defined strategic lines laid down by the combined chiefs of staff committee in Washington and no alliance or treaty would be necessary to prolong it indefinitely. It would require merely an "understanding."

The proposal now under study here includes a division of global territory, mutual or reciprocal use of naval and air bases and unified command areas. Only the other day is was announced that two 45,000-ton aircraft carriers are being built in the United States. It will be at least two years before they join the fleet. Obviously this is a step above and beyond the immediate task of winning a war in the Pacific.

German and British Soldiers

When Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery was talking to the boys of Amesbury school in Great Britain, shortly before he left for the attack on Sicily, he told them:

I would say that the chief difference between the German and the British soldier is that the German soldier laughs at other people's misfortunes while the British soldier laughs at his own misfortunes.

Well said, Sir Bernard, and may we include our American soldiers, too, in the same category as the British?—Milwaukee Journal.

Judicial Equanimity

Confronted with evidence of 1,100 errors in enumeration in eight polls in Montreal Cartier riding, the investigating commissioner found this percentage of mistakes "higher than one could reasonably expect—in fact, startling." He is not an all-out cynic yet, apparently, but his faith in Montreal enumerators must be badly shaken.—Windsor Star.

57th Chapter Votes $100 For Libraries

The need for books for the Army, Navy and Air Force libraries was stressed at the regular meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D E., held in the Armouries Thursday afternoon. The Regent, Mrs. C. Turner, in reporting on the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter held at Niagara Falls last month, spoke of the urgent need for books for the armed services, and the members of the Chapter voted the sum of $100, to be used for camp libraries.

The war work convener gave her report as follows: Four quilts and some heavy clothing have been sent for Polish relief. Two extra sewing machines were secured for the workroom, where sewing is done each Monday afternoon, and quilting on Tuesday afternoon. During the month, 67 patients in Nicholls Hospital, and 32 in the Training Centre Hospital were visited. Ditty bags are being filled for the Navy, and the contents of 5 of these bags have been donated by the Buckhorn War Workers. It was decided to take $100 for clothing to be sent to England.

The Chapter is in charge of the dance for the soldiers in the Y.W.C.A. on November 15. The interest from the bequest of the late Mrs. Duncan Walker will be used to furnish a prize for public school competition.

Tea Planned.

Several members of the Chapter expressed regret at the apparent lack of respect shown by most children for the War Memorial in Confederation Park, and the secretary was instructed to write to Alderman Curtis, urging that some action be taken to prevent children from climbing on it.

Plans were completed for the annual Armistice Day tea, to be held in the Y.W.C.A. on November 11, when the draw will be made for an oil painting donated by Miss Gertrude Cox. The Regent reportd that 981 Christmas boxes had been packed for Peterborough boys overseas, and Mrs. C. E. Newman read an instructive article by Sir Stafford Cripps entitled, "Problems for a Post War World." It was also reported that 200 ships have been adopted by the I.O.D.E. Chapters, and that 43 Chapters are waiting to adopt one.

A former member, Mrs. S. Touchburn, and a Toronto member, Mrs. Quakenbush, now residing in Lakefield, were visitors.

Ellis—Hedley

HAVELOCK, Nov. 5—(ENS).—A wedding of interest was solemnized recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Doner Stayner, when their granddaughter, Catherine Jean Hedley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hedley, Detroit, became the bride of Sgt. Russell Ellis, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Ellis, Havelock, with Rev. J. A. Isaac officiating. Mrs. M. A. Currie played the wedding music, and Mrs. L. A. Doner sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soldier blue crepe frock and matching accessories. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Margaret Hedley, wearing a two-piece dress of rose crepe, and matching accessories. Sgt. Arthur Ray, Camp Borden, was best man.

A buffet luncheon was served to members of the immediate family. Later Sgt. Ellis and his bride left for a short honeymoon, the bride travelling in a brown woollen suit with blue accessories, and upon their return they will reside in Barrie.

While Sgt. Ellis and his bride visited at Havelock, they were tendered a miscellaneous shower at the Blairton Hall by their many friends and relatives. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, followed by refreshments.

W.M.S. To Hold Candle Service

Mrs. J. Gerrard presided at the regular meeting of Knox Women's Missionary Society held in the church parlors Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance, and the meeting opened with a hymn played by Mrs. G. H. Spicer, followed by the singing of a hymn, and a prayer for the society's adopted missionaries.

The treasurer reported that the Thankoffering returns were encouraging. The December meeting will take the form of a Christmas candle-lighting service, in which the missionary organizations will have a part.

The study program was conducted by Mrs. E. Johnston, who used charts and a map to demonstrate the work of the mission hospitals in the villages of Asia and Africa. "Health Education" was illustrated by Mrs. R. Laing and Mrs. C. Weldon, impersonating two medical missionaries engaged in that work. "First Aid by a Non-Medical Missionary" was told by Mrs. Campbell; "Travelling Clinics," by Mrs. J. Allen, and Mrs. J. Ego told of Dr. Aaron McMillan, a Negro physician, who by tact and skill enlisted the services of a once dreaded witch-doctor.

"The Bible, the Foundation of the New Order," was the theme of the worship service, which was in charge of Mrs. A. Sanderson. Readings by members emphasized the need of an earnest study of the Bible. Scripture passages were read by Mrs. J. Morrison.

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, Nov. 5 — (CP). — Tips to help lighten the winter tasks of active housewives:

SAVE DRIPPING — Laura Pepper of the Agriculture Department's consumer section suggests that the housewives make full use of drippings from roasts and other meats to save butter and other cooking fats.

These fats not only add grand flavor to sauces for scalloped dishes and vegetables, stuffings for meat and so on, but their use noticeably stretches the weekly allowance of butter. Spiced cookies, gingerbreads, and other spice cakes, biscuits or pastry crust for meat pies can all use dripping to replace butter or other fats.

Directions for clarifying and using fats are contained in a folder entitled "Saving and Using Fats in the Home," which may be obtained from the Publicity and Extension Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

COOKING CAULIFLOWER — When you are using cauliflower as a vegetable, save some of the flowerets to use raw in a mixed salad, suggests Marion Harlow of Nutrition Services. The stalks and tender green leaves should not be discarded but rather cooked with the rest of the cauliflower.

The stalks take slightly longer to cook, and should be sliced and started a few minutes before the "flowers" are added.

SNOW TIME'S COMING — By the time the snow flies, there'll be many a youngster in Canada cosy in a snow suit his mother made him. And it's not such a big job either.

The travelling wardrobes assembled under the direction of the Prices Board consumer branch contain plenty of ideas for source material for these outdoor garments—old winter coats and heavy velveteen dresses, to name a couple. During the next five months the wardrobes, which include 40 different garments for children, made from reclaimed material, will move into 108 Canadian communities.

"STORABLES" FILL NEED — During the coming months, "storables" will be the answer to the housewife's demand for vegetables in the diet. Canned vegetables, stocks of which were "frozen" last July, shortly will move to retail outlets. Using both storables and canned products will mean adequate supplies for Canadian tables during the winter months.

REFRIGERATOR SENSE — We speak of "wrapping up against the cold," and when food is put in a refrigerator wrapped in paper or paper bags, it is literally wrapped up against the cold, for the paper acts as an insulator, preventing the cold from reaching the food.

WRINGER HINT — Run pillow cases seam first through a washing machine wringer and you'll save the force of water from tearing out the seam and make the cases last longer.

Red Cross Women Finish 3 Quilts

Mrs. H. J. Ford was hostess to the group of Red Cross war workers of her community for the October sewing and knitting meeting held recently. There was a good attendance, and Mrs. W. J. Scott of Peterborough, a former member of the group, and Mrs. R. W. Burgess were guests.

One large quilt and two small quilts were completed during the afternoon. Mrs. W. J. Kane assembled the blocks for the large quilt top, and Mrs. W. Hagerman and Mrs. Ford handed in ten large blocks. Mrs. Peters donated yarn and knit two pairs of gloves and handed in five quilt blocks. Mrs. Hagerman knit two pairs of navy blue socks, and donated yarn. Materials were distributed for making more quilt blocks.

Three ladies of the group packed and sent five Christmas boxes to members of the armed forces overseas. The contents of these boxes were donated, and it was decided to send boxes to the boys from the community in the services when they go overseas.

During the social hour, a hot luncheon was served by the hostess. Mrs. W. Hagerman invited the ladies to meet at her home for the November meeting, and her kind offer was accepted.

BRIDE CALLING IN-LAWS HER "LOVE-KIN" PLEASES HUSBAND

Widower's Children, Aunts, and Grandmother No Obstacle Where Girl Uses Diplomacy.

AMONG the most esteemed of my friends is a woman who always speaks of the relatives she acquired by marriage as "my love kin," which is certainly a novel and surprising way to handle a situation in a world where in-laws are generally regarded as outlaws, and are treated as such.

This woman married a widower with several halfgrown children, who were just at the age when youngsters are most resentful of all parental authority and are just spoiling for a fight with a stepmother. Furthermore, there was a whole galaxy of doting aunts and and cousins, to say nothing of Grandma, on their mother's side, waiting with their spy glasses in their hands to see that no strange woman put anything over on their dead darling's poor, helpless little ones.

Setting Typical for Wrecking Home

In a word, the scene was set for one of those all too common domestic tragedies in which noble Christian women use Commando tactics on each other and that end in wrecked homes, broken hearts, children alienated from their fathers, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness, and from which the dove of peace departs squawking in horror.

Such cases occur so frequently that when we hear of a young girl marrying a man handicapped by such liabilities, we don't know whether to admire her bravery or to deplore her foolhardiness. Anyway, we get out our pocket-handkerchiefs, for experience has taught us that if we have tears to shed we are going to be called upon to shed them for one side or the other, or both.

But in this case they were never needed. The little bride met the enemy and they were hers. She sat at Grandma's feet and asked for guidance. She consulted the aunties and deferred to their opinions. She handled the obstreperous children with so much diplomacy they didn't realize they were being managed. She lavished affection, kindness, attentions upon her in-laws. She made them feel that she was one of them, and they took her into their innermost hearts. They became truly what she called them, her "love kin."

Army Runner Out To Repeat Triumph

The eyes of the sports world are upon Sgt. Gerard Cote, 30, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., Canadian Army physical training instructor at Valleyfield Training Camp, who is running in the classic Yonkers-New York long distance road race on November 7. Cote, who won both the Boston and New York 26-mile races in 1940, and in April of this year, made fans sit up and take notice by again winning the Boston marathon, has plenty at stake now. If he wins the Yonkers grind, he will have repeated his feat of three years ago and definitely put himself in the ranks of the all-time great runners. On the LEFT "iron man" Cote breasts the tape in first place at Boston last spring; on the RIGHT, he shows he knows plenty about the business of soldiering, too.

Jay's Capture Top Spot In City League Bowling

Jimmy Herron and Frank Wood gave the City League men two new bowling marks to shoot at when they shared top honors in the games played last night. With hot performers at work all around them, they both went to town on the pins, Herron chalking up a 912 total which included a 364 single while Woods reeled off a 398 game in 867. Both scores are the best in the City loop this year. Tom Curvin hit 848 and Frank Maloney 809.

The three-way tie for first place which had existed between the Empress, Jay's and K. of C. teams was broken when Jay's defeated Empress 2 to 1 while the K. of C. five were losing two points to the Cleanrites.

Westclox outscored Jack Wade's Outlaws for their first point while a recount of the Gimblett-Fractional Motors match gave the latter team two of the three games.

Cleanrites rolled 3512 for high team three and Ramblers 1385 for best team single while other good individual singles were as follows: Bud Goodson 347, Nelson Routley 341, Tom Curvin 330 and 322, Norm Giles 319, Frank Maloney 306, Les McIntosh 302 and Maurice Giardino 302.

Gerard Cote, Fleet-footed Soldier To Compete At Yonkers and Boston

OTTAWA, Nov. 5—Illness kept the Army's Gerard Cote to second place in the 19 mile Around-the-Bay marathon at Hamilton, Ont., on October 23, but the fleet-footed 30-year-old sergeant from Valleyfield, Quebec, has a couple of dates to prove that sport history repeats itself.

He's out to repeat his 1940 record in winning both the Boston and New York 26 mile road races. The second half of the double classic, the famed Yonkers - New York grind is being run Sunday November 7, and the wiry, dark, "iron man" will be with the starters.

A physical training and army instructor at the Valleyfield Training Camp and a native of Saint Hyacinthe, Que., the galloping sergeant expects to cover about 500 miles in training for the Boston and New York races. Three or four times a week he lopes 20 miles. In his 13 years of running he estimates he's covered something like 60,000 miles, more than twice the circumference of the earth.

Tricky Business

Cote says a marathon runner must have as many tricks as a ball player and will give you the story of his victory over Private Johnny Kelley, U. S. army runner in the Boston classic last April as evidence.

"I knew I had Johnny beaten after fifteen miles of the hilly course," he says. "My trick was in making him think I was tiring on the upgrades. I allowed him to gain every time we came to a climb. Then I moved up alongside him on the flat stretches.

"He gradually weakened in extending himself to gain those temporary leads. When I figured he was about ripe for picking, I moved out in front."

However, he's got none of those mumbo-jumbo secrets for a success that's carried Canadian army colors to victory not only in the continent's leading marathons, but in three distance snowshoe races and at least a dozen army and inter-service track meets.

He carries around a well-thumbed astrology book, but his only "secret" is a normal, moderate life. His present diet is exactly the same as any other Canadian soldier's. One of the "musts" he adheres to is sleep and he says a runner must have at least eight or nine hours of the stuff.

Started Boxing

Cote started out to become a lightweight boxer, liked the roadwork so much that he gave up his ring ambitions. Thirteen years later he still weighs in at the 135 pound lightweight limit and claims the statistics prove a distance runner's best years are between 28 and 35.

The sergeant's time in winning the Boston race was 2.28.25 4-5, one minute, 34 3-5 seconds slower than the world record set by Joe Smith, now of the United States Coast Guard, in 1942. The Canadian might have bettered this time but for the strong winds that retarded the runners.

One of the things in which he takes pride is the fact that while every other runner came limping off the Boston course last April there wasn't the sign of a blister on Cote's dogs.

General feeling around town over the artificial ice arena proposition is one of deep satisfaction that at long last the talking stage has been passed and action has definitely begun. The announcement that a representative committee has been appointed and is proceeding to function immediately has been greeted with joy. The community, this column feels, is unanimous on this arena scheme. Even although the subscription stage is still some distance away it is indicative of the support that there is in town for the movement that yesterday the heads of one of the city's smaller industrial concerns announced that their company wanted to subscribe for $2,500 worth of stock and another fan asked that he should be listed for $500. The two offers are typical of the general feeling throughout the city that a modern arena and community centre is not a luxury but a necessity and that the time has come to put over a drive that will give Peterborough a modern and adequate hockey cushion. Industrial firms, conscious of the importance of entertainment facilities as a factor in maintaining continuity of personnel, are prepared to do their part and the man on the street is 100 per cent behind the proposition. In fact the enthusiasm is so general and so pronounced that there is no possibility of the drive failing.

The Y.M.C.A. Saturday Afternoon Volleyball League which provides exercise and recreation for many well known business, professional and industrial members of the community gets under way Saturday afternoon when all the eight teams in the league will swing into action. This preliminary league which operates until just before Christmas and then is replaced by a series for the Lillico Trophy promises to be even more interesting than usual because the material seems to be very evenly divided and the teams are well-balanced. The result should be plenty of keen competition. The eight captains are El Jones, W. E. Vincent, W. J. Hardill, George C. Scott, W. Stanbury, W. Swiss, Sam Whitehouse and A. E. Dryland. Altogether some 64 players are listed by the eight teams. Consistent attendance at the Saturday afternoon games is ensured by the announcement that players who fail to line up for the majority of the game in the Saturday Afternoon League will not not be eligible for the Lillico series, starting after the New Year.

The Explosive Gotch

Jan Gotch who got himself into the main bout spot on this week's wrestling card because his late arrival moved the Watson-Katan argument up to the middle of the bill, earned himself main bout booking for next week's show by the berserk exhibition he staged at the end of the clash with Flanagan. Gotch had previously given indications of being a bad man, showing flashes of ill-temper in previous appearances here and displaying no hesitation in handing it out to all and sundry, but his outburst Tuesday night when he wound up by slugging everbody he could reach put him in the same class with Bunny Dunlop, Rowdy Dick Hogan and Killer Katan, all of whom have been arousing the ire of the populace for weeks. Gotch has definitely moved into the public enemy rating and he will not have a friend in the house Tuesday night when he moves in against the bounding black Gentleman Jack Clayborne. Incidentally Gotch will probably be in an ugly mood right off the reel because he has a definite grouch where Peterborough crowds are concerned. The attacks made on him by the fans Tuesday night were bad enough but when some of his hecklers tore his expensive bath robe to rags that was the last straw. Gotch simply has no use for the wrestling enthusiasts in this neck of the wood and he'll probably show his feelings before the battle with Clayborne is far on the way.

* * * * * *

As for Clayborne he is meeting the acid test. The fast-moving South African knows that he has to handle Gotch effectively or forfeit his chances of more local bookings. He also knows that by reason of the hostility shown by the fans toward Gotch the latter will be out to give him the well known works. The Black Comet has promised to tame the turbulent Gotch and turn him into a lamb before the main bout next Tuesday night is over and he will have about everybody in town pulling for him to do it. At that however Black Dynamite will need something more than the good wishes of the crowd if he hopes to triumph over Gotch for the latter in addition to being strong and fearless is also considerably faster and more slippery than most of the big fellows Clayborne has been called upon to meet here and he knows all the moves that are popular with the battlers who care nothing for the rules and who hand out all the rought stuff they can get away with. Clayborne had better forget a lot of fancy moves and be ready for a Gotch version of 1943 commando tactics if he has any idea of coming out of the ring in one piece at the end of the battle. Local followers of the game are hoping for a Clayborne win but they want to see Gotch come to plenty of grief before the issue is finally decided.

Staging A Comeback

Probably the best tipoff as to the real scarcity of high-class player material in N.H.L. is furnished by the announcement from Frank Boucher veteran coach of the New York Rangers that he is going to attempt a comeback as a player and will make his appearance in that role when the Rangers meet the Black Hawks in New York tomorrow night. The brilliant Boucher, one of the smoothest play-makers in the history of the game, retired from playing five seasons ago after he had been with the Rangers for twelve full campaigns and since then has been engaged as coach for the Young Men of Manhattan. His return to the ice wars will be watched with interest. Boucher pivoted one of the greatest lines in hockey, flanked by Bill and Bun Cook and the trio set up the record scoring total for one line with 1,105 scoring points in N.H.L. legaue and playoff games. The flashy centre smoothie contributed 155 goals and 252 assists, to that total. In addition Boucher was seven times winner of the Lady Byng Trophy awarded each season for the most gentlemanly player in the N.H.L. The Ranger coach who is now coming back to the game won the award first sixteen years ago in 1927-28 and was finally presented with the original trophy out right because of the manner in which he won it year after year. Fans everywhere will wish Boucher well in the effort he is making to recover his magic touch as a centre ice star.

* * * * * *

The two Canadian entries in the N.H.L. sweepstakes are sitting pretty right now, thank you. The current standing of the loop finds the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Montreal Canadiens tied for first place, with five points each and not a black mark in the loss column. Both were in action on the road last night. Leafs had to face the Stanley Cup champions at Detroit and Hap Day's men came out of that test with a 5-5 tie. Twice they had to come from behind to get on even terms, Babe Pratt doing the trick on the last occasion at the 14.05 mark in the last period and after that the battling Leafs held Jack Adams' hirelings even to emerge with a split of the points. That was the acid test for the Leafs and they met it like champions. Canadiens who became the first N.H.L. club to win a game on the road this season had a tough battle at Chicago last night and finally emerged with a 5 to 3 victory. Canadiens got some useful help from one of their rookies, Fern Majeau who fired two goals in succession for the Flying Frenchmen. Murphy Chamberlain, Toe Blake and Buddy O'Connor were the other successful Canadien marksmen.

4—All games must finish sharp on time.

5—Players who fail to turn up for majority of games will not be eligible for Lillico Trophy series after the New Year.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

A legend of the R.C.A.F. is that "Wherever Dave Harding is, there you will find football." At Brantford yesterday, Group Captain Harding, officer commanding Hagersville air training station, watched his Haggies blank the Brantford Air Force team 14-0 in a home-and-home series in which his team previously had registered an 8-1 victory on the home gridiron. Pte. Wright, formerly of London, earned nine of the points with his booting and halfback W. W. Morris, former middle-distance runner, galloped to a touchdown.

Harding starred for Queen's, Winnipeg, Camp Borden and Ottawa, wherever he happened to be.

After eight years in office, W. C. Tuttle has resigned as president of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, it was announced last night.

Harmon Missing

Word was received last night at Ann Arbour by Louis Harmon that his son, Lieut. Tommy Harmon, Michigan's All-American half-back of 1939 and 1940, had been missing in action in China since Oct. 30 while serving with the U.S. Army Air Force. Last April, Harmon had crashed in the jungles of Central America but reached safety alone.

In an interview at Baltimore, Col. Larry McPhail, former general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, declared yesterday major and important minor baseball loops would operate next year but, beyond that, he wasn't optimistic.

Grosso Back

Counted out in pre-season arrangements because of an injured wrist, Don Grosso, crack centre-man of the Detroit Red Wings, will return to N.H.L. competition Sunday night against Boston Bruins after being fitted with a special aluminum brace, it was announced last night at club headquarters.

Walter R. Okeson, 68, rule-maker of U.S. college football died yesterday at Bethlehem, Pa., after a long illness. After playing for Lehigh in the '90's and serving as an honorary coach, he rose high in intercollegiate circles and framed many of the present playing rules.

LEAFS AND DETROIT TIE 5-5; CANADIENS UPSET BLACK HAWKS 5-3

Chicago's 2nd Loss In Two Starts

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

National Hockey League clubs gradually are "getting acquainted" with the new breakaway pass rule.

On formal introduction last week-end, players generally greeted the rules amendment with the stiff courtesy reserved for first meetings. They're getting more chummy now. Last night, for instance, 18 goals were scored in two league games — an average of nine compared with an average of six in five previous contests.

The snipers had their most unrestrained Roman holiday at Detroit, where Toronto Maple Leafs twice stormed from behind to tie Red Wings 5-5 while Montreal Canadiens conquered Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 on foreign ice.

The results left three undefeated teams in Toronto, Detroit and Montreal, but the two Canadian clubs shared the league lead, two points in front of Detroit, by virtue of having played an extra game.

Red Wings seized the lead three times to the delight of 9,738 home customers, but finally a 40-foot drive by Babe Pratt left the teams in a standoff at the final whistle. Seven of the 10 goals scored were crammed into 14 minutes of the second period.

Carveth Gets Two

Joe Carveth was the leading marksman with two. Mud Bruneteau, Adam Brown and Pat Egan scored singles, while Bill Quackenbush drew three assists. Toronto scorers were Pratt, Ted Kennedy, George Boothman, Mel Hill and Bob Davidson.

Only 6,941 fans watched a lively contest at Chicago in which 14 penalties were assessed, one a match penalty to Ray Getliffe for kicking. The Hawks leaped to the front two minutes after the game started on Billy Mosienko's tally, but Fernand Majau cashed Butch Bouchard's pass six minutes later and sent Canadiens ahead 2-1 with his second goal of the game and his third of the season midway through the second period. Chicago tied it again on Mush March's counter but Murph Chamberlain and Toe Blake sent Montreal in front to stay. Buddy O'Connor's solo made it 5-3 after Clint (Snuffy) Smith, recently purchased from New York Rangers, got Chicago's third goal.

It was Chicago's second loss in as many starts.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 5 —(CP)— A couple of years ago a youngster making the big jump from junior to major league hockey, if he made it at all would be fitted into a second or third-string line for experience. The war changed that and last year 17-year-old Jack Hamilton was called up from Toronto junior ranks to centre Mel Hill and Bob Davidson after Syl Apps was hurt. This year 20-year-old Gus Bodnar has moved direct from Fort William's junior Hurricane Rangers to centre Toronto's number one line with Davidson and Lorne Carr on the Wings. Gus showed class in his first appearance but he's not cocky. "This is quite a space right into big league," he said. "I think I got a real break when they put me between two smooth wingers like Davidson and Carr. They would make any centre look good."

Any junior fit for N.H.L. play, even in war years, must have a good coaching background to go with his natural ability. Bodnar gives much credit to Gordon Houston, who coached the Fort William juniors with whom Gus played the last three years. Bud Poile, last year with Leafs but now in the Army, is another Houston product. Bodnar was rejected by the army on physical grounds.

Incidentally

One of the great pack of hockey stars who won the Allan Cup for Moncton Hawks in 1933-34, Bert Connolly is back home in Montreal trying out with the amateur Royals and trying for amateur reinstatement. He turned professional with Rangers in 1934 and later toured the minors . . . The British Columbia Basketball Association refused to lift a one-year suspension imposed last spring on the Victoria hockey star, Ritchie Nicol, following a 'dressing-room fracas . . . There's hockey power on Bill Cockburn's Winnipeg R.C.A.F. team: Alf Pike, Wally Stanowsky, Bill Juzda, Butch Marchant, Pete Langelle, Joe Krol, Paul Platz, Roy McBride, Bob Luney, Bill Snider, Hal Thompson, Reni Trudel. Six of these fellows are former N.H.L. players. . . . Don Gallinger, 18-year-old Boston Bruins forward, told Dink Carroll of the Montreal Gazette that he had been offered a baseball contract by Connie Mack of Philadelphia Athletics in the Fall but the Army had prior call. Gallinger expects to enlist early next year.

Army Of "Ifs" Clutters Football Scene

By The Canadian Press

The curtain all but rings down on the scheduled season in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series to-morrow with three games involving all six teams but on the income of two hangs almost as many "ifs" as in a game of draw poker with the deuces wild.

The three question-mark teams are Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, Hamilton Flying Wildcats and Toronto Balmy Beach. Hurricanes and Wildcats are tied for first place with seven wins, one tie and one loss each and one game to play. Beaches are three points behind the leaders with six wins and two losses and two games to play. The teams finishing first and second enter the play-offs.

Here are a few of the assorted "ifs":

If Hurricanes beat or tie Beaches in their game in Toronto to-morrow the Airmen will be in the play-offs. If Beaches win they will still need a victory over Toronto Navy in the final schedule game of the season next Wednesday night in Toronto to make the grade.

If Wildcats beat or tie Navy in their game in Hamilton, the Mountain City team will be in the play-offs. But if the unexpected happens and the Wildcats lose some more "ifs" bob up.

Can Make Tie.

If their loss is coupled with an Air Force win, they'd get into the sudden-death play-off game scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 13. But if it should come with an Air Force loss, the two teams would still be tied for first place with Beaches one point behind and in a position to move into first through beating Navy.

If you are still following this somewhat complicated reasoning, we can go a step further. For if Wildcats and Hurricanes lose to-morrow and Beaches and Navy tie next week there'd be a three-way tie for the Union leadership. And by the same token losses for the current leaders followed by a Navy victory over Beaches next week would put Hurricanes and Hamilton together in the final.

But that's enough of that. The third game to-morrow brings together Ottawa Combines and Toronto Indians at Ottawa in the last appearance of the two teams. The game is worth four points in the standings to the winner.

From First Sack To War Job

Phil Cavarretta, hustling first baseman of the Chicago Cubs, is shown at his new job, working on radio sets for the U.S. Navy at the E. H. Scott laboratories in Chicago. He expects to work here until the call for spring training. Many major leaguers are filling in the off season in war plants.

Capitals Tie Buffalo Bisons 1-1

By The Canadian Press

The undefeated Indianapolis Capitals swung in to share first place in the western section of the American Hockey League with Cleveland Barons, after their last night's 1-1 tie with Buffalo Bisons.

The game drew a larger crowd—7,661 to 6,941 fans—than the National Hockey League game at Chicago. This may indicate an increasing interest in the A.H.L. this season.

With Bears playing three lines against two, Alf Turner started the play for their first goal. He passed to Larry Tibeault who banged it into the net after only five minutes of play.

From then on they were held scoreless by the hard-working Caps, and Coach Johnny Sorrell made it a tie on a pass from Hynie Buller at 6:56 in the second period.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(AP)—Now that the hockey season is under way, it might be a good idea for Twitchy Dick Porter, the old baseball player who now is business manager of the Curtis Bay, Md., Coast Guard Cutters, to enter a challenge for the Stanley Cup without delay...The National Hockey League bosses, who control the play-offs for the trophy, have a habit of turning aside ambitious teams with the explanation that their challenges come too late ....They'd have to think up a new excuse at this time to avoid meeting the Coast Guardsmen.

Cutters Are Sharp

A look at the Cutters' squad explain why they are listed as potential champions even though they play in the Eastern United States "Amateur" League...In goal they have Frankie (Mr. Zero) Brimsek of the Bruins with Hub Nelson, former Minneapolis pro, in reserve. Leading the defence are three other big leaguers, Art Coulter of the Rangers, Alex Motter of the Wings and Johnny Mariucci of the Black Hawks, plus Manny Cotlow, minor league veteran...The forwards are mostly youngsters, but Ossie Asmundson and Billy Purcell have had pro experience, Cleveland's Alex (Bud) Cook reports to the Coast Guard today and likely will wind up at Curtis Bay and they say that Charlie Plitt, Johnny Brown (a Georgia boy, of all things) and Seymour Hunter have developed into a swell trio of forwards...They all all agreed they joined the Coast Guard because it's the best-known of the services in the Great Lakes country that most of them call home.

$494,150 Remains To Be Subscribed In Two Days To Put Fifth Victory Loan Over The Top

The Peterborough line bent yesterday, but it did not break on its five yard line with two downs to go in the final minutes of the Fifth Victory Loan engagement.

That is borrowing a few phrases from the football column, but they apply because the city and county had been manoeuvred onto the defensive, and if the team can rush in some reinforcements today and Saturday, Peterborough is going to come out on top yet.

Subscriptions Thursday, as announced at Loan headquarters, amounted to $200,850, just a few thousand short of what was needed for the average of the last three days of the drive.

The city general canvass led the way in this crisis with $100,050; the Employees' Canvass came through with $60,100; and Rural Peterborough with three of its municipalities going over the objective line subscribed $40,700. A $200,850 day, that carried the Peterborough total into the four million figures, leaving $494,150 to be raised today and Saturday.

Still Out In Front

Peterborough city and county are still ahead of their percentage objective. Not yet have they been forced to hang out the minus sign. But, the margin has been whittled down to an extremely scant .37, as compared to the 15 points that were accumulated in surplus at the half way stage to the goal.

The cumulative per cent of objective for the close of the sixteenth day was 88.89, and Peterborough's total stood at 89.26. Obviously that is uncomfortably close. Resources of reserve are necessarily shrinking daily, but today's effort may possibly be at least as good as Thursday's, and there is still something substantial expected before the Employees' Canvass is all through and wound up. Yesterday's performance may have provided the breathing spell required for the last scraping of the bottom of the barrel.

Average Under $100

Has Peterborough really reached that stage of digging up Funds for this Fifth Victory Loan? Using round numbers, and assuming the population of Peterborough city and county at 50,000, and also using $4,000,000 as the present total, the average personal loan to the Government right now is only $80. If that average were $100, the aggregate would be $5,000,000, and there's your objective plus $400,000.

Of course the unfair factor in those generalities is the assumption of 50,000 potential lenders. The total is largely less than that figure, and the information as to the exact number of subscribers is not yet available. But, the ideal $100 average would settle all doubts, and raise Peterborough into a special category when the campaign ends.

Monaghan Soars

The three municipalities breaking out in front of their objective yesterday were North Monaghan, Asphodel and Smith, joining Havelock as hundred percenters.

North Monaghan dug up $4,550 to shoot their percentage from 99.14 to 112.14, a percentage gain of 13 points. The suburban township ousted Havelock from first position, suggesting strenuous work by the team captain, Reeve Melville Johnston and his assistants, Mrs. E. C. Moore, Henry Batten and J. Arnott.

Havelock, still active and pressing on under the leadership of T. P. Lancaster raised their percentage from 103.55 to 106.71, one of the most consistent contributions in the Peterborough campaign.

Asphodel, climbing from fourth to third position, went over the 100 per cent mark to the 102.76 level, and Smith township turned in a card of 100.17, with the possibility that some extra subscriptions may be forthcoming in the last two days.

Those were the high lights of a Thursday that was awaited with some misgivings. But, instead of a serious setback which had been feared in some quarters, Peterborough signed for Bonds in the amount of $200,850.

Belmont-Methuen looks like another sure thing to make the 100 per cent. company.

One opinion at headquarters estimated the last $100,000 as the hardest phase of the whole campaign.

Rural Summary

On the rural front yesterday, North Monaghan splurged into first place, setting Havelock back to second.

Asphodel moved up from 4th to 3rd, and Smith from 5th to 4th. Belmont-Methuen in 5th position was down two in the day's variations. The other seven municipalities were unchanged in their percentage spots. All but two of them contributed to the Bond sales.

In the amount of money subscribed Thursday, Smith led with $13,300 and the other subscribers were in the following order: North Monaghan $4,550; the northern townships, Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos $3,900; Douro $2,900; Lakefield $2,450; Belmont-Methuen $2,350; Dummer $2,050; Norwood and Asphodel each $2,000, Havelock $1,200.

In the percentage column the rural results for the day were: Asphodel 15.79; Smith 14.78; North Monaghan 13; Belmont-Methuen 9.4; the northern townships 8.67; Douro 8.29; Dummer 6.03; Lakefield 4.08; Norwood 3.4; Havelock 3.6.

The Present Picture

The summary of the city and county for 16 days is shown as follows, reading across the column, objective, amount subscribed and percentage:

City General Canvass: $1,550,000; $1,149,250; 74.15.

Asphodel: $38,000; $39,050; 102.76.

Norwood: $58,000; $41,150; 70.95.

Smith: $90,000; $90,150; 100.17.

Harvery, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos: $45,000; $38,050; 84.56.

Lakefield: $60,000; $39,500; 65.83.

Ennismore: $12,000; $8,600; 71.67.

Douro: $35,000; $21,850; 62.43.

Dummer: $34,000; $23,750; 69.85.

Belmont-Methuen: $25,000; $24,150; 96.6.

Havelock: $38,000; $40,550; 106.71.

Total rural: $600,000; $502,400; 83.73.

City Employees': $950,000; $894,200; 94.13.

Special Names: $1,500,000; $1,560,000; 104.

STEWART HALL

Minister Talks On Mission Work

STEWART HALL, Nov. 5.—(ENS).—The November meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held recently with a good attendance. Mrs. Dougal Matchett presided for the worship service and the theme for the meeting was 'The Bible,' the foundation stone of the new order. Four members of the Mission Band, Coleen Dawson, Dorothy Chambers, Bob Hutchison and Eddie Brookes, read Psalm 67 in unison. Rev. Geo. Little offered prayer.

Birthday Collection.

Minutes of last meeting were read by Miss G. Thompson and the treasurer gave an encouraging report. A birthday collection was brought in by the members. Miss Marion Patterson sang 'The Gypsy Boy.' The 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison and a meditation given on it by Misses Mina Stewart and Corona Hanbidge.

Several items of business were discussed and it was decided to have the executive make arrangements for a sale to be held in Peterborough. A committee of three ladies, Mrs. W. Hutchison, Mrs. Whittington and Mrs. Harold Dawson were hosen to make out and present the slate of officers for the coming year, at the December meeting.

Missionary Speaks.

At this time Mrs. Matchett introduced her nephew, who was the guest speaker, Rev. George Little, a missionary from Santa Domingo, home on furlough. Mr. Little gave a talk on the missionary work being done in Cuba and the West Indies. He showed lantern slides to illustrate his work at Santa Domingo, of the people and of the schools, and native Bible students who are being trained to take up the work among their own people. He spoke of the great need for missionary work in those islands.

Two members of the W.M.S., Mrs. J. Thorne and Miss M. Hanbidge, sang a duet.

Prisoners Cheerful

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Nov. 5 (CP Cable).—Canadian and British prisoners of war in the Japanese camp outside Kowloon, opposite Hong Kong, are tattered but cheerful, Mrs. Emily Hahn, an American writer among the repatriates aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm, said yesterday. Food was scanty, she added.

78-Year-Old Farmer Doesn't Use Word Can't Builds Own Railroad To Bring Out Logs

By HENRY L. SUPPLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

EAST LEMPSTER, N.H., Nov. 5 (AP)—Wood is needed in the war effort, so Elbert M. Smith, wiry, 78-year-old farmer, built a 739-foot logging railroad and is clearing a 40-acre tract of spruce, balsam fir and hardwood—without help of man or beast.

Lumber operators said the job of getting logs across an intervening swamp was too tough.

"Shucks," said Smith. "The only thing to do is build a railroad." So he built one.

Picking a line down through his pasture and utilizing whatever stumps and rocks were in his way, Smith built a track of piling and cribbing. For rails he used pieces of fir—two by five inches—for ties, he toe-nailed round poles to the rails.

The track goes through the pasture, across the brook, and up a slight incline into the woods.

The railroad car is home-made, too. Roller-bearing wheels were purchased at a machine shop. An old winch from a dump, equipped with sufficient cable to haul the car up the incline to the house, enables Smith to bring at least a half-cord from the woods at a time.

The railroad—car, railbed and operating equipment—cost Smith $25.

Cattle Prices Move Upward

TORONTO, Nov. 5 — (CP). — Cattle prices gained 25 to 50 cents cwt., on a moderate supply in the trade on the livestock market here this week. Hogs steady to 10 cents higher while sheep and lambs gained 25 to 50 cents cwt.

Good quality slaughter cattle formed a small percentage of the supply and plainer grades were taken at higher prices in lieu of something better. Weighty steers were at a top of $12.40 with other grades from $12.35 downward to $10.50. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $10 to $11.50 with boners from $6.50 to $8.50. Butcher cows were $6.50 to $9 and canners sold at $4 to $5. Bulls ranged from $6.75 to $9. Fed yearlings were $12 to $13.50. Stockers sold at $8 to $10.85 with stock calves at $11 to $11.50. Good milkers and springers were $130 to $160 each. About 500 head of cattle were unsold.

Calves were unchanged at $15 to $15.50 for best vealers with the common heavies downward to $9. Grassers were mostly $7.25 cwt.

Hogs were a shade stronger at $16.75 to $16.85 dressed for the basic grade. Sows sold at $13.00 dressed.

A smaller run of lambs and of sheep sent prices higher. Lambs closed at $12 to $12.25 for good ewes and wethers with bucks at $1 cwt. discount and culls at $9 to $10 cwt. Sheep were mostly $4 to $7 cwt., with some good, light ewes at $7.50.

J. T. Tully Calf Sells For $310

J. T. Tully, Peterborough, received $310 for an eight-months-old bull calf at the Fourth Annual Fall Special Consignment Sale held October 28 at Brampton. The buyer was J. T. Frame, Milton.

A total of $22,005 was realized for the 74 head sold. The 56 females averaged $319.46 while 18 bulls, mostly calves, averaged $228. The top price was $500 paid by Norda Farm, Vankleek Hill, for a three-year-old heifer consigned by John H. Older, Thamesford. Highest price for a bull was $350 secured on the bid of Hugh R. Bonnell & Sons, Thorndale, for a seven-months-old calf consigned by Smith Haven Farm, Woodstock. Seven females brought $400 or more.

Uniform Labor Law Conference Object

TORONTO, Nov. 5 (CP)—If the Dominion Government enacts a labor code providing for collective bargaining machinery, Ontario's Collective Bargaining Act and labor court may be abandoned, it was suggested yesterday at Queen's Park.

Representatives of the provinces—Premier Drew and Labor Minister Daley will represent Ontario—will meet Federal Government authorities November 8 to discuss labor questions and there was speculation here that a uniform labor law for the Dominion would result.

It was suggested that the provinces might be asked to pass complementary legislation and to enforce the new law.

dropped 2,000 tons of bombs in 28 minutes—74 tons a minute.

In turn, the Germans struck back weakly last night dropping a small number of bombs in East Anglia and doing slight damage.

The Duesseldorf attack Wednesday night by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. dwarfed by its concentrated fury the heaviest raids the R.A.F. previously had directed against any German targets.

Two thousand tons of explosives were dropped on the city in 27 minutes, at the rate of 74 tons a minute. The highest previous rate set by the R.A.F. was 51 tons a minute over Hamburg.

To picture even more vividly the magnitude of the latest raids on Germany, the Daily Mail said it would take at least eight British freight trains of 40 cars each to carry from munitions factories to air bases the 4,000 tons of bombs which were unloaded by the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. and the United States Air Force on Wilhelmshaven and Duesseldorf within the span of a day and a night.

Armistice Program In Maple Leaf Gardens

TORONTO, Nov. 5 (CP) —Committee of war veterans and civic officials today announced that special service of remembrance would be held in Maple Gardens Sunday, Nov. 14, to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Armistice which ended the First Great War. The Federation of All Veterans is sponsoring the service with the support of veterans organizations throughout the province and a spokesman said there were indications it would develop into a four-day re-union of war veterans, from Nov. 11 to 14.

20,000 Whites In Jap Prisons

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, Union of South Africa, Nov. 5 (AP).—Nearly 20,000 Occidental civilians still remain in internment camps in Japan, China and the Philippines, and all face steady dwindling food supplies and a growing shortage of medicine in future months.

This was disclosed by a survey of the 1,500 repatriates aboard the exchange liner Gripsholm who came from 28 of the 33 large and small civilian camps the Japanese are known to be maintaining in those countries.

The food and medicine shortages were attributed to the disruption of communications and rising living costs.

The situation was said to be particularly acute on Hong Kong Island, which is entirely dependent on imported foodstuffs. Repatriates declared that more than 1,000,000 Chinese and foreigners, including 3,000 British civilian internees, are near starvation there.

In most camps the internees are able to maintain an Occidental subsistence ration only through using their own funds for outside purchases to augment Japanese-issued rations. Even this is impossible, however, in Hong Kong.

Despite the hardships they are facing there is evidence that some internees have no wish for repatriation. A poll taken in Santo Tomas, Manila, revealed that 69 per cent of 3,900 persons wished repatriation, but 21 per cent indicated their willingness to remain. Ten per cent did not vote.

The majority of those willing to remain expressed a desire to "see the show through" and give moral support to the Filipinos, or believed the end of the war imminent and desired to be on hand for the re-opening of business.

Civilians Report Canadians Fought Bravely

By BRYAN YOUNG
Reuters Special Correspondent

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Nov. 5 (CP Cable) About 130 Canadian civilians are still in Japanese hands, according to F. F. Sullivan, Winnipeg, chairman of the Canadian Association of Shanghai, who is returning to Canada aboard the exchange ship Gripsholm.

Sullivan, who was interned at Chapei Camp, Shanghai, said 126 Canadians were left in China proper, four in Manila and probably more in Manchuria and Japan.

Canadians aboard the Gripsholm numbered 224 and the 75 repatriates from Hong Kong are believed to be the last Canadian civilians held there. The others are from Japan, Manchuria, Korea, Japanese-occupied China, Indo-China and the Philippines.

Evacuate Camp

Sullivan said the Stanley Camp, Hong Kong, was evacuated of Canadians when the Japanese admitted it was a most difficult camp to supply with food and medical requirements. It is isolated and not self-supporting with food centres nearly 1,000 miles away.

Alexander W. Smith, Victoria, B.C., who was a detective on the Shanghai police force, said that when he left Yu Yuen Camp, Shanghai, the food ration for internees had been cut and it was becoming increasingly smaller, apparently due to the fact the Japanese themselves were short of food. Three Canadians remain there.

Smith is being repatriated with his wife and their young daughter, Colleen.

Valiant Men

Mrs. Alys Greaves, Toronto, who was interned at Hong Kong with her husband, Dr. Aubrey Greaves, praised two Canadian nurses aboard the Gripsholm. They were Kay Christie, Toronto, and Anne Walton, Winnipeg, the only Canadian military nurses at Hong Kong with the Canadian.

Mrs. Greaves said the Royal Rifles of Canada from Quebec and the Canadian Grenadiers of Winnipeg fought with great skill and courage at Hong Kong when the Japanese attacked the naval base late in 1941, but were seriously handicapped because of the unfamiliar mountainous terrain.

Plain Baseball

Miss Christie and Miss Walton said the Greaves stuck to their posts attending casualties during the fighting, which ended Christmas Day, 1941, and later carried on their medical work untiringly as internees.

Under the Japanese, Canadians lived in a variety of dwellings while interned. Pootung Camp, Shanghai, consisted of a block of tobacco warehouses. On the site of what had been a village shop the Canadians built a softball diamond. The camp contained 1,100 men.

Obituaries

JOHN M. STEWART

WARKWORTH, Nov. 5 (ENS).—John MacLaren Stewart, 51, died at his home recently.

The late Mr. Stewart was born in Scotland in 1892 and was a son of the late John MacLaren Stewart and his wife, Elizabeth Mann. While a young man he came to Canada. During the First Great War he served as an Air Pilot and was stationed in the West Indies.

Following the war he joined the bank in Toronto. He quickly advanced and became a branch manager at an early age. His first branch was the Royal Bank at the corner of Young and Bloor streets in Toronto, following this he was transferred to Enterprise, Thornton, Young and Deloraine branch Toronto and Warkworth.

He became the branch manager at Warkworth during the summer of 1940 and since his residence here he made many friends. In January, 1941, he suffered a severe stroke which left him a complete invalid.

While health permitted he was a faithful member of St. Paul's United Church and he was made an honorary member of Percy Masonic Lodge. He took a great interest and prominent part in all community affairs.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from the residence with interment at Warkworth Cemetery. The officiating clergymen were Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper and Rev. William MacDonald, of Peterborough, a close friend of the family.

The beautiful floral tributes showed the esteem in which Mr. Stewart was held, among the tributes received were wreaths from C. Churchley and family; Percy Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 161; double spray, Jack E. Allen; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Legate, Miss Hazel Legate, Jay and Ray Legate, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heffler, St. Catharines; Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Legate, Owen Sound, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Riddle, Peterborough, manager of the Bell Telephone Co.; manager and staff of Royal Bank; Dr. F. B. Brintnell; neighbours at Thornton; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. MRS. PETER WOODS.

MARMORA, Nov. 5.— (ENS).—Mrs. Rosa Celesta Woods, wife of Peter Woods, of Marmora township, passed away in Belleville General Hospital Wednesday, on her 69th birthday.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkes of Marmora township and since her marriage had resided with her husband at Cooper until about a year ago, when they moved to Marmora township. Mrs. Woods had only been ill for about two weeks before her death. She was held in high regard by all who knew her.

Surviving are her husband and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Ernest Walker of Queensboro. There is also one brother, George Wilkes, of Marmora township and one sister, Mrs. Nicholas Aseltine, of Belleville.

The funeral took place to-day, leaving her late residence for service at St. Andrew's United church at 2 p.m., where Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher officiated. Interment followed in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 106 — PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1943

MAIN STREET TOPICS

DR. MIDDLETON AUTHOR

The letter on the editorial page of today's Examiner was written by Dr. J. E. Middleton of the Nicholls Park Board.

OVERSEAS PROMOTION.

R.C.A.F. Headquarters have announced that Flt. Sgt. Eric Dean Kelly has been commissioned overseas. He is the son of Mrs. M. T. Kelly, R.R. No. 3, Peterborough.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Campbell Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Jordan, Charlotte street, who has been serving overseas with the Forestry Corps, has returned home.

ADDRESSES REQUIRED.

The Outboard Marine Manufacturing Company is endeavoring to secure the names of all former employees who are now overseas on active service. The request is made that the names be telephoned into the company whose telephone number is 3558.

NEW NAVY RECRUITS

AIRMEN GET GIFTS.

The mother of a Peterborough boy serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas has received a letter from her son telling enthusiastically about the thoughtful kindness of an airforce padre who waits by the flying field for the incoming planes of his squadron to land, and then hands out chocolate bars, candy, gum and other gifts to the boys returning from their operational flights. This padre, Flt. Lt. Jennings of an overseas R.C.A.F. squadron, was very popular with his men, the Peterborough flier stated in his letter, adding that the padre counted on the contributions of the folks back home to keep up his stock for distribution.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings for the past week as reported by the Peterborough Clearing House totalled $1,239,322.

FINED FOR SPEEDING

Rita Ryan, Toronto, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs in police court today when she entered a written plea of guilty to a charge of speeding on Charlotte street. "There was no accident" said Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer, who entered the plea for the Toronto driver, "she was merely caught driving too fast in leaving the city."

A SECOND OFFENDER

Harold Brooks who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being drunk and admitted a previous conviction was fined $50 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., with the alternative of a month in jail. William Welsh and John Lunn, first offenders were fined $10 and $2.50 costs on intoxication charges.

AT GOODFELLOW DINNER

G. K. Fraser M.P., and Mrs. Fraser, Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., and Mrs. Scott are motoring to Campbellford this evening to attend the dinner that is being given in honor of William C. Goodfellow, M.P.P., the new representative of Northumberland in the provincial legislature. Premier Drew will be the guest speaker.

CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

Three youths, Pte. James Weaver, C.A.M.C., Petawawa; Melville McCartney and R. Glover, Toronto, formerly of Peterborough were charged with vagrancy in police court this morning and all three entered pleas of not guilty. At the request of the police they were remanded until Monday. It was intimated that other charges might be laid against the trio.

STOLEN WHEELS RECOVERED

Two stolen bicycles were recovered by the police this morning from the Otonabee River just below Nassau. Officers C. J. McGillen and Gordon Trennum salvaged the dunked wheels from the water and found that the machines bore the license numbers 2441 and 3,110, the former registered in the name of G. Dummitt, R.R. 5, Peterborough and latter listed as owned by Robert Thornton, Water street.

Victory Loan Sidelights

The last of the flag raising ceremonies will take place Saturday morning at 11.30 at the plant of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company. No statement has been made of what the Johnson staff has done in their lending campaign. Apparently the announcement is being reserved until the last Bond application is in.

The Army Medical Corps Band under Lieut. Croasdale will attend the presentation of the Three Star "V" flag to the staff of Outboard Marine.

Reeve Melville Johnston has been missing around town on occasional days when he might have been expected, and now his absence may be explained in the township's leadership in the Fifth Victory Loan with 112.14 per cent. He must have been doing some spade work in addition to holding the honorary title of team captain.

Proceeds from the dance at the Military Training Centre Saturday night will be turned back to the public in door prizes. First there will be a band concert in the drill hall from 8 to 9 p.m. by the R.C.A. M.C. band, followed by dancing until midnight, with music by the band's orchestra. The admission is 25 cents. The hall has been repainted and floor polished for the Saturday night event, which has been made possible by the permission of Lt.-Col. Walter Bapty.

Mr. A. G. Walwyn, organizer for the county of Peterborough, National War Finance Committee, will speak over radio station CHEX this evening at 6:10-6:15 p.m.

The R.C.A.M.C. band concert will be broadcast over CHEX at 9:00 to 9:30 this evening.

Second band concert by the R.C. A.M.C. band Saturday afternoon at 4:00 p.m.-4:30 p.m. of Radio Station CHEX.

Jam Producers Consult Gordon

HAMILTON, Nov. 5 (CP)—Joint committee of Ontario and Quebec jam manufacturers will meet Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, next week to make representations in connection with "the difficulties now standing in the way of maximum production of jam," John H. Moore, secretary of the Ontario Jam Association, said today.

He said a brief is being prepared for submission to Mr. Gordon containing proposals "which, if adopted, should substantially increase the production of jam."

Decision to make representation directly to Mr. Gordon followed a meeting here between F. D. Mathers, administrator of processed fruits and vegetables, and 13 Ontario jam manufacturers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—(CP).—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Bari radio said in a domestic broadcast yesterday that refugees from Rome reported the Nazis have mined all important buildings there and had stated that they "want to leave only the memory of Rome."

Pleaded Guilty To Truck Theft

William Nicholson, 19, of Rockcroft, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to the theft of a pickup truck from the Ford Garage here Wednesday night and was remanded until Saturday morning for sentence.

Police are seeking a second youth said to have been involved with Nicholson in the theft of the truck.

Nicholson was arrested Thursday at Kidd's Corners, 12 miles from Apsley by Fish and Game Overseer Ralph Hodgson of Lindsay.

Hodgson came upon the Hood and Cummings truck at the side of the highway and the two youths asked him for some gas. He was questioning the pair when one of them took to his heels and ran down the highway in the direction of Bancroft. Hodgson placed Nicholson under arrest and brought him to Burleigh Falls where he turned him over last night to Provincial Constable Price Morris and Constable John Stevenson of the city police force.

Good Neighbor Donations Now Total $780

Of all the many and varied types of activity utilized for the purpose of raising funds to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, one would hardly expect that the holding of small house parties would rank as one of the best producers from a monetary standpoint.

Yet this has proved to be the case as the Good Neighbor group, headed by Mrs. W. Townsley and P. Kitchen, continues to send in returns from parties held on a weekly basis in the various homes of the members.

With a regularity comparable to the ordered passing of time, this group has sent in a contribution every four or five weeks, their latest is an amount of $38 being credited in their name today, which now makes a grand total of $780.05 that they have raised for the fund to this date, and this is all in one year and nine months of operations on its behalf.

This latest contribution was made possible through the holding of euchre parties in the homes of Mrs. Lowes on George street, Mrs. Gray on Stewart street, Mrs. Sproule on Morrow street, Mrs. White on McGill street, and a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mrs. Siddall on Park street south, all of whom have a little extra share in this donation through having made their homes available for that purpose.

In its own field of endeavour, this has been one of the outstanding achievements on behalf of war charities in this city and district, and this group of ladies and their leaders are to be much commended for the splendid results obtained in this good neighbor work to help others across the wide expanse of the Atlantic Ocean.

C.G.E. Switchgear Helps

The switchgear department of the C.G.E. Co., Ltd., with E. G. Hardie as foreman, on October 22 made merry with a party at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, where games such as are to be found on a midway were indulged in, besides affording an opportunity for dancing. In the midst of their own enjoyment, this group could take time out to remember the needs of others less fortunate than themselves, which has resulted in the sum of $10.38 being credited in their name today per Marie Simpson.

On a previous occasion this year, this same department has been represented in the list of receipts through its bowling club, and the group as a whole has been listed on a number of occasions, doing its bit towards the grand total of $5,232.16 that has now come from the employees of the C.G.E. Co., Ltd., and Genelco, Ltd., plants.

Saturday Activities

This Saturday will see the culminating point of an effort by the organized classes of Lily Lake Sunday School, when the draw will be made for a young dog for which they have been selling tickets, at a bazaar and sale of used clothing being held by the Lily Lake W.A. in Dutton's Nut Shop on George street, commencing at 10 a.m. This sale is also being held in the interests of war work, and they will have a number of quilts to dispose of.

Then the stall on the market will also be in operation, under the guidance of Mrs. John E. Parker, of Norwood, who has done such a lot for the fund, this being particularly for the Christmas cheer fund for children in the British Isles who have lost their homes, or have been evacuated to more safer regions.

M. Chenhall Develops Band Music In Schools

As the Board of Education in Toronto has expanded during the last five or six years, the teaching of music in its ten Collegiate Institutes, the responsibility of training the students in the playing of band instruments has been carried on by Martin Chenhall, Mus. Bac., son of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Peterborough.

Out of this special attention to the subject of music has developed a Collegiate band of one hundred instruments and about twenty-five bugle bands. Students are selected from the Collegiates for their joint band.

According to a report in a Toronto paper, boys carry their instruments into the class-room for the Chenhall teaching. All the instruments are used in this work from piccolo to sousaphone and violins. Students with any aptitude for music are given every opportunity to direct it to proficient skill in the Toronto secondary schools, and all that detail is in the hands of a former Peterborough boy.

His father was not only organist in a church at Evansville, Ind., before coming to Peterborough, but was also conductor of the first military band there.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

NOV. 5, 1918—Canadians troops advanced to within 12 miles of Mons. British forces occupied the forest of Mormal. Americans crossed the Meuse River at three points below Stenay. German retreat effected on a 75-mile front from the Scheldt to the Aisne Rivers.

Mayor To Call Meeting Of ARP Heads

Whether the members of Peterborough's "A.R.P." wish to continue their organization and their interest in community work of some kind, now that Ottawa has announced the passing of the Hun raid threat throughout Ontario, will be decided at a meeting of the members which Mayor Hamilton said this morning would be called in the near future.

"Whatever that decision may be," His Worship stated, "I think the citizens of Peterborough should feel grateful to all the A.R.P. workers who gave so much of their time and study in preparation for Civilian Defense which was undertaken in an early stage of the war.

It was rather discouraging at the outset because people generally felt that Air Raid Precautions were not necessary in this country. But, Dominion authorities encouraged civilian effort in the conviction that we should not take a chance on the course of the war which certainly seemed so threatening at that time. Finally, the idea of "A.R.P." began to appeal to men and women of Peterborough and about 2,500 of them took the various basic courses. Our membership was approximately 2,000.

The members attended courses of lectures and took up practical work. Their sincerity was shown in their splendid attendance, and the several black-out tests indicated that they were ready for an emergency if it did come.

Tribute To A.R.P.

I don't need to say that everybody is most happy that we did not need the service of the A.R.P. organization in the long run, but I think we should all feel appreciative of the war work which the A.R.P. groups were ready to do. The members should have the satisfaction of knowing that they responded to a special call that was sent across Canada and that they were equipped and trained for a service which we all hoped would be needed."

Mayor Hamilton was general chairman of A.R.P., and kept appealing for members at the outset in the face of public sentiment that the Huns would never reach this city.

Max Sloan is the Chief Warden. He is in Toronto today attending an assessors' meeting. Mayor Hamilton said he had discussed the Ottawa announcement, which virtually means disbandment, and it was agreed that the members should be called together in the near future to find out what they wish to do in the changed circumstances.

Two groups, the auxiliary police and firemen, have found their wartime association so interesting and congenial that they are reluctant to disperse. They wish to carry on in auxiliary capacities. In fact the latest proposal of continuation has come from the fire group, and their request for recognition has been referred to Chief Gimblett for his opinion before any decision is made by the council.

CWAC Served Year Overseas

It's only a year since the first detachment of the Canadian Women's Army Corps arrived in England but in that short space of time these girls and the others who have followed them over the sea have become an important part of the Canadian Army Overseas. As tradeswomen, clerks, drivers and laundresses they have performed tasks that hitherto were supposed to be in the 'for men only' class.

Because of the efficient work they had been doing in Canada it was almost a foregone conclusion that they would acquit themselves with credit to their Corps—and they did. By being willing to leave their homeland to engage in a new and strange life—albeit full of novelty and adventure—they enabled able-bodied men to leave their desks and staff jobs for the fighting fronts of the world.

That first draft did their work so well that they were followed by three more groups until now the overseas personnel of the C.W.A.C. numbers over 600.

Hold Poppy Day On Saturday

Poppy Day in Peterborough will be Saturday, and the local branch of the Canadian Legion will make its annual appeal to the citizens of this community on behalf of all needy ex-service men of the last war and the present conflict.

From eight in the morning until six at night the poppies will be sold on street corners of the business district by school children and numbers of regular volunteer workers taking turns in two-hour shifts. From the Collegiate there will be 42 girls and 20 more girls from St. Peter's School, it was announced by George Gimblett, president of Legion branch No. 52.

The poppies which are bought on Saturday and worn in remembrance of those who laid down their lives in the Great War and in the present conflict are manufactured in the Vetcraft shops of Canada, workshops in which handicapped veterans are given sheltered employment, thus obtaining a livelihood which they would otherwise lack because of their special disabilities. The money which is raised by the distribution of the poppy—the symbol of sacrifice—is used entirely to relieve unusual distress among the veterans of the two world wars and their families. Last November over a million citizens of Ontario wore a poppy in remembrance and 5,000 wreaths were placed in churches and at memorials in honor of the dead.

The appeal is not made on behalf of the Legion or its members, but on behalf of all ex-service men who are in need. Though the collection and administration of the fund has been entrusted to the Legion, it is not a part of the Legion's fund and is kept entirely separate. It is not even treated as a part of the relief fund, but is considered as a trust fund which the Legion administers for the veterans.

Sales and the handling of monies collected, and the investigation and relief of all applicants are done by voluntary workers. The funds raised are placed in a special account controlled by the board of trustees of the branch, and every expenditure made is approved and each account checked by the Board. Relief customarily takes the form of food, clothing, fuel, rent or medical assistance, and is practically never issued in cash.

Young Sailor Dies Aboard Ship

The sad news was received Thursday of the death of a Canadian sailor, whose mother and sister live here during an emergency operation for appendicitis on board a corvette somewhere in the Atlantic.

Coder James Ralph Fruere, R.C.N. V.R., 22 years of age, enlisted in the Canadian Navy in Hamilton on June 6, 1942, and had been serving on a Canadian corvette for some time. He was due for a furlough on his arrival back in Canada.

Coder Fruere was born in Wellandport, Ont., and when he was eight years old the family moved to Hamilton where he resided until he enlisted with the Navy last year. In Hamilton he attended Delta Collegiate Institute and played on the rugby team of that school. He was a keen lover of sports, particularly baseball and rugby.

According to the message received by his relatives here from naval headquarters at Ottawa Coder Fruere died at sea on October 25 while undergoing an operation, and was buried at sea.

Surviving relatives are his mother, Mrs. Lea Fruere, 607 Water street, who has been an active member of the local Auxiliary to the Navy since coming to Peterborough last year, his sister, Mrs. John G. Adams at the same address, and one brother Thomas Russell Fruere of London, Ont.

His father the late Samuel Fruere died fifteen years ago and a sister Dorothy passed away eight years ago.

Coder Fruere was a member of Trinity Baptist Church in Hamilton.

Council Buys Three Trucks

Purchase of thre trucks, two for the Board of Works and one for the Parks Committee, as recommended by the special purchasing committee of the city council, was authorized by the council this week.

One of them is a General Motors model, three ton chassis and cab, dual performance axles, Brantford platform dump body L3 hoist, body 11 feet by 6 feet 3 inches, $2,514.80. It is being bought from the J. J. Duffus Company.

Another is a three-ton Ford heavy duty, dual purpose rear axle, 11 feet by 6 feet three inches, platform dump body with L3 hoist $2,474.85, from Hood and Cummings.

The third truck is a Dodge heavy duty, 11 feet by 6 feet 6 inches, Brantford body, steel front and gate, from Lillico Motors Limited, for $2,318.80.

Needed Trucks

The need of new trucks has been discussed by the council from time to time this year, and the special committee of which Alderman Dutton is chairman was asked to get tenders and report.

Alderman Dutton said no "trade in" arrangement was made, because the old ones still in use would probably be needed for the delivery of wood during the winter. Continued use for hauling gravel and snow removal was also considered.

Alderman Bradburn asked "where are we going to get drivers?" and Alderman Dutton replied: "We'll have to deliver the wood, no matter where we get drivers." He informed the council that tenders were received from five dealers

Rambling Reporter

UNPLEASANT TRICK.

The officers and men of the local Sea Cadets are spouting off steam about the person whom they have designated "the meanest man in town." A few days ago the Corps left two cutters at the George street wharf tied up, but resting on the shore. The next time they were inspected it was found that someone had taken the long, thick, ropes and cut them off to about 12 inches. They estimated that there was about 20 feet of rope on each cutter.—J. S.

Where Patience Required Women Excel

A great number of housewives and women not working in war work feel that they should be doing their part to help win this war. They want to help, but they continue to hold back day after day, hesitating to take the step which to them is into the great unknown. Many of them have never been in a factory. They have a slight fear that they could never possibly master a war job. It an unfounded fear caused through the uncertainty of what is required of them, with the added doubt in their own minds as to their ability to learn. Those mysterious "machines" they have heard about somewhere, such as milling machines and lathes, represent to them a monstrous something very complicated and difficult to operate. They entirely overlook the fact that many thousands of women now employed in war plants had never previously had factory experience either—but they are women. They have realized the necessity of doing their part in the war effort. They have thrown their fears to the winds, and dug in. Then to their own surprise they have discovered the so-called monstrous machines were not monstrous and the jobs were interesting and easy.

Jobs such as machine operating, rivetting, bucking, welding, filing, inspecting, checking and assembly work are only a few of the important jobs now being expertly done by women. They are not only doing the job as well as the men, but excel in many cases where patience, fine workmanship and repetition are required.

At Malton, just 15 miles from Toronto, Victory Aircraft Limited employ fifteen hundred women, many of whom are doing jobs that prior to the war were considered too exacting for women. Today they are doing a job like veterans, helping to build one of the world's largest bombers—the Lancaster.

Company Ready To Give $2,500 For Rink

One of Peterborough's oldest industrial firms is prepared to contribute up to $2,500 toward a fund for a new artificial ice rink.

The manager of this manufacturing company said Wednesday that he had given this project considerable thought, and in his opinion industries should be willing to cooperate substantially in meeting the cost of the proposed rink. His company is prepared to contribute on a basis up to ten dollars for each employee. At a casual estimate this company would be willing to subscribe up to $2,500 as their outright gift to the community rink.

This executive's offer has been made officially, and it stands as a suggestion for the new committee of Wednesday night's appointment to keep in mind as an evidence of sincere support from a Peterborough manufacturing plant of long standing.

Can't Stay Behind

"As a progressive city, Peterborough cannot afford to fall behind the rest of the province," this manager said. "If we don't keep ourselves out in front it is our own fault, and it is entirely up to us. If we lag in one direction we'll slip another.

I am interested as a property owner and as head of an industry. I think it would be a mistake to put the entire load on property, through municipal taxes. I doubt very much that the ratepayers would support a project of that kind. But, I believe they would vote for assuming a reasonable part of the total cost of the rink. Personally, I think Peterborough industries are sufficiently interested in this city to make fairly generous contributions to a fund to bear part of the cost. Our firm is ready right now to give anything up to $2,500. My idea is that $10 per employee would be proportionate and would not be excessive.

If you want to keep good employees here you simply have to provide the kind of attractions you find in other cities. So far such provision hasn't cost this city much."

thousands upon thousands of young girls who are rushing into marriage in these hectic times, without giving even a single thought as to how they are going to get along with their husbands' people. They think that is a negligible consideration, and that if their Johns love them and they love their Johns, it is all that matters.

Nothing is more common than to hear a girl say that she isn't marrying her husband's family, but that isn't true. Every wife takes her husband's people along with him, for better or worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health, and she is united to them until death do them part. And whether her marriage is a success or a failure whether it is happy or unhappy, is going to depend, to a large extent, upon how she gets along with them.

Foolish, indeed, is the bride who thinks it isn't worthwhile to make friends of her husband's family because she intends to separate him from them. So why bother to appease them? Perhaps she looks down upon them because they do not come from the same side of the tracks that she does. Perhaps she is just plain jealous of them. Anyway, she snoots them and gives them such a slice of cold shoulder when they come to visit John that they never ask for another helping.

Wife's Attitude Keeps Husband From Family

Often such a wife does succeed in alienating her husband from even the mother who bore him and the sisters and brothers he has grown up with. To save a domestic brawl and tears and hysterics he may let her drag him to a summer resort, instead of going to spend it with his own people. She may have him so cowed that he is afraid to help Fanny when she is sick, or Tom when the crops are bad, or to send Mother a little check now and then.

His wife may think he has forgotten his people, but he hasn't. A man doesn't forget those with whom his earliest and fondest memories are entwined. And, if, when he remembers his parents and his brothers and sisters, he remembers, too, the disloyalty and ingratitude to them that a mean-spirited woman has forced upon him, he hates her for it.

There is nothing that a wife can do that a husband resents so much as her being unkind to his people, and there is nothing that binds a man so closely to his wife as her being sweet and kind to them, as for her to make herself truly one of his family, as for her being "love kin."

Try it out, you young brides. You will find that it pays.

cause for you to complain. Here you sit, still in the lap of luxury, plenty to eat, never to worry over your safety or whether or not you will have a roof over your head tomorrow night. You haven't heard the wail of sirens or whine of bombs or seen the wreckage of a hundred homes piled high before you or heard the heart-rendering terrified scream of a child (which in another land could have been your own). People who have gone through all of that a hundred times still carry on over there. They simply stick out their chins even further and grit their teeth and start afresh and defy Hitler to get them down. If they hadn't, where would we be today? I can't answer that myself for I hate to think of what the life in this country would be like under such circumstances.

So, get up out of that arm chair and put your shoulders to the wheel. Take elastic off that wad, put more than you can spare of small savings into another Bond. Another bond will mean another life spared and who knows, but what it might be your loved one."

For Saturday, November 6

WHILE THERE are signs of the breaking away from old stagnations and crystallizations, with long-continued obstacles and impediments, yet the most determined concentrated and astute course of action may encounter sudden difficulties and upheavals, with developments of surprising factors or strange opposition. This may be from contacts with erratic persons, inspired by impulse or emotional irresponsibility. Sudden changes, unwise and dangerous travel are possible. Also there may be a proclivity to be extravagant or improvident with funds and credit.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of determined and brave attack upon static conditions, with obstruction and frustration of long standing. The disposition may be toward being unwise and improvident with needful funds. Also there may be a sudden menace of upheaval, forced journey of change, possibly incited by connection with an erratic or impetuous person, probably a woman, or a stranger. With perseverance, thrift and intelligent labor there may be some definite and enduring gain. But be wise in judgments and in all contacts.

A child born on this day should be sturdy, industrious and sound, yet it may suffer from strange associates or its own extravagance. However, there is a probability of inheritance or accumulated possessions.

China....Harmon is a fighter pilot....Eighteen junior players from other parts of Canada have been granted transfers by the C.A.H.A. to play in Ontario....It is presumed they also have the blessing of Selective Service....Detroit has arranged a special brace for the injured arm of Don Grosso and is bringing him back to the hockey wars....He had been thought to be out of the game permanently....If this comeback business started by Frankie Boucher continues we will probably have Jack Adams out there on the attacking division for his Detroit Red Wings....However it is officially announced that the Rangers do not expect Boucher to do any back-checking....Probably Frankie had no intention anyway of trying to do any.

A Poor Letter Gets a Poor Response

WHAT BONERS DID HE WRITE?

What a slap in the face! In response to his letter he gets this cold, curt note. WHY?

Maybe HIS letter was disappointing. Maybe she tore it open very eagerly, only to find it a string of choppy, ungrammatical sentences: "I sure am busy. Haven't been to a movie yet."

So many people are careless about letter-writing, thinking it's a special art, hard to learn!

It's simple to check on errors—to write correctly "surely am," to put the subject "I" before "haven't been."

You can easily make your letters interesting, by just telling little things. About your movie, say "Hope got laughs, all right!" You are busy? Write: "Papers are on my desk in two-feet stacks!"

If you are careless about business letters of course you'll never get the job. Do you write: "I saw your ad in today's Times and have had four years' experience and I could take the job right now?" Learn to be clear, correct.

Our 32-page booklet points out common grammar mistakes, helps enrich your vocabulary, suggests topics to write to friends, rules of good business letters. Gives 24 model social, business and friendly letters.

For your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING MADE EASY send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLAY FOR IT ANYWAY

ROTTEN bidding which gets you into a terrible contract is not a valid excuse for messing up the play of the hand. You may still have a chance to atone for your misdeeds if you go to work and try to make the best of a bad situation. As a matter of fact, both some of the worst and some of the best card playing you ever will see gets furnished when the declarer is in an illogical contract.

North: ♠ A J 6; ♥ A Q 4; ♦ A K Q 6 5 2; ♣ 8

West: ♠ 10 9 5 2; ♥ 3 2; ♦ J 10 4 3; ♣ K 7 6

East: ♠ K 8 7; ♥ K 9 5; ♦ 9 8; ♣ Q 10 9 5 3

South: ♠ Q 4 3; ♥ J 10 8 7 6; ♦ 7; ♣ A J 4 2

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	2 ♣	Pass	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

South's failure ever to show his five-card heart suit was almost one for the book. A game in hearts would have been as simple as rolling off a log. Most advanced bidders would have called the suit on their first turn, over East's 2-Clubs, especially since the club strength of South was placed where it would do the most good. But, instead of giving himself every chance to make his wrong contract of 3-No Trumps, South beat himself out of the chance he did have.

West obediently led a club in response to his partner's opening, the 6. On went the Q, and the A took it. Next south led the heart J and sent it through to the K. When East returned the club 10, South covered with the J and the K killed it. The 7 to the 9 enabled East to run the remainders, beating the contract one. A diamond return then locked South in the dummy, with no entry to his own hearts, so he had to give up a spade at the end and was down two.

Both the clubs and the hearts could have been played better. South could have ducked the first two clubs and then come in with the A to drop the K, or he could have used the A first, then ducked the second club. The hearts would have been better played by a low lead to the Q, hoping East would win the first round, leaving South an entry in the suit instead of blocking it himself. Thus he would have given East a chance to make a mistake by not holding up a round on hearts. As it was, the defenders could not make a mistake as South beat himself.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 10 9 6 4; ♥ J 8 7; ♦ A 8 3; ♣ K J 4

West: ♠ A K Q 8 7 3; ♥ 6 4; ♦ K 6 4; ♣ 7 2

East: ♠ 5; ♥ 9 2; ♦ J 10 9 5 2; ♣ Q 10 9 8 3

South: ♠ J 2; ♥ A K Q 10 5 3; ♦ Q 7; ♣ A 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the soundest way to play 4-Hearts on the South cards of this deal after West takes the spade K and Q, and leads the club 7?

HASTINGS

Red Cross Announces Euchre And Dance

HASTINGS, Nov. 5 (ENS)—Mrs. Eric Pulfer was hostess to the Cobourg Road Red Cross Tuesday afternoon. There was a fairly good attendance, with the president, Miss Clara Williamson, presiding.

The secretary, Mrs. Gordon Dickey, and treasurer, Mrs. Eric Pulfer, both reported. Mrs. Cecil Oliver, the sewing convener, gave her report, that 17 operating sheets were completed, making a total of 25 altogether, that had been made by the Red Cross. The knitting convener, Mrs. Arthur Beamish, reported 13 pair of socks and 2 pair gloves handed in. The ladies quilted 2 Red Cross quilts during the afternoon.

The Christmas boxes had been packed recently at Mrs. Virgil Oliver's home for the 8 boys on active service overseas and in Canada, namely: Pat Doyle, Pat Fitzgerald, William Whitred, Philip Forde, Elmer and Harold Richardson, Harry Porter, and James Cavanagh.

Donations Made

Mrs. Ben Gibson and Mrs. Lou Lamey made Christmas cakes, Mrs. James Dickey donated the soap, Mrs. Lou Lamey gum and Howard Porter made a cash donation for the boxes. The boxes also included a pair of home knit socks and razor blades.

A letter was read from Pat Fitzpatrick overseas thanking the members for his cigarettes sent in August.

There are 4 blood donor volunteers from this district, who intend reporting at the blood donors clinic in Peterborough Friday, November 12.

Mrs. Cecil Oliver and Mrs. Arthur Beamish were appointed as a committee to pack the ditty bags.

The main business of the afternoon centred around the planning of a progresive euchre and dance to be held in Hastings Tuesday, November 9. Music for the dance will be supplied by the Melody Makers. Committee in charge is Mrs. Arthur Beamish, Mrs. Gordon Dickey, Mrs. Eric Pulfer and Miss Winnifred Beamish.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joeph Trotter, December 7.

W.M.S. Makes Study Of Canadian Missions

WESTWOOD, Nov. 5.— St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society met Wednesday afternoon in Wesley Hall for the November meeting.

The president, Mrs. J. Clysdale, took charge of the business period. The autumn thankoffering will be received on Sunday, November 14, when the pastor, Rev. J. E. Glover, will give a special message on missionary work. The word 'peace' was chosen for the roll call for the December meeting.

Miss Jessie Davidson presided over an interesting program, when a number of passages on Canadian missions from the annual blue book were read by the following ladies: Miss Davidson, Miss M. Cameron, Mrs. J. Sargent, Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. E. Sargent, Mrs. W. Thomas and Mrs. John Davidson.

Mrs. J. G. Manley contributed a 'friendly corner' reading and the temperance question was discussed. A duet 'What Will You Do With Jesus,' was sung by Mrs. A. Wood and Mrs. E. Sargent.

New Dental Clinic

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 5—(CP).—The dentist will see his pupils more than twice a year from now on, due to a new $4,000 dental health clinic, described as the first of its kind in Canada, which was opened at a suburban public school yesterday. Dr. Thomas Marshall, secretary of the Toronto Dental Health Clinic, said at the opening ceremonies that he "hoped the clinic would be a model for other communities."

GeneralMarshall Takes Over Soon

By E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Nov. 5 — (AP). — Formal establishment of an Allied High Command for the assault on Europe from the West is expected here to be an early sequel to the Moscow conference.

The appointment of a high Russian officer to serve as adviser and liaison officer on the invasion chief's staff is regarded as logical.

The assumption that Gen. G. C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, will became Commander-in-Chief of Anglo-American-Canadian invasion forces never has been abandoned in London and no rival to him for this appointment so far has appeared in military speculation.

"Generalissimo Marshall takes command of Anglo-American invasion forces in Britain in a very short time," said Correspondent Don Iddon in a cable from New York to the Daily Mail yesterday.

Censorship further permitted Iddon to say something which correspondents in London have been able only to hint—that the framework of the second front staff "already has been established in London."

Pupils Give Speeches For Home and School

HAVELOCK, Nov. 5 — (ENS) — An interesting feature on the Home and School Association program Tuesday night was a brief oratorical contest by four pupils of grade 7.

Each pupil delivered her speech showing signs of careful preparation. Prizes of War Savings stamps were given the contestants who were judged on a point basis for excellence of material, style, language, delivery and voice.

The judges were Miss G. McCorvie, Miss J. McDermott and Mrs. C. Price. First prize went to Helen Anderson, who spoke on "The Red Cross." The second prize winner was Shirley Goheen, who took for her subject "Florence Nightingale." "Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery" was the title of Jean Quinn's talk and Jacqueline Saunders spoke on "Housework Doesn't Bore Me."

Present Playlet

Three ladies took part in a Home and School skit, Mesdames F. McKay, B. Post and D. Holdcroft.

The attendance shield for this month was won by Mr. Jones' room. Three choruses were given by the pupils of Miss Nellie Watson's room under the direction of the music teacher, Mr. F. Hazel of Campbellford and included "Billy Boy," "Coming in on a Wing and a Prayer" and "I Pledge Myself Faithful." Since this meeting was classed as Open Night, all the class rooms were open for inspection by the parents and visitors.

The president, Mrs. R. W. Goneen presided at the meeting.

A notice of the regional conference in Toronto, November 5, was read and any member may attend. The membership contest is to close at the December meeting and a $2 prize will be awarded to the classroom getting the most new members during the last 3 months. A Christmas program has been arranged for the next meeting and Rev. Father Carroll of Norwood will be the guest speaker.

Plans have been completed for an entertainment in the Town Hall in the near future. Copies of the Home and School Review for October were distributed among the members.

LAKEFIELD

Students' Party To Raise Funds

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 5 (ENS). — Over 125 pupils and ex-pupils of the Lakefield High School held a Hallowe'en party in Memorial Hall this week.

Prizes of War Savings Stamps were awarded to Mabel Hopkins for the best fancy costume, and Jean Clark, for best comic costume. Judges for this event were Principal J. F. Harvey, Mrs. Harry Stabler, Miss O. Waterman and Mr. J. Hamilton. Rev. George Kelly then supervised the playing of games.

Program Given

A short program was given as follows: Song and dance by Jean Coyle and Norma Pue; reading by Joyce Hutt; solo by Jerome McCarthy; solo by Muerita Hull; trio by Helen, Doreen and Jean Kelly, and a chorus by the boys. Austin Reid was chairman.

Lunch was served by the pupils of Grade XIII.

Dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by the Junior Boys' Orchestra, composed of Lionel Brown, Jack Chittick, Owen Bullock, Audrey Morrison, George Kelly, Stuart Peel. Mr. Hamilton called off for the square dances.

Proceeds for the evening which amounted to $23 will be used to pay for boxes being sent to ex-pupils now with the armed forces.

Canadians In Italian Battle Name Rest Centre Canada Town

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

CANADA TOWN, Italy, Nov. 5—(CP)—You won't find Canada Town under that name in any gazeteer, but it is a name that will be recorded in the story of Canada's participation in the Italian campaign and one that will be on the lips of many an old soldier after the war.

Canada Town is a pleasant Italian mountain city captured by the Canadians, who, with typical thoroughness, have given it a new name, even to the extent of naming streets after familiar thoroughfares back home, opened theatres and generally converted it into a rest centre where soldiers can get a breather from front-line duties.

There is an occasional reminder in the form of a few shells that the Germans are not far away.

The town has literally been taken over by Canadians, who have been given the task of keeping law and order. Infantry units alternate to provide pickets and patrol streets and the traffic cop at each corner is a member of the Provost Corps.

While the military adminstration is under army authorities, the civilian administration is controlled by AMG, which has enlisted the help of carabinieri, who patrol the streets in Gilbert and Sullivan style uniforms—navy blue with wide red-striped trousers, frock coats trimmed with red piping, Napoleon hats and dainty swords dangling from patent leather belts. They are the Italian equivalent to the Mounties.

Auxiliary services have opened an "Aldershot Officers' Club" for commissioned officers and a "Beaver Club" for other ranks. Two movie houses, the Savoy and Capital, are doing a thriving business. A third will be opened shortly and there have been promises of a stage show with "legs."

Familiar Names

Life revolves around a big square in the heart of Canada Town, which has "Piccadilly Circus" painted in bold black letters at each corner. Portage Ave., Queen St., Main St., St. James St., Barrington St., Hastings St., and St. Catharines St. are names some of the other thoroughfares have been given. There is also Leicester Square and Hyde Park.

The officers' club is in a well-furnished four-storey building on tree-fringed Piccadilly Circus. Managed by Capt. Doug Burke, 28, of Swift Current, Sask., it has a comfortable reading room stocked with Canadian papers and magazines, a banquet hall, bar, billiard room and card rooms.

The Beaver Club, set up in a modernistic two-storey building, is a serviceman's dream. It has a theatre which is jam-packed at each of the two daily performances which feature excellent Canadian Army news reels of fighting in Italy, a reading room, writing room and a canteen bedecked with pennants from a dozen Canadian cities. Marked maps of the front are kept up to date so soldiers can keep abreast of the news.

The most popular feature of all is the hostel set up on the top floor by Major R. O. Wilkes of Winnipeg, Anglican padre of the Royal Canadian Regiment. A hundred men from the regiment can be accommodated overnight. The enjoy a shower, sleep between sheets in a clean bed, see movies, get haircuts, and generally enjoy a well-earned rest. The supervisors are J. J. Sims, St. Catharines, Ont. and George Singleton, Toronto, both of the Y.M.C.A.; Art Medlar, Toronto, of the Salvation Army and Peter Humpherson, Toronto, of the Canadian Legion.

Enjoy Rest.

When I visited the canteen, the groups of men were reading papers, writing letters and playing darts.

Catching up on the news were Ptes. Eric Nixon, Perth, Ont., Bill Reynolds, Stirling, Ont., and John Saarimaki, 43 Harbord Street, Toronto.

Nixon was just in from a 60-hour patrol, during which he was subjected to heavy German mortar fire. Saarimaki had seen six companions killed when a platoon was ambushed five days earlier.

All agreed that it is nice to come to a place like this and relax a bit."

Others around were Ptes. Roy Howells, East York, Edwin Page of Toronto, who had been detached from their units to help out at the club, and Robert Lynn, Toronto.

With them were Sappers M. H. Phillips, Windsor, Ont., and O. C. Billings, Ottawa. In the kitchen opening tins of bully beef, boiling eggs and handing out cups of tea were Sgt. Howard Russell, Toronto, Cpl. W. B. Phillips, Lakefield, Ont., and Pte. Frank Hargreaves, Scarboro.

HUN TROOPS EVACUATE CITY OF KIEV

Venafro And Vasto Falls To Victorious Allies Along Massico-Trigno Line

Last Remnants Of Nazis' Strong Defences Crumpled In Final Push
Huns Withdrawing To New Positions

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 6—(AP).—Allied forces in Italy smashed away the last remnants of the Germans' powerful Massico Ridge-Trigno line in taking the key points of Vasto on the Adriatic and Venafro in the Upper Volturno valley, Allied Headquarters announced today.

Forging ahead in the western sector, British patrols of the 5th Army crossed the Garigliano River to probe the new line which the enemy has formed north of there.

Americans of the 5th Army right wing drove ahead into the mountains after occupying Venafro in a fierce fight in the upper reaches of the Volturno.

Sacrificed Division.

The Germans attached such importance to this mountain fastness that they threw a new division—the 305th Infantry—into the fight in a last minute effort to save it, but even these fresh Nazi fighters from the north were routed.

In the air war, medium bombers knocked out a large portion of the German air forces operating from Albania with a heavy raid yesterday on Berat Kucov airfield in the centre of the country. The field was one of the bases from which the Germans were operating against patriot forces in the Balkans.

There are now five German divisions in battle on the 5th Army front, it was disclosed, and three opposing the 8th Army.

In addition to a five-mile surge up the Adriatic coast to take Vasto, 8th Army troops also made gains of more than 1½ miles in the region some 25 miles inland; capturing Pietracupa, Sessano, and Duronia. These towns were taken by the left, Canadian, wing of the 8th Army pushing northward from the captured Isernia-Carpinone region.

Take San Salvo

The Germans, who in recent days have been using tanks in the Adriatic coastal sector, resisted fiercely at Vasto, where their protective mountains run down to a shelf beside the sea. Along this shelf runs the coastal road to Pescara.

In striking to Vasto, the British troops of the 8th Army swept through San Salvo, where the Germans had held out more than a week, and on the basis of reports from the front this morning British troops are within 15 miles of the Sangro River, where the Germans undoubtedly will attempt another stand.

The Nazis still are resisting at some places along the north bank of the Trigno River, but their forces are threatened on the both sides by Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's troops, and they are not likely to stay much longer.

The crossing of the Garigliano by British patrols was made near the Tyrhenian coast, where the enemy flooded fields near the river. These patrols went into the hills north of the river to feel out German strength.

The area north of Venafro into which the Americans now are pushing is extremely rough terrain. The U.S. troops have as their next probable objective the highway town of Cassino, on a main highway to Rome.

German resistance has stiffened in this area, and the rain continues.

The total known front strength of the Germans now is eight divisions—the 15th and 16th armored divisions, the 3rd armored Grenadiers, the 1st parachute division, the Herman Goering division, the 25th and 26th motorized, and the 30th infantry division.

Germans Allege Vatican Church Bombed

LONDON, Nov. 6 — (AP) — The erman high command, repeating arlier broadcasts of the Berlin and Rome radios, asserted today that "enemy aircraft last night attacked Vatican City in Rome" but The Associated Press had no confirmation that any such attack had occurred.

"Bomb hits caused destruction in the world-famous Mosaic factory, as well as damage to the Governor's Palace," said the German communique as broadcast from Berlin.

The German assertion drew "no comment" from official quarters in London which however pointed out such a bombing would be pointless from an Allied view.

One commentator said that "it would be an operational matter" indicating that if such an incident had taken place an official statement would come from Allied headquarters at Algiers.

Roman Catholic circles here while keenly interested declined comment on Axis claims. The Apostolic delegate's office had not received any word direct from the Vatican on any mbing.

"The Axis propaganda drums in beating out the story asserted that our bombs had fallen some 100 yards from St. Peter's Basilica.

The Nazi account of the alleged bombing was heard last night by the Ministry of Information and followed closely the original announcement by the Rome radio, claiming that Friday night Vatican City was bombed and that "considerable damage" was caused among the historic buildings there.

Among those, the German announcement said, was the world-famous Laboratorio Die Mosaici.

Marines Capture Totokino Isle

SOUTH PACIFIC ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. —(AP).— United States Marines occupied Totokino Island off Cape Totokino in Bougainville's Empress Augusta Bay without casualties two minutes after midnight Thursday.

A few Japanese were killed but no prisoners were taken.

Twenty-nine Japanese bodies were found on Puruata Island which was occupied Tuesday.

A few prisoners have been taken n Bougainville itself but only minor patrol action is reported from there.

(This dispatch specified Totokino Island and Cape Totokino. Other dispatches have referred to Cape Torokina just north of the Bay on whose tip the first landing occurred Monday. It was not clear whether these are identical locations.)

Hint Balkans To Be Invaded

Premier Winston Churchill gave a broad hint that the Balkans will be invaded shortly, when he disclosed that Allied liaison officers are operating with Albanian guerrillas who would be called upon to play their part in future military developments in the Mediterranean area. Canadians More Serious Than Front-Line Britons

By SCOTT YOUNG—Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 6—(CP).—An absence of one year from Canada has brought home with thumping clarity since my return a month ago the unique attitude of Canadians to war—a nation with (now at least) no possibility of personal impact with war, yet outwardly taking it more seriously than the frontline people of Britain.

The 'outwardly' is used with intent. That is the main difference between the home front in Canada and the home front in Britain. There, the significance and struggle of the home front effort is held carefully below the surface by the people themselves, aired only occasionally by officials for governmental or political purposes. The people here talk more about what they are doing.

Because Britain has total mobilization, there is practically no talk about slackers. A healthy young man walking the streets in civilian clothing excites no comment, because the people have confidence that the Government is using his health and youth in the best possible manner. That public confidence doesn't seem as strong here.

Little Ballyhoo.

In Britain there is none of Canada's slightly-Hollywood approach to national financial appeals. Over there, the cause speaks for itself. It isn't couched in pretty terms by a film actress or producer. Any needed dramatics are provided by one of Britain's own statesmen, or a man

Victory Loan Over Top By 9 Millions

Many Large Cities To Go Over By Monday Morning

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP)—Canada's $1,200,000,000 Fifth Victory Loan passed its objective at close of business Friday night with sales at that time totalling $1,208,708,000, National Headquarters announced today.

The official statement said that today—last day of the three-week drive—Loan salesmen are out for a "rousing over-subscription," because "all we can get" is their real goal.

Late returns boosted last spring's $1,100,000,000 Fourth Victory Loan to $1,309,317,300 when the books finally were closed some time after the actual campaign ended. It seemed likely the current loan will exceed that figure ultimately and thus become the greatest borrowing drive in Canadian history.

The $1,200,000,000 minimum objective calls for subscriptions averaging about $100 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Manitoba Over

Manitoba was the fourth province and Alberta the fifth to pass its minimum objective, Loan Headquarters announced. The other successful provinces were Quebec, British Columbia and New Brunswick. Alberta exceeded both over-all and general sales quotas.

The number of subscribers Friday showed a "sharp increase," indicating a rally in general canvass, it was stated. No fewer than 207,500 applications were obtained Friday, compared with 187,360 Thursday. The one-day figure compares with 189,410 subscriptions on the same day of the Fourth Victory Loan. The dollar total for Friday was $81,007,900—more than $8,000,000 lower than the same day of the Fourth Loan.

The grand total of subscribers in the Fifth Victory Loan up to Friday night was 2,127,113, compared with 1,825,496 for the same period of the last Loan.

Important subscriptions reported overnight from Ontario headquarters included: Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, $60,000; Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, Windsor, $40,000; International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, Thorold, $30,000; The Macabees, Windsor, $200,000; Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association, London, $125,000; Grand Lodge of Ontario Independent Order of Oddfellows, Toronto, $10,000; University of Ontario $160,000.

Montreal reported investment of $100,000 by the Grand Lodge of the International Association of Machinists "on behalf of their Canadian membership." The International Ladies' Garment Workers Union subscribed $50,000.

Anotner group of Insurance Companies' collective subscriptions was announced, including: Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Canada, Waterloo, $600,000; Independent Order of Foresters, Toronto, $550,000; Empire Life Insurance Co. Kingston, $500,000.

Cities still trying to go over the top before sales close tonight include Belleville, Ont., 97 percent; London, 96.4; Sault Ste. Marie, 92.3; Sudbury, 91.9; Kitchener-Waterloo, 90; Peterborough, 89; Hamilton 87.7; St. Catharines, 87.4; Stratford, 87; Ottawa and North Bay 81.3; and Galt 71.7.

Contract Is Let To Erect C.G.E. Building

The Canadian General Electric Company has awarded to the Eastwood Construction Company a contract for the erection of a one-storey building, 80 feet by 220 feet, on Wolfe Street, to relieve the congestion in the plastics department.

This announcement by Ian F. McRae, works manager, may be interpreted by the community of Peterborough as further evidence of the likelihood of Canadian General Electric continuing here the development of its highly promising plastics branch.

Alderman Bradburn, chairman of the Manufacturers Committee of the Council, hinted the other day that interesting news might be available before the week was out, and Mr. McRae confirmed the report this morning.

The new building will be of brick and concrete construction, reducing to a minimum the use of presently primary materials.

"It has taken considerable time to obtain permission to proceed with letting the contract," Mr. McRae said, "and we are going ahead with the foundation at once. The ground will be broken at the first of the week, and in the meantime we are expecting to get word to continue with complete construction.

The accommodation in the old building on Townsend Street has been so cramped and congested that we are simply forced to seek relief of a condition that had been just about impossible for the staff and for production. That is how badly we needed additional room.

"We are not putting in any new machinery. It is not a project of expansion at this time; it is simply to relieve the congestion in the department."

Old Carbon Plant.

Peterborough's plastics industry has grown up in the old porcelain building of the C.G.E. at Townsend and Stewart Streets. This is one of the oldest industrial buildings in the city. Plastics had its inception here in what was known as "bakelite," a strange, new material whose possibilities became apparent even to the layman. Then the name as changed to "textalite," and gradually plastics became recognized throughout the industrial world as a substance of so many potential uses that it was regarded as opening up a broad new field of industry.

Alderman Bradburn said this feature of the C.G.E. announcement especially appealed to him.

"We are hoping that their plastics department will continue to take root in Peterborough," he said. "From all that I have read about it, I think it is going to be import-

Kiev, Is Third Largest City
Last Natural Barrier On Russian Soil

LONDON, Nov. 6—(AP).—Kiev has fallen to the victorious Russian Army, Premier Joseph Stalin announced today in a special order of the day. The key Dnieper River bastion and ancient capital of the Russians fell to Soviet columns which had been poised above and below the city for weeks after the Soviet offensive carried to the river barrier.

Suddenly, the Russian columns swung into action two days ago, blasting great holes through the Nazi positions and closing in on the city.

The German High Command had announced a few hours previously that the great fortress had been evacuated, with German troops pulling out under the threat of encirclement.

The German announcement, broadcast from Berlin said also that other Soviet columns had renewed their attacks on both sides of the Kerch Straits in the eastern Crimea, and against the Perekop Isthmus, the northern entry to that peninsula.

German withdrawal from the great cathedral city came barely 48 hours after the Russians launched a surprise attack against the northern and western suburbs from their bridgehead base on the west bank of the Dnieper River, 16 miles to the north.

Breaching two German defence lines guarding the city, the Russians outflanked the enemy's positions on the west and north, leaving only a single escape route to the southwest open.

It was this route which the Germans evidently used to complete the evacuation of the city.

Announcement of the abandonment of this third largest city of the Soviet Union and capital of the Ukraine, which was captured by the Germans exactly three months after the Nazi armies crossed the Russian borders, came on the eve of the 26th anniversary of the Soviet revolution and climaxed the victorious Red Army's gigantic autumn campaign.

Moscow's dispatches said it was believed there were 14 German divisions in and around the city when the final assault was launched Thursday.

120 Miles to Poland

The Germans now have no important natural defence line between Kiev and the former Polish frontier, just 120 miles to the west.

The fall of Kiev vastly enhances the possibility that the Red Army will be able to cut in two the remnants of the German armies still in Southern Russia.

Kiev, wth four main railway lines converging on it, was the transportation centre for the entire Crimea.

Meanwhile the Russians had cleaned out the last of the Germans in the Southern Steppe country between the Dnieper river and the shores of the Black Sea, a Russian communique said. They captured 30 more villages in this area and planted themselves opposite the mouth of the Bug river, 30 miles south of Nikolaev and 50 miles across the

Glider Bomb Pierces Canadian Ship

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 6.—(CP).—The indication in a Canadian Naval Press release in Ottawa Friday that a Canadian destroyer was hit and damaged by enemy air attack off the coast of Spain is believed to refer to an action in which the Germans used their new anti-shipping glider bomb for the first time.

From information which came to The Canadian Press in London before I left there five weeks ago, it was learned that a Canadian destroyer had been hit while operating in those waters wtih several Canadian Corvettes on offensive patrol against submarines coming in and out of the Bay of Biscay.

My information said at that time that only great luck—the 500-1 chance that sent the 2,000-pound bomb hurtling through the destroyer before it exploded—saved the Canadian ship from immediate destruction. Supplementary information given then that a British ship was attacked and sunk in a few seconds simultaneously with the attack on the destroyer identifies that action and the one announced from Ottawa as the same. The Ottawa statement said a nearby British ship was hit and sank within 40 seconds.

It is believed that between six and 10 Canadian ships were operating in the Bay of Biscay at that time — an operational fact later tacitly confirmed by the First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, in a press conference when he declined to comment upon, or expand, my request for confirmation of a report that Canadian ships were in those waters.

The purpose of this patrol was to stem the expected autumn ac-

May Make Wage Demands

C.I.O. Chief Ridicules Administration

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6 (AP). — The United Steelworkers of merica (C.I.O.) which won the rst industry-wide increase in ages under the national wage tabilization program, was reported ready today for an attempt to rack the "little steel" formula it elped establish.

While delegates to the C. I. O. ational convention scattered to heir homes president Philip Murray, who also heads the Steelworers' Union, remained behind to ake part in a meeting of the teelworkers' executive committee onday.

On record as denouncing administration of the wage stabilization program as "a national hodge podge," Murray said he wouldn't care to comment "before Monday" on reports that new wage demands would be presented.

Other convention sources, however, went so far as to predict that the steelworkers, whose wage increase in July, 1942, established a national standard, would seek a flat increase of 15 cents an hour with living costs and the coal mine wage raise as main arguments.

Allies Face Big Problem in Far East

Asiatic Races Fear Exploitation By Western Nations After The War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Two days ago this column reported that the Japanese militarists who rule Nippon, recognizing they are doomed to defeat in this war, were said to be consolidating their new bloc of Asiatic nations with the idea of leading them against the white races 25 years hence.

Since then representatives of the Japanese government and five puppet states have met in Tokyo to establish "the Assembly of Greater East Asiatic Nations." The countries are the Philippine Republic, the Nanking Government of occupied China, Thailand, Burma and Manchukuo.

There lies another grave threat of a terrible war of races. True, only two of these controlled States—Thailand and Burma—appear to be offering the Japanese whole-hearted support. However, it's a disquieting fact that some of the others are giving a considerable degree of co-operation—unwilling, perhaps, but still co-operating.

What is the answer of the United Nations to this menace? It seems to me that our action must be divided into two operations:

(1) The defeat of Japan and her supporters in this war, and (2) removal of the grievances and heartburnings which tend to turn the peoples of the Orient away from the western world, and make possible the formations of an Asiatic bloc which is built on animosity toward the white races.

Must Be Smashed

In the first place the Japanese must be smashed and rendered impotent to make war again. This cuts deeper than the surrender and disarmament of Nippon, for Japanese aggression comes from the malignant growth of militarism. In order to get peace this cancer must be destroyed.

With that unsavory job out of the way, the Allies will have to embark on the task of educating the Japanese people into friendly relations with the west.

Meantime the western powers have to remove the causes of distrust and misgivings which exist even among our allies in the Orient.

My personal observations in the Orient leave me in no doubt that the eastern countries fear, and in some cases believe that America and Britain are bent on exploiting them. These suspicions must be removed by deeds, not words, if the Japanese idea of an anti-western block is to be killed.

700 Heavies Lash Germany

Mosquitoes Follow-Up During Night

LONDON, Nov. 6—(CP). — R.A.F. Mosquito bombers, in a quick follow up to a record American daylight attack yesterday on two Ruhr cities, attacked targets in western Germany last night, the Air Ministry announced Saturday.

The objectives attacked in the night assault were not immediately named, nor was there any hint of the size of the raiding force.

Yesterday a huge fleet of American heavy bombers estimated at 700, loosing one of the heaviest air blows ever dealt to western Germany by the U.S.A.A.F., blasted industrial and rail targets at Gelsenkirchen and Muenster in the wake of similar staggering assaults on Duesseldorf, Cologne and Wilhelmshaven by R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and American bombers.

The sky armada, totalling upwards of 1,000 planes with fighter escort, bored through a wall of anti-aircraft fire to reach its objectives. In the day's operations, which included attacks on northern France and Belgium, losses were 10 heavy bombers, two medium ones and five fighters as against 38 enemy fighters.

Great Enemy Fleet Moves From Truk To Protect Rabaul

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 6 (AP)—Possibly two score Japanese heavy and light cruisers, destroyers, transports and freighters are moving on Rabaul from Truk to within range of massed hundreds of Allied bombers.

Already the first bombs have hit one of the five southbound convoys in what shapes up as likely to be the most violent action since a 20-ship enemy convoy was destroyed by Allied planes last March in the Bismarck Sea off New Guinea.

Headquarters reported today the spotting of the enemy fleet units by sky patrols and a spokesman made clear their every move is being watched.

It was evident Japan is preparing to risk much in trying to hold on to Bougainville, her last big base in the Solomons, and to menaced New Britain which bars the open sea lanes to the Philippines.

Both Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Admiral William Halsey have expressed confidence of ability to handle any eventuality in the Northern Solomons showdown.

Hurricane Lamp Caused Burns

NASSANU, BAHAMAS, Nov. 6.—(AP).— The possibility that some bold defence move was in the making added new suspense to-day to the trial of Alfred de Marigny on a charge of slaying his father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

Attorneys Godfred Higgs and W. E. A. Callender held their counsel, but there were indications their strategy called for some unexpected move.

Possibilities were that a motion for a directed verdict of innocence was in the making.

After coming out with the testimony of De Marigny himself, the defence turned to minor witnesses who testified about the party at De Marignys' cottage on the night of the slaying. They did little more than confirm the defendant's statement that he burned himself lighting a Hurricane lamp.

Back The Troops

Ottawa, Nov. 6 (CP).

CANADIAN soldiers in Italy realize that only "constantly increasing pressure" will bring about final collapse of the enemy, Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the 1st Canadian Division now serving with the British 8th Army, said in a Victory Loan message. It was addressed to "every Canadian" and released yesterday by Loan headquarters.

"Canadian soldiers .... are not sparing themselves to achieve that end," the message said. "(They) urge all Canadians to back this effort by purchasing an extra Victory Bond during the next three days to help speed the victory."

Yugoslavs Start New Offensive

LONDON, Nov. 6 (CP)—Yugoslav guerillas have launched an offensive to drive the Germans from the long Pelyssac Peninsula off the Dalmatian coast, a communique of the Yugoslav Liberation Army announced today.

Details of the Pelyssac operation were lacking, but the bulletin reported heavy fighting between Partisans and Germans on the slopes of Mount Zlatibor in Serbia, to the east.

A German garrison at Brezovac, near Byelova, in Croatia was liquidated by Gen. Josip Broz' (Tito) forces, the bulletin said, and the railway line between Krizevci and Byelova was reported severed at several points.

quiry will examine most closely the possibility of incendiary origin.

"No personnel was injured" in the blaze which raged uncontrolled for two hours and was not extinguished for three.

Following is the text of the Defence Department statement:—

A court of inquiry will be held into the circumstances surrounding a serious fire which destroyed two Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps workshops at Camp Borden early today.

The blaze broke out at about 4 a.m., (E.D.T.) it is believed simultaneously in both wings of the workshop.

While both workshops were destroyed, prompt action by the Camp Borden Fire Department saved the boiler room and adjoining buildings. The blaze was brought under control at about 6 a.m. and extinguished an hour later.

Some tanks and trucks are a partial loss, although an estimate of damage is not yet available.

No personnel was injured.

The fire was not near any barracks and there was no loss of life. Only injuries were to military firemen who suffered cuts about the hands in fighting the blaze and in trying to remove equipment.

There was no official estimate of the damage although it was known to be large. Brig. A. C. Spencer, camp commandant, was not able to give the cause of the blaze.

The fire was discovered about four a.m. and military firemen were joined by men of the air force. It was a spectacular blaze with a number of explosions as gasoline in the tanks and vehicles caught fire. The buildings—of wooden construction and covered with tarpaper — were destroyed and were still smouldering at 10 a.m.

The buildings were located in the north end of the military camp.

The last serious fire at Camp Borden was two years ago when the military hospital was burned.

tivity of the huge fleets of German submarines that had put in to submarine bases on the Bay of Biscay during the summer for refitting and repairs.

The information picked up by The Canadian Press about the attack on the Canadian destroyer stressed the amazing qualities of the new glider-bomb. It said that while the air attack from about 20 Nazi planes was heavy and determined, anti-aircraft fire from the warships would have driven off the attack without damage under normal circumstances.

Queer Incident

The bomb that hit the Canadian warship was said to have been one of about 15 aimed at the naval patrol. Most of the bombs fell in the water harmlessly. The one aimed at the destroyer seemed well off line, this information said. The Canadian sailors were watching its descent carefully, and figured it would be a safe miss. Suddenly, however, it turned and glided in to score a direct hit on the ship's superstructure. The angle it had to take, in changing course, sent it down through the ship and crashing through the side into the water before it exploded.

My information said that only two or three of the destroyer's crew were injured. The Ottawa announcement, telling how teleghapist Chuck Kent, Calgary, had both legs sliced off when it passed through the signal room but not mentioning other casualties, seems to bear that out.

Sicily Leaders Named In Army Shake-up

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 6—(CP)—An Ottawa brigadier, M.H.S. Penhale, has been appointed to the senior general staff appointment at Canadian Military Headquarters here in the latest of a series of Army moves involving men who led the Canadians in the Sicilian campaign.

Appointment of the 47-year-old officer to brigadier, general staff, was announced soon after Brig. Christopher Vokes of Winnipeg and Ottawa was appointed major-general and given command of a division and Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the 1st Canadian Division in Sicily, was appointed to command an armored division.

Brig. Penhale, who commanded the 3rd Infantry Brigade in Sicily, succeeds Brig. N. E. Rodger of Fredericton, N.B., who assumes command of an infantry brigade. It was not made known, however, who will succeed Brig. Penhale or who Brig. Rodger will replace when he assumes command of an infantry brigade.

Announcement that Brig. Penhale had commanded an infantry brigade in Sicily was the first disclosure that the 3rd Brigade comprising the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec, a permanent force unit, the Carleton and York regiment of St. Stephen, N.B., and the West Nova Scotia regiment of Bridgetown, N.S., had been under his command.

It has been known merely that Brig. Harold Graham, D.S.O., of Trenton, Ont., commanded the 1st Brigade and Brig. Vokes commanded the 2nd Brigade.

It was taken for granted that Gen. Vokes would take over command of the 1st Division now fighting in Italy and he was hailed as a worthy successor to Gen. Simonds.

just back from the front, or occasionally a well-chosen native Briton such as Gracie Fields.

When they want air crew in Britain—as they do—they put up good posters, and mobilization facilities are turned to filling the immediate need. An English (or Canadian) air gunner over there would be fair shaken by the radio spots used for air-crew recruiting here (rattle of machine-gun; one man shouts to another how he sure chased that Jerry away; a fade-in to the recruiting appeal).

Britons Well Informed

Canada's astonishing war record is better publicized at home, naturally, than overseas. But the average Britons knows just as much about the Canadian effort's real high spots as the average Canadian. And the Briton also knows all about New Zealand's effort, and South Africa's, and Australia's and India's. Canadians generally aren't well informed on what their sister-Dominions are doing in this war.

Rationing here probably is inconvenient to housewives, but of course it is nothing compared to the British.

Generally, however, the fundamental difference between the British and Canadian war efforts is that the average Briton knows what war is all about from personal observation, and the average Canadian doesn't. This country has the youthful exuberance of a fight fan, sitting at the ringside. Britain has the sober determination of the man in the ring.

Slot Machine Clean-up Starts

By DICK RYDER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 6—(CP)—Under the direction of Attorney General Blackwell, Ontario Provincial Police are conducting a drive to stamp out gambling with slot and pinball machines.

It is not the first by a long way. There have been other campaigns in Ontario but the slot machines go on apace. Staff Inspector Edward Doyle, head of the Provincial Police anti-gambling squad, says there are 3,000 in the province and describes them as "the biggest gambling racket in Ontario."

Two hundred and eleven machines have been seized since Aug. 17 and there have been 142 convictions out of 156 prosecutions. Another 58 cases are pending.

Seized machines are broken up, the electrical mechanism going to universities for experimental purposes and the metal for war salvage. Money found in them goes to the Crown—$911.65 was taken from 25 seized recently. Fines paid since the campaign started total $12,940.

Mr. Blackwell said he preferred not to call the present activity a campaign—it was simply a decision on the part of the government to enforce the anti-gambling laws more rigidly. He suggested municipalities could pass bylaws refusing licences to business establishments with slot machines on the premises and that the Dominion Government could ban their importation from the United States where they are manufactured.

clined to doubt the Rome radio announcement that said in part:

'A criminal air raid attack was made yesterday (Friday) at about 2100 hours against Vatican City. The Holy City of Christianity.... was hit by four heavy bombs which caused considerable damage.

"It is very possible that the attack was directed against St. Peter's Basilica since bombs were dropped successively at a distance of 100 yards from the Basilica itself."

Reason for doubting this was that no details of any British or American air activity over Italy on Friday night was available, and there was also the warning issued by the Allies in April, 1941, that the Germans had a squadron ready to bomb Rome with captured British bombs should such a subterfuge suit their purpose.

Premier Drew Visitor To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 6 (ENS)—In her own best interests Canada must decide on the nature of the partnership she is going to have after the war and that partnership should be embraced within the structure of the British Empire, declared Premier George A. Drew before a gathering of more than 350 people here last night. Premier Drew was the guest speaker at a complimentary dinner arranged by the local Progressive Conservative Association in honor of W. A. Goodfellow who was elected to the Provincial Legislature in the August election by the biggest majority ever given a candidate in Northumberland County.

People from all parts of the riding, and of various political complexions, filled the Masonic Temple to overflowing, as they gathered in tribute to Mr. Goodfellow and to hear Col. Drew deliver his first address as premier of the province, in this town. Following the opening remarks of the chairman, Harry Fowlds, president of the local association, Mayor Frank Long presented the keys of the town to Col. Drew and Mr. Goodfellow, as he gave an official welcome. Another

MRS. MARY BURNET

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Burnet was held from the Belleghem Funeral Home this week, with services conducted by Rev. Dr. George Easton. Interment was made in Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Burnet passed away in her 95th year at the Parkwood Hospital, London, following a long illness.

Born at Little Falls, New York, on April 19, 1849, she came to Canada with her parents in 1855, the family residing in Streetsville for a time and later in Cornwall. In 1869 she married James Burnet and they made their home in Cornwall for several years, moving then to Peterborough, where Mr. Burnet was superintendent of the Auburn Woollen Mills up to his death in 1911.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Burnet made her home at Port Elgin with her only daughter, Mrs. H. H. Stevens, who predeceased her in 1937. She continued to live there up until two years ago, when her health failed and she went to the hospital at London.

Remaining to mourn her loss are four grand-daughters: Mrs. J. M. Inglis, Kincardine; Mrs. R. J. Pequegnat, Port Elgin; Mrs J. G. Campbell and Mrs. George E. Turner of Windsor. Two brothers and a sister also survive: Edwin Kendry of this city and William Kendry, Worthington, Penn.; and Mrs. Annie Wilson, North Adams, Mass. Two brothers and two sisters predeceased her.

Pallbearers were: R. V. Dawson, Mel Turner, Charles Ray, W. B. Bletcher, James Davidson and A. R. Andersan. Mr. H. H. Stevens of Port Elgin accompanied the remains to Peterborough and a number of old friends were present to pay their last respects

MRS. WILLIAM FISHER

The death of Mrs. Mary Ann Fisher, widow of the late William Fisher, occurred this morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Harriett Haylock, 46 Lafayette avenue. In her 91st year, Mrs. Fisher had been ill only a short time.

Born in Warwickshire, England, she came to Canada 30 years ago, and had made Peterborough her home ever since. She was a member of All Saints' Anglican church. Her husband predeceased her 40 years ago.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Harriett Haylock; two grand-daughters, Mrs. Bruce Thompson (Isabel) and Mrs. Percy Johnston (Hilda); and a grandson, Gordon. All live in this city.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 2 p.m. from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter street, with service conducted by Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Anglican church. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

cost the Unted States more than 40,000,000 tons of coal, this is the picture:

U.M.W. President John L. Lewis has a memorandum agreement with fuels boss Harold Ickes; under it the soft coal miner who formerly received $7 a day will receive $8.50, agreeing to dig coal an hour longer, partly by halving his 30-minute lunch period. After his 40th hour underground he starts getting paid for travel time at time and a half. In a six-day week his increase is about $11.50, so that the average daily increase is closer to $2 than $1.50. His total week's earnings will be close to $57. Some may earn more and the average would exceed $60.

Provision covering anthracite miners were fully approved. They grant 70 cents a day additional.

Only a few anti-climactic chapters of the 1943 coal drama appeared to remain: (1) the meeting of conditions which the W.L.B. attached to its approval of the Ickles-Lewis agreement; (2) determination of new ceiling prices, and (3) restoration of the mines to their private owners.

Early Settling Of Coal Seems Unlikely

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP). —Hope for immediate settlement of the strike of 8,500 Alberta and British Columbia coal miners faded last night with postponement until today of a conference between the Labor Minister, Mr. Mitchell and a miners' delegation.

Earlier last evening Robert Livett, district 18 president of the United Mine Workers of America had said he expected to be able to make an important statement after last night's meeting. When the postponement was announced, he said he was still hopeful that this would be possible after Saturday's conference.

Mr. Mitchell called off the last night meeting with the explanation that the Cabinet still had the matter under consideration. The Cabinet met for more than four hours yesterday afternoon at a special session and planned another meeting for Saturday morning.

The Minister did not see the mines delegation Friday. While he was conferring with his Cabinet colleagues, the union officials went to Confederation Building where the Minister's offices are located, and conferred with Deputy Labor Minister Arthur MacNamara and M. M. Maclean, director of the department's industrial relations branch.

The striking miners are seeking among other things, a general increase of $2 a day.

Reports Progress.

Mr Mitchell, returning from the Cabinet session, went directly to his office and sent word to the delegation that he was not yet in a position to meet them. The conference in Mr. MacNamara's office which had lasted less than an hour broke up almost immediately.. Mr MacNamara reported: "We are making progress."

During the afternoon the union representative received a reply from Calgary to the proposal advanced at last night's conference with the Minister. Mr. Mitchell was also informed of the contents of the message from Calgary, but they were not made public.

Mr. Livett had made train reservations to leave for the West. He cancelled them when last night's meeting was postponed. The three other members of the delegation John Stokaluk, district vice-president; Donald McDonald and Michael Susnar, board members, had originally planned to leave Ottawa by air last night, but when they were unable to obtain priorities they delayed their departure until to-day.

Favorable Reply?

Observers assumed the reply the union officials received from the strike committee in Calgary was favorable to the adoption of the proposal under consideration—believed to be either a procedure by which the miners could present

Unjust Anger at Neighbours Defined as Wicked as Murder

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 7 is Exodus 20, 13; Matthew 5: 21-26, 38-45, the Golden Text being I. John 3; 15; "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer.")

"Thou shalt not kill." This commandment, given over 3,000 years ago, was made to protect human life. If every man's hand had been raised against every other to kill, the earth would soon have been depopulated. The human being is a personality. It is a crime to destroy a being made in his Maker's image, the commandment seems to say.

Turning to Matthew 5: 21, we read:

"Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment:

"But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, 'Raca,' shall be in danger of the council; but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire."

This saying of our Lord's soars high above the flat statement, "Thou shalt not kill." It touches a new development in ethical thought and conduct. Not only shall we not kill our brother's body, end his life, but we shall not allow ourselves to grow angry with him, to hurt his feelings, to call him names. One who does so is almost as bad as a murderer, because in his extreme anger he no doubt wishes this person at whom he is so angry was indeed dead. The word 'Raca' is thought to be a term of angry contempt.

Conveys Settled Hatred.

The word "fool" seems to convey a fixed and settled hatred. This writer remembers, when a child, hearing two brothers quarrelling, the quarrel reaching its climax when one called the other a fool. Very quietly Mother said, "The Bible says, he who calls his brother a fool is in danger of hell fire." That word of onger was seldom or never heard in our family again as long as I was at home.

"If you take a gift to the altar, said Jesus, and while there remember that your brother hath aught against you, leave your gift immediately and go to your brother and make things right with him. Only then will your gift be acceptable to God.

"Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou are in the way with him," before he takes his case into court and you become enemies because of a slight disagreement or you have a judgment delivered against you.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth:

"But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil; but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

"And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also.

"And whosoever compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain. Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

"Ye have heard that it has been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy.

Love Your Enemies.

"But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.

"That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust."

We should learn these passages by heart, and they will recur to us when we need them most and bless our lives if we strive hard to live by them. All through life we shall meet people who seem to us evil, or at least full of faults—even as we are. They may insult us in the way the slap on the cheek was once considered a deadly insult to be wiped out in blood in a duel. If we turn the other cheek, as it were, maybe we can shame them and make them realize how unmannerly they are and how much at fault.

Without anger we should give up our cloak when our coat is taken; go another mile when we are forced to go one. If people don't like us we should try to see the good in them, and do good to them, striving to turn the hate to love. Thus will we feel ourselves children of the Father.

This does not prevent our anger from flaring up at wanton cruelty, persecutions and aggression. We will fight for others — for our homes and loved ones and our native land if they are assailed. But not with vengeance; and after the battle we will do all in our power to help make ond preserve a lasting and just peace.

Special Part For Parents Is Planned in Educational Week

Education week, which is Nov. 8th to the 13th and is sponsored by the Ontario Teachers' Federation, is of special interest to the Home and School members, because it is dedicated to the childhood and youth of the Province, the week when attention is directed to and focussed on Education.

Home and School members are asked to share in this observance and help promote the objectives of this campaign, namely a greater informed public opinion on the aims and ideals of the schools.

During the coming week when "Open House" will be held in the most of the public schools and speakers will be heard at specially arranged meetings, Home and School members are urged to help make their community education conscious, by encouraging parents to accept the invitations to visit the schools and the class rooms of their children and thus become better acquainted with the teachers and the work they are doing.

Parents should be interested in their schools, not only as parcels of property, but more so as the agency which moulds the child's thoughts and character. In a number of ways the school determines the future of the boy or girl. therefore all need to watch carefully the developmment and changes that have been promoted in the curriculum during the past few years.

The Home and School Associations is the medium through which parents may keep in close contact with the educational system of today, by meeting regularly each month in the school, getting to know the teaching staff and learning through them and guest speakers of all that effects the child, physically, mentally and spiritually.

Every parent should consider it their duty to become an interested Home and School member, because the schools are concerned with the development of character initiative and idealism and so are the homes, but only with the cooperation of both forces can the people assure the post war world of good Canadian citizens.

As a fitting introduction to Education Week, the annual Church Service for the Home and School members will be held in St. Paul's Church on Sunday evening, November 7, when all are asked to meet in the Sunday School at 6:45 for roll call. A cordial invitation has been extended to the teachers.

On Friday evening, November 13 a Musicale sponsored by the Home and School Council, will be held in the Y.W.C.A. at 8:15.

GILMOUR

Mission Talk

GILMOUR, Nov. 6 (ENS). —The annual thankoffering of Gilmour Mission Circle was held Monday night with Mrs. Buck, returned missionary from Bolivia, as guest speaker.

The president, Mrs. Telford, opened the meeting and Miss Lillian McGregor sang a solo. Mrs. Buck was then called on and she gave an interesting talk on the Christian work being done in their centre. The thankoffering amounted to about $26. The ladies were then served refreshments.

OMEMEE

Plan Service By W.M.S.

OMEMEE, Nov. 6 (ENS) — The Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Vernon Lang Thursday afternoon with a splendid attendance of members and visitors. Mrs. Pogue, leader of Group 5, was in charge. The treasurer reported the Autumn thankoffering to be $41. A discussion followed on having a memorial service in memory of Mrs. Sam Connell who had acted as president for several years prior to her death last January. It was decided to have this ceremony at the January meeting. The temperance secretary, Mrs. Moyer, gave a brief talk on the Liquor Traffic and their ways of advertising.

Those taking part in the worship service were Mrs. Rehill, Mrs. Shield, Mrs. Lang, Mrs. Deyell and Mrs. Rea. The chapter in the study book was given in the form of a dialogue between Mrs. Brooks and Miss L. Race, telling how the Bible had been translated for the people of Asia, Africa, South America and the Indians of Guatemala was given by Mrs. Pogue. Lunch was served by Group 5.

The Healer of Sin

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Jesus, seeing their faith, saith unto the sick of the palsy: Son, thy sins be forgiven thee.

St. Mark 2; 5

The sense of sin is universal. So you can easily understand why the three evangelists unite in recording this miracle of the forgiveness of sins. It made a great impression especially when you remember that palsy typifies the inability of the will to control the shaking limbs. It points naturally to the moral palsy of a man's will to obey the will of God. "For the good that I would I do not, but the evil that I would not that I do" comes home to every thoughtful man.

Have you the eyes to see vivid word picture? The eyes of the four friends are fixed steadfastly upon the Face of the great Healer. He looks into their eyes and then into the very heart of the palsied man. St. John reminds us that "Jesus knew what was in man". Can you see the astonishment upon the faces of those four leaning down as they hear the astounding words: "Son, thy sins be forgiven thee". Now watch the faces of His enemies—the Doctors of the Law—as they mutter the awful word: "Blasphemy". Then look upon the face of the palsied man. To him it is not blasphemy. He lies in the Presence of the purest of human beings "in Whom there is no sin". They have laid him at the Feet of the only begotten Son of God, full of purity and goodness. He is permitted to look into the eyes of Perfect Purity. Deeper than his physical pain is the spiritual agony in his soul.

How true to prophetic experience. Centuries earlier the highly respected Isaiah is meditating in the Temple. He has a vision. "I saw the Lord sitting upon His throne, high and lifted up". The "Holy, Holy, Holy" of the seraphim brings to his own lips the bitter cry: "Unclean". "Woe is me for I am a man of unclean lips." He also needed cleansing, as you know.

The heart of the palsied man is filled with an inrush of joy and peace. The sense of forgiveness flows over his soul. He has heard the Master of soul sickness utter the power word "Forgiveness". Nothing else matters. He can go through life palsied but happy. With stammering lips he could tell men how the Master looked into his eyes and said: "Son, thy sins be forgiven thee". It was enough for such as he.

But that others may know of that inward cleansing the Master commands: "Rise, take up thy bed and go into thy house. He arose and took up his bed and went forth bemore them all insomuch that they were all amazed and glorified God, saying; we never saw it in this fashion".

Let us not forget that the blessing came to the palsied man through the faith of his four friends. Ponder upon the mystery of friendship. Through your friendship you can bring your friend into the very Presence of the Lord Christ. "Where two or three are gathered together in My name there I am in the midst of them." His perpetual Presence is wherever His people are gathered together for worship. "The Father seekest such to worship Him".

The Lord Jesus is always present to utter His word of pardon and forgiveness. But there must be cooperation on your part. "Rise and walk" is His command. You must do your part. You must exercise your will and bring it into obedience to His Voice. Then you will discover a new spiritual power entering into you. By personal experience you will know that His grace is sufficient for you and that His strength is made perfect in your weakness.

"Jesus, seeing their faith". How thankful the Master is to see the faith in men for their friends. "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and for ever". Yet do not forget that some spark of their faith had passed into the heart and mind of the palsied man. The wise physician knows this and desires to strengthen the man's faith. He calls upon him to rise and walk. He is to exercise his little faith and thus discover his physical cure. He obeys, walks and marvels. So it is in every man's life who strives to walk in the way of salvation and desires to be healed of his besetting sin.

As a child you received your faith from your father and mother. "Their faith" helped you to place your faith in God. "Many of the Samaritans of that City believed on the Lord for the saying of the woman; He told me all that ever I did".

But this is not enough. There must be advance and progress in your spiritual life. "When I was a child I thought as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things". "Many more believed because of His own word and said unto the woman; Now we believe, not because of thy saying, for we have heard Him ourselves and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world." Have you passed into this higher stage of personal experience in the saving power of the Lord Christ?

I have heard of thee by the ear: but now mine eye seeth Thee.

The Sacredness of Human Life — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:13; Matt. 5:21-26; 38:45.

Jesus said: "Ye have heard it said Thou shalt not kill; but I say unto you, whosoever is angry with his brother without cause is in danger of the judgment."

If thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against three, first be reconciled to thy brother, and then offer thy gift.

It has been said an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but Jesus said, resist not evil; whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other.

Jesus said, love your enemies, bless them that curse you, pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you.

Admitting Refugees To Canada

At present the Canadian National Refugee Committee is urging the citizens of this country to sign a petition to the Dominion Government "to offer sanctuary in Canada to refugees from religious or political persecution, regardless of race, creed, or financial position".

There is much to be said in favour of this course of action. Humanity urges it; we live in a country which is as safe from the Axis as any country can be, we have plenty of room for new people, and we have a responsibility to those who have suffered drastically in the fight against tyranny. But before we sign the Committee's petition we must make up our minds on a few very important points.

First, are we admitting refugees on temporary permits, or are we admitting them as settlers and potential Canadian citizens? If the former, we must be ready to spend some money looking after the refugees, for it is unlikely that they will be able to support themselves once they are here, for their temporary status will debar them from many jobs. If the latter, we must decide now whether we want to give up the struggle to keep Canada a British country. If that is so, let us open the gates at once. But if we have any doubts on the matter, we must think what it means to admit large groups of non-British settlers. Do we want to become a melting-pot nation?

One advocate for the refugees says: "Far from being liabilities, refugees today are largely well-educated men and women—writers, artists, scientists—who would greatly enrich our cultural and national life". That is not so. Writers can barely earn a living in Canada, and artists cannot do much better; scientists we could use, certainly. But this is not a land of opportunity for cultivators of the arts; they would starve here. The United States, with its great population and its lively interest in cultural matters is the place for them. Artists and writers can only exist in countries where there are large populations, for only one person in a thousand has any interest in the arts whatever. Canada cannot support a national culture with eleven million people. When we have fifty million, or a hundred million, we may be able to do so. But at present an artist might better emigrate to the Sahara than to Canada.

Many of the refugees are professional people—doctors, lawyers and the like. We have need of doctors, certainly. But the question is, will the refugee doctors go to the obscure places where they are needed, or will they all settle in Montreal and Toronto? A man accustomed to life in a European city will hardly be of much use as the only doctor in a fifty-mile area in western Canada.

There are excellent theoretical reasons why we should accept great numbers of refugees in Canada, but the practical question is, What are we going to do with them when they are here? Has the Committee any plan? Does it know where it could raise money to keep these unhappy people from destitution?

The Examiner does not want to act as a wet blanket on the fiery enthusiasm of the Committee; indeed, this paper would support the plan to bring refugees here in every possible way if it were a little more clear that the plan was headed for success, and not for disillusion. We should like nothing better than to see great numbers of highly educated and talented people come to Canada and settle here, but if we have no sensible plan for making them happy, self-supporting and useful citizens we think that they had better stay where they are. Let us use our brains as well as our hearts in deciding this matter, or we shall bring about a situation which will not be resolved in fifty years.

Lay That Pistol Down, Caesar

James Caesar Petrillo, the dictator of the musicians' union, has successfully ended his fight with the recording companies, and in return for fat tribute to Caesar's private system of relief they have bought back the right to continue their business. And now that it is once more permitted to make recordings of the works of the greater and lesser masters the first gem to drop from the presses is Pistol-Packin' Momma, a ditty which has been greeted with the utmost enthusiasm by the whole continent. An interesting situation, this one; while we fight Fascism abroad where it is a national policy, we knuckle under to it at home, where it is a form of private enterprise. We condemn and seek to destroy dictators who control whole nations, but we bend the knee to those who control arts and skills.

Trade unionism, like a lot of other things, works splendidly when the men in control of it are men of integrity, good sense and honest intention. There are scores of unions operating on this continent which do excellent jobs for their members, keep on good terms with management, and are seldom heard of in the newspapers. There are a few others which are always attracting attention because they have fallen into the hands of men who have no sense of responsibility toward the public, and are out to extort whatever they can for themselves and their "boys". How much of the squeeze actually gets to the boys nobody knows, and the boys themselves as little as any. In the case of the musicians' union Caesar will handle the swag himself.

It is an odd thing that nobody appears to be in a position to say, "Lay that pistol down, Caesar". Can it be that the end of the war will usher in a new and golden period of domestic dictatorship?

The Neutrals Clear Their Heads

During a war neutral thinking is usually extremely muddled until the issue is clear; then it clarifies itself with surprising suddenness. To put the matter more bluntly, neutrals keep to themselves as much as they can until they are sure which way the cat will jump; then they hurry to show friendliness toward the winning side.

Portugal has given the British and Allied forces the use of bases in the Azores; this valuable assistance will stand Portugal in stead when the peace settlement comes. There is reason to believe that Turkey will shortly enter the war as a belligerent on our side. Spain is reconsidering her position, and has greatly increased the strength and prestige of her diplomatic representation in London. Sweden has shown herself hostile toward the Nazis for some months, and is now beginning to cultivate the Allies with a good deal of diplomatic skill; Sweden hopes to weather this war as she did the last, by carefully balanced diplomacy and a strict attention to her own business. Switzerland has served both the Allies and the Axis in her accustomed role of mediator, clearing-house for news, and centre of International Red Cross activity.

The nations which are really going to be forced to balance their books are those which are in the war in part only. This of course cannot mean Russia, for although Russia is not at war with Japan she most certainly is at war with Germany. But Finland finds herself in an anomalous position, for she is at war with Russia and Great Britain, but not with the U.S. Bulgaria is fighting the U.S. and Britain, but not Russia. Greece is at war with Germany, Italy and Bulgaria, but not with Japan. And Iran also is at war with Germany, but not with Japan. When armistices and peace negotiations begin these special cases will cause plenty of complication. The countries which are not clearly on one side or the other will have to be subtle in their negotiations and their choice of mediators.

A Good Word For A.R.P.

It has now been decided that we do not need to maintain our vigilance against air attack in the inland parts of Canada, and the A.R.P. organizations are to be dismissed. We do not think that they should be allowed to fade away without a word of thanks and commendation from the public. Luckily there was no need for their services; but they were ready, and they showed their quality in the practise blackouts and the other demonstrations. If we had suffered air attacks in this country we think that the A.R.P. would have stood up to them well; our A.R.P. was based on the British model, and we know that they would not have fallen short of the British level of vigilance, devotion and sacrifice if they had been needed.

Here in Peterborough we had an elaborate A.R.P. organization which was fully instructed and ready to deal with any emergency which might have arisen. That standard of preparedness was only reached because a great many citizens were ready to give up their leisure and work hard at the A.R.P. job. It may be that the special police force which was part of our A.R.P. will be maintained for exceptional occasions, but most of the workers will be through. We thank them for taking on a difficult job when it seemed that raids were a possibility.

A Gallery Of Fighting Men

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

BOOKS of drawings by Canadian artists are a rarity in the reviewer's world; how much greater, then, is his pleasure in receiving a book of the quality of "Our Canadian Armed Services," containing forty-six drawings of fighting men from our air force, navy and army by Grant Macdonald. The book is published by the Gazette Syndicate of Montreal, costs one dollar, and should have a large sale, for it is as good a gallery of Canadian types as can be found anywhere. The drawings have apeared previously in the Montreal Gazette and in a few other Canadian papers.

GRANT MACDONALD'S work has already been mentioned in this column. Before the war he won a reputation for himself with his drawings of theatrical celebrities, which were often to be seen in the better English and American magazines and newspapers. In an unusual degree he has the ability to produce a picture of an actor or actress which is at once decorative and "a good likeness." Artists who can produce "glamour pictures" are many; but artists like Macdonald who can make a portrait which is at once a likeness, a criticism, and a romantic distillation of the subject's personality, are rare indeed, and are eagerly sought after. Macdonald's pictures of ballet dancers are another interesting phase of his work. He can convey the romance of the ballet without permitting his work to become vitiated or debilitated; so much work in this line gives the impression that artist and sitter are alike in the final stages of tuberculosis. Macdonald's drawings have the strength, and the grace, and the splendid health of the dancers themselves. All his work has a temperate and sane quality which enhances, rather than detracts from its romantic dash.

PICTURES of fighting men by an artist who has gained his reputation drawing actors and ballet dancers might fail if he were not a man of adaptable talent. But Grant Macdonald has the adaptability of the thorough craftsman. The grace and dash of his peacetime work is here, but the strength and out-of-doors quality of the camp is here also. Some of the pictures are formal portraits, such as those of Brigadier Logie Armstrong, Captain J. E. W. Oland, Flight Lieutenant A. R. Fairbairn, and Lieutenant Colonel Reistad. Others are of men in action, and in these the artist shows his astonishing technical command. Consider, for instance, the picture called "Abandon Ship," which shows Ordinary Seaman J. Greenshields demonstrating the correct way to jump from a sinking vessel; how many draughtsmen could successfully compose a picture from this angle, and give it that dramatic, rushing quality? Another remarkable composition is that which shows Leading Aircraftsman M. I. J. Goodsell making a parachute jump; in the picture he has not yet released his 'chute; what a sense of rushing wind and great space the pictures gives! Macdonald can give this impression of lightning movement as few artists can. But consider another picture, in which Leading Stoker G. Eden instructs H. G. Richmond in the proper way of handling a ship's wheel; there is no violent movement here—the calm and concentration of the scene are as great as the rush in the other two pictures. All through the book examples may be found of superb technical achievement.

BUT the general public, looking at these pictures, will not say, "That must be hard to do," and lose themselves in admiration of the artist's skill; they will think only of the men in the pictures, and that is as it should be. The book is full of examples of the art which conceals art, but look closely and the skill of the draughtsman will be immediately apparent. Perhaps the most striking single picture in the book is that of Signalman H. E. W. Bohnert as a Commando. In eerie light he creeps through a barbed-wire entanglement, a stocking-cap pulled down over his head, his Commando dagger between his teeth, and a look of alert menace gleaming in his eyes. That, and a vigorous treatment of an attack in single file, are pictures which might well hang in any war gallery. Although no Canadian gallery has yet seen fit to buy any of these pictures, the Philadelphia Museum has done so; "a prophet is not without honour...."

A BOOK of drawings of this quality is a tonic in wartime, when so much art work which is thrust upon the public is well-intentioned but dull in conception and inept in execution. Posters, placards and other eye-taking devices are being used extensively now to promote loans and recruiting, and few of them rise above mediocrity in idea and drawing. The people responsible for them are perhaps so determined to exclude whatever is "arty" or weak that they will only accept whatever is crude and stupid. Certainly Macdonald's book is the only thing of its kind which has appeared yet, in which an artist of genuine ability has turned his hand to work which arouses enthusiasm and pride in Canada's war effort and in the men who are the head and forefront of that effort. And for this reason his book deserves the widest distribution. But will it get it? Canada usually waits until her artists are dead—or at least half-dead—before paying any attention to them.

More Haste, More Speed

Thursday the young man was in North Africa yearning to be home after months in Africa, Sicily and Italy. Sunday night he slept in his own bed on this side of the Atlantic, after submitting to newspaper interviews and dining with his family. He was delayed somewhat by headwinds.

That was no stunt. The trip could have been made faster, if there had been urgent reason. It involved only ordinary routine transatlantic flying.

Can you remember when it was a day's job to hitch up the old mare, drive five or six miles to town, do the week's shopping and drive back home?—Montreal Herald.

Lion-Heart's Sword

The question of whether to straighten the sword in the hand of Richard the Lion-Hearted, in the equestrian statue in the Palace Yard of Westminster, bent by a bomb fragment during the blitz, has brought the understandable suggestion that a sword, bent but not broken, is truly symbolic of what Great Britain went through in her darkest days of the war and should be left as it is.—New York Sun.

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Nov. 6 (CP)—The federal capital in wartime has taken over more thoroughly the task of regulating the lives of Canadians but paradoxicaly the parade of delegations to Ottawa is reported on the decline.

There's no positive explanation but travel difficulties, concentration on war work, and the fact ministers and officials are kept so busy they haven't a minute to spare are thought to be responsible.

Farm delegations are less frequent. Organizations like the Canadian Federation of Agriculture concentrate many farm proposals into one submission—by one delegation.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

We've been taken gently to task for last week's yarn in which we inferred somebody made a mistake in choosing chrysanthemums—the national flower of Japan—for decorations at a luncheon given by the Chinese minister.

The minister, Dr. Liu Shih-Shun, tells us he didn't pick the flowers but doesn't think it was an error. And we have a letter from Chia-Chen Clarence Chu, the legation's third secretary:—

"The chrysanthemum has been a very popular plant among the Chinese for several thousand years. Its flower has decorated the home of our people during all that time. Innumerable poets have sung about it and myriad artists have painted it....

"Despite the fact that the Japanese have borrowed it as their national flower, there is no justification for not regarding it as still a Chinese flower."

Says Dr. Liu: "The Japanese are a race of copy-cats."

HE SHAVED SIR JOHN A.

In February, 1881, Sir John A. Macdonald, first prime minister, walked into the barber shop in the old House of Commons. The head barber, the late Napoleon Odette, was busy so he said he'd be back later.

"Wait a minute, Sir John," called Odette, "I've a new barber, imported from Scotland." The new barber took Sir John as his first Canadian customer—without knowing who he was.

Today 75-year-old George Dunn, after barbering 62 years, runs a little shop in downtown Ottawa. Of parliamentarians who were his customers in the 1881 session, Sir William Mulock is the only one alive, he says.

Barnstorming In The Desert

The following is part of a letter from Dorothy Dickson, well-known American actress, now in London, to her mother, Mrs. Clara B. Dickson, of Concord, N.H., from the Christian Science Monitor.

THE reason you haven't had a letter is that I have been from here to Suez for the last three months, and a great experience it was. We flew everywhere, from here to Lisbon, Gibraltar, Algiers, Bougie, Constantine, Tunis, Tobruk, Tripoli, Cairo, Alexandria, Suez, Bone, Phillipville, and back.

"We" were Bea Lillie, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Henson, myself and four other stars, orchestra leaders and four soldier-bandsmen, our manager, and a stage manager. We stayed in villas and officers' messes and played in opera houses, tents, hospital tents, Roman ruins, and open-air platforms.

(There has been a terrific roar of planes overhead for the last three hours and now a warning. There is some idea they may try a last revenge bombing campaign here. I certainly hope not. We don't want to have to take it again.)

We played a two-hour show which was really a knockout. No scenery, of course, but the smartest dresses and songs, sketches, and jokes, and I danced. The men from top to bottom simply went mad as our main route was all through the desert playing to the Eighth and First Armies.

You can imagine what it was like to men who had been away from their families from two to six years. We never stopped working in terrific heat (127 in Tripoli) never a day of rain—always beautiful sunshine. We had to do our own packing, wash our own hair, and never had any maids or people to help us dress, but helped each other. The work was astonishingly strenuous but stimulating.

Very often we would get up early to get in a bath, as the sea was glorious, then to a hospital at 11:30, talk to all the patients, do a bit of show, quick lunch, then to the theatre, play two performances and dine afterwards with Eisenhower, Montgomery, Alexander, Tedder, General Spaatz, Admiral Cunningham, and all the heads of the Armies, ships, and air command, and how grand they all are and how well they get on together. There is something about the simple life out in the desert and all the men have been through which makes them wonderful people.

I have a never-to-be-forgotten memory of thousands and thousands of "red-Indian" faces, open shirts, bare knees and shorts, all health and enthusiasm and doing a great job in a grand manner. Of course, there were hundreds of people whom one knew, and we brought back hundreds of messages to wives and families. We stayed in Von Arnim's villa. He had taken the silver, but we were grateful for very good screens on all the windows.

The King went out to review the Eighth Army just at that time and we all stayed at a villa just outside Tunis and dined and did a few bits of our show out on the terrace amid white oleander trees, cypress trees, white lilies, and an aquamarine sea. I have never seen anything so beautiful as that scene, only across the bay from the battlefield of Enfidaville. The King was in wonderful form and stayed up late having a grand party.

Another memorable performance was in the largest Roman ruins at Hommes (the ruins of a Roman town) where the amphitheatre holds 8,500. So we played to 17000 troops in the two performances that day — in the open air with wonderful natural acoustics. In the big battleships and aircraft carrier, we played to audiences of 2,000 and 3,000, and once in the middle of the desert, near Tobruk, we played to several thousand who had seen nothing but a sea of sand for an interminable time. They rigged up a stage of old boxes and petrol tins and lights from planes that had been brought down and made curtains of potato sacking. There was no living thing for miles, only twisted burned bits of Messerschmitts, tanks, and smashed lorries and cars. You can imagine the shouting.

Another impressive time was playing to the ships and men just taking off for Sicily, all in a hush atmosphere, and how we meant it when we wished them "Good luck."

Cairo was, of course, another story, an atmosphere one had forgotten ever existed — blazing lights, bands of dance music, streets full of private cars whizzing by, big parties with women in decollete—food and wine like a Roman feast and all the perfumes of Araby on the banks of the Nile. It all seemed 10 years ago. The first sight of shops, hairdressers, Arab servants, rich clothes, etc., was extraordinary.

I wanted to go to Syria and Palestine and then play in Sicily where there are many Greek theatres, beautiful ruins of Greek amphitheatres, which I knew in peacetime, and then on to Rome, etc. Well, I may go out later on, though I am going to play here now, a straight play, serio-comic by a well-known writer, Eric Linklater. John Gielgud is producing it and we start sometime in October.

Threat of Socialized Medicine

The Wagner-Murray bill to broaden the social security act was introduced in the Senate last June. It is known as Bill 1161. Among its numerous proposals to regulate us from the cradle to the grave, in accord with the recommendations of the National Resources Planning Board's "American Beveridge Plan," is the particularly insidious one that would abolish private medical practice and turn the medical profession over to the Government....

If the Surgeon General is made a dictator in fact in matters concerned with national health, it is obvious that the initiative which has made the medical profession outstanding will be destroyed. When American doctors are made subservient to political considerations....what is left except hack service?

The medical profession should be supported in its fight to thwart the considered move to make it a slave to a socialization scheme that masquerades under colours of humanitarianism. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Bible Message

And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years and begat a son in his own likeness, after his image; and called his name Seth....And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: and he died. (Gen. 5: 3, 5.)

Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?....For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. (Rom. 6: 16, 23.)

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit....For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death but to be spiritualy minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his. And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the spirit is life because of righteousness. (Rom. 8: 1, 5-10.)

For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. (I Cor. 15: 22.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Overheard on a London street when the air raid signal sounded, a small girl was calling to her smaller brother who was playing in the yard:

"Come on in out of the war."

Says Herr Doktor Goebbels to his jittery people, "This war can be likened to an express train at full speed, and he who dares to alight on the way will break his neck." And Truthful Joe's hearers must be thinking, "So this is the joyride he promised us!"

A Lieutenant who had just taken charge of the meteorology department at one of the Army Air Forces navigation schools noticed that his secretary's telephone rang every morning at approximately a quarter to twelve. She would glance at the wall clock, announce the time, and hang up. Finally he asked who was doing the calling. "I don't know," she said. "I never thought to ask. They just call up and ask the time, and I tell them." Being a tidy soul, the lieutenant instructed her to find out who was calling, and why. The next day, after interrogating the caller, the secretary told him that it was the post fire department. "They want the right time so they can sound the noon siren," she said. "Well, how do you know that our clock has the right time?" he asked. "I don't," she said. "Not now. I've been checking it by the noon siren."

A mother, visiting her son who had been in the army only one week, found him in the guardhouse. Surprised, she asked for an explanation, and her son said that he was "in jail" because he had gone to church.

"When I was inducted," he said, "they gave me No. 238. At the station the sergeant said 'No. 238, load the baggage.' And so I loaded baggage for 100 men. When the train reached camp, the sergeant roared, 'No. 238, unload the baggage.' I did.

"Next morning the sergeant lined our company up for inspection and said, 'No. 238, fall out and clean the barracks.' After I had cleaned the barracks the sergeant said, 'No. 238, report for K.P.'

"Next day was Sunday. I went to church with many of the other boys. We had just been seated, when the pastor arose with a book in his hand, and said, 'No. 238, are you tired? Are you sad? Are you weary and forlorn?'

"And, believe me, Ma, I told him!"

Britain Seeks Airbases From Turkey

ANKARA, Nov. 6 (AP). — Possibility was conceded here today that the four-power Moscow agreement may change Turkey's neutral position in the war and Turks awaited with evident interest the results of Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu's trip to Cairo to confer with Foreign Secretary Eden.

The apparent establishment of a close understanding between Britain, America and Russia on a post-war world shunted aside a major stumbling block for Turkish collaboration, for the Turks have been apprehensive that a misunderstanding between Russia and the Atlantic Allies might some day leave her at the mercy of a dissatisfied and isolated Russia.

Turkey's changed position might have any one of the following results:—

1. Eventual participation in the war as a full fledged ally.
2. Measures short of war such as granting of Turkish air bases from which the Allies could bomb German territory.
3. Continued neutrality, with the Turks giving the Allies only such aid as could be managed without bringing the nation into the combat zone.
4. Negotiation of a military alliance with Russia to eliminate possible friction which might arise from ignorance of each other's military plans.

The second and third points are regarded here as most likely to come true. A war declaration is labelled extremely doubtful while any alliance with Russia appears unlikely.

Allied air bases in Turkey would be only of limited value since road and rail lines are inadequate to handle heavy shipments of supplies. Several large airdromes have been built since the start of the war with the aid of British technicians.

Catholic Seeking Priesthood Recruits

QUEBEC, Nov. 6 (CP). —Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec, announced in a pastoral letter issued to-day that a diocesan convention of sacerdotal recruiting will be held at Laval University here Nov. 10 and 11.

"We hope that all will make it a duty to be interested and to attend the convention; the priests, to prepare auxiliaries and successors; the laymen, to help in the recruiting of their pastors," the letter said.

"Sacerdotal recruiting, is the foundation of our religious building. If it is deficient, the whole building shakes on its base and falls down. No son of the church may therefore show indifference towards sacerdotal recruiting."

Bishop MacDonald Urges Study Of Post War Aims

Faced with the problem of preparing for post-war reconstruction, Canadians must give time to study of the kind of world they wish to see after the fighting is over, and clear, honest thinking is an obligation on the part of every citizen, it was said on Friday by His Excellency the Most Reverend J. R. MacDonald, Bishop of Peterborough, addressing the Kiwanis Club at luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

In his first public appearance, the new Bishop of the Peterborough Diocese said that it gave him great pleasure to address a gathering of his fellow-citizens and that he was most anxious to associate himself with all that would make for the best welfare of the community.

"Whatever our views," he said, "I think we will all agree that some changes are imperative. The record of extended depression and chronic unemployment in pre-war years is sufficient proof of the need for reconstruction and reform." The best intelligence and the best united efforts of the Canadian people directed towards the solution of the Dominion's economic and spiritual problems, along with harmonious relations with other nations, would, Bishop MacDonald stated, lead Canada successfully into a fruitful era of peace and progress.

Many Opportunities.

"We are living in a land of almost unlimited possibilities," His Excellency said, "a heritage of which we are the beneficiaries. Standing together and building together in the days of peace, we must remember that we are the trustees of the future.

"We have been handed down a free, democratic Christian tradition from our ancestors and we must build on the basis of the pioneers from whom we inherited that tradition." Bishop MacDonald stated that he linked Christianity and democracy together purposely, because, he said: "Only Christian ideals give order, direction and stability to society. There never was a great country without a noble philosophy to give it a purpose and a goal in existing. False philosophies can support nations for a time, but they are bound to collapse eventually."

Saying that the home and the school were the training grounds of the future generation whereon depended the growth of the young into citizens physically strong and mentally alert, the speaker made reference to the increasing importance of adult education as a feature of Canadian life, and stated that the integrity and capability of the common people in meeting and solving national problems was beyond question.

His Excellency Bishop MacDonald was introduced by Dinny Fitzgerald, and the vote of thanks was moved by John Troke.

Millbrook Tops Loan Objective

MILLBROOK, Nov. 6 (ENS) — Millbrook has gone over the top by more than $15,000 Thursday evening, in the current Victory Loan campaign the objective decided upon for the village being $45,000. Since the combined objective for Millbrook and Cavan is $115,000, by the date mentioned the $100000 mark had been topped. This, however, did not include the subscriptions obtained Thursday by the canvassers, Messrs. P. I. Bentley for Millbrook and L. H. Winslow and Lavergne Fallis for North and South Cavan, respectively. By tonight it is hoped the entire amount will have been reached, and it is confidently expected that the two Municipalities will have 'gone over the top' on the whole figure.

Women In Uniform Integral Part Of Canada's Fighting Forces

(By MAJOR T. H. STEWART, M.C., E.D., recently returned from overseas).

An integral part of Canada's fighting forces are the women in the uniform of the various Services. They do a valuable work performing many military duties and make possible the transfer of men to more active jobs.

What can a girl get out of the Service? It will rest to a great extent with herself what she gets and what she gives. I want to tell you some of the good things of Service life.

First on the list I would put good health, the opportunity that Service life gives you of getting fit. The value of a strong, healthy body is fairly obvious, I think, to any girl whatever her job in civilian life may have been. The majority of girls have not had a chance to develop their bodies when young or to keep them fit as they grow older. In the Service, it is different. It is true to say that one of the main objects of Service life and training is to turn out healthy, strong soldiers. You may take advantage, then, of this opportunity; of the good food and regular meals; of the open air life; of the sports, and in a few months you will find you will be able to do physical things like marching long distances without fatigue that would have been impossible in civilian life.

Next on the list I would put new ideas and new interests, that Service life cannot fail to bring to every girl. War takes you away from your home town or village; shows you new places, and makes you meet all kinds of different people with different jobs and diferent ideas to what you have.

War will take you to many parts of Canada or even of the world you never dreamed of seeing a few months ago. This is all to the good I feel. If one keeps one's eyes open to compare the various ways of living of other people, one will be able to see more clearly what is valuable in this country and compare the two. I hope all the women of the Service will make the most of the opportunity to broaden their minds and keep their eyes open to all the new interests around them, so when they go back to civilian life, they will be wiser and better citizens.

In the next place I would mention comradeship, one of the best things that Service life has to offer the women. Service life offers many more opportunities for real comradeship than civilian life. When things go wrong, or when you feel fed up it is a great thing to have a good friend to help. Remember that friendship means unselfishness. In the years to come you may be quite sure that the memory of these friendships will be one of the good things the war has given you.

Again I would like to mention the Spiritual side of Service life for which ample provision has been made. In the case of the Army, there is a Chaplain responsible for the well being of each Company of the C.W.A.C. Communion and Parade Services are held regularly, and the Padre is always available for individual advice and instruction. The institution of what is known as "The Padres' Hour," is an important and significant step to give religion a hitherto unprecedented place in the life of the Army.

In many of the C.W.A.C. Barracks this hour is carried on fortnightly. General McNaughton says in his directive outline of practice "Religion is an essential part of the life and education of the soldier and citizen, and it is upon this basis that this directive sets forth the policy of religious instruction."

Many girls in the Army have developed a new discipline in their lives. Religion is a great help in creating it and tends to heighten morale. It produces a discipline that wells up from within rather than imposed from without.

Winter Garb For Women's Division Is Very Warm

This winter the weather man will hold no terrors for the Motor Transport Drivers in the Women's Division of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Below is pictured the new garb which is being issued to all girls in this exciting, vital work.

The blue zippered grenville cloth flying jacket is fleece lined and complete with hood.

The slacks are of special design, made of heavy wool they are of a type used by ski-minded girls.

The hat is of the ski type, also.

The boots are something worth noting. They too, are zippered and fleece lined; an exact duplicate of those worn by the fliers themselves.

Last but not least, the gauntlets are fleece lined, made of durable good-looking leather.

Transport Drivers, better known as M.T. Drivers, are urgently required by the R.C.A.F. in order to let men who are doing this work, train for aircrew.

Transport driving is one of the most thrilling of all the R.C.A.F. trades open to women between the ages of 18 and 45. They are trained to drive everything from the smart station wagons to the heavy duty trucks that zip to and from the flying stations.

Those interested in learning more about "M.T." should visit the Mobile Recruiting Unit which will visit here next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A. from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Rescue Plane Is On Way North

THE PAS, Man., Nov. 6 (CP)— A rescue plane, manned by United States fliers is en route to Fort Ross, fur trading post, where three white men and a woman have been isolated with short food supplies.

W. E. Brown, district manager for the Hudson's Bay Company, left Churchill last Saturday on the rescue plane, it was learned here today.

No details of the flight were made available here, but weather in the north has been unfavorable for flying and it is possible the plane has been grounded awaiting good conditions.

Savold Bows To Mauriello

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—It is apparent that Lee Savold ought to change his brand of gas when taking on Tami Mauriello, because he's not getting nearly enough mileage out of the brand he uses now.

For the second time in a year the transplanted Iowan who now does his fighting out of Patterson., N.J., floored the Bronx belter in Madison Square Garden last night, only to run out of gas down the stretch and lose a decision in 10 rounds.

Just as in their first fight, Lee went right out in front with the opening gong this time, but starting with the sixth round he began to falter and Tami, an awkward, but willing workman, waltzed in with the last five rounds in order, for the entertainment of a crowd of 14,987, who welcomed boxing back to the Garden for the first time in a month. The gross gate was $47,-128.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

The men five-pin bowlers were certainly hitting the pins in the City League Thursday night when the highest scores of the season were rolled up. But the men were really forced into doing some de luxe rolling or give the week's honors to a member of the fair sex. Betty Castle, rolling for the Tankers in the Ladies' Senior League at the Y.M.C.A. earlier in the week had given the masculine exponents of the five-pin brand something to shoot at. All she did was pile up a three-game score of 841 with a high single of 347 and if you don't think that is something for a girl bowler, you might get a better idea of the quality of Miss Castle's performances when you realize that in the highest scoring carnival of the year Thursday night, only three of the 80 men engaged bettered her high-three score and only two topped her high single of 347. Jimmy Herron put together a high three of 912, Frank Wood rolled up 867, Tom Curvin 848, and those were the only three who did as well as the girl star. Incidentally in the Men's League games only one team of the 16 engaged failed to score higher than 3,000 while the top team for the night, the Cleanrites hit the pins to the tune of 3,512, nice scoring in any company.

Thirty years ago Peterborough was a considerably smaller city than it is today and there was no Collegiate football squad to act as a nursery for gridiron stars. It is a strange twist that in spite of those facts this city used to turn out more first string gridiron performers than any modern year or three or four years for that matter has produced. Thirty years ago today for example Peterborough rugby were shining in feature games and The Examiner published a paragraph telling of their exploits. From that brief record we read that Ross Craig scored two touchdowns and ripped the Argonauts line to pieces playing for Hamilton Tigers at Toronto. Pete Campbell, now president of the Toronto Ball Club, playing quarterback for Varsity ran eight yards for a touchdown against Queen's. In that same game the late Harold Hill, who lost his life in the Great War played a stellar game for Queen's and Peterborough's third representative in that intercollegiate classic Dick Sheehy was always prominent for Varsity. The late Frank Heffernan scored two touchdowns playing for the Torontos against Hamilton Rowing Club and Wilfred Stratton was the star of a game between Varsity III and O.A.C. On top of all these rugby triumphs, the late Bill Morris who also made the supreme sacrifice in the First Great War won the big Intercollegiate Harriers' Race at Montreal. No wonder The Examiner in what was undoubtedly an understatement remarked, "A pretty good day's work for Peterborough's representatives."

They Want His Scalp

When Jack Clayborne the bounding black clashes with Jan Gotch, the Flying Dutchman, in the main bout of Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling rodeo at the Brock St. Arena next Tuesday night, the former will be installed as the public choice by a huge majority. Off hand we'd say that the fans will unanimously vote a straight ticket for the South African flash. If the Dutchman had any friends here before last Tuesday's brawl, he lost them for good by the exhibition he put on on that occasion. That attack on Pat Flanagan after the bout was over outdid all the skulduggery the bad men of the Tunney troupe have dished out here and the wrestling enthusiasts are going to jam into the Arena next Tuesday for the express purpose of booing every move made by Gotch and in the fervent hope that Clayborne will kick a few field goals with the Dutchman and scatter him all over the scenery. Right now Gotch is probably the most disliked grappler on the circuit. It took some time for Katan and Hogan and Dunlop to climb into the villain role but the Dutchman made the grade in a few minutes—and how.

* * * * * *

This is Clayborne's chance to come back and the Ebony Flash knows it. That should mean plenty of grief for Gotch. Gentleman Jack realizes that the fans not only want to see him beat the Dutchman but they are also asking him to beat Gotch at his own game, by throwing everything but the timer's table at him. A neat, scientific victory is not what most of the customers are hoping for in this case. All they want is to see Gotch's ears pinned back and they believe that Clayborne is fast and clever and powerful enough to do it. Gotch of course has other ideas. He is confident that he can slow the South African down to a walk before the bout is nicely started and as for the crowd the Dutchman is not worrying about hostile fans. He showed that Tuesday night when he held the ring single-handed, cuffed everybody out who tried to get a swing at him and generally defied the angry spectators. All in all that main bout should be a lively affair from the first bell and just how it will wind up this corner would not be able to even make an attempt at guessing.

Should Be Quite A Year

Hockey is evidently in for a good year at Oshawa even if all this year's Generals have not yet reported. George Campbell has the following to say about the outlook in the Motor City: "The hockey season is just around the corner—and unlike that old "around the corner" gag about prosperity, we can even give you proof and the date of arrival. On Saturday evening, November 13, our old friend Harold Ballard of Toronto amateur hockey fame will lead his Marlboro Juniors into Oshawa to do battle with the Generals and on the bench, doing a little master-minding for the Junior Dukes will be Pte. "Billy" Taylor, who has been named as "honorary coach" of the Marlies. And if you think the Oshawa hockey fans aren't getting all heated up already then you are mistaken. There were about 300 railbirds down at Oshawa Arena last night watching the Generals whip through a stiff workout. But that's not the only indication. Already the fans are clamoring for an exhibition game—they don't want to wait until a week from Saturday night. But there's an even better proof than that—the sale of subscribers' tickets, which only opened yesterday afternoon at Mike's Place at two o'clock and right now there's more than a hundred hockey fans who have already repeated their 1942-43 order to be a 'subscriber.'"

Two weeks from tonight in the Y.M.C.A. pool the city swimming championships will be decided in both the junior and senior divisions. The junior class takes in entrants who are sixteen or younger. An attractive program including three senior, four junior and an open diving event, while the feature will be an attempt on the part of Billy Lech, clever young junior swim star to break a couple of existing Canadian junior breast stroke records. While the events are for the city titles, they are open to outside competitors as well and a number of contestants from out-of-town may be here.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—It's unusual to turn to a hockey man for an explanation of this season's football attendance, but in the dripping Yale Bowl last week, Murray Murdock, the old "Iron Man" of the New York Rangers and now Yale hockey coach, made a comment that applies well to football . . . "It's easy to educate the fans up to better performances," said Murdoch, "but it's hard to educate them down." . . . That day a scant 5,000 spectators turned out for the Yale-Dartmouth game and 2,700 watched Princeton play Brown—and in spite of the teams' records, the games were good . . . the same afternoon some 150,000 fans saw the Notre Dame-Navy and Army-Penn tussles and today almost as many will watch Notre Dame vs. Army and Penn vs. Navy . . . maybe you still could call those four institutions of higher education.

Old Army Game

The West Point statistical department, surveying the list of about 500 cadets who won Varsity football letters from 1891 to 1942, points out that two now are generals, two lieutenant generals, 20 major generals, 38 brigadier generals, 98 colonels, 105 lieut.-colonels, 64 majors, 21 captains, 46 first lieutenants and six second lieutenants . . . seven have been killed in action, two are missing and three are prisoners of Japan . . . Only 29 are in civil life.

A Little Learning

When the Billings (Mont.) high school Broncs entered their dressing room in Butte's high school stadium before a recent game, they examined with considerable interest the plays diagrammed on the blackboard. They had been assigned the room used for Coach Swede Dahlberg's chalk talks . . . a pair of Butte players sauntered in and invited: "go ahead and look 'em over, but you won't get much good out of them in an hour. We haven't learned them in two years." . . . An hour later the score was Billings 8, Butte 6.

Two New Stars Billed On Next Show

In the past two months of wrestling shows held at the Brock Arena here, there have been two occasions on which different wrestlers became so roused with the heat of combat that they literally ran amok in the ring. The first time that happened it was the usually gentlemanly Jack Clayborne who suddenly saw red and proceeded to lay about him after the bout had ended. Last week it was Jan Gotch who not only "massacred" Pat Flanagan, but also la[illegible] his dynamite-packed fists over the heads of a half-dozen of the fans who were foolish enough to leap onto the ring. If that is a fair sample of Gotch's temper and roughhouse ability, the Polish Pounder will make things very hot for Clayborne with whom he has been matched for next Tuesday night's headliner.

The fact that both Gotch and Clayborne are extra powerful athletes with hair-trigger tempers augurs well for an evening of intense action and excitement on Tuesday. Certainly if Gotch flays around him like he did before, it will be a sight we wouldn't miss.

Following his practice of introducing new faces from time to time Frank Tunney has prepared a supporting card featuring two new men. In the semi-final Nick Elich, th[illegible] notorious little "Mr. Five by Five" wrestler from New York meets Rowdy Dick Hogan. Elich is short squat and powerful and packs some two hundred and twenty-five pounds into his bulldog shape.

In the third bout Mike Demetre, the clever Montreal, wrestles Buddy Knox, the Cleveland Cleaver. Knox is one of the fast-climbing newcomes of the mat sport and the slippery Demetre has caught a Tartar this time.

The HEART of HYDRO

● Hydro is a living thing. It takes people . . . their hands and brains and hearts . . . to keep Ontario supplied with power in uninterrupted flow.

Producing power for Ontario's needs is Hydro's number one job. A veritable army of men is required to keep this power flowing at peak efficiency. For Hydro is much more than mighty power plants . . . much more than the transmission lines you see striding through the countryside.

Hydro is the employees who keep the power plants producing, who guide and co-ordinate the constant flow of energy through the transformer stations. It is the employees who patrol the lines that carry power to far-off mills and mines, to roaring industrial plants, busy stores and offices, comfortable homes, peaceful farms.

Hydro is the families of those employees who have set up their homes in city and town and country . . . and, perchance, deep in the isolation of wilderness and forest.

It is these . . . and all the other co-operative men and women employees . . . who have put life into Hydro, made it a living organization devoted to the benefit and service of Ontario.

Just now their efforts are directed mainly to producing power for victory and essential uses, but, after the war, they will be ready again to provide the full peace-time service so essential to the development and progress of this province.

Yes! The heart of Hydro is people . . . employees and consumers alike . . . both necessary . . . both partners in a great public enterprise. For today . . . as in the past, and in the future . . . the success of Hydro is dependent on both the faithful service of the employee and the wholehearted support of the consumer.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6—(CP)—Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers, a football club which went through a six-game schedule undefeated, won six positoins on The Canadian Press all-star Western Canada Armed Services Rugby League selected by sports writers.

Talented performers for Reg. Threfall's crimson-clad aggregation carried off two backfield spots and four positions on the wingline. Winnipeg United Services, who finished in the league's cellar placed five men on the team, while Regina all-services Roughriders were represented by only one player.

The team:

Flying Wing: Chec McCance, Winnipeg R.C.A.F.

Right halfback: LAC. Johnny Lake, Winnipeg R.C.A.F.

Centre Halfback: Cpl. Paul Gates, Winnipeg U.S.

Quarterback: Lieut. Lee Sherman, Winnipeg U.S.

Snap: LS. Mel Wilson, Winnipeg U.S.

Inside. Bill Ceretti, Winnipeg U.S.

Middle: Lou Mogul, Winnipeg U.S.

Middle: Cpl. Rube Ludwig, Winnipeg R.C.A.F.

Outside: Cpl. Don Durno, Winnipeg R.C.A.F.

Outside: AC2. Cliff McFayden, Winnipeg R.C.A.F.

Six of the players selcted for the team are no strangers to Western all-star grid circles. Mogul, Wilson an Ceretti, all Winnipeg United Services standouts, have been members of many Western Conference mythical 12's, as have Charlton of Regina and Lear and McCance of Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers. Ceretti came out of a two-year retirement to gain his rating.

New York City became football conscious today with the arrival of Notre Dame for the annual classic game with West Point. The Irish ruled favorites for the game with a record of six straight victories behind them, despite the loss of a number of star players during the past week in transfers of enlisted men from the college to other training bases. Although Coach Frank Leahy was fretting over the Notre Dame situation, the Irish were rated 12 to 14 points better than the cadets.

Scalpers went to work on the excited Gotham fans, although all of the 75,000 tickets had been sold two weeks ago. As much as $40 was asked for a pair of $4.00 tickets before game time and there were plenty of takers for the relatively few available pasteboards.

After negotiations which started last Saturday, Murray Griffin, the former player of Ottawa Rough Riders, signed to play with Hamilton Flying Wildcats for the balance of the season including today's O.R.F.U. fixture with Toronto Navy at Hamilton. Previuosly Griffin had played one league game with Toronto R. C. A. F. Hurricanes —also against Toronto Navy.

Twenty-nine year old Edgar Smith, twirler of the Chicago White Sox, has been inducted into the U. S. Army, it was announced at Camden, N. J., last night. The left-hander is married and has one son.

Boston Bruins At Toronto Saturday Night

By The Canadian Press

The vagaries of National Hockey League competition are forcefully illustrated in the recent history of Boston Bruins, who meet Toronto Maple Leafs tonight in one of the feature contests of the league's second week-end of competition.

Three years ago, Bruins were world champions, styled by Manager Art Ross as the greatest team in National League history. They slipped a trifle in 1941-42. Last year, they practically skidded right out of the league in the first two weeks of play, then came bounding back to gain the final round of the Stanley Cup play-offs against Detroit Red Wings.

Now, with almost everybody but Frankie Brimsek on hand, Bruins are tagged as the team to beat this season. They still have to prove it on the ice, though, and at least three regulars will be missing tonight. Ab Demarco, who shuttled between Toronto, Providence and Boston last year, will be out for at least two weeks; rib injuries will keep Johnny Crawford from the lineup and Don Gallinger is nursing a sore leg.

Any injuries Leafs amy be nursing are relatively minor. Jack McLean received a cut over the nose in practice, but is likely to be in the lineup against Boston.

The other half of Saturday's double feature matches Chicago Black Hawks against Rangers at New York in a game that will mark the return to active competition of 41-year-old Frankie Boucher, Ranger coach. Rangers have lost all three games to date which Chicago has dropped each of two starts.

Sunday games see all league teams in action, Chicago at Montreal Canadiens, Leafs at Rangers and Boston at Detroit.

All clubs but Detroit and Montreal play twice during the week-end, affording Leafs a chance to snap their first-place deadlock with Montreal. Red Wings are two points behind the co-leaders, but have a game in hand.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 6—(CP)—Coach Frankie Boucher refused to give up his New York Rangers after they took trimmings in their first three National Hockey League games. He told New York writers the "door-mat" opening was caused by lack of pre-season exhibition games and the fact circumstances prevented a half-dozen players from training with the club at Winnipeg. . . . Speaking of his own projected come-back after five years' retirement Boucher said cryptically: "We'll see how I get along."

Off the Gridiron:

Toronto Navy may be well down in the O.R.F.U. but the tars have made a great showing for a team whose captain, Sandy Milne, is the only player with senior experience before this year. Coach Ted Morris, the former Winnipeg and Toronto Argos backfielder, deserves consideration as the coach-of-the-year in Canadian football . . . Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes have becomes the league's greatest kidders. They started to work on Navy in the season's first game with cracks like: "Why don't you boys go back to high school?" . . . The Hurricane jockeys reached their peak last Saturday against Hamilton Wildcats at the expense of Joe Krol. Inspired by a newspaper picture purporting to show Krol's faculty for complete relaxation and rest between plays, the Airmen rode Krol about relaxing and kept it up until the great backfielder disappeared into the dressing room after the game. Maybe the strategy worked. At any rate, Krol's performance here a week ago was his poorest of the season and his wild lateral in the last quarter gave Hurricanes their winning touchdown.

What Now Little Man?

Bunny (Toronto Telegram) Morganson: "Turk Broda, former Maple Leaf goalie, will not likely do any goal-tending for Toronto Army Daggers. He is taking basic training at a military centre several miles from the city; at least that is what the boys claim who should know."

Incidentally

The grapevine indicates Defence Headquarters have obtained lists of all Army hockey players of overseas age who are still in Canada and that such players will not "be deprived of the opportunity of going overseas." . . . The old, old story: Dave Bradley, 13, of Vancouver went fishing for the first time in his life and the first fish he pulled from Alberni canal on Vancouver Island was a 51-pound Tyee salmon.

Griffin Can't Play With Cats

TORONTO, Nov. 6 — (CP). — Harold Bailey, secretary of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, today said Sgt. Mur. Griffin, former Ottawa star, was not eligible to play with Hamilton Flying Wildcats against Toronto Navy this afternoon.

Asked about a report from Hamilton that Griffin, a member of the Canadian Army, had been granted a release by Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, with whom he played one game, and would line up with Wildcats, Bailey said:

"He is not eligible to play until his application is approved by the executive. I haven't even got his application yet and there is no possibility of it being approved in time for to-day's game."

Busher Jackson Utility Player

BOSTON, Nov. 6 —(AP)— The mind of many a Toronto hockey addict will slip back through the years tonight as Harvey "Busher" Jackson skates out onto the ice to take his position for the Boston Bruins as they square off with the Maple Leafs in the first encounter between the two teams this season.

It was on a November night back in 1929 that Jackson first broke into National League hockey and on that occasion he wore the insignia of the team which he opposes tonight.

Now in his 15th season of big time hockey, Jackson is slated to fill no less than three positions at various stages of tonight's encounter. He will play left wing, the position in which he starred for the Leafs, and Manager Art Ross also intends to play him at right wing and on the defense.

Ross has been forced to take advantage of Jackson's versatility because of the wholesale wreckage Les Canadiens perpetrated upon the Bruins as the Boston sextet opened its season in Montreal a week ago.

Charge Japanese Used Poison Gas

CHUNGKING, Nov. 6 (AP).— A charge that the Japanese used poison gas during a phase of the spreading battle in China's central "rice bowl" area was made last night by the Chinese High Command.

The Chinese said "considerable casualties" were caused by the gas attack during fierce fighting near Nanhsien, an important town 80 miles south of Shasi on the Yangtze river.

Great Britain and the United States have declared they would retaliate in kind against any Axis power using poison gas.

The United States air force made another sweep into the central area yesterday to support Chinese ground forces in their continuing battle against a seven-column Japanese attack, it was announced.

Medium bombers with fighter escort struck at three of the principal Japanese bases for their present drive in the Lake Tungting sector.

Fighters carrying fragmentation bombs successfully attacked the Lashio airdrome in Burma.

SPRINGVILLE

School Section Attends Social

SPRINGVILLE, Nov. 6 (ENS).— Eighty people attended a Hallowe'en party and box social at S.S. No. 3, North Monaghan (Elmdale) this week. All arrangements were in charge of the teacher, Miss Cora Nisbett. Folk dances were presented by the pupils. These were followed by games, contests and relay races in which everybody joined.

Miss Laura Neals played for the grand march, for the judging of the costumes. The prize winners were Mrs. Owen Murray, best costume; Carman Seymour, comic; Carl Preston, best school boys', and Evelyn Dunn best school girls'. The door prize was won by Evelyn Dunn.

S. S. Staples then auctioned the boxes. The sum of $34 was realized from these sales. Half of this amount will be donated to the Red Cross and the other half will be used to obtain a drinking fountain for the school.

WARSAW

Members Hear Report Of Missionary Rally

WARSAW, Nov. 6 — (ENS). — Fourteen members attended the meeting of the W.M.S. at the home of Mrs. Harold Payne, on Thursday.

The report was given of the W. M. S. rally at Lakefield, at which twelve members of this Society attended. The treasurer reported the amount of $98.13 raised to date. It was decided to hold a social in the near future and arrangements were left with a committee of Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mrs. E D. Snelgrove and Mrs. Harold Payne. An invitation was extended to the Women's Association to join the W. M. S. in the Christmas meeting.

Mrs. Harold Payne reviewed chapter one of the Study Book, "For All of Life." She said the glimpses of light from occasional visits of travelling missionaries not enough, they must have a teacher living among them. An introduction to the Bible Study course was given by Mrs. George Taylor.

A special feature of the meeting was the presentation of the Anniversary Autograph quilt to Mrs. George Taylor by Mrs. Arthur Edwards and Mrs. Franklin Sidey with the address read by Mrs David Miller.

Saw Russians Die In Hundreds

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 6 (CP)—A story of seeing Russian men, women and children killed by the hundreds in German prison camps by being driven from steaming delousing huts into the snow was told today by Keith Godridge, Melbourne merchant marine engineer.

He left a Hamburg prison camp last June as an exchange prisoner.

"We saw thousands of Russian soldiers, women, children and aged herded into compounds close to ours last Dec. 14," Godridge said. "They were immediately pushed into delousing huts, scoured with steam and water at high temperature and then driven into the snow. They died in the hundreds.

"We used to throw them scraps of food over the wire. The Russians lived on them and when the crowd dispersed several would be lying dead on the ground, having collapsed in the struggle."

Hunters Asked To Give Hides For Sailors' Use

Deer shot by Peterborough hunters this season will prove a welcome boon to Canadian sailors on the Atlantic patrol, if arrangements made by the local Civilian Co-ordinating Committee prove successful.

Hunters are being asked to give the hides of the deer which fall to their guns to the committee. These hides will be tanned and made into warm vests to be worn by sailors. These particular vests will be presented to the crew of H.M.C.S. "Peterborough," the new corvette soon to be launched, and will be included in the gifts to the ship's company from Peterborough citizens.

Arrangements have been made by the committee with Harry Jopling, local furrier, at Murray Street near Aylmer Street, to accept the hides and prepare them for tanning. Local hunters now have an added reason this season to prove their marksmanship.

The season opens on Monday, November 8.

The Caban Draw Reaches A Total Of $116

This Saturday was the deadline for the draw for the seven prizes donated and sponsored by Victor Caban, Senior, of 543 Park street, on behalf of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund to have been made, but owing to difficulties encountered in getting all the returns from the tickets and stubs, this has now been postponed until Friday, November 12, when the draw will be made at the Canadian Legion Hall, on Murray street, during the course of the Bingo usually conducted by the veterans, supplying cigarettes to men serving in the active forces overseas.

It is particularly desirable that all returns from the tickets are made as soon as possible to Mr. Caban himself or to Robert Mitchell at the Legion Hall in time to take their chance with those returns that have already been made.

There is a total of $65 in War Savings Cerificates to be won in this draw, with some of the seven prizes giving a choice of a calf, a load of wood and a pig, while two of the prizes are for three ducks and a bag of potatoes respectively.

Another $40

Already there has been a total of net proceeds amounting to $76 reported in this column, so with the $40 listed today, the total now has been brought up to the sum of $116. Tickets for this draw at 25 cents each or five for $1 may still be procured from Mr. Caban, or from the many friends who are helping him in this effort, which he hopes can be of help to the sufferers from the air raids over Britain in the name of his son Victor, Junior, who gave his life for the Empire on the field of battle in Sicily.

The War Savings Certificates to be given as the prizes in this draw were given by the parents from those saved up for this boy when he should return from active service overseas.

Sergeants Mess Repeats

It isn't such a long time since this column reported a donation from the Sergeant's Mess of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) and now they are back again with another $6, the result of money placed in a box kept handy for that purpose whenever they gather together.

Two personal gifts are included in today's list, a regular contributor in the person of Mrs. William Shannon appearing again, and the other was given under the name of "Mrs. A." The fund now has almost $1,300 on hand towards the special Christmas donations, which have a long journey yet to make if the $6,720 needed to duplicate last year's gift is to be achieved.

50,000 Out

LONDON, Nov. 6 — (CP Cable) —A slight break in Britain's current strike wave, affecting more than 50,000 workers, came yesterday when 3,000 miners in the Chesterfield district of Derbyshire voted to return to work, although leaving the final decision until November 8, but elsewhere the situation remained unchanged.

Passengers Enjoy Taking Rides With Women Street Car Drivers

TORONTO, Nov. 6.— Three men got on the Bathurst car at Queen Friday afternoon. The first said: "My gawd!" and shut his eyes. The second grinned: "Thank heavens my insurance is paid up." The third, a soldier, winked at the motorman and said: "Good afternoon," with emphasis.

For, in this case, the motorman was a woman, one of Toronto's first woman streetcar operators. She is Mrs. June Lambert, a pretty, black-haired griu with laughing grey eyes, who gets a kick out of driving a streetcar, banging away mightily on the gong at the slightest provocation, and who prides herself on being able to stop gently, in a manner which permits her passengers to keep their feet, and their dignity.

"When I was a passenger I always thought those T.T.C. drivers were the sourest looking men in the world. Every time the streetcar jerked to a stop, I'd pick myself out of my neighbor's lap and think of new ways to boil the driver in oil," she laughed, expertly swinging the controller to get up speed and clanging the gong at an innocuous coupe.

Greater Understanding

"Now I understand how it's impossible to be too gentle during rush hours," she continued. "All other times, though, I'm careful."

She and Mrs. M. Muir go "solo" Monday when they will be allowed to wear badges on their hats. On Tuesday Mrs. I. Corbin, formerly a sergeant in the C.W.A.C., gets her badge. All former conductors, the girls have been training for three weeks. Five others are in various stages of training.

The only thing the girls find annoying is the attitude of some women passengers, who show a marked disloyalty to their sex.

"The second day after I started training, a woman refused to get on unless a man was driving," Mrs. Lambert said, keeping an eye on the traffic light. "I felt pretty badly for a while, but it wouldn't bother me so much now."

The only male passenger she's ever had who disapproved of her driving, and told her so, was her husband, LAC. James Lambert now stationed at Belleville.

The female personnel of street car workers has increased to 73 conductresses and eight operators, all of whom will soon be issued with slacks, tunics and greatcoats. When they meet in the rest house, known as the "hen house," they chat about their husbands, most of whom are overseas, and about their funny passengers.

Customers Friendly.

"No one can tell me Toronto is an unfriendly city," says a conductor, Mrs. Helen Favere. 'I'm on a Yonge car, have been since September 1, and I've never before seen so many smiling faces. It's a wonderful job." Mrs. Favere is organizing a women's recreation club for the conductresses and operators.

Biggest worry the girls have is the fear of calling out the wrong street name. "Once I called out 'Union Station' at about King Street," remarked a conductress ruefully. "I turned a bright red and all the passengers laughed. I've never done it since."

Clinic Attendance Increases As Battles Rage Overseas

The Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic reports this week that the number of people appearing at the Clinic has increased considerably, bringing the attendance up to the place where it is near the point it reached before the holidays caused such a reduction. More of the precious serum is being used on the battlefields of Italy and the people at home are being asked to replenish the stock which is used up rapidly.

Lakefield Youth Awaits Sentence

Claude M. Hopkins, 21, Lakefield, was remanded or sentence until Monday when he entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to a charge of the smash-and-grab robbery of Bert Austin's Jewellery store.

Gordon Scriver, 17, Hastings had previously pleaded guilty on a similar charge and he too will be sentenced Monday. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for Hopkins said that there had been a record of irresponsibility in his case that suggested the need of scientific investigation and Mr. Gordon stated that he had written to the Ontario Minister of Health asking that attention should be paid to the case. In the meanwhile he said Hopkins should be kept under control in the reformatory.

"I don't think there is any doubt about his going to the reformatory," stated Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Pte. Wilfred Phillips, 18, a member of the Tank Corps, is taking his training in Saskatchewan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, 610 Young Street.

City Employees, Wonder Bread Reach Objective

Peterborough's civic employees and the staff of Wonder Bread were two more groups reported accomplishment of the work they assumed in the subscribing of the Victory Loan.

Alderman James Dutton reported through W. A. Reid of the National War Finance committee total amount invested in the Fifth Loan was $5,150 as against the objective of $4,700.

Peterborough's municipal employees were asked to lend $15,400 to the Government, and their total is $15,700 and probably not yet complete.

Board of Works Men

The response of the employees of the Board of Works was highly appreciated around the city hall and also at Loan headquarters. The men of that branch of the city's employ encounter quite a lot of adverse weather that cuts down their income. However, they did not back up from the Victory Loan, but did a job that greatly pleased everybody.

Street Commissioner Jim Burgess was given considerable of the credit in the organization within the Board of Works staff, and the whole effort left a fine impression in municipal quarters.

Firemen 100%

Commendation was also expressed toward the response from the staff of the Fire Department. Chief Gimblett and his men came through with 100 per cent of their objective.

Metropolitan Stores

The staff of Metropolitan Stores are up to 169 per cent of their objective, probably with the canvass complete.

One of the employees of that store is Albert Arnott of Crawford's Grove, 14 years old, who presented a pleasant surprise to Bob Everett of the payroll canvass.

In making the rounds, Mr. Everett came upon young Arnott who had $50 as a roll of money in his pocket waiting for the canvasser. He had saved nickels and dimes in preparation for the October Victory Loan.

Youth Is Guilty Of Stealing Truck

Max Stevens, 17, of R.R. 9, Peterborough pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of stealing a truck from Hood and Cummings on the night of Wednesday November 3 and was remanded until Thursday for sentence.

William Nicholson who had pleaded guilty yesterday to the same offence was remanded until the same day.

Nicholson was arrested on the Apsley-Bancroft Highway by Fish and Game Overseer Ralph Hodgson of Lindsay.

Stevens escaped at that time but was arrested Friday night at Nassau.

INJURED IN FALL.

W. L. Spencer, Lakefield, an employee of Johnson Motors, is in Nicholls Hospital, suffering from a cut on the head and possibly more serious injuries as the result of a fall on the sidewalk on Simcoe street Friday night. It is thought Spencer had a sudden attack of sickness. He was found in an unconscious condition and taken to the Peterborough Clinic for examination. Afterward he was removed to hospital.

Dr. S. Y. Walsh's marigolds have been a long time blooming at Charlotte and Rubidge Streets. They have survived the floral span with surprising hardiness, almost the last of all their gay summer company.

COUNCIL'S SYMPATHY.

The City Council has recorded in its minutes the death of Corporal Bernard Sanders of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who was killed in action in October while fighting in Italy with the British 8th Army. The Council directed City Clerk Outram also to convey its sympathy to his wife at 149 Hart Avenue and his mother.

Victory Loan Is $250,000 Short

If Peterborough reaches its $4,600,000 Fifth Victory Loan objective today, the news will be broadcast in the hourly news feature of CHEX.

"With the over-night returns which we have this morning," said Arthur G. Walwyn, director of the local organization, "we still needed around $250,000 to get us up to the top. All our canvassers are putting on their last effort to help raise this sum, and the public can still help the Peterborough campaign by subscribing to help reach the total, even if it is on into this evening. We'll be in the office up to midnight if necessary."

Mr. Walwyn said he was hoping that the good news would be available before evening. This morning a friend had suggested to him that "it was in the bag," that enough funds not yet reported by the committee actually had the Loan at its objective.

Not In Bag

"I had to try to convince this friend that his opinion was all wrong, and that we would be extremely happy if, as he said, we had the objective in the bag," Mr. Walwyn added. "The announcement from Ottawa this morning of the national objective taken was based on the minimum of one billion two hundred million dollars, and not on one billion four hundred million, the amount they really hope to get. So that news despatch is not so rosy as the press report would have the public believe. It is very satisfactory."

Mr. Walwyn was urging that there was still an opportunity today, and this evening if necessary, to subscribe the last Bonds that would put Peterborough over its $4,600,000 objective.

Young Men Asked What Of Future

The weekly meeting of the Friday Night Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. Friday night. Thirty-one members and four guests were in attendance and Norm Allan, chairman of the club, acted in that capacity for the evening.

G. H. Roper addressed the club, on the new "So-Ed" movement taking place in Peterborough, and encouraged Friday Night Club members to join through the Y.M.C.A. "So-Ed," which is short for social-education, is a movement which has taken place in many different Canadian cities, and is being organized here in Peterborough by "Y" leaders.

The door prize, regularly given away at club meetings, was drawn for by the guest speaker and was won by Jack Hardill.

The guest speakr of the evening, G. Wilson Craw, was introduced by the vice-chairman, Tom Cooke. Mr. Craw based his address around the question, "Young Man, What of the Future?"

The club, listened with intense interest as Mr. Craw outlined the social and economic results growing out of past wars, and as he explained why the coming days of peace should be quite different than those of 1919. Such a difference would be the increase of private enterprise. Thus, an increase of employment would result, which would lead to a prosperous and better country.

Mr. Craw created much interest when he predicted that the defeat of the German Reich would come sometime in 1944, and that of the Japanese the following year. Mr. Craw stated that he did not think this war would develop into mass unemployment, but that the military forces would be disbanded in such a manner, that there would be work for everyone, and that everyone would be fitted for his job.

Don Forde put into words the thoughts of the club members as he moved a vote of thanks, which was passed on to Mr. Craw by the chairman.

The meeting was adjourned with the repeating of the club creed.

Victory Loan Sidelights

Additions and revisions in another cluster of group ayroll division returns of the Victory Loan are:

Purity Bread, 141 p.c. of objective; Empress Hotel, 185 p.c. of objective; Scott Lumber Co., 100 p.c. of objective; Champlain Hotel, reported well past their objective; Nicholls Hospital staff, 85 p.c. of objective, returns not complete; York Trading Company, 91 p.c. of their objective; Peterborough Board of Education, 68 p.c. of objective, returns incomplete.

Inspection Board.

From Maurice Smith, the final returns from the Inspection Board of Canada, previously mentioned in progress reports, are: The ninety-four members of the staff applied for 89 bonds amounting to $11,350, or $127.50 per capita.

This response was regarded as exceptionally good as Ottawa had suggested to them an objective of $80 per capita.

Y.W.C.A. Club Doings

The first Monday evening dance for soldiers sponsored by the "Y" was hostessed by the Industrial-Recreation Club. Hostesses were Jean Thomas and Phyllis McClennan, with Roberta Kiefer as staff hostess. Doris Royea and Anna Kay made up the door committee and Refreshment Committee was convened by Marguerite Royea, assisted by Doris Royea, Marie Thomas, Isabel McCamus, Doreen Lord. The program was in charge of Gladys Gerard as mistress of ceremonies, assisted by Jean Thomas. Music was supplied by Mrs. McBride and Walter Dyer. The next Monday dance will be sponsored by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E.

The regular monthly meeting of the Girls' Council was held at six o'clock in the Club Supper Room. Mrs. Isobel Clarry was in charge of supper arrangements. Miss Flora Metcalfe, president of Council, presided and welcomed the following new representatives: Jean Ferguson and Jean McTavish from the Friday Night Supper Club; Ina Robinson and Isabel McCamus from the Thursday Industrial-Recreation Club. An All-Nations sing-song was led by Miss Roberta Kiefer. Mrs. Roma Brindle and Betty Detcher were appointed editors of the January issue of "Trans-Canada Y Ways," the National Y Club magazine. The Week of Prayer and World Fellowship, November 14 to 20, was discussed and plans made for the preparation and serving of tea at the Fireside on Sunday, November 14. The following committee will be in charge: Jean Carew, Doreen Lord, Isobel McCamus, Jean Ferguson, Jean McTavish, Betty Detcher, and Flora Metcalfe. Margaret Gray is serving on the Vesper Committee for World Fellowship and Betty Detcher and Jean Elcombe are on the Publicity Committee.

There is still $400 outstanding on the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund for this year and clubs were asked to keep this in mind when planning projects. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

The newly organized So-Serve Club held its first meeting in the Recreation Room on Wednesday evening. Twenty-five new members were welcomed. Miss Shirley Mortimer is chairman of the organizing committee made up of the following members: Betty Cook, Mary Alexander, Marion Brennon, Nancy Collins, Eleanor Taylor, Wylma Goodwin, Dorothy Mitchell. Miss Roberta Keifer led a program of games and a sing-song. Miss Leta Brownscombe, general secretary, spoke to the club on the "Y" and its social service projects within the association and the community. Dolly Boyle is in charge of the bridge planned for the next meeting on November 17, assisted by Marion Bateson, Nancy Collins, and Marion Brennan.

The Thursday Night Supper Club held a successful Hallowe'en masquerade dance last Saturday. Marley Jobbitt was hostess and Janet Stanton was social convener. A short meeting was held on Thursday and plans made for the executive to take charge of the devotional at the Week of Prayer and World Fellowship vesper on November 18.

FRIDAY NIGHT SUPPER CLUB.

The Friday Night Supper Club held a successful Sadie Hawkins' dance Friday night in the recreation room instead of the regular supper program. There was a large attendance, and Jean Ferguson, president, and Miss Flora Metcalfe, advisor, were hostesses. The program was arranged by Beryl Dobbin, assisted by Agnes and Helen Weddell. The initiation of new members was completed and a penalty "Act" was demanded by those who had not complied with initiation orders. Evelyn Roberts was in charge of supper, and assisted by Jean Metcalfe, Barbara Stuart, Dorothy Riley, Lois Heffernan, Nancy Southeran and Barbara Cook.

St. Paul's Aid Purchases Bond

The purchase of a $1,000 Victory Bond through the penny-a-day system of saving, was voted by the members of the St. Paul's Ladies' Aid, at their November meeting, held in the Guild Room Friday evening. Mrs. A. A. McIntyre conducted the business and devotional periods, and Mrs. Monk read the scripture and Mrs. Rosenburg led in prayer. An invitation was extended to the ladies from the Y.W.C.A. to attend their Thankoffering meeting to be held on November 15. Mrs. Fred Haggert had charge of the register for an unusually large meeting.

The fourteenth anniversary of the South End Group was noted, and Mrs. McLeish, the leader, was presented with a bouquet of roses in recognition of her services by Mrs. J. A. Seger. Mrs. V. Wittington sang "Living For Jesus", accompanied by Mrs. W. D. Taylor.

Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart introduced the guest speaker, Rev. W. A. Filer of All Saints' Church. Rev. Filer chose as his subject, "The Christian Church" and stressed 3 points; the necessity of the Church, the purpose of the Church, and the catholicy of the church. He said that the church individually is weak, but together is strong and as a whole can be successful.

Mrs. G. P. McArthur thanked the speaker and congratulated the South End Group, who served the refreshments. Dr. Smart closed the meeting with a prayer.

E. Gladys Lorne Is Bride Of R. M. Stanlick

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. George's Anglican Church to-day, when Evelyn Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lorne, Peterborough, because the bride of Raymond M. Stanlick, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanlick, Chatham, Ontario. The Rev. E. C. Moore officiated. The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, and the music was played by Mr. Norman Hearle. During the signing of the register, the organist played "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of bridal satin. The bodice of her gown was brought to the left side and scalloped, the sleeves were buttoned from elbow to wrist, and the skirt as gathered at a fitted waist line. Her veil of embroidered tulle was in a coronet shape, and caught with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Marjorie, who wore a floor-length frock of orchid satin, made on princess lines, with buttons down the back, and long sleeves buttoned from elbow to wrist. She wore a halo of braided matching satin, with a shoulder-length veil, and carried yellow roses. Jack Webster, cousin of the groom, was best man, and Sgt. John Lorne and Sydney Lorne, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

At the reception held at the bride's home, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of navy blue and white, with a hat of navy blue felt, and corsage of red roses. The groom's sister, who also received, was dressed in light blue crepe.

For travelling the bride chose a tweed suit with black accessories, and carried a black seal coat. After a trip to Toronto and points west, the young couple will live at 711 New Romaine Street.

For Sunday, November 7

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds excellent promise for those ambitious for advancement. Also all cultural or intellectual aims are auspiciously stimulated, although it may be desirable to make changes in plans or environs. It would be well to maintain poise, amiability, and avert dangers.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very active and progressive year with promotion, favors and preferment from influential persons. There may be a change, travel, new objectives or tactics, but all should prosper providing a tendency be suppressed to careless speech, high temper or other impetuous moves, which might entail physical danger as well as peril to cherished plans, business and private.

A child born on this day may be exceptionally talented, versatile and ambitious, winning support from high places, although it may be impetuous, and irritable.

For Monday, November 8

Monday's astrological forecast is a generally difficult and adverse one, in which it may require a more than customary marshalling of forces, concentrated, determined, brave and tireless, since opposition and impediment seem to assume many forms and phases. Deception, undercover assaults, and sinister and sordid perils may come from business as well as private sources. There may be griefs as well as unfavorable reactions on your health. There is promise of overcoming such obstacles, however, by patience and perseverance.

Those whose birthday it is may find a great deal to overcome and vanquish during the year. Obstacles, duplicity, secret enmity and betrayal, from within and without demand more than usual stratagem, astuteness, perseverance and patience, if a promised modicum of success is to be grasped. An unhappy state of affairs in business and in the home may react on the health and spirits, thus aggravating the danger of loss, sorrow and ill-success. Fortitude is needed.

A child born on this day while having some sturdy and dependable traits and talents, yet may be low in health and spirits, with unhappy reactions on its business and domestic life.

To Be Married

The engagement of Miss Adele Gluklick, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gluklick, Brock Street, to Louis Snow, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Snow of Toronto, has been announced. The marriage will take place December 7.

SERVICE IMPROVES SOME MEN, HARMS OTHERS; ALL CHANGED

New Places, Experiences, Ideas Expected To Show Effect When Soldiers Come Home

Dear Miss Dix: I have come to a place where I do not know where to turn or what to do. My husband went overseas three years ago and left me with 5 children, all but one nearly grown. I have done what I thought was best for them and tried to have them do as he wished. He is home now and is very dissatisfied with everyone and says that we have all changed.

Of course, we have. The children are all young men and women now. Three of them have married. All have done well. One son, and one son-in-law are in the army. At home we have tried to make things pleasant for him, but he is restless and dissatisfied, always saying what fine people the English are and what great times he had over there. He passed as a single man in England and had the company of young women and isn't content with me now, nor will he take any responsibilty for the home.

I have also found that he is going out with a young woman here when he tells us he is on duty. I am proud of my grandchildren, but he doesn't want to be called Granddad. He wants to enjoy the freedom of a young single man.

If our husbands are coming home to us like this, what are we fighting for? And what thanks do we get for keeping the home fires burning

PERPLEXED WIFE

War Experiences Change All Men

Answer: No man can go through three years of life in the army and come out of it just the same as he was when he went in it. Some will be made better. Others worse. But all will be different. It will depend upon the man's own character how he develops, just as it depends upon the quality of the grapejuice whether it turns into fine wine or vinegar.

A man such as your husband is must have had always in him a roving spirit. If he had lived a quiet domestic life, working hard at his trade, spending his evenings at home and meeting few people, he might have been a contented Darby to the end. But he might just as likely have turned to a philanderer or a wife-deserter. What the war did was to give his chance to develop along his own lines.

New places, new experiences, new excitements, new thoughts, new ideas, new people, a new freedom, they were his dish, and you need not fool yourself into thinking that he will ever relish homemade bread and butter again.

One of the reactions of the soldiers that we vet from the front oftener than anything else is that most of them say that they want nothing changed at home. They want to slip into their old coats and their old slippers. They want the same things to eat to which they were accustomed. They want Mom and Dad to be sitting in their old chairs by the fire not looking a day older. They want their girls to have the same hair-do, and their wives to be as slim and pretty as they were when they kissed them good-bye. They want their children to still be little toddlers who will climb on Daddy's knee.

But this is an impossibe dream. Time doesn't stand still on the home front any more than it does on the firing line. And when Johnny comes marching home he is coming to a world almost as different to the one he is leaving across the seas. And it is going to give him the shock of of his life to find out how much Mom and Dad have broken; that care and anxiety and responsibility and sleepless nights have left their mark on his wife; that his children are no longer babies, that they are youngsters with whom he has to get acquainted. Or he may find that he has outgrown the girl he thought he was in love with, and that he doesn't fit anymore into the little town in which he was born and reared. He may even find that he has lost his taste for home cooking.

So there you are. War has changed the world. It has changed every one of us, and none of us can go back and be what we were, whether we fought in the army, or whether we have done our bits in our own back yards. All we can do is to make the best of the situation and not let it break our hearts.

Dear Miss Dix: Won't you please tell my mother how old fashioned she is? She is the sweetest mother in the world and does everything she can for me, but she doesn't think that I should marry my boy friend who is 16 years old while I am 18.

Mother says that I should have a lot of boy friends, but he is the only one I want. She says he is just a boy who hasn't grown up, and that he doesn't know his own mind, and that we should wait until he is a man and realizes some of the responsibility of marriage. But I am afraid that if we wait he will fall in love with some other girl.

He makes $20 a week. He is a big liar, I know, but he will stop that when we are married. Don't you think we are old enough to marry and that we can live on what he makes. What can I do with a mother who has such old-fashioned views?

ENGAGED.

Mother's Ideas True Through All Ages

ANSWER—Well, I'd say listen to her. Perhaps what she is saying to you about the folly of marrying before you are ready for it is old stuff, but it is something that has been true through all the ages and that is going to be truer than ever now when so many undeveloped boys and girls are making marriages that they are going to spend the balance of their lives repenting.

A boy of 16 is still nothing but a child. You don't know what sort of a man he is going to make. You are just taking a chance on it. He may turn into something that you will like, but he is just as likely to turn into a bargain that you wouldn't have on a bet. If you marry him now, you are practically taking an infant to rear. You will have to support him, and the chances are that he will be tired of you inside of a year. Furthermore, don't fool yourself into thinking that you can reform him and change a congenital liar into Truthful James. You are no miracle worker.

Better listen to Mother. This is one time when Mother knows best.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have worn glasses for six years. All my girl friends keep telling me that a girl with glasses can't be popular with the boys. Is this true? Do glasses really scare the fellows off?

M. S.

ANSWER—Certainly not. When Dorothy Parker wrote "fellows don't make passes at girls with glasses" she was just being witty. She didn't intend to be taken seriously. Glasses improve the looks of lots of girls and, if you need them, you will be a lot handsomer in them than you would if you went around blinking and stumbling over things because you couldn't see.

If you think men are allergic to spectacles, why don't you pick out a boy who also wears them? Women haven't a monopoly on bad eyes.

MILLBROOK

Old Eakins Firm Changes Hands

MILLBROOK, Nov. 6 (ENS)—The stock of the late S. E. Eakins' hardwar store has been sold by Mrs. Eakins to the firm of Dempsey Brothers of Lansing. This is a business change of major importance in the village, as for the past forty years the late Mr. Eakins successfully carried on this gradually enlarging store on King street.

He purchased it, in his youth, from the late William J. Gardiner, who left for Vancouver, and beginning Friday, the store will be closed for taking stock. During Mr. Eakins' time, the store was a meeting-place where men coming in from the country, and local citizens as well, gathered to thresh out the questions of the day, political and otherwise.

Robert Stone, now in his eighty-first year, who has been an efficient clerk in the Eakins' store for many years past, feels he has earned retirement when the stock is finally taken over by the new owners. Miss Mary Eakins, a graduate of the Peterborough Business College, has been associated with Mr. Stone since her father's death in the business.

LAKEFIELD

Entire Department Out For Chimney Fire

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 6 (ENS).— A general alarm for a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Todd, Queen street, at the north end of the village Tuesday evening brought out 18 firemen and both fire trucks.

The fire proved to be a chimney fire and was brought under control in about a half-hour by the use of water.

A passing motorist noticed the flames and phoned in a general alarm from the home of Mr. J. Huddard. A large crowd gathered and traffic was directed by Chief Garnet Samis.

Fire Chief Allan Clark reports that the actual damage was very slight.

Women's Institute Runs Auction Sale

HAVELOCK, Nov. 6 (ENS). — Auction sales have become an annual feature of the Belmont Women's Institute and the results this year far exceeded expectations.

A complete canvass for farm produce for the sale was made by the Institute members, and Auctioneer Goldie Andrews, Norwood, disposed of the goods in two hours. Articles for sale included potatoes, carrots, turnips, beets, beans, cabbage, pumpkins, citrons, pickles, fresh eggs, chickens (alive or dressed), apples, a quilt, home-knit mitts, bread, pies, buns and cake.

Proceeds of the evening amounted to over $115, and goes into the general fund of the Institute for its work.

French Control Area Near Siam

By RAYMOND P. CRONIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Nov. 3 —(Delayed) —(AP). — Travellers who left French Indo-China early in October told me that the French provincial government under Rear Admiral Jean Decoux, Vichy high commander for the Pacific is in complete control of the region and that the Japanese in recent months have been living strictly within the limits of the Vichy treaty with Japan.

The French control all essential services, I was told.

A French army consisting of regular soldires. Foreign Legionnaires and colonials is stationed on the Tonkin border, across from which an army of 500,000 Chinese with some American officers, is poised for possible action. The Japanese have dug in deeply militarily in the Saigon, Haiphong, Hanoi, Tourance and Camranh Bay areas, but the strategic border region is held by the French.

I also learned from these travellers that there was widespread unrest in Thailand, with the masses displaying increasing anti - Japanese sentiment because they have been draining the country of its economic resources.

Thailand is facing a serious rice shortage, with most of the 1942 crop flooded out and the 1943 crops threatened by a severe drought. Travellers who have recently arrived here from both Indo-China and Thailand highly commended the British scorched-earth policy in the Malay peninsula, saying that practically all of the rubber trees there have been destroyed and the mines crippled.

IN MEMORIAM

MAHOOD — In loving memory of our dear mother, Harriet Eliza, Mahood who passed away eleven years ago to-morrow, November 7 1932.

Dear Mother, your voice still lingers,
In memories we see your face.
It has left us now forever,
While no one can take your place.
Two loving hands are resting.
A heart we loved is still,
A mother we loved is waiting
For us just over the hill.
In heaven dear mother we'll find you,
When God's great will is done.
We'll stand once more beside you
When he calls for us to come.
To those who have a mother,
Cherish her with care,
There will never be another,
To fill her vacant chair.

— Sadly missed and always remembered by sons Wilmot and Bert and daughter Mabel.

WOOD — In loving memory of Mrs. D. T. Wood of Port Dalhousie who passed away November 8, 1942.

Just a thought of you dear sister
As it dawns another year,
As we loved you so we miss you,
In our memory you are dear,
Loved remembered, thought of often,
Since you left us lonely here.

—Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. W. Bromell.

MENZIES — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Clara Hadley Menzies, who went to sleep, November 6, 1940.

Sweet memories will linger forever
Time cannot change them it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.

— Ever remembered by son, David, daughter-in-law, Marguerite and granddaughters, Dorothy, Sandra, Anne and Carol.

JORDON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James Jordon who passed away on November 7, 1938.

Upright and just in all his ways,
Faithful and true to the end of his days,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home, to suffer no more.

—In loving remembrance by his wife and family.

TINDLE—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Thomas Tindle, who passed away suddenly November 7, 1935.

More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow.
Lies within our hearts concealed —Lovingly remembered by his daughter, son-in-law and granddaughters.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Nov. 6 — (CP). — Bombers proved their superiority over fighters—on the softball field at least—when a combined team from the Canadian Bomber Group overwhelmed a fighter outfit and took the title of R.C.A.F. overseas softball champions.

Men of the Thunderbird and the Goose squadrons climaxed a hotly-contested series of games in London's Hyde Park by defeating 12-1 a Mustang outfit from a Tactical Air Force field commanded by Wing Cmdr. Ernie Moncrieff of Winnipeg. Four R.C.A.F. teams were eliminated before the round-robin series reached the final.

Fresh from a 12-6 victory over another fighter team in the semi-finals, the bomber boys beat out four home runs in the title tilt while LAC. Ameul Genga of Windsor, Ont., allowed the Mustangs but five hits. LAC. Ed Dalgity of London, Ont., started this heavy bat-work with a round-tripper in the second inning with two men on base.

In the third LAC. Fon Forster of Regina hit another home-run ball from the offerings of Cpl. Roy Cooper of Hamilton, Ont., ace Mustang hurler. Mustangs' only score came in the fifth when LAC Doug Abbott, of Toronto, scooted home on a two-base drive by Cooper.

Big inning for the bombers was the sixth when six hits produced 6 runs, including homers by Genga and Stan Hooper of Ceylon, Sask.

Shields were presented to individual players of both teams by Group Capt Gordon Prescott of Ottawa.

Other members of the winning team included Sgt. Jock McKellar of Vancouver, Cpl. Chad Coe of Trenton, and LACs Carman Jones of Prince Albert, Sask., Tommy Reid of St. Catharines, Ont., and Don Patterson of Toronto.

Milt Schmidt, crack centre with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League before he joined the Air Force, now rates a salute from his former wingman, Porky Dumart and Bobby Bauer, who are corporals.

Schmidt has been commissioned as a pilot officer and is expected to take charge of athletics at one of the stations of the Canadian Bomber Group.

Dumart is also a physical training instructor, while Bauer is a wireless electrical mechanic. All three Kitchener, Ont., lads are with the Canadian Bomber Group although on separate stations, and likely will oppose each other in hockey games this winter.

The big game around the mobile airfields used by the Tactical Air Force is horse-shoes, imported to Britain by Canada's fighting men. Almost every field has more than one pitch and they're in use throughout the day.

Conversely, at these fields where personnel live backwoods life under canvas, the English game of darts has taken the Canadians by storm. The favorite backstop for a dartboard is a tree—and that's far removed from its usual dominating position in a pub.

Girl Cage Teams In Practice Tilt

Two girls' exhibition basketball games were staged last night in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium. The preliminary game was between the Y Cadets, a group of Collegiate girls, and the Normalites. The score of the game was 8-7 for the Normal School girls.

The other game, Payne's Transport and St. John's, played a very fast and exciting game. Final score was 27-10 for Payne's Transport. Both teams were minus three of their regular players. The line-up was as follows:

St. John's — Teresa Heslip 6, Margaret Dyer 2, Eva Clarke 2, Eileen Hewitt, Doreen Groombrdige, Marion Vosborough.

Payne's Transport — Beryl Dobbin 13, Janet Morrow 7, Jean Castle 3, Dorothy Bestard, Helen Miller 1, Isabel Crary, Janet Collins.

Salesmen Note Cheese Cut With Misgiving

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 6 (ENS) —Cheese production in the Campbellford and Peterborough district has dropped by more than one-third during the past month according to offerings made on the local cheese board here Thursday evening. Evidence that there was plenty of cause for concern over lowered production was seen in a comparison with the offerings made during the same week a year ago when makers boarded 300 boxes more than the 1,304 offered this week.

The price held at 20 cents F.O.B. shipping point and the question of when members would meet again was settled by a compromise as the Board adjourned for three weeks, until November 25 at 3 o'clock. Buyers would have preferred a four-week adjournment but met salesmen halfway with a three-week proposal which may wind up the meetings for the year.

Ten buyers divided the offerings from 28 factories with J. S. Cook and Son of Belleville getting 136; H. Tremaine for Swift Canadian, 128; W. S. Stiles for P. W. McLagan, 121; Roy Walker for Olive and Dorion, 140; W. D. Bedell for A. A. Ayer Co. Ltd., 130; P. J. Murphy for Hodgson and Rowson, 134; W. H. Bailey for Lovell and Christmas, 135; A. J. Farmer's Auto Runs Into Cow CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 6 (ENS) —A cow was injured and had to be destroyed after it was struck by a car driven by James Remington of Percy township at noon Friday. It was one of a herd of seven being driven along a township road in Seymour West by John Scott who was himself bowled over into the ditch as the cow after being struck by the car was hurled into him, bowling him over. Mr. Scott received slight injuries about the legs but was able to proceed to his home following medical attention. The front fenders and windshield of the car were damaged according to Provincial Constable D. G. Hayes, who investigated.

Missionary Society Prepares Bale Items

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 6— (ENS). — The ladies of Hoards W.A. and W.M.S. met for their monthly joint meeting this week, as some twenty members gathered at the home of Mrs. Alexander Parr. The W.M.S. president, Mrs. John Rannie, opened the meeting, the theme of which was "Christ for All the World," and later during the business period it was reported that considerable progress had been made in the preparation of a bale. Mrs. Frank Heagle presided during the W.A. meeting, during which plans were made for a social evening November 19, and for the annual meeting to be held December 1. The main item on the program was a reading from the study book, "For All of Life" given by Mrs. John Rannie.

Tom Harmon, Rugby Star Missing In China Flew 500 Miles To Attend Midnight Mass

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov 6. — (AP).— Tom Harmon, Michigan's counter-part of football immortal Red Grange, was a serious-minded army pilot in the battle-filled skies over China where he has been reported missing since Oct. 30.

As his family and friends hoped and prayed for his second deliverance from mishap in the air, bits of his religious fervor were gleaned from letters received recently from the former all-America halfback.

Fighter Pilot Harmon wrote the Rev. F. Frank McPhillips, chaplain of St. Mary's Catholic student chapel, that he had flown 500 miles to attend a Sunday midnight mass in China "because there was no church near our base."

"If ever a man says he has no fear in combat, he's a liar," wrote the hero of scores of football battles. "But that one evening in church gave more comfort, strength and confidence than I've yet experienced in China."

"The Authority on Authorities"

LURE OF FANCINESS

FANCINESS appeals to certain players. They cannot figure out the simple way to do anything, apparently, if there is a complex method available. Sometimes it seems as if such individuals would rather attempt something risky, so long as it is impressive, than adopt a sure-thing method which lacks luster. The finest cardsmen, however, use the simplest and surest method they can find to attain a given result.

North: ♠ 10 9 6 4 ♥ J 8 7 ♦ A 8 3 ♣ K J 4

West: ♠ A K Q 8 7 3 ♥ 6 4 ♦ K 6 4 ♣ 7 2

East: ♠ 5 ♥ 9 2 ♦ J 10 9 5 2 ♣ Q 10 9 8 3

South: ♠ J 2 ♥ A K Q 10 5 3 ♦ Q 7 ♣ A 6 5

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

With slight variations, the bidding went like that at all tables of a 12-player duplicate, and the first three tricks were the same, too. West took the spade K and Q, then led the club 7 after seeing his partner's signal of the club 9 on the preceding trick. All three declarers played low from dummy. East put in the 8 and the A won that third trick.

One of the three declarers got himself set, then, after dropping trumps, because he tried the club finesse, losing to the Q, and later lost a diamond after the returned diamond J brought forth the Q, K and A. That was pretty bad.

Another declarer, on the fourth trick, led to the heart J, ruffed the spade 10, scored the heart A, led to the club K, led the spade 9 and on it discarded his last club, West winning with the spade A. He was end-played and had to lead either a spade, which could be ruffed while South discarded a diamond, or a diamond away from the K, in either event assuring South his contract.

South at the third table used the heart A and K on the fourth and fifth tricks, led to the heart J, then brought through the spade 10, discarding the diamond 7 and letting West take that with the spade A. The spade 9 was now set up. When West led back, South could win anything, go to dummy with the diamond A and discard the losing club on the spade. This simple procedure involved no risk, whereas the fellow who threw West into the lead took the chance that East might have had the diamond K, in which case the contract would have been beaten.

$266,900 Needed To Put Loan Over Objective

Peterborough heaped up Victory Loan subscriptions Friday to the splendid amount of $227,250, leaving only $266,900 of the $4,600,000 objective for today's final effort.

That Friday sweep was made up as follows:

Employees' Canvass ..	$108,150
City General	$74,550
Rural Canvass	$44,550
Total	$227,250

The ultimate question remained for today's responses. Can the city and the county raise the outstanding $266,900? As they say on the radio that's the '$64 question' and the answer may be known tonight or on Monday at the latest.

Manifestly the Employee's Canvass was a tremendous help yesterday. The city industrial subscribers of the Fifth Victory loan swelled their total from $894,200 at Thursday night to $1,002,350, barging past their objective of $950,000 by 5.51 per cent. In the percentage column their Friday move was from 94.13 to 105.51 and that index is likely to be increased by the returns today.

Rural Peterborough seemed also in sight of its collective objective last night as they reached 91.16, up from 83.73, for 7.43 points. In dollars the country total ascended from $502,400 to $546,950 or $44,550, bringing the rural constituency to only $53,050 less than their objective of $600,000. Just as a mere surmise, that seemed within the county's accomplishment for Saturday.

The city general canvass was another substantial help, accounting for $74,550, but in that division the remaining task seems insuperable — to subscribe $326,200 to reach the objective of $1,550,000

Friday's financing in the City General Canvass brought that total from $1,149,250 to $1,223,800, but there was still a long gap facing the general subscribers in the city, in the percentage column from 78.95 up to the 100 per cent level. If anybody had hopes this morning that it was going to be done, they were not heralding their opinion or prediction abroad.

Havelock 139.87

Continuing a brief survey of the brighter aspects of the campaign as it halted last night, and passing for the moment over the fact that Peterborough city and county dropped behind the required percentage for the first time, although only to the fractional measure of one-quarter of one per cent, the gleaming spot in the whole summary was Havelock.

The C.P.R. village subscribed $12,600 yesterday, boosting their total to $53,150 as compared with their $38,000 objective, and booming their percentage from 106.71 to 139.87 and that looks like the final challenge to all other hands. Their percentage gain Friday was 33.16. Percy Lancaster's home town had dropped behind North Monaghan Thursday night, but yesterday was another story. While Monaghan was improving their percentage figure by 2.72; Havelock went so far out in front with their 33.16 points that they seemed finally certain and secure against being overtaken or matched.

Another $50,000 from the county today, twice that amount from the city general canvass, and the final returns from the employees' canvass should put Peterborough up with the nation's hundred percentages, and the Fifth Victory Loan tucked away in this rural-urban community as another war time financing achievement.

So, that temporary reverse as indicated last night .25 under the required percentage of objective, may be forgotten tonight, if all the returns are in, or if the objective has been reached before then.

The Rural Day

The county's Friday subscriptions of $44,550 were made up as follows: Otonabee $16,550; Havelock $12,600; Smith $4,400; the northern townships, Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos, $4,550; Lakefield $1,600; Norwood $1,300; Dummer $1,000; North Monaghan and Douro each $950; Asphodel $550 and Belmont and Methuen $300.

The corresponding gains in the percentage column were in order: Havelock 33.16; Otonabee 12.73, the northern townships 9.66; Smith 4.89; Dummer 2.94; North Monaghan 2.72; Douro 2.71; Lakefield 2.67; Norwood 2.24; Asphodel 1.45; Belmont and Methuen 1.2.

Here is the standing in the column showing percentage of objective up to Friday night:

Havelock 139.87, up from second place; North Monaghan 114.86, down from first; Smith 105.06 up from fourth, Asphodel 104.21 dropping back from third place.

Belmont and Methuen 97.8, retaining fifth; the northern townships, Burleigh, Harvey, Chandos, and Anstruther 94.22 strong in the sixth position; Otonabee 86.85 retaining seventh; Norwood 73.19 up from ninth to eighth place; Dummer 72.79 in the ninth spot, up from tenth; Ennismore 71.67 dropping back from eighth to tenth, with a blank day; Lakefield 68.5, holding 11th place and Douro 65.14 twelfth.

With One Day To Go

The complete summary of the city and county at the close of the 17th day is presented as follows, reading across the column, in order, objective, amount subscribed and percentage of objective:

City General Canvass: $1,550,000; $1,223,800; 78.95.

North Monaghan: $35,000; $40,200; 114.86.

Otonabee: $130,000; $112,900; 86.85.

Asphodel: $38,000; $39,600; 104.21.

Norwood: $58,000; $42,450; 73.19.

Smith: $90,000; $94,550; 105.06.

Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther, Chandos, $45,000; $42,400; 94.22.

Lakefield: $60,000; $41,100, 68.5.

Ennismore: $12,000; $8,600; 71.67

Douro: $35,000; $22,800; 65.14.

Dummer: $34,000; $24,750, 72.79.

Belmont and Methuen: $25,000; $24,450; 97.8.

Havelock: $38,000; $53,150; 139.87.

Total rural canvass: $600,000; $546,950, 91.16.

Employees' canvass: $950,000; $1,002,350; 105.51.

Special Names: $1,500,000; $1,500,000; 104.

Grand Total: $4,600,000; $4,333,100: 94.19.

Required 94.44 Per Cent

The cumulative percentage of the objective required at the Friday night to level off at 100 per cent was 94.44; and the actual percentage of objective, shown by the city and county combined last night was 94.19; leaving the campaing .25 under par for the first time since the Victory Loan drive was begun three weeks ago.

No doubt, around town and throughout the county, the consensus expects the spirit of Peterborough to come through to-day with that $326,200, but it will have to be a great deal more substantial than mere spirit. Here's hoping the rural total bulges up over that 100 per cent of theirs. They are so close now that a little better than $50,000 will do it.

MORE ABOUT—

Premier Drew

presentation which drew applause was a bouquet of flowers given to Mrs. Goodfellow by little Ruth Fraser. In addition to music by Austin's Orchestra during the banquet, two local artists, Francis DeCarrol and John Storie sang.

Young People Active

Mr. Goodfellow, first speaker of the evening was introduced by Major Earl Drope of Harwood, president of the County Association. Mr. Goodfellow reiterated why he had entered the political field under the leadership of Col. Drew. He praised the work of the local organization which had contributed largely to the success of the campaign. It was the work of the young people that had been important in putting the election across and the reason they had been interested was that the Party had something to offer, he said. There was a great future for Canada in the social legislation proposed by the Progressive Conservative party and Mr. Goodfellow declared he had become more impressed by this fact with the selection of John Bracken as head of the federal party.

Referring to what he termed were the serious times which lie ahead, Mr. Goodfellow stated the main objective of every Canadian must continue to be the successful prosecution of the war. Though there is unrest among various classes at the present time it should be remembered that unless forward looking legislation is now adopted the boys who return from overseas might have even more reason to be dissatisfied.

Toast to Ladies

Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. of Peterborough proposed the toast to the ladies and this was responded to by Miss Hazel Atkinson. The Premier was introduced by Captain Harold Scott, M.P.P. of Peterborough. Mr. Scott reviewed the career of Col. Drew telling of the various steps he had taken to prepare himself for the leadership. He referred to the Bren gun episode as one that "clearly showed he had a mind of his own", and this he added, "was the father of the Department of Munitions and Supplies which has saved Canada millions of dollars. He was abused for his criticism, but after the hue and cry had died down these same people were glad to take his suggestions as their own."

Political Issues

Col. Drew stressed the fact that this war was more than a military struggle. He said it was also a battle of conflicting political ideas which could not be put aside once the last shot is fired. While every effort should be put forward to bettering the conditions of all Canadians, the Premier felt it would be helpful to "keep in mind a little of the good fortune given to us in the past few years." In Europe too are people who love their homes, their lives and their families, yet never in history have so many been forced to live under the yoke of a military oppressor. "If the war ended tomorrow", he asked, "are we prepared to face the period of trouble and opportunity which lies ahead?"

There are 200 million hungry and starving people in Europe and many of these will starve "even when the oppressor takes his hand off the control and internal forces are let loose. When I hear it repeated that our system of government has broken down I know it has not failed for what is destroying Germany today is the product of individual initiative." The speaker said he offered no defense for the evils of the democratic system but they were faults that could be corrected by democratic methods.

"When we are told that the system that built this country has failed, let us remember that the planes that are bombing the heart out of Germany are made by private enterprise and by people working under a free democratic system. We are fighting socialism for Nazi is the abbreviation for National Socialist and this is the very antithesis of free enterprise."

Great Future

Looking to the future of Canada the premier declared he did not believe the time had come when life could be apportioned as though the nation's period of growth had ended. "Out of the war Canada is going to emerge as a land of the greatest opportunity in the world." He cited Canada's forest wealth as but one reason for her future progress and declared that a single plant was now producing power alcohol at a tremendous rate from what were once the waste materials of wood. In Ontario alone plants are turning out products that would have a great effect on the years to come. After the war radio electric developments will render ships immune from collision in fog and aircraft will land in any kind of weather. The plywood Mosquito bomber playing such an important part in the bombing of Germany, opens tremendous possibilities in the realm of air transport in the future, Col. Drew asserted.

One great decision Canadians must make concerned the nature of the partnership they would have after the war is over, he declared. The myth of isolationism had been exploded in 1939. Though it might be easy to dismiss the thought at the present time, next to winning the war this was the most important question facing Canadians. "I think we should make sure the old British partnership is just as powerful as it was before . . . the traditions of this country can best be served by those that have the same ideals, the same loyalty to one set apart as the King. In the strength of that partnership lies the greatest hope for security in the years to come."

Eggs Stay At Ceiling Prices

TORONTO, Nov. 6 — In the week just ending egg receipts have fallen far short of the consumption demand and all prices have attained their ceiling levels. Grade A large has been selling at 50 cents, Grade A medium at 48c, Grade A pullets at 45 cents, and Grade B at 45 cents, and Grade C at 45 cents. Retailers and restaurants are extremely short of eggs, despite the fact that some dealers report a six per cent increase in receipts. Actually the situation is much the same as at this time last year.

The butter market slipped from one extreme to the other during the week. At the start of the week receipts were very light and failed to meet the demand. At the end of the week the situation was completely reversed; receipts had increased considerably bu the demand was very weak. First grade sold at 34¾ cents and undergrade from 31¼ cents to 32¾ cents. The market for Western butter has been rather quiet, with dealers asking from 34¾ cents to 35 cents. Sales have been made at both prices.

Grave Diggers Want 95c Hour

CHICAGO, Nov. 6 — (AP). —A strike of grave diggers at Saint Adalbert's Cemetery, which has forced postponement of more than 30 funerals, continued today as War Labor Board officials prepared to investigate pay rates of the diggers at a neighboring cemetery.

Attorney J. C. McCurry of the W.L.B.'s legal staff yesterday ordered officials of Local 106 of the Cemetery Workers Union and representatives of the Angel Guardian German Catholic Orphanage Society to appear before the board Monday to show cause why a recently granted pay raise should not be rescinded

Employees of the Angel Guardian Society, through a recent W.L.B. order, are being paid 95 cents an hour, a rate now demanded by the grave diggers at St. Adalbert's who receive 75 cents an hour.

At a meeting yesterday Rev. George Eisenbacher, head of the Angel Guardian Society, said the 95-cent rate had been approved because the men lay monument foundations, pour and mix concrete, lay roadways, build tile and drainage systems, and perform similiar tasks, and dig graves only occasionally.

WHEN AN ARMY COLUMN ADVANCES into enemy territory, mobile anti-aircraft units move with it. When enemy dive bombers or strafing planes appear, these Bofors guns go into action on the spot. While the infantry scatter and take cover, and blaze away at the enemy planes with rifles and machine guns, the Ack-Acks "shoot the works".

Less than one minute after the first warning, the gun is unlimbered from its tractor, and is hurling two shells a second at the hostile planes. Then, as soon as the danger is over, the gun limbers up again and moves forward with the column. Frequently too, this high velocity gun is called upon to knock out enemy tanks with armor piercing shells.

Capture Fastov
Nazi Casualties Soar

LONDON, Nov. 8 (CP)—The Red Army was rolling swiftly toward the Rumanian border today after taking the vital rail junction of Fastov, 35 miles southwest of captured Kiev, and thus snapping the principal rail link between German forces in the northern Ukraine and the Nazis still battling at Krivoi Rog.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Moscow said the Russians already had driven 10 miles on beyond Fastov and were engaged in heavy fighting with Nazi armored reserves rushed into the breach.

The mighty push, moving along at a speed of 24 miles a day, threatened to crumble Nazi resistance in the Dnieper bend and raised the possibility of trapping huge numbers of beleaguered Germans.

Seizing trainloads of undamaged German equipment at Fastov, whose captures was hailed in Moscow with 124-gun salvos, Russian tank and infantry units also were reported to have swept up 70 towns and hamlets as they lunged toward Rumania, one of the Nazi satellites which Premier Joseph Stalin said Saturday was "anxious to find a way" out of the war.

Mop-Up Crimea.

In the Crimea, far to the southeast, the Russians said they killed 1,000 Germans in repulsing counterattacks on their bridge-heads near Kerch and generally improved their positions in that area. German broadcasts said the Russians were bringing up infantry reinforcements on the Perkop Isthmus, northwestern gateway to the peninsula.

The 26th anniversary of the Soviet revolution also saw the Red Army driving to within 45 miles of the Latvian and old Polish borders on the north central front, where a Russian communique said the Nazis were losing "one position after another" west and southwest of Nevel. Six localities were seized and 400 Germans were killed in that theatre yesterday.

The Berlin radio, admitting the Soviet push southwest of Kiev had forced the Germans "to take up new lines," estimated the Russians were using more than 250,000 troops in

He said his memorandum, circulated Nov. 5, gave five Canadian employees in his office until Nov. 9 to purchase a bond. The memorandum said he was "definitely going to see that this office subscribes 100 per cent," and added that if results were not obtained "a list of all employees and the amounts they have subscribed will be placed on the bulletin board at a later date."

In his interview with a Vancouver News-Herald reporter, Mr. Dunkleberger said the five Canadian employees who had not signed for bonds when Victory Loan salesmen called, had since signified their intention to make a purchase.

Pope Refuses 2nd Bid To Leave Vatican

LONDON, Nov. 8 (CP). —German propagandists continued today their efforts to convince the world that Vatican City had been bombed by the Allies despite an official statement from the Allied headquarters in Algiers disclaiming all responsibility.

The German - controlled Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, quoted Rome newspaper accounts as saying that fragments of bombs reported to territory Friday night had been have been dropped on Vatican identified as of British manufacture

The Stockholm newspaper, Aftontidningen, meanwhile, quoted a Swiss dispatch as saying the German envoy to the Vatican had again offered Pope Pius XII haven in the tiny principality of Liechtenstein. The Pontiff was said to have replied that he would remain in Rome "under all circumstances."

Dropped Four Bombs

At the same time the Rome correspondent of the Stockholm-stidningen said that residents of Rome were convinced the bombing was no accident. He reported a plane had flown low over the city circling over the Vatican before dropping four bombs between the Observatory and railway station.

One bomb exploded about 100 yards from St. Peter's, shattering windows on one side of the cathedral, the correspondent said. He reported that windows also were broken at Santa Marta palace, where Allied diplomats accredited to the Vatican live.

A Vatican broadcast said merely that an unidentified plane had flown low over Vatican City and dropped four bombs which caused considerable damage but no casualties.

The German attempt to pin the incident on the Allies recalled the warnings issued by Allied spokesmen shortly after the July 19 raid on Rome by American airmen. At that time the spokesmen suggested the Nazis might make a deliberate attack on the Vatican and then try to blame it on the Allies.

De Marigny Seeks To Prove Alibi

Friend Testifies
Accused Was Home In Bed

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 8. —(AP).—Moving to back up Alfred de Marigny's alibi, the defence called the Marquis Georges de Visdelou to the witness stand in the Bahamas Supreme Court to-day to tell of the accused son-in-law's activities during the July night when Sir Harry Oakes was slain.

He testified after a former prison physician, Dr. Ulrich Oberwarth, said he found no burned hairs on De Marigny two days after the millionaire was beaten and burned to death in a bedroom of his country estate, Westbourne.

Dr. Oberwarth thus hit at a Crown contention that singed and curled hairs were found on the defendant's hands the night of July 8, and that these were evidence he might have been in the bedroom at the time of the attack. The physician acknowledged he had not carried out a microscopic examination.

Shared Cottage.

De Visdelou talked with a clipped French accent. Like De Marigny, he is a member of a French family which settled many years ago on the British Indian Ocean island of Mauritius.

De Visdelou told of a dinner party given by De Marigny July 7 at the cottage they shared. Numerous other witnesses have described the party. Among them De Bisdelou's friend, Beatty Roberts, who backed up part of De Marigny's own account of his activities when she testified Saturday.

From the witness stand last week, De Marigny said he drove two dinner guests to their homes near Westbourne about 1 a.m., and returned directly to his cottage.

He said he asked the Marquis if the latter wanted him to take Miss Roberts home. De Visdelou said no, and De Marigny declared that he then went to bed.

He was awakened about 3 a.m., the accused man said, by the sound of De Visdelou driving away to take Miss Roberts home. The Marquis returned in about 15 minutes, and De Marigny said he asked him to take his cat, "Grissou," out of the room.

Describing the party, De Visdelou said:—

Went to Bed

"About 11.30, Miss Roberts suggested that we go upstairs because I was coughing. I took off my coat, shirt and tie and put on a pajama top and went to bed.

"Miss Roberts stayed on a couch in the living room.

"About 1.30 there was a knock on the door.

"It was De Marigny."

De Visdelou was not permitted to quote from the conversation, which was held in French, nor could he tell what he told Miss Roberts in explanation.

He tried several times, but finally gave up, with a gesture of his arms.

He told of driving Miss Roberts home about five minutes to three.

"I went back home and parked the car in the same place, by the

Ghost Army Of Allied Prisoners Fleeing From Prison Camps Terrify Huns So Much They Stick To Well Marked Highways

By GUNNAR D. KUMLIEN
(Copyright, 1943, The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 8.—Thousands of British, American and Indian war prisoners who escaped after the Italian armistice now are making their way southwards from Rome to meet the Allied armies as they near the capital.

They are part of "the ghost army" which is adding immeasurably to German problems in occupied Italy.

In the wild Abruzzi mountains south of Rome the most mixed, cosmopolitan army which this war has seen roams almost at will. It consists of masses of Italian officers and soldiers who prefer to hide in the forest as guerillas to being drafted into an Italian army the Germans are trying to recruit, and thousands of Indian prisoners of war, once interned in a camp near Avezzano, 80 miles east of Rome, British, Canadian, American and Australian prisoners.

The presence of these hostile bands is forcing the Germans to stick to the highways.

The "ghost army" lives in caves and huts. For the most part the soldiers have no weapons, but they support the Italians in sabotage. Italian peasants provide them food.

I talked with German soldiers on the village square about Salerno. One Westphalian, shuddering, said, "it was hell."

Another said: "The fighting around Naples was nothing compared with the torture of knowing my family is in one of the most bombed German cities and that my relatives cannot be evacuated because they work in a war industry."

Around Rome, there is developing a strange, ghost-like atmosphere. Allied bombs thunder as they crash on German troop concentrations, airports, and railroad junctions but no air raid alarm is sounded.

Often at night, Rome is bathed in the reddish light of magnesium flares, dropped by parachute over Ostia.

Discuss Labor Legislation

By JACK WILLIAMS—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 8—(CP).—Dominion and Provincial Government labor officials met today to discuss new Federal legislation providing for compulsory collective bargaining and arbitration. Labor Minister Mitchell presided at the opening session of the conference this morning and outlined the general terms of a labor code consolidating present Orders-in-Council and introducing penalty clauses for violations of a widened collective bargaining and arbitration policy.

An important part of the program, it was learned, will be the establishment of a new labor relations organization with a national board and regional boards. This organization will parallel the present set-up of war labor boards which deal with wage stabilization.

The labor relations boards will be charged with the general responsibility of relations and will deal particularly with collective bargaining and arbitration matters.

The new legislation applies only to war industries but the Dominion Government is hopeful it will have a beneficial effect on labor matters generally and that it may lay the basis for improved labor relations after the war. While the action is being taken under the direction of the Dominion Government, it is understood Mr. Mitchell will ask the provinces to co-operate on a partnership basis. If full co-operation of the provinces is obtained it is likely provincial machinery already established will be used in a number of the provinces to determine which union shall have the bargaining right.

Union Request.

While there has not yet been any direct consultation with the large union organizations on the new code it is known that careful study has been made of the representations of both workers and employers before the National War Labor Board at a general inquiry held earlier this year. Unions were unanimous in their request before the board for some form of collective bargaining legislation.

Employers were generally not in favor of such a step but urged that such action should be accompanied by the imposition of definite responsibilities on the unions. In particular, periodic elections and the submission of a financial statement to recognized authorities were recommended.

While the code as it now stands is understood to impose responsibilities on unions and make them, as well as employers, subject to penalties, it is believed there has been no decision reached on requirements for elections and financial statements.

The delegates, representing all provinces and including most of the Provincial Labor Ministers, met around a long table in the Senate railway committee room. The meetings are closed and are expected to last two days.

Civilian Morale Tottering Despite Gestapo Efforts

By JOHN M. COLBURN—Associated Press Staff Writer

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 8—(AP).—Germany, tobogganing headlong toward losing the war, is fighting desperately on the military, diplomatic and propaganda fronts to win an arbitrated peace.

Whether the war in Europe ends January 1 or is still raging at this time in 1944, there is going to be a "new Europe" after some of the most dramatic political manoeuvring in history.

When the cease-firing order comes jubilation over the end of killing will be tempered by stark realization that tremendous economic and political difficulties still remain.

These are my impressions after watching seven turning - point months of the war from this neutral observation post.

In Sweden I've talked to people with close contacts in Germany and occupied territory. The most difficult job is to sift fact from rumor.

When the war will end is the most important question. The answer boils down to how long German morale—military and civilian—can stand losing the war. Goebbels continues to pepper his home front with victory propaganda, although it's been dulled by repeated setbacks.

Collapse Possible.

The war could end by Christmas—if the Germans could obtain an arbitrated peace.

How will Germany crack? Which will come first—the army surrender or the home-front collapse?

Either or both situations could occur tomorrow. They won't because military discipline on the whole is still first rate. The army is still fighting outside the Reich and Nazi leaders are still in absolute control of the wobbly home front.

But German workmen do whisper to foreign workers in the war plants, "Go Slow! Go Slow!" Five men to the work of one. The Germans are executed for their defeatist attitude.

German soldiers try to organize mutinies in the army, desert rather than go to the eastern front. Poor food, lack of clothing, crowded quarters due to bombing of nearly 7,000,000 homeless people. Those are positive signs of bad morale. But there are just as positive signs that the Gestapo and SS still are in control and that millions of Germans are still supporting the war.

Nevertheless, morale is Germany's vulnerable spot and it may burst all bounds if the bombing and war pressure are extended to many parts of Germany — from Britain, Italy and Russia — combined with multiple setbacks on the military fronts. Such a situation could crack the most rigorous Himmler controls.

British Miners Return To Pits

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(CP Cable).—A nine-day strike of airplane engine workers in three West Scotland plants ended today when the employees voted to return to the factories immediately.

Negotiations will continue on the workers' grievances which centre largely around the differential between pay of men and women.

At the same time about 1,300 miners employed at the Bolsover colliery at Mansfield, Notts., struck over payment for dirt sent from the pit.

It was also announced that 3,000 miners who struck a week ago at Glapwell colliery near Chesterfield over a wage dispute have decided to resume work tomorrow pending negotiations with officials.

One other strike was also settled when 3,000 Durham miners returned to the pits today. But 2,400 workers involved in a wage dispute with the Hatfield colliery near Doncaster voted to continue their eight-day stoppage until their demands are met.

Lightning Allied Advance Upsets Hun Defences 5th Poised For New Threat

8th Army Gains 5 Miles, Crosses Sinello
Captures Important Vasto Road
Canadians Push Ahead From Isernia

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 8—(AP).—Repeated explosions in Gaeta indicated the Germans were preparing to abandon that Tyrrhenian port 70 miles south of Rome as Allied headquarters announced today another mile gain by the Anglo-American 5th Army in a push which threatened to shortcircuit the west coast mountains where the enemy had anchored a new defence line.

The British 8th Army, sweeping five miles ahead along the Adriatic coast against fierce resistance, took possession of the entire length of the Sinello River and advanced on the Sangro River, the next natural barrier in the area.

Veterans Show Speed.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's fast-moving veterans took over an entire stretch of lateral road running inland from Vasto and at some places were within seven miles of the Sangro, where the Germans were apparently preparing a new stand.

Gen. Montgomery's most advanced positions, as shown in today's dispatches from the front, were around Casalbordino, a town near the Adriatic coast, which was captured yesterday. His troops also swept up Scerni, three miles south of Casalbordino, Gissi, just north of the Vasto lateral highway, and Carunchio, located on the highway.

On the left—Canadian—wing of the 8th Army gains of several miles were registered beyond captured Isernia along the important highway which runs northwest across the mountains.

American troops had seized the heights dominating Mignano, to open the way for a push behind the Aurunci mountains which are the chief protection of Gaeta and Formia on the coastal route to Rome, the Appian Way. The route for this prospective thrust lies up the broad valley to Cassino along the Via Casilina, the main inland route to Rome.

With the Germans apparently resigned to the loss of Gaeta the battle along Italy's west coast promised to be carried soon into the Pontine Marshes where the flat land crisscrossed by canals will permit the Germans to make further delaying stands.

Gains of several miles also were

Miners Return In West Few Exceptions

CALGARY, Nov. 18—(CP)—The majority of the 8,500 coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia who have been on strike for a week, returned to work today on instructions from headquarters of District 18, U.M.W.A. at Calgary following announcement of a settlement reached in Ottawa, Saturday.

Miners in the Edmonton district, however, were still out.

Angus Morrison, secretary of District 18, said he had received a telegram from Peter Collins, U.M.W.A. secretary at Edmonton, stating the miners had decided to defer their return to the mines for a few days until the sentiment of the entire district to the settlement had been ascertained.

With the exception of employees of two mines, all the coal mines in the Drumheller Valley were re-opened today.

The mines still closed down were the Red Deer Valley Mine at Nacmine and the Newcastle mine at Newcastle.

Local unions at these mines stated, however, that the miners would return to work Tuesday.

The Royal Commission, appointed to hear miners' demands for wage increases, will resume sittings here Wednesday, Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor, chairman, announced today.

The settlement agreement provides that the commission will have powers similar to the War Labor Board to deal directly with the miners' demands for a wage increase of $2 a day, time and one-half ov-

Victory Loan 82 Million Over

OTTAWA, Nov. 8 (CP). — Already over its minimum objective of $1,200,000,000, Canada's Fifth Victory Loan is expected to move even higher on the basis of late subscriptions.

National headquarters announced last night that the grand total up to Saturday night, end of the 18-day campaign, was $1,282,627,850, and said a further statement will be issued Wednesday, with probably another supplementary announcement on Saturday. They said many payroll applications still were to be reported.

As a sidelight to the general canvass campaign for cash sales, Loan officials announced that up to Saturday $83,000,000 of earlier issues carrying higher interest rates had been converted into the Fifth Loan Bonds. These subscriptions were not included in the Loan objective and were not in the grand total.

Police Probe Borden Fire

Blaze Does Not Interrupt Training

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., Nov 8. —(CP).—Investigation continued today into the fire which destroyed two Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps workships at this army training centre Saturday after the camp commandant, Brig. A. C. Spencer, announced that the fire would not make any difference in army training.

He said that necessary "adjustments have already been made" in the training program.

Brig. Spencer, said had it not been for the prompt action of the camp fire department, more buildings possibly would have been destroyed.

There still was no official estimate of the damage which an authoritative source said Saturday was "in the millions."

A number of tanks and vehicles as well as other ordnance equipment in the two buildings were destroyed.

A military court of inquiry was convened soon after the fire and Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Deputy Ontario Fire Marshal S. W. Caskey are co-operating in the investigation.

Germans Facing Catastrophe—Stalin

Harried Hitlerites Have Double Menace In Dnieper Bend

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Scarely had the sounds of celebration died down in Moscow for the recapture of Russia's holy city of Kiev—one of the great victories of the war—when the cannon of the capital again were set booming a 124-gun salute for the Red Army's liberation of the strategic railway junction of Fastov, 35 miles southwest of Kiev.

This fresh Russian assault, which today was driving down beyond Fastov, presents the harried Hitlerites with a double menace. It has severed the main rail communication with the German forces trapped in the Dnieper bend. It is thrusting dangerously toward Rumania, thus threatening to create another huge trap for the annihilation of still more of invaders, whose losses during recent months have been colossal.

These victories emphasized the Premier Stalin declaration on Saturday night that Germany "stands face to face with catastrophe." The Marshal made this statement in his speech on the eve of the 26th aniversary of the Bolshevist revolution.

Stalin's speech leaves no doubt that the tripartite conference has provided a marked improvement in the complexion of relations among the Big Three — Russia, Britain and the United States. Much of the distrust appears to have been eliminated, though one would be over-optimistic to believe that all the hurdles have been cleared.

One gathers that Russia stands pat on her frontiers as they were when Hitler attacked the Soviet Union. In his speech Stalin declares that all Russian territory will be liberated, and in naming specific areas he brings in such states as "Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Moldavia and the Karelo-Finnish Republic." However, he doesn't mention the matter of borders but leaves it to the audience to interpret the speech.

Reject Low Wage Increases

Million Railway Workers Start Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP).—Wage increases ranging from 4 to 10 cents an hour for 1,100,000 United States railroad workers were recommended to-day by a special presidential board with the approval of stabilization director Fred M. Vinson, but met prompt rejection from union spokesmen.

B. M. Jewell, chairman of the Rail Employees' Wages Conference committee, called the recommendations "entirely unsatisfactory."

George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said the scale of wages would be "unacceptable."

The 15 unions affected, representing railroad workers who do not actually run trains or engines, are taking a strike vote. They are also relying on a congressional resolution to enforce an earlier award providing for an eight-cent increase all around.

Originally the men had advised a straight boost of 20 cents an hour. Vinson vetoed the eight-cent award, which the carriers had accepted.

The presently proposed increase, effective on regular payrolls Nov. 19, would be retroactive to Feb. 1.

3 Canadians Injured In Air Raid

Sneak Raider's Single Bomb Hits Dance Hall

LONDON, Nov. 8 — (CP). — It was a gay Sunday night in one of London's best-known suburbs. Scores of young couples were dancing in a second-floor dance-hall and hundreds of men and women were pouring into the streets from three theatres.

Then a single German plane swooped over and dropped one bomb which turned the scene into one of choas — London's worst bomb disaster in many months of sneak raids.

The bomb crashed through the dance hall into a basement restaurant. A whole block of buildings were damaged by the explosion.

An eyewitness described the scene as "like a battlefield" with dead and wounded lying in streets littered with broken glass, timbers and bricks.

Casualties are known to be heavy and it is feared the death roll will be high.

Among those injured in the dance hall were three Canadian girls in the Women's Auxiliary Air Force. They were not seriously hurt and their names were not made public.

Toiled Through the Night

All through the night rescue workers toiled unceasingly among the debris to reach those still trapped while hundreds of people waited anxiously for news of relatives and friends believed to be victims. One man alone rescued 32 persons.

The bodies of many dancers were among those recovered. A large number of couples were Allied servicemen and their girl friends.

Rescue work was complicated by the fires which broke out, one in a nearby furniture store and the other in a building ignited a gas main. Both were extinguished before they spread.

Among those waiting all night for victims was a munitions worker who had been to the dance with her brother, an injured sailor.

"After the air raid warning sounded they said dancing would go on," she said. "The band struck up a tune. Then five minutes afterwards everything seemed to go up in the air. My brother just disappeared. Next thing I remember was digging myself out with my hands."

Bombs Cripple 12 Jap Warships

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Aerial smashes against warships and cargo vessels striving to reinforce the key Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain have cost the enemy probably 12 warships sunk or damaged thus far in the Bismarck sea.

A probable torpedo hit was scored on a heavy Japanese cruiser in Simpson harbor at Rabaul by Australian-flown Beauforts Friday evening, a day after the first master blow in which aerial bombs sank two cruisers and damaged seven

Nazis Prepare Estonian Forts

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 8.—(AP).—A dispatch from Tallinn, Estonia said to-day that German occupation authorities, whipping sections of the Baltic States into a fortified zone in the face of a possible Nazi withdrawal from the Leningrad area, have ordered civilians evacuated from three towns in Russia

The towns were Gdov, on the eastern shore of Lake Peipsi, and Kingisepp and Luga, both located on railways out of Leningrad.

Information reaching here indicates the Germans have developed a three-zone defence system between Leningrad and Riga, with Kingisepp, Luga and Gdov as key points.

Extensive mobilization of the populations in Estonia and Latvia have been attempted by the Germans to aid in the defence, but hundreds are said to be escaping to the forests to avoid helping the Nazis.

Raid On Duren Completed Without Loss

LONDON, Nov. 8 — (CP). — United States heavy bombers Sunday raided Germany for the third time in five days, bombing Duren site of important airplane parts and light metal plants, and other targets with practically no opposition and without losing a bomber. Nazi air bases in France were hit by the R.A.F.

It was the Americans' second blow in two weeks at Duren, 25 miles southwest of Cologne and 150 miles southwest of Muenster.

Long-range fighters flew tight protection all the way to the target and back, about 700 miles and fliers who are veterans of 25 raids said they didn't see a single German plane and that anti-aircraft fire was intermittent and light.

The heavy-bombers operations were part of an exceptionally active day with formations of planes droning back and forth across the Channel intermittently from morning until late afternoon.

Canadian Spitfires swept over occupied territory without meeting a single enemy plane, an R.C.A.F. communique said, while Canadian Mustangs in offensive patrols over Northern France shot up 10 locomotives.

Nine locomotives were damaged by the team of flying officers, George Burroughs, Toronto, and Basil Mossing, Regina.

The R. A. F. bombed three Nazi air bases in France. A contingent of Bostons hit Bernay and Typhoons attacked Beaumont Le Roger and Tricqueville.

R. A. F. Mosquitos bombed western Germany Saturday night and Fighter Command Intruders attacked airfields, rail and water transport in Northern France and the Low Countries without loss.

Three German planes were shot down during hit-run raids on England Saturday night. One 22-year-old German, only member of the four-man crew in one plane to parachute to safety, was turned over to the Home Guard.

Soldier Convicted For Theft Of Door

Pte. R. Glover, member of the R.C.O.C., Kingston, was convicted this morning of the theft of a duplex grain door from the Canadian Pacific Railway and sentence was deferred until the hearing of similar charges against two other men, Melville McCarthy and Pte. James Weaver, C.A.M.C., Petawawa.

Constable Leo Murphy testified to seeing Glover and two other men carrying the door produced in court along Queen street near Simcoe street on the night of November 4 and of arresting the three, assisted by Constable Allan Edmison who corrobrated this evidence.

Tenniece Guerin, C.P.R. freight shed foreman identified the door produced as the property of the railway company. Several of them were missing, he told the court. They cost between $5 and $7 each.

C.P.R. Officer Walter Ramsay produced a statement that he said had been signed by Pte. Glover after being properly warned. It was admitted as evidence. In the statement Glover said that the reason he had assisted others in taking the door was for the benefit of a woman who was out of fuel.

Glover did not call any witnesses or give any evidence himself and was found guilty by the magistrate.

Flt. Sgt. Brook In Mass Escape From War Camp

By NOLAND NORGAARD.

ALGIERS, Nov. 8—(AP).—One of the biggest mass prisoner-of-war escapes in history took place in Italy when German guards took over an Italian prison camp upon the capitulation of Italy, four Canadian fliers reported on reaching the Allied lines.

The four are Flt.-Lt. Clifford Chappell, 10 Schofield Ave., Windsor, Ont.; FO. Christopher Hare, 403 Woodbine Ave., Toronto; FO. Eugene Derick, Dauphin, Man., and Flt.-Sgt. Stanley Brook, 184 Hunter Street East, Peterborough, Ont. All four were in enemy custody for more than a year.

They estimated that approximately 20,000 British Empire troops broke out of camps and that only about 800 were recaptured by the Germans. Hundreds of others, they said, have already filtered through to the British, United States and Canadian Army lines in Italy.

Ten other Canadian airmen were officially announced to have reached Allied lines from enemy territory.

Million Workers Threaten Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 —(AP)—Most of the coal miners in the United States began returning to the job of producing war-vital fuel under a new wage agreement today as a board appointed by President Roosevelt opened a general inquiry into wartime living costs.

The miners' pay was raised from $7 to $8.50 per day, but they will be required to work an hour longer.

As members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers went back to the pits, however, steel employees were reported ready to seek a 15-cent an hour boost in pay, and a strike vote was being conducted among more than 1,100,000 members of the Railroad Brotherhoods. The United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) meet in Philadelphia today to draft new wage demands.

The living cost investigators were drawn from the War Labor Board. Its members were instructed to report within 60 days. The inquiry followed complaints of workers that wages have not risen at the same ratio as living costs.

Chairman William H. Davis of the W.L.B. supported the labor leaders in that contention. He told Congress that present wage controls are forcing workers to bear a greater share of the anti-inflation struggle than any other segment of society.

A statement from the United States Chamber of Commerce was sharply critical of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes' agreement granting rises in pay to the U.M.W. miners.

"From the single viewpoint of granting labor's demands—no matter what the method—the stage may be set for a retreat from President Roosevelt's hold-the-line anti-inflation order," the chamber said. It added that other groups may have been withholding their demands on industry to see what Lewis could attain for the miners.

steps leading to my apartment," he continued. "I removed the key, and went into the kitchen of the main house for a drink."

Higgs questioned him closely about the parking of the automobile, since the defence is contending that De Marigny could not have driven his own automobile on a later trip to Westbourne without having first removed Visdelou's car from the driveway.

Almost as an after thought,, De Visdelou added that while he was in the kitchen, he heard De Marigny calling to him.

"He told me to remove my cat," said De Vsdelou.

He said he arose early, and gave the keys to his automobile to De Marigny in order that the latter could move his automobile out of the driveway.

De Marigny and John H. Anderson came twice during the morning to the cottage, De Visdelou said, once to report Sir Harry's death and again to confirm it.

Adderly read from a statement he said De Visdelou gave to police.

Changed His Mind

Chief Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs demanded to see the statement which he said had not been shown to him before.

"In this very important statement," Adderly told De Visdelou, "you say that you did not see the accused from midnight until 10 a.m. Now you testify differently."

"I have a different recollection," explained De Visdelou.

Adderly read another paragraphs: "De Marigny was dressed in brown, but I'm not sure."

"What I said then I am not sure," De Visdelou said, "but here in the Supreme Court I took an oath on a bible and what I say stands."

Adderly handed De Visdelou the statement and had him identify his own signature on each of the several pages.

"Tell us if any of this is correct?" said Adderly, reading the first page which told of De Visdelou's marriage in London and De Marigny's marriage in Paris and De Marigny's divorce at Miami

"That part is correct," said De Visdelou.

The Chief Justice interrupted:—"How can you go through all that about Paris and London, but become vague on happenings only a couple of days old."

De Visdelou remained silent.

"I now give you an opportunity to explain how your memory became vague on the happenings of July 8," said the Justice sharply.

"I cannot explain, Your Honor," said De Visdelou.

Outboard Marine Hears Band At Presentation

The sprinkling of rain and snow could not dim the enthusiastic spirits of the employees of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company on Saturday morning when they received their "V" flags.

"V" flags and three-star "V" flags such as was presented to the employees of the Outboard Marine, are presented to those establishments 90 per cent or more of whose employees invest 15 per cent or more of monthly payroll in Victorys Bonds and War Savings Certificates.

The R.C.A.M.C. Band under Albert Croasdale, WO1, set the stage by playing spirited music for fifteen minutes prior to the presentation. An open-air platform was decorated with the Canadian and British flags, with the flags of our neighbor, the United States, the pledge flag, and honor pennants on each side.

Clarence Neal acted as chairman for the proceedings and when he announced that the employees had obtained 164 per cent of their objective, the applause was deafening. The employees took pride in having raised the huge sum of $103,000. They had an objective of $62,600.

Before the "flag" was presented, the draw on the three prizes was made. Outboard Marine sponsored this contest and donated the prizes. For every $50 bond sold, an employee received a chance of winning one of three prizes.

Miss Phyllis Ferguson made the first draw, the prize of a $50 Victory Bond being won by Walter Kelly.

Mr. Kelly drew the ticket for the second draw, the prize, a $35 War Savings Certificate being won by Mrs. E. M. Craig.

Mrs. Craig then made the draw for the third prize, a $15 War Savings Certificate, which was won by J. W. Madden.

W. A. Reid, on behalf of the National War Finance Committee presented the "three-star" V flag to Mr. Hugh M. Campbell, general manager of the Outboard Marine. Mr. Campbell in his remarks of acceptance, said how proud he was to receive this flag on behalf of the employees. He congratulated his fellow workers, with special congratulations to the department salesmen, Clarence Neal, J. W. Madden, H. J. White, Bruce Payne, W. Swiss, L. L. Maguire, Walter Perry and Robert Gibbons who did such a fine job of putting the Victory Loan drive over.

Thomas McMillan, president of the shop union, received the flag from Mr. Campbell and expressed his pride in being able to participate in the Victory Loan. He also expressed his appreciation on behalf of his fellow-workers to the management for their very kind co-operation.

While the strains of "O Canada" were being played by the band, the Union Jack followed by the coveted "V" flag with its stars, was slowly raised.

Following the raising of the flag sincere appreciation was paid to the members of the band and Albert Croasdale by Mr. Neal after which the service closed with the playing of God Save the King.

No Concessions Given Strikers

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que., Nov. 8 — (CP). — American Federation of Labor members, involved in a dispute with the Aluminum Company of Canada here, continued reporting back for work this morning with the assurance of the union organizers that a Provincial Conciliation Board would be set up here sometime to-day to commence investigation of working conditions.

Company officials said the men were being taken back at a rate coinciding with the slow process of unfreezing pots — cold for more than two weeks as a result of the partial walkout that slowed production at the big war plants.

Paul Fournier, A.F.L. organizer, told the strikers at a Saturday night meeting that the strike was ended and they should report back for work. He then announced he had been assured by the Provincial Government that a Conciliation Board would be set up, under supervision of the Regional War Labor Board, to investigate working conditions here. He added the Board would probably meet here to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday.

The company, announcing the end of the strike, said that no concessions had been granted.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.

To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Minister Warns PavmentNeeded To Keep Peace

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8 (ENS) —Not since the cenotaph was built have such a large number of Campbellford people gathered for a Remembrance Day service as did Sunday afternoon when citizens paid their fourth wartime tribute to those who had given their lives for freedom.

It was an impressive service highlighted by an address from Major N. Clark Wallace of Toronto who delivered a powerful message in which he denounced the pacifists and those who had preached disarmament. Contributing to the success of the service was the ideal weather, which brought out a record crowd, most of whom were already on hand as the parade headed by the R.C.A.F. band from Trenton, member of 'B' Company, Midland Regiment (RF), the Legion and high school cadets, reached the Cenotaph.

The program, arranged by the local Ministerial Association in co-operation with the Legion, was designed to memorialize all those from Campbellford, Warkworth and the townships of Seymour and Percy who had fallen in World Wars 1 and 2. Following the placing of wreaths on the Cenotaph, Major J. M. Bygott, president of the Legion, read the names of those from the district who had already paid the supreme in the present war: Mac Atkinson, Charles Dunn, Harold Taylor, Arthur Rowe, Charles Buchner, Eric Ingram, Aylmer Haig, C. M. Goudy, D.F.M., Willis Greaves, Francis Oliver, John Baker, George Armstrong, William Runions; and the names as well of two who have been reported missing, Eric Douglas and Douglas Milne.

Kingdom For Valiant

The speaker of the day was introduced by Mayor F. F. Long, who recalled that Major Wallace was a former rector of Christ Church here and was a veteran of World War I who had been invalided home after two years of service in World War II. Taking his text from Matthew 11: 12, "and from the days of John the Baptist until now the Kingdom of Heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force," the speaker said these words meant the Kingdom of Heaven was for the valiant. The Empire also paid its highest tribute for valor and this took the form of the Victoria Cross which was the highest award a soldier could win. On this cross were just two words, "For Valour" and "so I say to you the Kingdom of God belongs to the valiant." The reason Christ had not said the Kingdom belonged to the virtuous was because a coward can still be virtuous and a man can be virtuous merely because he is afraid of the policeman or for fear of public opinion.

"The valiant may not be just as holy and righteous as they should be, but they have got something. They were no cowards," he said, referring to the men of Dieppe, "but they did know the meaning of the word valiant. We pay our lip tribute to these men, but there is a greater tribute we can pay and that is in our lives.

Must Pay Price

"Looking back I remember the services we held during the years of peace, and how long we were warned of the kind of sacrifice we had to make. I cannot help feeling we didn't remember those men as we should. We paid a sincere tribute but there is a service we must pay in the future, and if we don't we will have to pay it again in another twenty years with a war.

"It is unfortunate that we have a nation in the world like the Germans, and it is useless to suggest that they are the same as ourselves—a civilized people. Do we want to go on paying this sacrifice? I think the price is too great. The price we should pay is the determination that this shall not happen again, and the only way to pay that price, as I see it, is by a strong and united British Empire, armed to the teeth. It will cost a lot of money, but what is that compared to the lives of young manhood." The speaker declared the pacificists and disarmament crowd should never again be listened to, "for they are the ones that brought about this war and sent us forth unarmed to meet a foe that was armed to the teeth."

The service was concluded by the sounding of the Last Post and Reveille followed by two minutes silence. Others assisting with the service were Rev. G. N. Maxwell, Rev. Donald McKay, Rev. J. O. Ralston and Captain Alex. Turnbull.

Two Cars Collide

COBOURG, Nov. 8 — (ENS). — Earl MacMillan and Ross Russell of Cobourg were cut and shaken up in a week-end accident when their car collided with the rear of a parked truck near the corner of Division and Havelock Streets. The accident happened at 10:45 p.m. during a rainstorm. MacMillan was driving the car at the time and the truck is owned by Henry McIvor. Constable E. Houghton investigated.

Farm Produce Prices Remain At Same Level

Prices were generally unchanged from the preceding week on the farm produce market Saturday. Eggs ranged from 45 cents for pullet size up to 50 and 55 cents a dozen. Butter was 40 cents with only a light offering, and chickens held at 35 cents a pound until about noon, when some of them gradually eased down to 30 cents. Demand was active.

Potatoes remained at $1.75 to $2 a bag. Outdoors also onions sold at $2.75 a bag and turnips $1 a bushel. Herb Doig quoted carrots and beets at $1.25 a bushel and parsnips $1.50.

Cabbages were $1 a dozen, and cauliflower 10 cents and 15 cents.

COBOURG

Northumberland Fails To Meet Loan Objective

COBOURG, Nov. 8—(ENS)— For the first time, Northumberland County failed to make its objective in the Victory Loan campaign which closed Saturday evening. The objective was $1,700,000 and the total subscribed was $125,000 short, or a total of $1,575,000. Last year the objective was $1,575,000 and $1,680,450 was subscribed. Although some $330,000 came in on the last day of the campaign, it was not sufficient to put the county over.

The town of Cobourg, which had a race on with Port Hope to see which town went over the top by the largest amount, didn't make its own objective. Cobourg subscribed $369,100 or 73.82 of its half million objective. Port Hope subscribed 106 per cent.

Although totals for the individual municipalities were not available Saturday night, at least five went over the top. The figures for the municipalities up until six p.m. Saturday, which do not give a complete picture of the county are as follows: Cobourg, $369,100—73.82%; Hamilton Township, $115,300—65.89%; South Monaghan Township, $40,750—101.78%; Haldimand Township, $77,550—77.55%; Alnwick Township, $31,950—91.28%; Percy Township, $97,600—88.7%; Cramahe Township, $36,000—60.0%; Hastings, $46,600—103.5%; Colborne, $78.200—111.7%; Brighton Township, $59,200—98.6%; Brighton Village—$167,000—133.6%; Murray Township, $53,400—66.7%; Campbellford, $134,100—76.6%; Seymour Township, $85,100—68.0%; total canvass, $1,382,850—81.3%.

Lack Of Wiring Hinders Electric Stove

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8 — (ENS).— Only obstacle to having an electric stove, donated by a member of the congregation, instilled at Burnbrae Presbyterian church, is additional wiring it will necessitate. This was revealed at November meeting of Burnbrae Ladies' Aid this week, when members extolled the advantages it would offer when placed in the basement of the church.

The president, Mrs. Clayton Wallace, called on Mrs. Murray to give a report on the pie social and play held October 27. Mrs. Murray revealed net proceeds would approximate $65. A brief program was enjoyed and this included readings by Miss Leila Linn, Miss Hazel MacKenzie and Miss Clara Thain, and a piano solo from Mrs. E. C. Pollock.

For the W.M.S. meeting held earlier in the afternoon Mrs. William Hutcheon was in charge and a feature of this was the devotional message by Mrs. Donald McKay while readings were given by Miss Edna Wallace, Mrs. Leo Fry and Mrs. William Hutcheon. It was decided to hold the annual meeting December 2.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JOHN MOFFATT.

MARMORA, Nov. 8.— (ENS).— After a long illness Mrs. John Moffatt passed away at her home in Marmora township early Sunday morning.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hunt and spent her whole life in this community. She was of a genial disposition and will be remembered for her industrious nature and neighbourly ways. Surviving are her husband and five children, Harry, Picton; Gordon, Norwood; Wilbert, Marmora; Mrs. David McCoy, Norwood; and Mrs. Leslie Pack, Malone.

The funeral takes place Tuesday, leaving her late residence at 1 p.m. for service at Zion United church, which will be conducted by Rev. L. C. Ball, of the Free Methodist church. Interment will follow in Zion cemetery.

MISS HELEN McWILLIAMS

MARMORA, Nov. 8 — (ENS).— The death occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Eggleton on Sunday morning of Helen McWilliams, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles McWilliams.

Although spending most of her life in her native village, she had in recent years resided in turn at Toronto and St. Thomas. She was of a friendly nature and had a large circle of friends who will mourn her passing. She was a member of the Anglican Church.

Surviving are three sisters, Susan, Toronto; Mrs. Arthur Eggleton, Marmora; and Mrs. Roy Snell, St. Thomas; and two brothers, Walter of Rochester, and Harry of Marmora.

The funeral takes place Wednesday leaving the residence of her sister Mrs. A. Eggleton for service at St. Paul's Church at 2:30 p.m. which will be conducted by Rev. A. B. Caldwell. Interment will take place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

New Meeting Place

BEWDLEY, Nov. 8 — (ENS). — The regular meeting of the Red Cross was held last week with nineteen ladies present. This was the last meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Goss for this season and in appreciation she was presented with 2 cups and saucers. Mrs. G. Byers made the presentation from the War Workers and Mrs. P. Stalter, vice-president, made the thanks. Next week the group move back to their winter quarters at Rice Lake Inn. The thirteen Christmas boxes were sent several weeks ago to members of the armed forces overseas.

Allies Resume Heavy Raids

LONDON, Nov. 8. — (CP).—Formations of Allied aircraft roared out across the English channel today to continue an offensive which American heavy bombers maintained yesterday by carrying out their raid on Germany in five days and theier first without the loss of a single bomber.

Coastal observers said the daylight attacking forces appeared to be composed chiefly of medium bombers, which have been used largely for hitting at Nazi airfields and other military targets in France and the low countries.

The bombers were accompanied by swarms of fighter planes.

The daylight offensive followed night attacks by the R.A.F.'s speedy Mosquito bombers on objectives in western Germany, a bombing of Abbeville airfield in France by intruder patrols, and minelaying operations.

The Air Ministry said one bomber and one fighter were lost in the nocturnal forays.

COBOURG

3 Peterborough Boys Arrested By Police

COBOURG, Nov. 8 — (ENS) — Three Peterborough youths were locked up on Saturday afternoon on charges laid by Chief Gordon Hardy of Port Hope. Edward Freeman and John E. Dugan are charged with vagrancy and Paul E. Imming is charged with being found in possession of a revolver for which he had no permit. Freeman was released on $200 bail Sunday afternoon.

The trio was picked up at three o'clock Saturday morning in Port Hope by Constables J. Scott and J. Oliver, who found their actions suspicious and brought them in for questioning. When they were taken to the police office, the revolver was found on Imming, it is stated. The boys are all around 18 years of age. They will come up in court on Thursday.

Bright Horizon For C.W.A.C. Stenographers

Post War Security Seen In Wartime Training

One of the first questions a girls asks herself when contemplating enlistment in the Canadian Women's Army Corps is, "What security does the service offer for my employment in the post war years?" The answer, and it's the the best kind of an answer, is to be found in any Recruiting Station of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

To the girl with experience in Stenography the C.W.A.C. offers literally hundreds of important posts. These may range from orderly room work which is similar to general office work in civilian life, to an important post as the confidential secretary to a colonel. In every one of these capacities the girl is doing the work she joined up for—releaasing a soldier to proceed on the even more important job of fighting.

To this girl her army experiences, contacts, travel and wider horizons will bring, after the war a greater chance for advancement to a higher paid civilian job than to the same girl without her army experience. The fair discipline, healthy life and the sparkle of adventure will set her above those who have not had these things as a "CWAC."

To the girl with less experience and a limited ability in typing and stenography the Canadian Women's Army Corps offers excellent training in these subjects.

In the army as in civilian life the girl who wants to learn will advance. If you are chosen for a Clerk's course after your basic training which, by the way, every girl labels as "the most fun in four weeks she has ever had," you will receive instruction in typing and stenography which will enable you to take a vital job in the army and will give you a "nest egg" that will place you in a better paying job after the war.

To these girls the Army appeals to put their abilities in the smart C.W.A.C. uniform and be part of the grand Corps that is helping our boys all over the world to brin~ Victory nearer.

Besides stenographers and typists nearly fifty other posts are in need of CWAC's to fill them. So, if you prefer another kind of work, don't let this stop you from getting all the information about the Canadian Women's Army Corps from the Mobile Recruiting Unit which will be in town shortly.

Every post in the C.W.A.C. is a vital one—if you fill it — a soldier will be released for duty on the line. You'll look well in Khaki.

Eisenhower Calls For More Pressure

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algires, Nov. 8 — (AP). — Declaring that Germany's "utter defeat —even if not yet definitely in sight—is certain," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called today for a redoubled effort and intensification of "the fury of our blows."

The Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean, in a message marking the anniversary of the North African landings on November 8, 1942, asserted that the battle was being carried "daily closer to the vitals of the enemy" in Europe and forecast that "victory will likewise be ours in the far-off Pacific."

The message, addressed to American military and civil forces in this theatre praised "the gallant and powerful Russian army pounding the European enemy on the east" and similarly lauded "unconquerable China" defying "one of the most powerful and vicious of our enemies."

A similar message was sent to British Mediterranean forces.

"My brothers joined up

...I felt I should too!"

"I USED to get a kick out of just being a home girl. While others sought jobs and careers, I enjoyed helping out at home.

"I know the home is still important ... but other things are far more so today. Boys we love are fighting to preserve those things. That's why, when my brothers joined up ... I felt I should too."

That's the way every patriotic Canadian girl should think ... and act ... today! There is important Air Force work, that you can do, waiting to be done. No other work is so essential. Make up your mind ... enlist today! Release another flying fighter.

Visit your nearest recruiting centre today, or telephone and a Women's Division officer will gladly call at your home and give you complete information.

Observing Education Week

The most important fact to be remembered during Education Week this year is, in our opinion, that we have a new Minister of Education in Ontario. The Hon. George Drew has chosen to combine this ministry with his work as Premier, and he has already made a number of public pronouncements which show us where he stands on the broad question of education. Discipline and the development of character he puts first; the acquirement of special skills comes afterward.

The Examiner has already expressed its agreement with this point of view. Whatever a man may know, or whatever special task he may be fitted to perform, he is only educated in the true sense if he understands himself and can control himself, and if he possesses integrity of spirit. Character comes first. A man of character is able to estimate his shortcomings and rectify them, within reason; if he finds that he lacks book-learning, he can acquire it, and he knows what book-learning he really wants. But a man of inferior character, however much book-learning he may possess, will never be able to realize the best that is within him.

Character cannot be instilled into children at school. It is a product of home training, for the most part. But a good school can give opportunities for the development of character, and it can do this best within the framework of a reasonable, flexible, but well-considered discipline. How to live and work with other people, how to accept success and failure, how to do the best with the material at hand—these are all things which can be learned in a good school if the home training has been good also.

We have already said that we thought that Premier Drew acted wisely in taking the portfolio of education as his special care. He is a man of character, excellent education, and broad culture. His administration of the Department of Education will be watched with deep interest and, we predict, with approval by every friend of education.

"Utility" Versus "Chic"

We have the strongest detestation of people who want to take the joy out of life, impose restrictions on others "for their own good", and in general be their brother's keeper. There are always a great many such people, and they have to be dealt with vigorously, for they have the vitality and cheek of all pests. We are not surprised to find the C.C.F., which began as a political party, making tentative moves toward a killjoy crusade. The attitude of that party toward the majority of Canadian citizens is punitive and admonitory, and its zeal has risen so high that some of it has spilled out of the political jug.

A little book has come to hand written by Professor Frank Scott and David Lewis, the national chairman and national secretary of the C.C.F. respectively; the book, which is called Make This Your Canada, is not an official C.C.F. publication, but it contains a few dreams which the C.C.F. would like to make true.

One of these annoying visions concerns clothes for women. Before the war, say the evangelists, "A tremendous amount of waste was incurred by numerous manipulations of styles and products which added nothing to the utility of the article, but which, on the contrary, often misled an unsuspecting public". But, they continue, the war came and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board put an end to all that nonsense. "Today prices are fixed, styles are supervised, and utility products are gradually replacing crazy competition in senseless styles."

Much of what passes for fashion is folly, but what right has anyone to deny us our follies, if we want them? How many women, when they are buying their clothes, look first of all for "utility"? Useful clothes must be bought, but most women contrive to own a frock or two which is not primarily remarkable for its durability. They want to look as attractive as they can and it is their right to do so by any means they choose.

May Heaven defend us from any political creed which makes a fetish of "utility". There is only one social system which exalts "utility" above everything else, and that has been developed by the ants. If ants get any fun out of living, or achieve anything above annoying their betters, we have never observed it.

Styles In Prudery

Mr. Hector Charlesworth, in a recent interesting article on the drama of the last century, remarks in passing that Queen Victoria was not such a prude as some modern writers would have us believe. Anyone who makes a study of the life of the great Queen, and reads her published letters, will discover that she was remarkably broad-minded in several surprising directions. Every age has its own style of prudery, and the age of Victoria was no more prudish, in its way, than our own time.

Prudery is rarely found at the extremes of society. The privileged and the wealthy are not usually affected by it, and neither are the poor and the free. It is the great middle class, which neither aspires very high nor sinks very low, which builds up the characteristic body of inhibitions of a period in history. Concerned about the acquirement and retention of material possessions, the good opinion of the neighbours, and "safety" above everything else, the middle class accepts whatever prejudices it needs to protect itself. Sometimes these prejudices are based on good sense; sometimes they are mere folly. The Victorian prejudice against mentioning legs in mixed company was silly; but was it any more silly than our modern preoccupation with what we call "personal daintiness"? The Victorians ate and drank copiously, and it did not seem to harm them; how many good laughs will posterity have over our fear of not mixing our protein and our carbohydrates in the right proportion when we sit down at the table?

The Victorian era is now far enough away in time for us to see it in its proper proportions. Victorian prudery was a trifling foible in a great era; our own prudery is just as great and just as silly. The fashion has changed, and that is all.

What Are a Housewife's Wages?

A British court has handed down a decision that a woman may be compelled by law to give back to her husband any money which is left over when the needs of the housekeeping are met. An organization of British housewives plans to march to the House of Commons to protest this decision. We wish them luck.

A housewife does a vast amount of necessary work, and she should have some recompense beyond her food and lodging. In happy homes she is paid not only in the affection of her husband and children, but in an allowance representing a fair share of the family income; that is hers, to be used for clothing and whatever else she may want. But in unhappy homes the housewife may drudge seven days a week and still be obliged to beg for every penny she spends. And let no one imagine that this happens only in the homes of the poor; many a woman whose husband is in easy circumstances occupies this utterly dependent and humiliating position. Her clothes, her small luxuries and her pleasures all depend on how much money she can wheedle out of her husband. Often this situation comes about because in the early years of marriage the husband is indulgent and pays up with a good grace; as time wears on, however, he becomes more fond of his money and less fond of his wife, and she finds that she has no established right to any money to call her own.

A good wife, as we know from antiquity, is a pearl beyond price, and even a mediocre wife is worth something. If we may presume to offer some practical advice to young women about to marry, it is this: Make an arrangement with your husband during the first week of your marriage that you are to have money not merely to feed him and keep his house, but for your own use; and make sure that the sum is a respectable, but not extortionate proportion of what he earns. As his income rises, make sure that yours rises also, and be sure to save some of your money; in that way you will maintain a decent independence of your husband, and will ensure that he will never make a beggar of you. And, having fixed the sum that you are to have, do not ask him for any more, however much you may want it. The less matters of money have to be discussed between you, the happier your marriage is likely to be. Never let yourself be reduced to cheating on the household expenses in order to get a few dollars for yourself.

Strikes in the coal mines convince us that the much discussed use of electricity for domestic heating will be a grand thing. A waterfall never strikes.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

NOW that rain has made the land workable, I am sure that farmers are busy everywhere with fall ploughing. There is still time enough to get a good deal done though it would have been much better done a month or six weeks ago. English farmers will tell you that two furroughs in September are better than four in November, and while there is quite a difference in climatic conditions in the Old Land from ours in Canada, I am sure that in fall ploughing it is the early bird that gets the worm. They are seeding winter oats and winter barley in Britain more than ever these years and early work on the land tells in that seeding. It looks as though winter barley will be useful here but we must try out varieties and develop new ones before we can move with safety in these crops that are new to Canada.

Fall wheat in this province looked rather wretched before the rains came, and it is to be hoped it picked up more than might be expected. The grass got a great help and seeded fields will go into winter in pretty fair shape. We can still stand some more rain, thou h for a couple of days it came down very steadily, but it had a firm crust to loosen up and some more soaking will help.

WITH the experiences of the past season still in our minds it may not be so important as usual to issue a warning about surface drainage. It must be kept in mind, however, and all our fall ploughed fields should have water furroughs, and open drains from low spots to carry off surplus water. Ponds of water standing on fields are a positive injury to next year's crops which we should not allow. It is fine to have the land full of moisture but stagnant pools are a menace and must not be allowed to injure the much needed 1944 crops. We cannot count on a dry spring next year because of the excessive rains of the past spring months. We must prepare for unfavourable conditions and so meet them if they do come, with plans which will provide for the best possible crop in 1944. Whether or not our triumph over Hitler comes in the next year, there is no doubt that the crop of the approaching year will be one of the most important we have ever produced in Canada, and our best efforts in sound farming practice will be called upon, as never before, in order that Canada shall do her full duty for the victory to come.

ONE of the most astonishing requests since the war began was that recently reported in the press that Ontario's Minister of Agriculture was requesting the ban on the shipment of Canadian pigs to the United States should be lifted. This could only mean one thing, if it was done, and that would be a reduction in the Canadian bacon shipments to Britain and Canadian soldiers overseas, and the selling of pigs in the United States instead. There is no doubt, however, that it will not be done. The Canadian Government, in spite of such requests, will stand behind our Canadian and Briitsh soldiers with the fullest possible supply of our bacon. It is astonishing that even one public man in Canada should make such a request. There are, however, eight other Provincial Ministers of Agriculture and not another one has come forward to support such a proposal.

The British and Canadian soldiers overseas need bacon, as it is one of the best forms of food for soldiers, and the people on our farms will not let them down. This was proposed for profit in selling bacon but Ontario farmers have not yet reached the stage where they will support such a depicable proposal.

The Federal Government will make the best possible proposals with respect to prices for bacon and the farmers will do the job. The Western provinces have done fine service in the supply of bacon, and this year the Ontario farmer has been handicapped by a bad year and will do his best, but I feel sure that no person, unless the one man who has spoken, wants our pigs to go across the line looking for a better price. I hope that farmers in other provinces of Canada will not think that farmers in Ontario are anxious to substitute a market in the U.S. for our pigs rather than a market in our own fighting zone. Winning the war is Canada's business now and soldiers can fight better if well fed—on Canadian bacon.

SOMETHING over 125,000,000 bushels of feed grains have been sold by Canada to the United States in the year 1943, up to date, and there will be a good many more bushels go across before the year is out. The Canadian Prairies have made a fine contribution in feed for meat animals so essentials to the maintenance of an army in the field to defeat the Huns.

A GOOD many farmers may have laid by their potatoes for winter, but there can be no doubt about the necessity this year for conserving all of our potato crop. This was not a good year for tubers and it is important that what we have should be saved. Unless you have first class storage it is best to pit the potatoes for over winter. They will be well aired by this time and should go into pits in good condition. It is well to picked them overcarefully so that none with evidence of disease or decay may be stored.

A potato pit should be placed high and dry and drainage arranged to take care of any surface water which might gather. The covering of straw should be dry and good long straw is best. The covering of earth must be gauged by yourself and a little ventilation allowed at the top. As the winter tightens a further covering of straw manure from the horse barn will make a good covering.

WHEN potatoes became very scarce in Ontario last spring, a good few carloads of potatoes were shipped east from Saskatchewan. These arrived in good condition and gave evidence of being well saved in carefully made pits. These potatoes seemed to have been pitted as they were harvested and were not picked over, or graded before being put up for winter. This was a mistake as the small potatoes, in the lot, might have been better used for pig fed, or feeding cattle in the autumn. The potatoes from Saskatchewan, however, made a good impression in Ontario, people relished them, and many learned that the production of different kinds of food is very widespread over Canada.

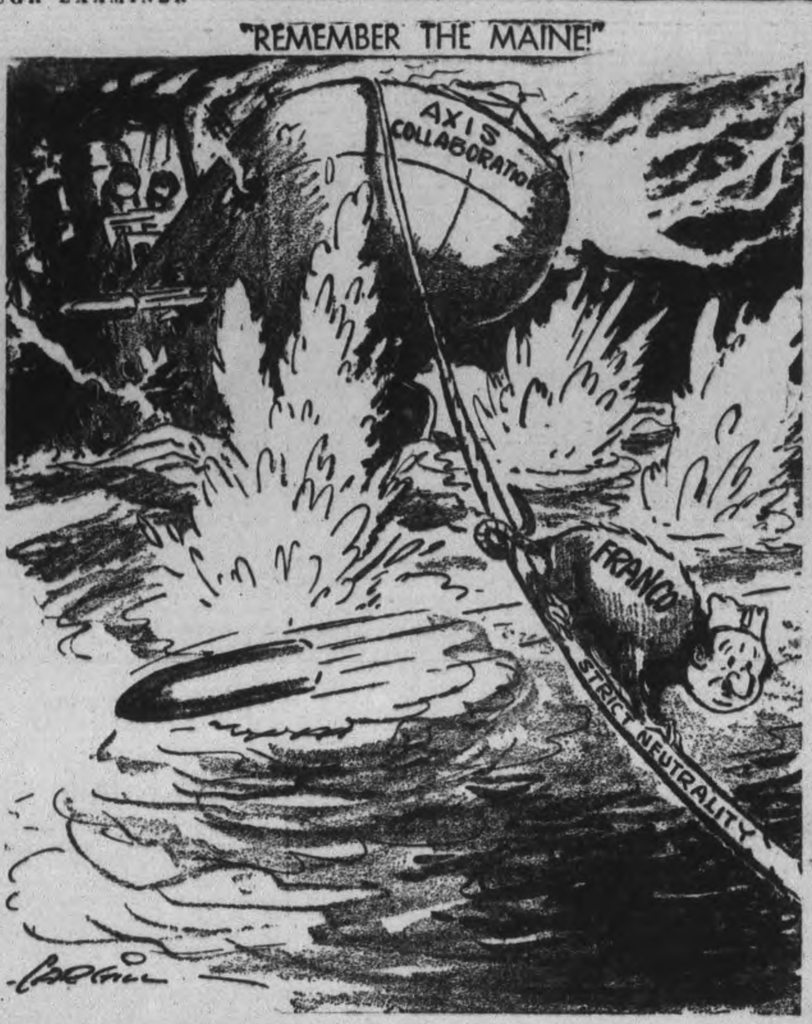
NONE AT THAT END

A society matron, visiting a farm in her new W.A.A.F. uniform, and feeling very patriotic, coldly eyed a young farmer, busy milking a cow.

"And how it is, my good man, that you are not at the front?"

The farmer took a straw out of his mouth, spat and replied:

"Because, mam, there ain't no milk at that end!"



America's First Literature

EIGHTEEN months after the first colonists had anchored their boats in the James River, the first English book written in America was in print. That book—a True Relation of such occurrences and accidents of noate as hath hapned in Virginia since the first planting of that Collony, which is now resident in the South part thereof, till the last returns from thence—may be considered a piece of "American" literature only by straining the term. Its very title is Elizabethan. Read the book and you will recognize the true gusto of Elizabethan prose. It is just the kind of travel literature that Elizabethan sea-captains and explorers sent home to advertise their new colonies. Moreover, Captain John Smith dispatched his book to London to be printed, and it was intended for English readers. But this book, with its long title and its strange contents, was the opening chapter in the three-hundred-year story of American literature.

It is well to recall what has happened in those three centuries. When John Smith wrote "A True Relation," the London stage was awaiting new plays by Shakespeare. The King James Bible was in preparation. Elizabeth had been dead only four years; Milton was not yet born. Colonial America at its foundation was merely an outpost of Elizabethan England. What a change in three centuries! In 1600, there was no such thing as English-speaking America. In 1700, twelve British colonies were strung along the Atlantic coast. In 1800, there was no British colony from Maine to the Gulf, and a federation of states was playing awkwardly with its new independence. In 1900, the United States were powerful among the nations of the world.

These changes are largely political, and, as such, are much more definite and less complex than the development of American literature which we are to consider. American literature is an expression of the American mind. The American mind is a very elusive thing, and, indeed, exists in different form in every American. But in the history of American literature we may discern three periods or states of mind which we may isolate by drawing light chronological lines. From the beginning until early in the nineteenth century, we set apart the literature and the exceedingly complex thought currents it represents as the work of the Colonial Mind. From about 1830 until about 1870 the romantic movement was at its height in America. After 1870, senescent romanticism fell into convention, and there was an advance of realism which has continued through the early decades of the twentieth century.

Among the factors that went into the development of the Colonial Mind there are three natural divisions: what America contributed, what Europe contributed, and what grew as a resultant of these forces. America furnished a geography. Europe sent people and ideas — Puritanism, with its corollaries of determinism, mysticism, and theocracy; the English view of man's natural rights; the doctrine of practical acquisition, laissez faire; and the French romantic doctrine of man's natural goodness. And of the forces which grew from an interaction of the others, no influence has been more important than that peculiar state of mind (it is a state of mind rather than a geographical line) which we call the frontier. — From "American Poetry and Prose," edited by Norman Foerster. DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

WHAT are women going to be and do after the war? Are they going to be willing to exchange their brass buttons and snappy uniforms for bungalow aprons? Are they going to get more kick out of pushing perambulators and listening to the baby say goo-goo than they did out of the excitement of working in crowds and going places and doing things! Are they going to like to give up their own fat pocketbooks and go back to chiseling carfare out of husbands who ask them "what did you do with that quarter I gave you week before last?"

It is anybody's guess. No political prophet, no seer, no crystal-gazer can foretell what is going to happen when the unpredictable sex is called upon to adjust itself to the ways of peace, and whether, when Johnny comes marching home, he will find the Mrs. performing upon the gas range, or being a boss carpenter.

WOMEN GET NEW VIEWPOINT

THE only thing we know for certain is that the war has changed the whole status of women and given them a new viewpoint on life. They have found out that they have strength that they never dreamed that they possessed; that they have latent talents that they never suspected they had concealed about their persons; that the brains that enabled them to work out a perforated paper pattern made deciphering a blue print child's play to them.

And the question is, in the light of that knowledge, after having been independent personages, standing on their own feet and with the government clamoring for their help, are they going to be satisfied to be just the Little Woman at home?

Of course, there are millions of women who are domestic by nature. No sphere of activity is so appealing to them as the kitchen. The smell of a pot roast cooking is incense in their nostrils. The baby's howls are music to their ears. All their ambition centers around possessing a husband, children and a bungalow.

These women will go back to making homes, but even in following their predestined careers they will not be so content as their mothers and grandmothers were. They have earned their own money. They have been financially independent. And no woman who has ever toted her own pocketbook ever enjoys rattling a tin cup before her husband.

BUSINESS GIRLS MISS WEEKLY PAY ENVELOPE

WE see this illustrated in the cases of the business girls who give up their jobs when they marry. By the time the honeymoon has begun to pale and they have gotten their ruffled curtains up they are beginning to think, yearningly and regretfully, of the Saturday pay envelope that they could spend as they pleased, and to reflect that working for their board and keep isn't what it is cracked up to be.

To a certain extent the problem of domestic woman settles itself. She will get her man and her vine-wreathed cottage, and life will follow its pre-war pattern with her and her husband and children. But there are millions of other women who are no more born housewives than all men are born lawyers, or doctors, or bricklayers. A huge percentage of the feminine sex are allergic to vacuum cleaners and aluminum ware and pushing perambulators and running a budget, and to these women the war has opened up a new Heaven and a new earth.

Patriotism has furnished them with an alibi for forsaking their homes for defense plants and turning their children out to shift for themselves, while they made precision tools for the army. They have gotten a thrill out of working in crowds. They have enjoyed doing the kind of work they liked, instead of the tasks, that bored them. They have gone drunk over their new found liberty, and over earning wages that seem fabulous to them. For the first time in their lives they do not have to count the cost of anything. They can buy the finery they have always craved and could never have, and they have gone on an orgy of spending.

INDUSTRY WILL ABSORB MANY WOMEN

TO believe that these women will ever be content to go back to pinching pennies and to cooking and washing and scrubbing and baby-tending is simply wishful thinking. They never will unless they are driven to it by necessity. That may happen, for with the ending of the war the cushy jobs in the defense plants will also be ended, and what this vast army of women is to do, will be one of the worst post-war headaches.

My guess is that somehow, some way, they will be absorbed into industry, for the skill, the discipline and business training they have gotten, will make them more valuable than they have ever been before. They will still marry and have children, for the human equation will never alter, but the pattern of domestic life will be changed. Women will not try to do both the work of a man and a woman. They will not toil all day in a factory or office and then cook the family meals and do the family laundry. Some communal system of housing and eating will be inaugurated. The children will be turned over to baby specialists to be reared.

Perhaps those of us now living are seeking the last of old-fashioned homes and to another generation home cooking will be as much of a legend as feasting on nightingales' tongues.

A Bible Message

Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches....And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years....Jesus saith unto him, Rise take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath...

Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee. (John 5: 2, 5, 8, 9, 14.)

That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ....

If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. (I John 1: 3, 9.)

My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not....I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth....

Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father. (I John 2: 1, 21, 24.)

Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous....Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God. (I John 3: 7, 9.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A couple of aviators had been shot down and were floating around the Pacific in their rubber boat when a Jap submarine surfaced and its crew called on the aviators to surrender.

The flyers held a whispered conference.

"That's the stuff," said one to the other. "Let 'em think we're giving up. Then, when they get close—we'll ram 'em."

We pass on the story of the correspondent's daughter who landed a Government job in Washington. Her first day on duty, she handled an incoming phone call. "Is Colonel So-and-so there?" the voice asked. The girl covered the receiver with her hand and asked her superior. "Colonel So-and-so has gone to the United Kingdom," she was informed. "I'm sorry," she said to the caller with gentle dignity, "but Colonel So-and-so is dead."

A WAC was strolling through a lovely part of the country. There were pretty trees, a beautiful lake and no one around for as far as the WAC could see. This gorgeous pastoral setting delighted her and she decided to go in for a swim. She carefully placed her uniform on the ground and went in swimming.

As she emerged from the water, she noticed a lieutenant walking jauntily down the road. Not having time to dress, the WAC decided to hide behind a tree until the lieutenant passed. The lieutenant approached, stopped, shouted "Camouflage company number one dismissed," and all the trees marched off.

Peterborough Couple Wed In Trent River Church

Trent River United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when Jerrine Isobel, youngest daughter of Mrs. W. T. Brown of Peterborough became the bride of Ernest Elwood Ward, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Ward, London street. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson officiated. Miss Ruby Preston played the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Doris Waters, who sang "I Love You Truly," before the bride entered, and "Oh Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, and wore a gown of white satin, with a tight fitting bodice, sweetheart neckline, full skirt and long train. Her long veil was held with a crown of flowers and she carried a bouquet of mums and red roses. Her only ornament was a gold wristband, the gift of the groom.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Eldon Preston, was matron of honor. She wore a frock of pink sheer, with matching hat, and carried a bouquet of 'mums and pink roses. Little Marina Morton, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore a long blue satin frock, with a Peter Pan collar and streamers of pink. She carried a nosegay of baby 'mums.

Mr. Eldon Preston was best man and the ushers were Guy Pettersonne and Gordon McCulloch. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. Preston, where the bride's mother received in a frock of black wool crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, who also received wore a moss green dress, trimmed with gold embroidery, a matching hat and black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Friends of the bride assisted with the lunch. They were, Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, and Miss Ila Free, Audrey Brown, Florence Shearer, Ruth Waters and Reta Glenn.

The groom's gift to the attendants were book-ends, to the matron of honor; a gold tie set to the best man; a bracelet to the flower girl, china vase set to the vocalist and organist and billfolds to the ushers.

Later the young couple left for Toronto and points west. For travelling the bride chose a moss green wool dress with matching accessories, and a lustra-shag coat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ward will live in Peterborough.

HASTINGS

Mary M. Butler Becomes Bride Of W. F. Walsh

HASTINGS, Nov. 8—(ENS). — A fall wedding was solemnized in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church Saturday, when Mary Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Butler of Campbellford became the bride of William Francis, son of Mr. R. J. Walsh and the late Mrs. Walsh of Hastings. Rev. Father J. J. Garvey officiated, and the music was played by Mrs. T. J. Pettigrew. During the signing of the register, Mrs. F. Daley sang "Ave Maria." The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece dress of blue wool, with black accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

She was attended by her sister, Helen, who wore a canary wool dress trimmed with black velvet, and black accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses. David Walsh, brother of the groom, was best man, and Pat Butler, Jr. and Arthur Lamey were ushers.

At the reception held at the bride's home, the bride's mother received, wearing a frock of royal blue crepe with black accessories, and corsage of red roses. The groom's sister, who also received, was dressed in crimson velvet with black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

For travelling the bride chose a two-piece mauve wool dress with black accessories and a black chesterfield coat. After a trip to Ottawa and points east, the young couple will live on the groom's farm in Asphodel.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Miss Angella Gorman of Toronto; Miss Eleen Cade of Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. T. J. O'Neill of Peterborough; Miss Reta Butler of Windsor; Mr. A. Dowell, Jr., Detroit, Michigan; Mr. J. Deimling, Detroit, Michigan; Mr. J. Cavanagh of Peterborough.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

For Tuesday, November 9

EXCEPTIONAL opportunity for expansion, production and progress along outstanding and conspicuous lines is presaged by the dominant planetary influences. With ingenuity, originality, daring to swerve far afield from the accepted or long trodden paths, should give surprising acceleration to plans and projects of scope and significance. Public or community benefits might be furthered by aggressive and determined action. However, there might be a tendency to overdo, to smother good judgment or logic and to be prodigal or wasteful with funds, credit, energy and the generosity of friends. Keep poised.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of excellent opportunities for advancing themselves in affairs of large scope, either in connection with private objectives or in public service. This could be accomplished by originality, unusual skill or innovation, and under the substantial patronage of those in influential position. However, a proclivity to reckless, lavish, extravagant and impetuous activities may prove detrimental and forfeit expected assistance. Consider well various angles before taking hazardous plunges or illogical moves.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability, originality and high ambitions, but could be prone to be carried away by excitement, impetuosity or hasty judgments. Under proper restraints it should make fine success in life.

Jeanette Scott Chapter Holds Tea And Sale

A table, tastefuly decorated with shining silver, a bouquet of bronze and white 'mums, lighted with four deep yellow candles, and dominated by two beautiful silver tea urns, was the centre of attraction in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. Saturday afternoon, when the Jeanette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E. sponsored a tea, bazaar and sale of home cooking.

Mrs. J. H. Turner was convener for the project, and Mrs. W. Gordon and Mrs. Fred Hooper received the large number of ladies who attended the tea. Mrs. J. Archibald and Miss Grace Comstock were social conveners, and Mrs. Max. Comstock looked after the tickets.

The display tables, set with vases of pink and red artificial roses, were set up in the library. There was a wide assortment of articles for sale. Knitting boxes, children's overalls, knitted sox, costume jewelery and aprons were to be seen, and these tables were completely sold out before the end of the afternoon.

At the work tables were Mrs. L. Welch, Mrs. G. Gillespie, Mrs. R. Allen and Mrs. J. Thompson. Mrs. J. Richardson, Mrs. A. Drynan, Mrs. G. Eastwood and Mrs. H. Caverley supervised the home cooking tables.

Tea and dainty sandwiches were served from the central table by members of the chapter. Those pouring were: Mrs. R. Honey, Mrs. Gordon Dobbin, Mrs. George Rishor, Miss Margaret Widdess and Mrs. W. Preston. Mrs. E. Spurway and Mrs. R. Nott supervised the servers.

Those serving were: Miss N. Rishor, Miss Aileen Morgan, Mrs. R. Chenoweth, Miss Mary Medd, Miss Isobel Weddell, Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. W. Breyfogle, Mrs. Ward Smith, Mrs. H. Welch, Mrs. J. Davern, Mrs. E. Howard, Mrs. C. Cadd, Miss Bernadine Snider and Miss Katherine Hodgins.

A.Y.P.A. Notes

The weekly meeting of the St. James' Emily A.Y.P.A. was held at the home of Miss Alta Moncrieff. Progressive euchre provided the entertainment of the evening. Mrs. James Davis won the prize for the highest score, and Miss Daisy Magee won the consolation prize. Rev. Pooley closed the meeting with the benediction, and refreshments of sandwiches and tarts were served.

1942 Students Honor Dr. J. Bannister

Dr. J. A. Bannister, retired principal of the Peterborough Normal School. was presented with a pen and pencil set from the class of '42-'43, at a banquet and reunion held at Hooper's Saturday afternoon.

It was the largest reunion in proportion to the number in the class that has ever been held. Three-quarters of the class were there to see the presentation of the lovely gift to their beloved principal. The president of the Alumnae Association, Mr. Lloyd Robertson of Reaboro, made the presentation, and an address was read by Miss Clara Nisbett of Springville, vice-president of the Association.

Dr. Bannister was guest of honor, and the special guests were Mrs. Bannister, Dr. A. J. Madill, Miss O. Johnston and Mr. Q. McKinney, who led the group in a sing-song.

Following the banquet the class visited the Normal School, where a jolly reunion with friends and teachers was thoroughly enjoyed.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I never see economical dishes with eggs—your readers all seem to think they have to stretch meat when they economize. In this one I make one egg serve each person and it seems like plenty. I am not Italian in spite of the two macaroni paste dishes I am giving you here.

Vermicelli and Egg Dish.

Three hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup thin white sauce, 6 slices buttered toast, 3 cups boiled vermicelli or spaghetti. Remove shells from eggs and separate yolks from whites. Chop whites and mix with hot white sauce. Pour over toast. Rub egg yolks through sieve and then sprinkle over sauce. Surround with vermicelli or spaghetti.

Spaghetti and Sauerkraut.

(Must be tried to be appreciated.)

To and one-half cups boiled spaghetti, 2½ cups home-made or canned sauerkraut, 1 cup tomato sauce, 6 slices bacon. Put layer of spaghetti in mottom of buttered baking dish. Add layer of sauerkraut. Repeat, alternating layers until all ingredients are used. Add sauce. Top with bacon. Bake at 400 degrees Fahr. for 20 minutes or until bacon is crisp.

Both of the above dishes are unusual, but I can assure your readers they are good.—"Toots" McA.

Thanks for these two unusual recipes—I like the sauerkraut dish particularly. Come again.

Stuffed Breast of Veal

Here is another way to have your roast and extend it, too!

Veal, like all meats, is best roasted at 325°, fat side up on a rack in an open pan. Allow 40 minutes per pound for this boned roast, 35 to 40 minutes for leg or shoulder. Over 6 lbs. allow about 5 minutes per pound less.

Spread out boned veal (butcher will usually remove bones on request, if meat is not already boned and rolled). Spread meat with stuffing, roll up tightly, skewer and tie firmly. Shape remaining stuffing in small balls . . . for cooking around the roast in final half-hour. Roast the veal as above. Carve in thin slices—a stuffing ball or two for each serving.

DRESSING FOR BREAST OF VEAL

This dressing calls for sausage meat. (Ask for Brookfield sausage whenever it is obtainable). It is well worth while to use this low-coupon meat to extend your tender and succulent Veal Roast.

1 lb. sausage meat
4 cups breadcrumbs
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. sage or other savoury herbs
2 tbsps. chopped onion

Mix ingredients. If moistening is needed, add a little warm water or gravy. Pack in roast. Use remainder for garnish.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. — (AP).— Pigskin post-mortem: By this time the Army folks probably are calling it "the bitter tea of General Leahy"....Two bad that the loss of Angelo Bertelli was (Coach Leahy said) like taking the heart out of a man. Maybe that accounts for the heartless way the Irish kept on scoring after they had the game won....And poor old Duke, losing 32 men from the first squad and only beating North Caroline States 75-0.

Monday Matinee.

The patent model of the Howland catcher's mask, which was an early improvement in the original Thayer mask, has been presented to the baseball hall of fame by Jedge Landis....The Jedge should help complete the collection of famous trophies by presenting one of his hats....New Haven, Conn., is coming into the Eastern United States Hockey League under an arrangement which will have teams playing Sunday afternoon games in New York and night games in New Haven....Frank Sinatra helped get Tami Mauriello ready to lick Lee Savold the other night by crooning in Tami's dressing room before the bout....Well, the mob always complained that Mauriello's weakness was that he couldn't get mad.

Cleaning the Cuff.

Have you heard the one about the customer at a dull fight who yelled: "Either fight or declare yourself an open city?"

TORONTO, Nov. 8. — (CP). — Moose Jaw, which dropped out of Saskatchewan senior hockey last season, is trying a comeback either in senior or intermediate company Vic Myles, who played defence for New York Rangers last season, will be the Moose Jaw playing coach.... Toronto Air Force hockey team is cluttered up with goalkeepers—Johnny Mowers, Duke Scodellaro, Jack Eley, Don Sutherland, Whitey Coupland. Scodellar, former Trail goalie, was with Flyers last season. Eley, a Manitoba product, has been with Hamilton seniors for years. Sutherland is the Owen Sound boy who gave Benny Grant a struggle for the Toronto Leaf goal job. Coupland is from St. Catharines.

Quip of the Week:

Welland-Port Colborne Tribune: "In these days of strange and odd 'moral victory' achievements (such as the feat of the Toronto Maple Leafs in tying St. Catharines) the accomplishment of the New York Rangers in only going down to defeat by a one-goal margin at the hands of Canadiens must stand out."

Sublime Courage:

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle picked Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, Howie Morenz and Milt Schmidt as the three greatest centres of hockey and even named Billy Taylor as better than Syl Apps Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson comments: "Sir Andrew risks life itself by such a brash declaration in a city where Sylvanus is a legend of flaming white greatness....though darned if we don't believe Andrew is right."

Incidentally:

The Portland, Ore., semi-pro hockey team has some well known names—Ronnie Martin, Vic Ripley, Herman Runge, Aubrey Webster, Walt McCartney....well-known Toronto Star sports writers, Ed Fitkin and Gord Walker, are enlisting, Fitkin in the Navy, Walker in the Army....Jack Cain, who had been expected to play defence for Montreal R.C.A.F. Alouettes, has been posted for overseas duty....Jimmy Haggerty, also expected to play with Alouettes, now is taking a navigator's course and will be stationed at Toronto—a break for Joe Primeau's Flyers.

Win 18-0

FREDERICTON — (CP). — The intercollegiate rugby championship of New Brunswick went to University of New Brunswick on Saturday as the result of a crushing 18-0 defeat of Mount Allison University. University of New Brunswick had won 12-3 on the previous Saturday.

Winnipeg Wins

WINNIPEG — (CP) — By the slim margin of the sole point registered in the game Saturday by Ches McCance's kick to the deadline in the final period, Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Hurricanes secured the lead against Regina United Services in the home-and-home points-to-count playoffs for the Western grid title.

Sports - Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Death's call has come in the last few days to two men who played a prominent part in the sporting life of this community in by-gone days and each of whom made a noteworthy contribution. J Percy Bond, for many years associated with hockey in Peterborough and a prominent figure in O.H.A., C.A.H.A. and A.A.U. of C. circles died suddenly at his home here Saturday night and William J. O'Brien, well known in his younger days as a baseball and football player passed away in Toronto Friday. Percy Bond played a big part in Peterborough's hockey history, as a player and an executive. He started his hockey career as a junior in Cobourg and after coming to Peterborough in 1910 played on the defence of Peterborough intermediate and senior O.H.A. teams for a number of seasons, being associated with such players as Maurice Park, Leo Derocher, Charlie Ray, Cyril Giroux, Bud Kelly, Grover Halpin and other equally well known performers. Later he served on the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club, his offices including the post of president of the organization. Nominated to the O.H.A. executive he remained a member until he was honored by election as president of the Ontario body.

* * * * * *

His connections with the O.H.A. and association with other kindred organizations made his name a household one in Canadian sport circles. He was appointed by the O.H.A. as its representative on the executive of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association and he was also a former president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Another honor accorded the Peterborough sportsman was his appointment as a representative of the Ontario Athletic Commission. He attended most of the Dominion sporting conclaves for years and was a familiar figure at those gatherings. Locally he was well known as a golfer winning the Stratton Trophy on a number of occasions and he also captured the golf championship of the Ontario Druggists Association three or four times. Mr. Bond donated the trophy bearing his name that was long emblematic of the girls senior softball championship and that was finally won outright by the Westclox team last season when they finished first for the third year in succession.

A Baseball and Rugby Star

W. J. "Bill" O'Brien will be well remembered by older fans by his connection with baseball and rugby here around 35 years ago. He was a member of the outfield of the St. Peter's T.A.S. ball club which won the championship of the old Midland League as Peterborough's representatives in that strong senior circuit that was the fore-runner of the Central Ontario League. His brother the late Father Michael O'Brien played first base on the same club and Jimmy O'Hearne, former captain of Toronto St. Mary's was at second base with Father "Dutch" Gonter of Texas and St. Michael's College at shortstop and Murphy a Kingston boy at third. The late Gerald McFadden was the catcher of the club and the pitchers were Ab Quinlan, now in St. Catharines, Stan Cresswell, the left-hander who afterward turned professional and Ernie Rahmel, who had just arrived in Peterborough from Cleveland. Bill O'Brien's colleagues in the outfield were Bill Shaw in left field and the writer of this column in right. Incidentally Rahmel and your scribe are the only members of the club now in Peterborough. Bill O'Brien played senior rugby for this city at about the same time, filling the centre half post and doing the kicking for the O.R.F.U. entry from Peterborough.

It looks as if Bill Jackson's R.C.A.F. Hurricanes are grounded for the season as a result of their 4 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Balmy Beach squad Saturday. If the Bammies can tuck away the Navy in their battle Wednesday night they will go on into the playoff sudden death game with the Hamilton Wildcats and the Hurricanes will be through. Doing some Monday morning quarterbacking on that battle Sunday it looks as if the Airmen might have copped the decision with a little smarter staff work. It looks very much as if they erred toward the end of the third period when they had a good chance for a goal from the field and gambled for a touchdown. They got nothing out of that effort. Then when the same situation came up much later in the battle and three points were not enough to win for them they elected to kick and got a field goal when the only thing that could have won for them was a touchdown. Then on the final play of the game when a long kick for a rouge would have saved the situation they sent the injured Freddy Kijek in to do the booting. He had been chilling up on the bench all afternoon and had no chance to do any practice kicking and yet with the game depending on that one effort they took a chance on putting their handicapped kicking ace into the battle. He got away a poor punt and that the Hurricanes' last chance was gone.

New Faces On The Card

Manager Frank Tunney is giving Peterborough wrestling fans a chance tomorrow night to look over two new grapplers, in addition to the expected fireworks in the Gotch-Clayborne brawl. Both the fresh numbers come from across the border. One is Nick Elich, a rotund New Yorker, who is built close to the ground but packs plenty of power, all of which he should need for he is matched with none other than Rowdy Dick Hogan who would belt his grandmother if he thought he could get away with it. The other is Buddy Knox who battles under the interesting ring cognomen of the Cleveland Cleaver and who will try his best wares at the expense of the flashy Montreal Greek, Mike Demetre. The Montrealer has shown plenty of speed and cleverness in recent bouts here but in Knox he is getting one of the toughest opponents he has had to face. Both principals in the main bout are reported in the best of condition, but local fans are hoping that the same report will not be possible in regard to Gotch around 11 o'clock tomorrow night. In other words they want to see the Flying Dutchman get a real working over from Gentleman Jack Clayborne. The Comet will undoubtedly try to oblige but he'll get a lot of opposition at that. Gotch is as tough as he is nasty.

There are still two undefeated clubs in the National Hockey League, Montreal Canadiens and the Detroit Red Wings. The Flying Frenchmen kept their record intact by swamping the Chicago Black Hawks 5 to 1 Sunday night while the Red Wings were slapping down the Boston Bruins 6 to 4 at Detroit. The Rossmen thus suffered their first loss of the season, after giving the Leafs an artistic trimming in Toronto Saturday night. The Toronto gang took some of the sting out of that setback by invading New York Sunday and outscoring the luckless Rangers 7 to 4. It was the fifth straight loss for the Rangers who had been nosed out 4 to 3 by the Black Hawks the previous night.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Mud Bruneteau of the Red Wings is evidently taking his responsibility as captain of the Detroit team seriously. He went out last night and slapped in four goals as the Wings defeated the Bruins 6 to 4....Bill Calladine scored a goal for the Bruins in Toronto Saturday but this first period success was disallowed on the ground that the Bruins had a player in the crease when the Peterborough boy fired....Frankie Boucher had a goal and an assist Saturday night in his comeback try with the Rangers....That would seem to be well under par for the course with the Patrick gang this season....Pick Hines' Navy team hasn't been hitting the pre-season headlines very much but the Sailors evidently have class. They defeated Army Daggers in an exhibition game in Windsor Saturday night 11 to 4. And the Daggers' lineup included Syl Apps, Gordie Drillon, Billy Taylor, Hank Goldup and Buck Jones, all former N.H.L. stars....Bucko McDonald of the Leafs has scored goals in two successive nights which must be a record for the big fellow....His season's total last winter was only six....Lindsay Bears will likely play a return engagement against the Colts here Saturday.

20,000 Attend Ascot Races Money Plentiful

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ASCOT, England, Nov. 8 (CP)— A democratic Ascot which featured champagne and a record "double" dividend to 68 of the 20,000 persons in attendance closed its first wartime racing season with two autumn handicaps—substitutes for the great Cambridgeshire and Cesarewitch of peacetime.

More than 15,000 persons shared a few motor cars, a handful of horse-drawn vehicles, a couple of thousand bicycles and the normal train services. The rest walked.

Unlike the "Posh" Ascot of peacetime—fashion centre of flowered frocks and top-hats—there was no Royal enclosure for members. If a fellow in a peak cap and scarf had the price of admission—$6.75—there were no social barriers.

$960 Double

Money flowed so freely the tote "double" on Ascot's Cambridgeshire and Cesarewitch totalled $72,571.50. Successful double backers received approximately $960 for each $2.25 invested.

The previous tote "double" record on British tracks was established at the same course in 1938 when $55,679 was taken.

Between races the multitude queued to buy champagne at $10.75 a bottle for 1929 vintage. That's more than 20 per cent less than ordinary current wholesale prices.

The eight events drew 155 runners with the biggest field—31—contesting the Cambridgeshire. The Cesarewitch attracted 21 entries.

Few of the crowd knew at the time that five-year-old Bright Lady, which won the Cesarewitch with a terrific burst of speed in the last 100 yards, spent the previous night in a district garage after her handlers searched vainly through the blackout for a stable.

Bright Lady combined with Fun Fair, winner of the Cambridgeshire, to make up the record-breaking "double."

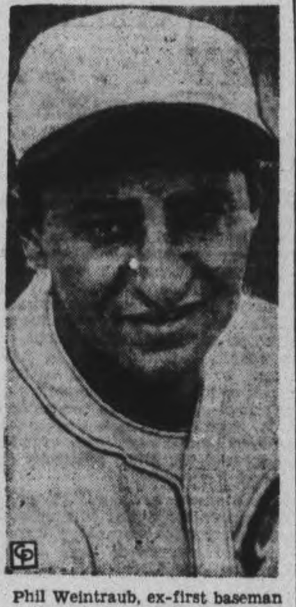
Giants Get Him



Phil Weintraub, ex-first baseman of the Giants and Reds, will be back in the majors again next year, having been drafted by the Giants in the annual meeting in Chicago. Weintraub hit .334 and smashed out 16 home runs for Toledo of the American Association this season.

Notre Dame continued the No. 1 college football team of the eastern United States Saturday with a rousing 26-0 triumph over West Point Cadets in the presence of 76,000 at Yankee stadium in New York to chalk up their seventh straight victory of the season. Meantime, Northwestern, scheduled to take on the South Bend Irish next Saturday, romped through Wisconsin 41-0, while Great Lake Training School, due to meet Notre Dame later in the month, came through with a 13-0 success against Camp Grant.

Pennsylvania, with an unbeaten record thus far although tied by Army on the previous Saturday, fell before Navy to the tune of 24-7. In the big game on the coast, the Trojans of Southern California experienced their first loss of the season when they bowed before San Diego Navy 10-7. Purdue remained in the unbeaten category by scoring a last-minute touchdown against Minnesota, taking the game 14-7, while Michigan subdued Indiana 23-6. Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific performed a comeback, after a loss one week previously, with a 19-7 victory over the strong team from St. Mary's. Yale dropped a 21-20 game to Brown, but Harvard was a 14-7 winner against Camp Edwards.

In an aggressively-fought exhibition hockey game at Windsor, sponsored by the Lions Club, Toronto Navy sank Toronto Army Daggers 11-4 even though the soldiers' squad included four former stars of the Leafs in Syl Apps, Gordon Drillon, Bill Taylor and Hank Goldup. Army did not score until almost the close of the second period when Drillon found the net.

Two tie games were played Sunday in U.S. pro football, with New York and Detroit winding up with a scoreless draw and Washington and Philadelphia battling to a 14-14 count. Chicago Bears smeared Green Bay 21-7 and Brooklyn blanked Chicago Cardinals 7-0.

Making his last start as a four-year-old, Shut Out of the Greentree stable was shut out by the fast-coming Sun Again Saturday at Pimlico in the 18th running of the Riggs Handicap. The winner came up from second-to-last place to beat the favorite and earn the $14,250 purse.

Charles Nolte's Nugyum Chocolate Ghost, London, won the all age stake and the Fred Jeffries Memorial trophy, in the London, Ont., dog field trials, held at Glendale on Saturday.

Acadia University twice defeated Halifax Army in an English rugger match at Wolfville, N.S., Saturday. The two-time victory occurred when the collegians were awarded the game while leading 3-0 following a dispute shortly after the start. The teams agreed to start anew with a different referee and outscored the soldiers 5-0.

Star-studded Halifax Navy lived up to its football advance notices on Saturday with a rousing 9-0 victory over Montreal Navy at the Atlantic coast port in an exhibition which was intended to justify the maritimers' demand for a chance in the Grey Cup grid playoffs.

Cote Wins Race

YONKERS, N.Y. — (AP). — Sgt. Gerard Cote, St. Hyacinthe, Que., roadplugger, Snuday won the National Marathon championship of the Amateur Athletic Union from a scintillating field, repeating his triumph in the annual titular event which he scored two years ago.

Team Walks Off

OTTAWA — (CP). — Excitement reigned at the opening match here on Saturday night of the Quebec Senior Hockey League when Quebec Aces left the ice and refused to continue the game until a penalty was reversed. The final result was 2-2. On Sunday night at Quebec the Aces trounced Ottawa Commandos 3-1 in a rough tilt.

Leafs Spilt Two On Week-end; NY Beaten Twice

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Modere (Mud) Bruneteau, 23-year-old right wing who entered professionl ranks nine seasons ago, is burning up the National Hockey League today.

In the outstanding individual performance of the league's five week-end games (aggregate attendance 67,167), Bruneteau boosted his season's sniping yield in three games to date to seven goals and one assist by scoring four times as Detroit Red Wings thumped Boston Bruins 6-4 in Detroit Sunday.

Toronto, tied for first place with Montreal, maintained their portion of the top rung by offsetting a 5-2 loss against Boston Bruins at home Saturday with a 7-4 conquest of New York Rangers at Manhattan Sunday. Rangers also lost at home 4-3 to Chicago Black Hawks Saturday while Canadiens won their lone week-end start, 5-1, at Montreal Sunday.

Bruins Defeated

At Detroit Bruneteau scored his club's first four goals to equal his own team record set two seasons ago against New York Americans. Other Detroit goals were scored by Syd Howe and Carl Liscombe, who usually play on the same line with Bruneteau. Herb Cain scored twice for Bruins, Flash Hollett and Art Jackson getting the other two as the Rossmen went down to their first defeat.

The Bruins previously had handed Toronto its first defeat, leading 5-0 until Bucko McDonald and Gus Bodnar finally found the range for Leafs in the final four minutes of play. Boston goals were distributed evenly between Art Jackson, Cain, Don Gallinger, Armand (Bep) Guidolin and Dit Clapper.

Rangers, strengthened by the return to active competition of 41-year-old Frankie Boucher for their first two games at home, dropped them both to stretch their losing streak to five games. Boucher scored one and assisted in another Saturday, but Doug Bentley's goal at 14:45 of the third period gave Chicago its 4-3 victory. Rangers were simply outclassed against Toronto as Bodnar, Mel Hill, Bucko McDonald, Lorne Carr, Jack Hamilton, Babe Prat tand Ted Kennedy connected for Leafs against Ranger scores by Jack McDonald, Billy Warwick and two by Dutch Hiller.

Canadiens, scoring their third straight victory, caught Chicago tired from their Saturday efforts and won on goals by Gerry Heffernan, Fernand Majeau, Ray Getliffe, Bob Fillion and Toe Blake. Doug Bentley scored for Hawks.

By HYE BOSSIN

Alan Dwan, the director who is a native of Toronto, is handling "Up in Mabel's Room," which stars Joan Bennett and Mischa Auer. . . Another Canadian-born director is Edward Dmytryck (pronounced "Dimitrick") and he's busy guiding Ginger Rogers through "Tender Comrade." Dmytryck's hobby is the Chinese language, which he uses to write marginal notes on his script. . . Mary Pickford's famed estate, "Pickfair," favorite scene of events for worthy causes, entertained more than 5,000 people last week, among them a group of soldiers who fought at Dunkirk. Miss Pickford will soon start production on "Girls' Town" . . . Mickey Rooney just got a cheque for $23.78, royalties on "Oceans Apart," a song he wrote in collaboration with a friend, and it made him as happy as though he had received a million dollars. . . The not-so-lowly potato will get a Hollywood buildup. The War Activities Committee is having stills made to show the stars, eating, buying and hauling spuds home.

Colleen Townsend, a very pretty 15-year-old girl, is being screen tested by several major studios right now and that leads to an interesting story. Last summer she went to work in the office of an actors' agent. After nearly a year on the job the agent woke up and decided to try her out on several casting offices. Now she is one of his most important clients. . . The shooting scripts of one studio have these words on the cover: "The less shooting here—the more shooting over there!" Film ingredients are also used for explosives. . . Errol Flynn, he of the adventurous soul, may lecture on acting at a California university. . . . Clara Bow, "It" girl of other years, may return to the screen in "Rhythm Ranch." She's the wife of Rex Bell, former cowboy star. . . This is Hollywood: Fred Beck used to write such entertaining ads for an open air market in Los Angeles that a film company hired him to prepare a series for them that would cost $2,000,000 to present. Then executives held a meeting, cancelled the idea and paid Beck off for his contract. Now the newspaper syndicates are after him to work for them.

The Hays Office, which rules over film decency, has forbidden any reference to Marlene Dietrich in "Kismet" as "The Queen of the Harem." The word "harem" is banned and "women's quarters" has been substituted. . . Each new Henry Aldrich keeps outgrowing the role. Jimmy Lydon is the latest. He'll play opposite Jane Withers in "Rhythm Revelry". . . The Dutch use theatres for anti-Nazi demonstrations. Hershey Bears Still Unbeaten

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears today remain the only undefeated team in the American Hockey League and leaders of the eastern section after a victorious but strenuous week-end

Saturday night they defeated Pittsburgh Hornets 3 to 1, on the home ice and last night they took the Capitals for a 3 to 0 ride at Indianapolis.

The leaders of the western section—Cleveland Barons—also kept up their winning streak over the week-end by defeating the ill-fated Capitals 5 to 2 on home ice Saturday night. This loss stepped down the Caps to second place in the section after being tied with the Barons for top honors. Last nigh Barons came through with a 7 to 3 victory over Bisons at Bufalo.

In the third game last night the Providence Reds downed Pittsburgh Hornets 4 to 2 on home ice.

Scoring Spree

Veteran Hergert led the Hershey Bears's attack Saturday night against the Hornets, and had a hand in all three goals. He scored the second counter and got assists on the other two. Nick Damore, young Hershey netminder held the Caps at bay in last night's battle. Even when his team played with two men in the penalty box, he managed to stop everything for a shutout.

Beaches Defeat Hurricanes; Cats Down Navy

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Balmy Beach to-day faced only one more hurdle in their drive for the right to enter the sudden-death two-team playoff for the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior championship against Hamilton Flying Wildcats in Hamilton Saturday.

Beaches cleared their most formidable obstacle on the play-off path Saturday when they scored a thrilling 4-3 win over Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes in Toronto in the feature struggle of a three game program which practically finished the Union struggle.

Wildcats made certain of first place and a play-off postiion by beating the battling Toronto Navy team 20-6 in Hamilton, while Ottawa Combines wound up with a 13-8 triumph over Toronto Indians in a four-point game which lifted the Combines into fourth place in the standings.

A Night Game.

The only remaining scheduled game is a night contest this Wednesday in Toronto between Beaches and Navy—but on the outcome of that meeting rests the play-off hopes of both Beaches and Hurricanes.

Huricanes, with seven wins, two losses and a tie, are in second place with 15 points and the Beaches with seven wins and two losses are only one point behind. Beaches can take over second place wtih a win over Navy but if the Sailors come up with an unexpected triumph the Airmen will be in.

Beaches triumphed Saturday on the strength of a first-quarter single by Sammy Sward with AC2. Bob Henry being rouged and a second-quarter placement by big Annis Stukus, leading scorer in the Union.

Last Try Failed

Hurricanes fought back and in the final quarter pounded to the Beach three-yard line where they elected to try for a placement. Sgt. Charlie Prince kicked the placement and in the dying minutes Sgt. Fred Kijek hobbled on the field despite a leg injury in an effort to kick the tying point from the 50-yard line but his punt was high and short. Kijeck, top kicker in the Union, was out of the fray for 58 minutes because of his injury.

Joe Krol featured the Hamilton attack against Navy in a rough game, completing two touchdown passes in the first quarter, one to Paul Miocinovich and the other to Doug Smith. Dick Groom scored the other Hamilton touchdown, falling on the ball behind the Navy goal-line after Paul Peterson dribbled it downfield. Krol, Walter Gibb and Groom had converts on the touchdowns and PO. Jimmy Smith and Mel Lawson kicked singles for Hamilton. OS. Steve Karrys, a Navy standout along with OS. Royal Copeland, scored a touchdown and a convert for the Sailors.

The Combines-Indians game was the most thrilling duel of the season in Ottawa. Byron Karrys scored Toronto's one touchdown and Earl Selkirk kicked four singles. George Fraser and Thain Simon scored touchdowns for Ottawa, Fraser scored a convert and Ike Norris, Arnie McWatters and Fraser each had single points.

Legion Parade Is Held To Trinity Church

That it was not too soon to consider making preparations for peace though "many sacrifices and trials remain to be endured yet," and that any peace to be lasting would have to be based on moral and spiritual principles was the Remembrance Day message delivered by Rev. Dr. George S. Easton of Trinity United Church on Sunday morning.

One hundred or more veterans of the last war, members of the Canadian Legion Branch, No. 52, attended the service commemorating their fallen comrades and the sacrifices that many thousands of Canadian youth made for their country a quarter of a century ago. Gathering at the Legion Hall they marched off down George Street and out Charlotte with military precision to the martial music of the Salvation Army Band, entering Trinity United Church as the morning service began.

In his sermon Rev. Easton made it clear why the peace that was constructed among the victorious nations of the Great War following the Armistice of 1918 could not, in the nature of things, long endure. Though there had been every reason to suppose at the time that the plans of the peace negotiators would bear fruit through the years, they failed. "They failed," the minister said, "because there did not exist sufficient good will and unselfishness among the men."

He specified three factors chiefly responsible for the defeat of the peace plans and the organization of the League of Nations. These were that the great powers had selfishly taken to using the machinery of the League to accomplish their own ends; that other powers, such as Italy, dissatisfied with her share of the spoils, or Germany, broken by the terms of the peace, had immediately set about trying to wreck the Covenant; and that the United States, after fathering the plan, had turned to isolation and left the League "an abandoned child on the doorstep of Europe."

High Principle Lacking

Asserting the need for more than mere good plans and sound organization on the part of the national representatives engaged in the task of constructing any new covenant for peace, Dr. Easton said that considerations of the high principle were then lacking among the diplomats who attempted to draw up measures that would constitute a safeguard against furture war, and that 'God was not wanted at the peace conference.'

Reminding his congregation the road to peace is a long one, the minister said it was certainly none too early to start travelling on that road by making preparations for peacetime, and admonished his listeners that in this regard Great Britain was far ahead of the Canadian people. Convocations of many groups meeting in England since 1941 had seriously discussed problems of reconstruction and their conclusions had been mainly two. "That in the postwar world there must be a larger measure of opportunity for all, regardless of nationality class or creed; and that there would have to be a more equitable distribution of the world's resources among the nations."

Bringing to mind memories of the great hopes all felt when the armistice was signed, the conviction on the part of all the peace-loving peoples that the sacrifice of those who died would mean the saving of the lives of future generations, Dr. Easton referred to the bitter dashing of those dreams. "What a hopeless hope it has been."

Economic Problems a Challenge

He believed that the economic problems which were to be faced when the boys now fighting in this war return home must be both an opportunity and a matter of concern to the Legion and the churches. "Will the Canadian Legion sit back and watch these boys go through the same kind of indifferent treatment they themselves experienced?" he asked. "We have taxation for the works of destruction; will the churches not insist upon taxation for the constructive works?"

"Here on the North American continent we talk of material defences—of a two-ocean navy, of an air force whose planes will blacken the sky. Is that to be our main reliance?" Rev. Dr. Easton asked. "Is there to be no spiritual rearmament? France was beaten before she began, beaten from within. Yet Britain stood. Our future civilization depends upon the character of our citizens."

Woofs Are Scarce

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8—(AP).—Film-makers spent hours trying to produce a bark from an English bulldog. Finally they pretended to threaten a couple of her grandpups and the canine star let loose a ferocious woof. Everyone was happy except the sound man—he was so startled his equipment wasn't ready. "They'll have to do it all over again."

Back on the Job

● Yes, many life insurance men who during the past few weeks have sold millions of dollars of Victory Bonds, are back at their regular job. Imperial Life men are always prominent in Government loan campaigns.

Back at his own job, the Imperial Life man's work for Canada goes on and on. The dollars he encourages policyholders to invest in personal and family protection and future financial security, also help greatly in financing the war effort.

In Victory Bond and War Savings campaigns, the Imperial Life man is an important factor in national service. And, needless to say, he himself is a regular investor in these loans. Every day he contributes vital and essential aid to the war programme.

Liberals Urge New Labor Deal

OTTAWA, Nov. 8—(CP)—The National Liberation Federation has passed a resolution urging that "definite means" be considered to maintain the rights of labor, including that of bargaining collectively, after the war by such measures available to the Dominion Parliament under the British North America Act.

The Labor resolution was made public yesterday with 13 other "general" resolutions passed by the federation at meetings here Sept. 27 and 28. When Liberals from across Canada discussed labor and other matters with cabinet members urging that provision be made for the "rectification of unfair inequalities" in wage rates, the resolution said the Labor code should have machinery for prompt disposition of cases involving Labor by a national labor relations board and local or regional boards, with the objects of promoting compulsory collective bargaining, settlement of disputes and fostering of improved relations.

Now Wearing The Air Force Blue

Among more Peterborough girls answering Canada's call when the R.C.A.F. Mobile Recruiting Unit visited here last month were Violet Hobson, 30 Howden Avenue (CENTRE) and the society editor from the staff of the Examiner, Marion Brown, 44 Benson Avenue. Here they are shown being welcomed into the service by A.S.O. Patterson after the "swearing-in" ceremonies in Toronto last week. The Mobile Unit, from which information relative to the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. may be obtained, without obligation, will be in Peterborough tomorrow and Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A. from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m.

a farm, where the Italian farmer fed and clothed him.

Fell said he "laid low" and spent most of his time reading the Italian family's English Bible until Allied troops drove the Germans back.

The nine other Canadians reported back are Flt.-Lt. Eugene Hudgson, Montreal; PO. A. G. Markle, Camrose, Alta.; FO. R. W. McNichol, Grandview, Man.; FO. Roderick Hughes, St. Marys, Ont.; FO. Jack Harltot, Stony Beach, Sask.; FO. Robert Frith, Toronto; Flt.-Lt. Gilbert Middlemiss, Wainwright, Alta.; FO. Ray Sherk, Stevensville, Ont., and FO. Edmund Patrick, Saint John, N.B.

Also back safely was Lieut. K. Maxwell, formerly of Moose Jaw, Sask., now in the British Army.

Wife Joyous Over News.

"Isn't that wonderful! It's the best news I have had for some time!" Mrs. R. A. Frith, of 684 Ontario Street, exclaimed when advised that her husband, FO. Robert Arthur Frith, had escaped from an Axis prison camp in Italy and had made his way with nine companions around the German lines and into the safety of Allied lines. She said that she had received a card from her husband from the prison camp a week ago, but that it was not in his writing. The card said that he was not receiving mail.

Frith, who is 22, left his position as a department store sales clerk to join the R.C.A.F. in December, 1940. He went overseas on October 6, 1941, and was reported missing July 21, 1942. Two months later he was revealed to be a war prisoner. Mrs. Frith, who is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dumbleton, said that she had been "waiting and waiting" for some definite word, but the news of his escape had relieved her anxiety. Her main hope now, she added, is that he will be able to come home for Christmas.

Here's Quick Relief from SINUS PAIN
3-Purpose Medicine Helps Clear Out Congested Sinus Areas
ONE best way to get relief from torturing sinus pain is to clear congestion from nasal passages and give sinuses a chance to drain. A few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol in each nostril is usually enough to bring this comforting relief.
3-PURPOSE MEDICINE
Va-tro-nol is so successful because it does three important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes of the nose; (2) helps clear out pain-causing congestion and (3) soothes irritation. Many sinus sufferers say it's best relief they've found. Try it!

Albania Bombed

Co-ordinating air assault with the destroyers' bombardment of Durazzo, Allied bombers attacked the Yugoslav harbor of Split and bombed Ulcinj on the coast south of Bar, in southern Yugoslavia, and north of the northern Albanian port of San Giovanni de Medua.

Australian fighter-bombers led the onslaught. They caught a medium-sized enemy ship with steam up in the south harbor of Split and left it sinking and smoking from three bomb hits.

In a second mission, the same squadron hit the jetty in the north harbor of Split and soon a huge fire covered a full acre of the dock area. The drydock also was bombed and a merchant vessel in the north harbor was hit.

In a sweep up the eastern Italian coast, medium bombers attacked the harbor at Ancona.

Medium and light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters ranged over the land battle area, hitting gun positions, rail communications, road junctions and troop concentrations. One aircraft was missing from all operations reported.

At least 16 motor vehicles were destroyed and 13 damaged as American fighters and dive-bombers roamed Italian skies behind the enemy lines.

Bad weather kept big bombers on the ground.

Lady Stuns Salesman Has $5,000 In Tin Cans

LONDON, Ont., ov. 8 (CP).—A London woman, over 80, Friday uncovered two tin cans of $10 bills before a gasping Victory Loan salesman who had won her confidence after three call-backs, and turned the contents into $5,000 worth of Victory Bonds at her bank.

Victory Loan headquarters today vouched for the story but withheld the name of the woman and the salesman.

The salesman, recovering from his astonishment, called a cab, brought the woman to her bank where the contents were verified, deposited and a check issued for the bonds.

cruisers and two destroyers.

In addition, a light Japanese cruiser and destroyer tender were attacked by night in New Ireland waters, but with undiscernible effect, and American medium bombers sank or damaged three small coastal vessels and 12 barges off southern Bougainville. Four more barges were destroyed off New Guinea by light surface craft. Vanakanau airdrome at Rabaul was bombed again.

The only Japanese retaliation was an attack by 10 enemy bombers, with fighter escort, on positions in the Markham and Ramu valleys of New Guinea. Damage was minor.

The week-end operations on land, sea and air were the lightest since the Allied drive to clear the Japanese out of the northern Solomons got under way Nov. 1 with the Bougainville invasion.

Ground operations on Bougainville and on Choiseul Island 30 miles away which was invaded No. 3 apparently are progressing favorably, a Headquarters spokesman said, adding: "It's up to the Japanese to make the next move."

Percy R. Bond Succumbs To Heart Attack

For many years prominent in local business and sporting circles, and a well-known figure in Dominion sport, John Percy R. Bond died suddenly from a heart attack at his home, 590 Weller street, on Saturday night. Although he had been in bad health for over a year, death's call came very unexpectedly. He was 60 years of age.

Mr. Bond, a native of Cobourg, had been a resident of Peterborough for the past 33 years, coming here in 1910 as a clerk in the Warne drug store. Later he purchased the Madill drug business at the corner of Hunter and George streets and carried on there until he sold out some years ago.

During his early days in Peterborough Mr. Bond was well known as a hockey player. He had broken into the game as a junior in his native town of Cobourg and after coming here played defence for Peterborough intermediate and senior O.H.A. teams for a number of seasons. He became actively associated with the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club, after he retired from playing, and filled in a number of offices including that of president. Later he was elected to the executive of the Ontario Hockey Association and eventually was honored by elevation to the presidency of that body. He afterward served as the representative of the O.H.A. on the executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and attended many Dominion meetings of that organization. He was also associated with the A.A.U. of C., of which body he was a past president, and acted as representative of the Ontario Athletic Commission.

As a golfer Mr. Bond was almost equally well known. As a player he had won the Stratton Trophy on a number of occasions and had also several times captured the championship of the Ontario Druggists' Association. He was also a director of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club for some time and had served as president for a term.

As a further contribution to the success of local sport Mr. Bond was the donor of the handsome trophy bearing his name that was won outright last year by the Westclox team. It had been emblematic of the senior championship of the Girls' Softball League.

He was a son of the late George Bond and Bessie Retallack of Cobourg and was educated in the Cobourg public school and Collegiate Institute before graduating from the Ontario School of Pharmacy at the University of Toronto.

Surviving relatives are his widow, the former Gwendolyn Sherry of Peterborough, two daughters, Mrs. A. T. Mackie of Montreal and Mrs. W. B. Brown, Peterborough, one son, LAC. James Bond, R.C.A.F., Oshawa, and one sister, Mrs. Harvey Sproule, Cobourg, and a brother, H. S. Bond, Toronto.

Mr. Bond was a member of the Masonic Order and for some time was also connected with the Peterborough Kiwanis Club. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

He had a host of friends in the city and among sportsmen throughout the Dominion who will be grieved to learn of his sudden passing. Among them will be the members of Canada's last Olympic team who visited Germany in 1936. Mr. Bond accompanied the Canadian team to Germany as one of the officials in charge.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon. There will be a short service at the residence, 590 Weller street, at 2:30 o'clock followed by a service in St. John's Church. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Eliminate Whites Theme Of Japanese

MELBOURNE, Nov. 8 (AP).—While he was Australian minister to Tokyo before the outbreak of the war, Sir John Latham exchanged gifts with Yosuke Matsuoka, then Japanese foreign minister.

Sir John's gift was a book of reproductions of Australian paintings. Matsuoka responded with a book of Japanese poems.

Sir John, a former member of the Commonwealth Parliament, in making the disclosure in a speech yesterday, had no comment to make on one of the poems which read:

"What a glorious day it will be when the foot of the white man no longer presses the soil of Asia.

"How much more wonderful will be the day when the divine mission of Japan is accomplished and the white race shall have been exterminated from the whole world."

French Sabotage Atlantic Wall

MADRID, Nov. 8—(AP).—One of the most powerful guerilla forces operating against the Germans in France is led by Maj.-Gen. De Lattre de Tassigny, the man who attempted a military revolt in Southern France when the Allies invaded North Africa, a Paris dispatch to a Spanish newspaper said on Saturday.

The guerillas are reported to have been particularly active in sabotaging German communications in the southern section of their "Atlantic wall."

One of the youngest Generals in the French Army, De Tassigny was commander of the Montpelier district when he rose against the German army of occupation. Before that he commanded the French forces in Tunisia.

Fatigue is From the Nerves

Fight Chronic Fatigue By Building Up Nervous Energy

You work hard and are tired—that is one kind of fatigue which is soon relieved by rest.

But chronic fatigue—always tired—is an entirely different condition. It comes from exhaustion of the nerves. When you have chronic fatigue you sooner or later become restless, nervous and irritable and simply cannot rest or sleep well.

Chronic fatigue may come from overwork, either mental or physical, or from worry and anxieties which consume nervous energy at a tremendous rate.

The appetite fails, digestion is upset and you do not get sufficient nutrition to build up nervous energy.

The treatment recommended is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food because this medicine contains the food minerals required to help restore nervous energy and vitamin B_1 which is so helpful to the nerves and helps to improve digestion.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has been helpful to many thousands of people during the nervous strain of recent years is best proven by the very marked increase in sales. Business executives and office staffs, factory superintendents and workers, housewives and school children—all classes, benefit by this dependable and time proven food treatment for exhausted nerves and chronic fatigue.

Why not take advantage of this medicine from which you may expect such benefits as so many others have obtained. Ask your druggist for the new economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cents a box of 60 pills; economy size bottle 180 pills for $1.50.

NEARLY MISSED

ONE of the highlights of the Loan Drive occurred Saturday afternoon about 2:35 p.m. Lou Brooks, feeling pretty perky about his sales in general, started ribbing Paige Rowell about something or other. In the course of conversation Lou found out that Paige had not even been aproached by a salesman to buy a Bond, and immediately a sales talk was started. Results — Paige Rowell bought a Bond. Of course he was going to buy one anyway but he had to come right into the Victory Loan Office on the last day of the Loan before being asked. Humorous part is—Paige is one of the most diligent voluntary workers in all Victory Loan Drives. Some salesman let something slip through his fingers. (Not Lou Brooks.)—H.

LINDSAY

William Flavelle Dies After Accident

LINDSAY, Nov. 8 (ENS) — Attended by citizens from every walk in life the funeral was held here today from his late residence, 26 Colborne street, of William W. Flavelle, 91, one of Lindsay's most prominent citizens. Despite his age Mr. Flavelle was active in business up to a few months ago when an unfortunate accident sent him to the hospital. He was a brother of the late Sir Joseph Flavelle of Toronto and the late J. D. Flavelle.

The late William Flavele moved to Lindsay from Peterborough when in his early twenties and entered the firm of Dundas and Flavelle Ltd., Lindsay's leading store, and he continued active head for over fifty years until it was taken over by the Canadian Department Stores Ltd.

For nearly seventy years the late Mr. Flavelle was an outstannding leader in the community life of his home town and no worthy cause ever failed to receive his active support. His intense interest and driving force were so compelling that they infected his associates and insured success in his many enterprises.

He never knew an idle moment until an unfortunate accident sent him to the hospital a few weeks before his death. He was a familiar figure to all citizens who prided themselves in being early to work for Mr. Flavelle observed no office hours of convenience but expected the working day to meet the requirements of his many business activities.

In 1894 he became president of the Victoria Trust and Savings Company and continued in this office for nearly fifty years, retiring at his own request from the presidency in 1941 but on the insistence of his fellow directors he continued on the board as a director and took an active part in the business until confined to the hospital.

The town of Lindsay is indebted to Mr. Flavelle for the building of the Cold Storage plant in Lindsay, one of the most modern of its kind in Canada, and it was his optimism and faith in the future that carried his brother with him in the decision to build after the former plant was destroyed by fire.

On the death of his brother, J. D. Flavelle, Mr. William Flavelle became the head of Flavelles Ltd. and the Lindsay Creamery Ltd. Mr. Flavelle was an active partner also in the Lindsay Coal Company where he usually spent part of his active day in giving assistance and counsel in the management of the business.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Helen Aird, and six children, Aird and Guy of Vancouver, Stuart of Lindsay, Jean (Mrs. H. C. Soothern) of Peterboro and Hellen (Mrs. E. O. Bradshaw) of Toronto.

Hunters Haunt Favorite Spots

A date that many have looked forward to with eager anticipation, talked much about and saved up for arrived today with the opening of the hunting season. Many ardent deer-hunters of the city who have been preparing for this week and counting their supplies of ammunition like a miser would his gold, set off over the week-end for camps and lodges in the northern lake district, where they hope to find a truly happy hunting ground.

The Ketchecum Hunting and Fishing Club, the oldest organized group of its kind in this district, has gathered again at its camp at Ketchecum Lake, and this year has the fiftieth anniversary with the club of two of its members to celebrate. They are H. A. Morrow and Tommy Hooper, who is the club's cook. It was in 1895 that the club first went to Ketchecum Lake, making camp at the foot of Bottle Creek, but prior to that it had spent three or four seasons at various locations. Organized by Harry Winch and consisting at first of about 15 members, the site for the club's present building was chosen in 1900.

Some among those who will hunt with the Ketchecum Club this season are: Dr. Norman Buchanan, George MacDonald, T. A. Mackay, Orley De Graw, Robert Abbott and Hugh Waddell.

Another group who departed for Long Lake near Apsley on Saturday for their hunting lodge consisted of: H. L. Garner, Milf Hardill, Charles Huffman, Dick Raine, Harold Rehill, George Tindle, Jack Hardill and Stanley Longhurst. Mr. Tindle is to act as master of the hunt.

A group of hunters have gone with George Robertson to the Pakesley area in the Muskoka Lakes, and in obedience to the call of the wild Mr. Robertson has closed his George street barber shop for the week.

To mention only one other of the hunting clubs which are out after the deer and partridge this week, there is a group now spending their fourth season at David Proctor's lodge at Cox Lake. Besides Mr. Proctor, hunters in this group include C. W. Nicholson, Walter Wright, Bert Harris, Reg. Doubt and Harry Slater of Toronto.

Training Centre Wins Three-Star Flag

The final presentation of a Three Star "V" flag in the Peterborough Fifth Victory Loan campaign, which reached a climax of achievement by oversweeping the local objective of $4,600,000 took place Saturday night at the Army Training Centre where the quota of $25,000 was exceeded by 60 per cent.

The Training Centre raised their total subscription to $60,000, and Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Peterborough city and county War Finance Committee, was so delighted with the result of the three weeks' drive, that he decided the Camp had merited a "V" flag.

Concluding their second visit to the city during the Victory Loan campaign, the band of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps from Camp Borden, under the direction of W.O.-1 Albert Croasdale, remained over for a concert, followed by a dance, Saturday night, arranged by Lieut.-Col. Walter Bapty, officer in command of the Training Centre, and the affair was a splendid concluding feature and social success.

The presentation of the "V" flag to the Camp was a brief and unexpected incident of the program. In fact the committee had hesitated mentioning the hope of celebration attainment of the Loan objective in the doubts hanging over from Friday night, but even if it had been announced it is doubtful whether the spacious drill hall could have accommodated many more people than actually attended.

Addressing the big assembly, Mr. Matthews lightly remarked that he had probably acquired gray hairs during the anxious hours of the day. He said he was happy to be in the position of announcing that Peterborough had once more fulfilled its pledge, both the county and city. Around the noon hour, the last doubt vanished when the total amount of all subscriptions stood at $4,610,000, and by evening it had increased to $4,645,000.

The rural section of Peterborough had passed their objective and the payroll savings section was $150,000 beyond their objective.

Mr. Matthews thanked everybody for their co-operation, and expressed a special vote of appreciation to Lt.-Col. Bapty for his helpful interest.

"I felt that in subscribing $40,000, and by their assistance otherwise during the campaign, Peterborough Training Centre had earned a "V" flag and I requested Ian McRae to come along and make the presentation," Mr. Matthews concluded.

Mr. McRae said it was a privilege to represent the National War Finance Committee and to congratulate Lt. Col. Bapty and through him the Training Centre's subscribers. And as representing a very large group who had also been awarded a "V" flag, Mr. McRae said the Camp had done a fine job.

Lt. Col. Bapty told the audience he was delighted to see such a large attendance of citizens. He complimented the officers and men for their decorations and improvements of the parade hall, especially mentioning Major J. Turnbull, Captain Ferguson and Regimental Sergeant Major McKenna. In receiving the "V" flag at the wind up of the Victory Loan, Lt. Col. Bapty said it was the men who had done it, and he passed the congratulations along to them. He draped the flag over the platform of the stage, and the concert proceeded.

The program by Warrant Officer Croasdale's band included selections from H.M.S. Pinafore, Estudiantina waltz, an arrangement of Irving Berlin's "Blue Sky," the famous Australian marching song, "Waltzing Matilda" by request, and several groups of regimental marches and national airs.

The Croasdale band deepened the glowing impression it had made upon a local audience on its previous appearance. The hall was not designed for concerts, but the only noticeable flaw in its acoustics was the effect of wandering notes from the bass horns and the two Sousaphones bumbling around as overtones, seeking material to absorb them.

And the orchestra won the compliment of a capacity crowd. In fact there was hardly room for the Paul Jones. It was an enjoyable evening in every respect. Many citizens visited the Training Centre for the first time, and must have come away with a grateful sentiment toward Lt. Col. Bapty for the friendly atmosphere he imparted to the evening's celebration.

$4,660,000 Subscribed In Loan With Final Returns Incomplete

Peterborough's margin of surplus beyond its Fifth Victory Loan objective was broadening out this morning with the arrival of first mail, and the total subscriptions had increased from the $4,645,000 announced by G. S. Matthews at the Training Centre Saturday night had moved along to $6,660,000.

The campaign carried on in city and county during the last three weeks went the way of the four that preceded it—another accomplishment on the home front.

Peterborough's total may not be definitely known for several days, as the belated sales and applications for Victory Bonds reach headquarters on George Street.

Peterborough might have celebrated the news shortly after noon Saturday with blowing of whistles, but that would have incurred an expenditure of steam and fuel, and as a measure of economy it was decided to dispense with the celebrant note.

Otonabee Over Top

The municipalities of Peterborough county drove along to the summit of their campaign, with most of the communities pushing over their separate objectives.

Details were not available in all instances this morning, but it was reported that Otonabee had put on the pressure and come through with something more than the 130,-000 which had been allotted to it.

It was felt in some quarters that this was a rather heavy quota to hold out to Warden Mather's township. Impression seemed to be as their campaign went along without much fuss and as if they might not make it, then when they buckled down to the job it would be done in spite of the objective that had been pushed out beyond former bounds.

Belmont-Metheun over on the eastern boundary of the county, also came through over the top, and there are others that will be mentioned as soon as the news here gets down to details.

Industrial Peterborough also carried their objective in the payroll savings section. Altogether, the result left a fine feeling of satisfaction over a big job taken in full stride and up to schedule, no tag ends carrying over into another week.

Canvassers Guests

"Peterborough Works News" published at C.G.E. features in its issue last week a report of a dinner meeting, at which the Victory Loan canvassers, in the twin companies were guests of Ian F. McCrae, works manager, in Genelco Cafeteria.

Mr. McCrae read a telegram from R. E. Layfield, now living in Vancouver, who headed the plant Victory Loans in other campaigns, sending his warm congratulations to everybody.

93.8% Subscribe

The C. G. E. and Genelco staff subscribed a total of $586,850, with 93.8 per cent of the employees buying Bonds. That meant they were subscribing 15.6 per cent of their earnings. This amount is only $15,-000 less than the objective which was assigned to rural Peterborough in this campaign. It was also one-half of the total subscriptions of all employees of the Canadian General Electric Company Limited.

That is C. G. E. and Genelco accounted for half the main company's subscriptions throughout all Canada. Certificates of Honor received from the office of Finance Minister Ilsley were presented by Mr. McRae to Roy Parnell of C.G.E. and Lorne Jackman of Genelco. These certificates will be placed in the respective shops where all employees will be reminded of the Fifth Victory Loan success.

The shop canvassers were heartily thanked by Mr. McRae on behalf of the county committee chairman, G. S. Matthews.

Three Counties Name Assessors

County assessors have been appointed in three of the counties of Ontario, M. R. Sloan of the city's assessment department informed the Examiner today. The combined counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry were the first to venture upon this new ground, and it is expected that Waterloo will make an appointment this week.

Mr. Sloan is chairman of the Assessor's Association for the counties' of Victoria and Haliburton, Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings and Durham, a section of the provincial association.

Rural assessment practice up to the present has been on the basis of township, village and town assessors. For county taxation purposes, the assessments of the constituent municipalities is equalized at least every five years. Too often county councils are unable to agree on their equalized assessments, with consequent reference to the county Judge, and sometimes involving considerable costs in obtaining independent valuations.

Peterborough county council has approached the proposal, but has hesitated to advance further toward action. The idea may be included in the business of the approaching sessions. Usually, however, councils are reluctant to adopt anything of an innovation at the final sessions. For the past three Hallowe'ens celebrations, the children of Confederation School of which Mrs. H. B. Jackson is principal, have made their nocturnal visits an opportunity to raise money to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims fund.

With inspiration from their principal and teachers in the first instance, who sought to give them a constructive objective in their visitations to offset what has often proved the contrary in former years, these children entered heartily into the suggestions given them, through which three nice contributions have come to this fund, the latest of which is listed in today's receipts as a result of their efforts a little over a week ago which this time amounts to $21 30.

To gather some idea of just how thoroughly they accomplished their self appointed task in good for others, it should be stated that the youngsters of Grades two and three displayed the greatest enthusiasm, and to make up the above amount there were 950 coins of which 750 were all in coppers, and in spite of none too favorable weather, they exceeded last year's contribution by fully fifty per cent, thus demonstrating that their ambitions to help in this cause to which they have in the past on numerous occasions given substantial assistance, had by no means become dim or feeble.

Hiawatha Sunday School

The appelation of a native naturally refers to one born in this country, but the little tots of the Junior class at Hiawatha Sunday School can claim more than that, for their ancestors were among the first people to live in this land. These youngsters through their Sunday School teaching, would come to know of the great teachings of Christainity, and they have on more than one occasion demonstrated this by giving a helping hand to people in trouble whom they have never seen through this fund.

These small boys and girls do not have access to much money, so it stands all the more to their credit that they are listed to-day with a nice contribution of $7, which will all go to give the boys and girls in Britain who have lost their homes, some cheer at Christmas time, and in so doing these children must all have a happier Christmas themselves from the knowledge they have done something to help others.

Personal Giving

Almost every day sees some kind soul moved to make a personal effort to help others, of which two are listed in to-day's receipts, both of whom have done so before on a number of occasions. Under the heading of "A Friend" one of them makes a contribution of $10, and William A. Taylor of Crawford's Grove, who only as recently as October 29 last made a donation of $3 is back once more with another of $2.20, which is a credit to his sacrifice to help other in need, and specially for the blessed season of Christmastide.

Lady Customers Take Bonds Without Urging

Joseph Mackness of C. J. Ray's canvassing team in the Victory Loan campaign requested the Examiner today to convey his appreciation of the reception and response he received from the citizens in the team's district, east of Park street and south of Rink street.

"Easily two-thirds of the residents in that section were buying Victory Bonds through the payroll savings plan," Mr. Mackness said. "But, the women in many of the homes wanted to have a part in the Loan and also to do something extra in saving for the future. That was my experience. They waited until I called and some telephoned for me to call. They bought $50 and $100 Bonds, and total subscriptions through my canvass amounted to $15,000. These people in my district certainly have the right spirit. They were buying extra Bonds without anybody having to urge them to do so."

Mr. Mackness lives in the southwest district, at 223 Princess street. Other members of his team are John Seals and William Rose.

Passes In Toronto

William J. O'Brien, old Peterborough boy and former principal of St. Peter's High School, who was laid to rest in Mount Hope Cemetery, Toronto, today.

Wm. J. O'Brien Laid To Rest

Member of a former well-known Peterborough family, a former principal of St. Peter's Separate school here, and in his youth an outstanding baseball and football player, William J. O'Brien, 56, was buried in Mount Hope cemetery in Toronto this morning. Funeral services at St. Basil's church and at the cemetery were conducted by his brother, Rev. Father Austin D. O'Brien, of Rochester, N.Y.

William J. O'Bren was the son of the late Michael J. O'Brien, who was a former member of the teaching staff of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and afterwards Inspector of Separate Schools for the province. The family moved here when W. J. O'Brien, who was born in Lindsay, was only a small boy and he was educated here at St. Peter's school and at the Collegiate before entering St. Michael's College.

He was principal of St. Peter's school here for several years. While in Peterborough he was well known as an athlete. He played outfield for St. Peter's T.A.S. ball club, first in the City League and afterward when that club represented Peterborough in the old Midland League. He also played centre half on the Peterborough rugby team in the O. R.F.U. senior series for several seasons.

For many years Mr. O'Brien had been a resident of Toronto and at the time of his death was general manager and director of the Chartered Trust and Executor Company. He graduated in law at Osgoode Hall and in the First Great War went overseas as a gunner in the Canadian Field Artillery and won his commission at the front.

He was treasurer of York County Children's Aid Society, chairman of the board of governors of the Newman club, a member of the Knights of Columbus, the National Club and the Toronto Rotary Club.

In 1937 he was awarded the cross pro ecclesia et pontifice by the Pope.

Mr. O'Brien is survived by his wife and eight children, Lieut. William H. O'Brien, R.C.A.; Michael, John, James, Paul, Thomas M., Mary and Kathleen, all at home. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. M. J. O'Brien, also of Toronto; four brothers, J. D. O'Brien and G. P. O'Brien of Toronto, Richard Vincent of Detroit, and Rev. A. D. O'Brien of Rochester, N.Y., and one sister, Rev. Sister Emerentia of St. Joseph's community.

Two Young Men Sentenced For Jewelry Theft

Claude M. Hopkins, 21, Lakefield, and Gordon Scriver, 17, Hastings, were sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to twelve months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory for breaking and entering the Charlotte street jewellery store of Bert Austin and stealing a quantity of jewellery.

The youths had previously pleaded guilty and had been remanded until today for sentence.

Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher in giving evidence said that the window of the Austin store had been broken with a stone and a number of rings and watches stolen.

"We recovered 75 per cent of the stolen jewellery in Toronto pawnshops," the officer stated.

Neither boy had a previous criminal record, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., stated.

Scriver's sister said that the boy had twice enlisted in the Canadian army and had been discharged because he had been found to be under age. He had been trying to get into the Air Force when he got into the present trouble, she told the court.

Magistrate Langley pointed out that the offence with which the youths were charged was a serious one. "It was apparently done deliberately," he remarked before imposing sentence.

NOW—PERSONAL LOANS AT REDUCED RATE

Household Finance cuts charges on all loans over $300—How you can borrow $20 to $500 quickly, privately and without endorsers.

NEED a loan of $350, $400 or $500? Get the cash you need at Household's new reduced rate of 2% per month on loan balances of $300 or less and 1% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This new rate cuts the cost of all Household Finance loans of more than $300. Notice that 12 monthly instalments of $33.03 each now repay a $350 loan in full.

Our business has steadily grown as one customer has told another about Household service. The increased volume has cut our operating costs. Now we have cut our rate so that customers may share in these savings.

All you do

You are welcome to apply for a loan of any amount from $20 to $500. Just tell us about your problem and choose a convenient payment plan. You need no endorsers or guarantors. We lend largely on character and earning ability. So if you have a steady job or other source of income, don't hesitate to come to Household. Loans are arranged privately and quickly—in 24 hours or even sooner if necessary. Monthly payments shown in the table include principal and interest. You pay nothing more. We have no hidden charges of any kind. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs.

Solve your problem here

You may borrow at Household to clean up old bills, pay your doctor or dentist, make repairs, help a relative—for almost any purpose. If you have a money problem, phone, write or visit Household Finance.

IN MEMORIAM

PEARSON — In loving memory of George Pearson, who passed away three years ago, November 8, 1940.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.

--Always remembered by mother and father, sisters and brother.

PEARSON— In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Pearson, who died, November 8, 1940.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last
His weary trials and troubles are past;
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

—Wife and family.

LOWE—In loving memory of Mrs. A. Lowe, who died, November 8, 1939.

Oh what would I give to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see,
Your loving smile, your welcome voice,
That meant so much to me.
No ones knows the heartache,
Only those who have such can tell,
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one I loved so well.

— Ever remembered by husband and family.

Everton Beats Tranmere 9-2

LONDON, Nov. 8—(CP Cable).— A powerful professional eleven representing the R.A.F. defeated Scotland 2-1 on Saturday in Glasgow's Hampden Park in the feature match of Britain's weekly soccer program.

A crowd of more than 53,000 watched Arsenal's Ted Drake register the deciding goal for the Airmen 10 minutes before the end of play in a match that came close to the best international standards.

High scores and increased attendance were common throughout regular league matches. Everton ran up the biggest total, defeating Tranmere 9-2 in a League North tussle. Tom Lawton, England's centre-forward, scored five goals for Everton.

Sunderland kept its grip on the leadership of the League North by defeating Newcastle 4-2 before 15,000, while Aston Villa remained in hot pursuit by trouncing Northampton 4-0 before 10,000.

Wth Hi-Price scoring seven goals Huddersfield trounced Crewe 8-0. Other Northern matches saw Blackpool and Blackburn draw 1-1, Wolverhampton oust Coventry 2-1 and Bolton beat Bury 3-2.

Queen's Park Rangers retained the League South lead by drawing with West Ham 1-1. Arsenal came out of their season-long slump and white-washed Chelsea 6-0. Crowds of 16,000 saw both of these games. Denis Compton, Lew Lewis and George Bastin each scored twice for Arsenal.

Lovell's Athletic, the candy works team from Newport, Monmouthshire, went to the top of the League West on the basis of a better scoring average than Cardiff by whipping Swansea 7-1. Bristol dropped to third place when edged out 1-0 by Cardiff.

Scottish Matches.

Glasgow Rangers sped toward their fifth wartime championship of the Scottish Southern League by whipping Albion Rovers 5-1 and shooting from third to first place. The former leaders, Hibernians, dropped to second by losing 3-1 to Partick Thistle, while Dumbarton fell from second to third in losing 3-0 to Hearts.

Raith Rovers remained atop the Scottish North-eastern League by beating Falkirk 5-3.

50 N.C.O.'s Honor Lt.-Col D. J. Lawrie

Fifty N.C.O.'s of the 43rd (R.) Field Regiment, R.C.A., paid tribute to Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie in a farewell gathering last week in the Armoury. Headquarters and the 4th Battery of Peterborough were well represented, and both Lindsay and Cobourg had a number on hand for the presentation which marked the retirement of the Colonel as Commanding Officer of the Regiment.

The popular O.C. received a silver service from the N.C.O.'s and a cigarette lighter from members of the A. and T. staff during the course of the evening, and Mrs. Lawrie was presented with 25 roses —one for each year of service of the Colonel.

A few officers were invited, including the regiment's padre, H.-Capt. E. C. Moore, Capt. R. A. Phillips, O.C. of the 4th Battery, Major G. J. Edwards, acting Commanding Officer of the unit, and Lt. A. H. Lewis, Paymaster. Several of them spoke briefly following the presentation.

Sgt. J. H. Coones presided at the enjoyable gathering and spoke of the long association enjoyed by the N.C.O.'s of the regiment with the Colonel. The latter thanked everyone for their kindness, and touched on some of the highlights of his military service with the local unit. He said he would always hold a lively interest in the doings of the 4th Battery and of the regiment, and would follow closely the activities of "my boys."

Farmers Requested To Save Horse Hair

An appeal to farmers to save the hair of horses' manes and tails for war purposes is being made through the Ontario Department of Agriculture. A letter received by F. C. Paterson, representative of the Department, urged the need of horsehair for many purposes, especially in the making of pads that line the interior of tanks, for brushes used in cleaning big guns, and so on.

Farmers are asked to keep two bags in their stables, one for hair from manes and the other from tails. The need has been sharpened by a substantial decrease last year in receipts.

Gotch Aims At Title Bout; Hopes To Win

If Jan Gotch, the Paralysing Pole, can beat Gentleman Jack Claybourne in their wrestling match here tomorrow night, the tempestuous Polish grappler will ask Promoter Frank Tunney to match him with John Katan. "After that," says Jan, "I will take on Whipper Watson and give him the beating of his life." Quite a program, that is, especially considering Gotch's opponent is the greatest Negro wrestler in the world. Another interesting point about Tuesday's match is that both Claybourne and Gotch have shown here that when they get thoroughly aroused, there is practically nothing that will stop them. It's something like the irresistible force meeting the immovable object. And when that happens something has to go smash.

Blonde Buddy Knox, the Cleveland Cleaver, will show here for the first time on this card when he meets flashy Mike Demetre of Montreal.

Another newcomer, Nick Elich, of New York, wrestles Rough-house Dick Hogan, the slugging housepainter. There is a bout that will probably bring down the house. Elich is a squatty-built little powerhouse of great strength and agility, who follows a buzz-saw style of action that seldom lets an opponent get set. As for Hogan, he and his ruthless technique are well-known here.

11 Convicts Escape

DOUGLAS, Ga., Nov. 8—(AP). — Eleven long-term convicts blasted their way out of the Douglas prison camp with shotguns yesterday, wounding two guards, one critically, and forcing several motorists at gun-point to surrender their cars in the get-away. Police caught two of the escapees in nearby Alma, Ga., shortly afterwards as they scrambled from an automobile. Four others in the group, all heavily armed, fled into woodlands.

The Vitamin-Plus Vegetables and Fruits Are Best

WISE WOMAN

This housewife buys the vegetables and fruits that are a protection against disease and an aid in keeping her family in good health. Tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, green cabbage, and salad greens — all go into her market basket.

Vitamins: what are vitamins and why are people so conscious of them in recent years?

Vitamins are those rather elusive nutritive elements found in small quantities in our food which are so vital to life. Different vitamins are particularly good for different deficiencies—for example, tomatoes, are an excellent source of vitamin C, or ascorbic acid.

If your teeth are fragile and your joints are sore and stiff, you're not getting enough vitamin C. With little vitamin C in your diet, you can also develop scurvy.

This is just one example of one power of a vitamin and you can see how necessary to life the vitamins are.

Our 32-page booklet tells the meaning of vitamins and the enthusiasm for them. It also tells what they all can do, and it will answer your question and tell you how to get the maximum vitamin values from the food you eat every day.

For your copy of VITAMINS TO KEEP YOU FIT send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A VITAL CONVENTION

ONE OF THE simplest of the important conventions used in expert defensive play, and at the same time one of the most important of the simple ones, involves the second lead of the suit which had been bid by your partner, when you hold fewer than four cards of it. If he can read your second lead as being the lowest card you still have in the suit, he will treat it as from what was originally a doubleton, that second lead now making you blank in the suit and enabling him to know the declarer's length. So, if you held three originally, your correct second lead is the middle card.

North: ♠ 10 8 4 ♥ J 7 6 ♦ K Q J 8 8 ♣ A 4

West: ♠ Q 7 2 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ 10 ♣ J 8 7 6 3 2

East: ♠ 6 5 ♥ A Q 10 9 8 ♦ 7 5 2 ♣ K Q 9

South: ♠ A K J 9 3 ♥ 5 2 ♦ A 9 6 4 ♣ 10 5

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	2 ♥

West scored the K of his partner's heart suit and then, seeing the 9 from East, led the 3. Winning that with the 8, and having seen the declarer play the 2, East knew the 3 was his partner's lowest and that therefore the declarer held the 4. At least he thought he knew that, and that West would ruff the next heart. So he led the heart A and was surprised to find South ruffing, with West following suit.

This was great good fortune, recognized South. Taking advantage of his windfall, he now avoided risk of the spade finesse, which, if it lost, might be followed by a ruff in case East had a diamond void. He played the spade A and K, then began to lead diamonds. West ruffed the second one and returned a club to the A, but the final diamond gave South a discard of his last club, assuring his contract.

If West had led the 4 to the second heart trick, East would have read him as still holding the 3, and the declarer as now blank. He consequently would have shifted to his club K. That would have knocked out the club A and assured the setting trick in that suit as soon as West scored his trump Q.

About the only time this convention should be violated is when the leader thinks that fooling the declarer will help him more than misleading his partner will hurt.

Following East's opening bid of 1-Spade, what would you consider the most promising plan for bidding South's powerhouse?

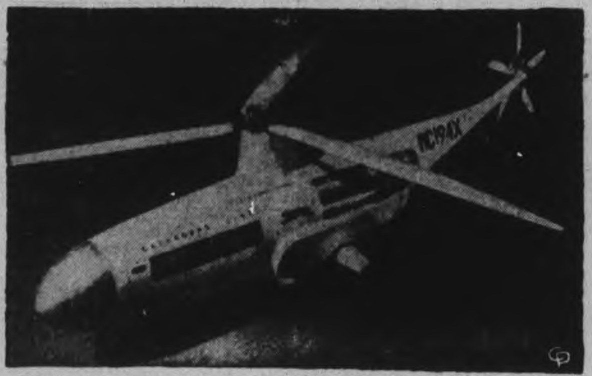
Air Bus Of The Future



This little number, a model of a fourteen-passenger helicopter air bus, was used as a "convincer" by the Greyhound bus lines, Chicago, Ill., when it applied for permission to operate helicopter buses in a local air service over 49,130 miles of routes, at a recent hearing before the U.S. civil aeronautics board. This cloud-bound bus was designed by Raymond Loewy in collaboration with Igor Sikorsky, helicopter inventor.

ROSENEATH

Institute Hears Talk On Willkie

ROSENEATH, Nov. 8 (ENS). — Mrs. C. W. Varcoe was hostess Thursday afternoon when the members of the Wowmen's Institute gathered in the town hall for the regular meeting of the society. Mrs. Earl Waldie president, was in the chair.

Mrs. Harold Taylor and Mrs. C. Thackeray were named a committee of management for a card party to be held soon.

In connection with war service it was decided that each member would write a Christmas letter to one or more soldiers from the community now overseas. This is to replace the sending of Christmas cards as done in previous years. War service activities include making and donating a quilt to this cause. Material will be donated by members to be left in Mrs. C. W. Varcoe's care. The president and Miss Doreen Nichol form the committee in charge.

It was announced that the president had painted the village indentification sign boards, and Harold Taylor had placed them in position.

The secretary-treasurer Mrs. S. Thackeray reported a balance on hand of $26.29. Several pairs of socks were turned in ready for distribution among servicemen.

Speaks on Willkie

The president gave a talk "Wendell Willkie on Democracy." Places of interest visited during his travels were listed and his various activities in war service were enumerated. Mrs. Waldie said Mr. Willkie was known as "the man who delves into democracy."

Mrs. C. Thackeray in a talk on current events, confined her remarks to Alaska.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock was program convener and readings were given by Mrs. J. W. Pacey, Mrs. C. Sandercock, and Marjorie Sandercock; piano solos by Doris Robins and Grant Waldie; there were contests arranged by Mrs. E. Waldie and Marjorie Sandercock and Larry Timlin won a lucky chair prize.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess and refreshments were served.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

CAMPBELLFORD

Auxiliary Winner To Be Given Supper

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 8 — (ENS).—Honor of having the best attendance of any of the four groups comprising St. John's Evening Auxiliary will this year go to the one headed by Mrs. Morley Petherick which was 24 points ahead of the next highest group under the leadership of Mrs. M. B. Sayers. The president, Mrs. Carl Johnston, presided for the meeting this week, and a feature of the program was an address on Generalissimo and Madam Chiang Kai-Shek given by Mrs. J. D. Mills.

During the business period it was revealed the practice of entertaining the winning attendance group would be followed and arrangements were made for the other three groups to provide a supper for the winners on December 2.

Reports given by leaders on their year's work indicated several quilts had been donated to organizations doing war work and one group had made an autographed quilt to raise money. Members of the naminating committee, which will bring in a report at the annual meeting are Mrs. H. Pierce, Mrs. Carl Johnston and Miss Stella Keir. Mrs. Ed. Bates sang and guitar selections were played by Mrs. Fred Thompson and Miss Josephine Locke.

WMS Endorses Plan For Helping Refugees

CAMPBELLFORD Nov. 8 (ENS) —The group, headed by Mrs. A. G. Watson, won the annual attendance contest conducted by members of St. John's W.M.S. and they will be feted at a luncheon given in its honor when the society gathers for its December meeting. This was revealed following the monthly gathering Thursday when the president, Mrs. E. C. Roberts, announced the winners and told of plans for the luncheon.

The society unanimously endorsed the petition which is receiving wide circulation and requesting that the Federal Government permit refugees to enter Canada. As a preliminary to the annual meeting next month, a nominating committee comprising Mrs. A. E. Malcolm, Mrs. J. D. Mills and Mrs. E. A. Sloggett, was named.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. Sanders' group and Mrs. G. N. Maxwell, who presided offered one of the main features which took the form of an address on the subject "Courage." Mrs. Alex Turnbull, a guest of the meeting spoke on "Building the Altar." Other items were vocal solos by Mrs. A. G. Watson and Mrs. Edward Bates.

Postal Workers Seeking Minimum Wage

Dissatisfaction with their wages, with the Government's provision for overtime pay, and proposals for a strongly organized union of postal employees were all shown at a lively meeting of Ottawa postal workers in the Capital city the end of last week. More than 200 postal employees present at the mass rally endorsed joint proposals by the Canadian Postal Employees' Association and the Federated Association of Letter Carriers for the establishment by the Government of a minimum wage of $1,200 and flat $300 per annum increases to all postal personnel. Full support of their demands was pledged by the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

Members of Parliament approved the workers' protest against what they called "sub-standard wages which had been their lot for the last twenty years," and the applause heightened when Walter Mann, the defeated C.C.F. candidate in Ottawa South, urged that strongly organized postal employees "break through the shrouded ghost that was the Treasury Board." He said the "closed shop for the post office employees must come."

The president of the Labor Congress, Percy Bengough, said that "wages of postal workers were frozen at sub-normal levels. Build your organization—you may have a tough time if you don't meet it in an organized way."

The story from Ottawa said that while $1,020 is the minimum wage for postal workers, postal clerks' minimum ages for grades four and five reach $1,620, and grades six to 12 a $1,740 maximum. The letter carriers' is $1,500, it was said.

Officials at the meeting expressed dissatisfaction with overtime provisions saying "We want straight overtime without any red tape. The Government advocates overtime; why should they not pay it to their own employees? Overtime is necessary if wartime mails are to be kept moving." Enlistments and job transfers had decreased staffs by 2,500 in the past year and mails had increased by 40 per cent.

Potatoes Wasted

FREDERICTON, Nov. 8—(AP).—Agriculture Minister Taylor said yesterday an "appreciable" quantity of potatoes remains unharvested in New Brunswick, as well as a large proportion of root and grain crops. With danger of frost imminent, he appealed to experienced farm workers to co-operate with other farmers in saving the remainder of these crops.

DUBLIN — (CP). — The sugar ration in Eire has been reduced from ¾ of a pound to ½ a pound per week.

Unknown Man Distributes Money Galore

HALIFAX, Nov. 8.—(CP).—A cigar-puffing devotee of the share-the-wealth theory swept through Halifax at the week-end amid a shower of bills and cheques ranging up to $2,000 which he scattered lavishly among servicemen, waitresses, bellhops, kiddies — in fact, about any one who ran across his trail.

The open-handed dispenser of largesse was believed the same man who went through a ward in Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, disposing of $100 bills the other day. As in Toronto, however, his name was kept guarded by his beneficiaries here.

His biggest donation—a cheque for $2,000 wen tot five-months-old Roy Whelan of near-by Timberlea. The boy's father, a part-time taximan, had been driving the six-foot philanthropist about town, and, when his fare ran out of cash, Whelan paid for a restahrant meal for him and advanced him a couple of $5 bills to give away.

He asked to be driven to the cabby's three-room cottage, where he saw the baby and said: "I think I'll give the little fellow a couple of thousand. It'll help give him a good education." He gave the boy's father $240 in cash.

Another cheqhe for $1,000 he handed over to Marie Power, hotel switchboard girl, to be divided among herself and eight bellhops. A third—for $500—went to the hotel desk clerks.

The man went into at least two downtown restaurants, handing out sums ranging up to $100. Often he stopped on the street and in his hotel lobby to dump bills into the hands of soldiers, sailors and airmen.

At one restaurant a $500 cheque was refused by the Chinese proprietor. Then he showered $10 and $20 bills on the waitresses. Bellhops saiad he scattered fives and tens among them "like chicken feed" at the hotel.

BATTLES IN 1944 TO BE MOST COSTLY

Entire Black Sea Sector May Be Enveloped By Southward Soviet Lunge

12 Disorganized Nazi Divisions Reported In Full Retreat After Decisive Battle At Kiev City

LONDON, Nov. 9—(CP).—Two Russian armies commanded by Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin, conqueror of Kiev, today were advancing westward toward the Polish and Rumanian frontiers on the heels of the shattered remnants of 12 Nazi divisions, driven from the Ukrainian capital in a four-day battle which ended last Saturday.

One Red Army force was reported surging forward beyond Makarov, 28 miles west of Kiev, to within 50 miles of Zhitomir, key junction on one of the two last north-south railways available to the Germans toward the Polish border, 65 miles away.

A second Soviet spearhead was striking southwest of Fastov, and a Russian communique said it was within 140 miles of the Rumanian frontier. This drive apparently was aimed at enveloping the Germans still fighting in the area between the Dnieper River and the Black Sea.

(The German-controlled Paris radio said the Russian Army had launched an assault on the Perekop Isthmus leading into the Crimea and that strong Red Army forces were being used to smash the German Crimea garrison.)

Another Russian army operating far to the north in the Nevel sector was said in a Moscow broadcast to be at the gates of Polotosk, rail junction on the Vitebsk-Riga railway and only 20 miles from the Polish border.

Fear New Attack.

Stockholm dispatches said the Germans were evacuating civilians from the 110-mile-wide area between Lake Ilmen in Russia and Lake Peipus on the Estonian border, a possible prelude to a forced German withdrawal from the Leningrad front.

A German communique yesterday admitted Nazi forces were engaged in a "defensive struggle against major enemy forces" in the Nevel sector.

The Kiev break-through was expanded to an 80-mile-long front with the capture yesterday of Gornastaipol, 45 miles north of Kiev and 10 miles west of the Dnieper. Here the Russians were pinning German forces back against the almost impassable Pripet marsh country, the Soviet war bulletin declared.

Kiev cost the Germans 15,000 dead and 6,200 prisoners, Moscow said. The newspaper Pravda added that the enemy fled in panic, throwing away weapons, ammunition and even clothing.

F.D.R. Promises Speedy Rehabilitation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — (AP). — President Roosevelt climaxed the signing of a United Nations relief agreement today with the declaration that it, coupled with the recent Moscow documents, shows that "we mean business in this war in a political and humanitarian sense just as surely as we mean business in a military sense."

"It is one more strong link joining the United Nations in facing problems of mutual need and interest," he said at the conclusion of a White House ceremony in which representatives of 43 countires, including Canada, joined with the United States in creating the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration to feed and clothe and revive war stricken countries.

Conference Starts

Hon. Leighton McCarthy, the Canadian minister in Washington, signed for the Dominion.

Representatives of the 44 countries will journey to Atlantic City, N.J., tomorrow for discussion on policies and practical means of accomplishing their stupendous relief task.

"The sufferings of little men and women who have been ground under the Axis heel," the President said, "can be relieved only if we utilize the production of all

Says Japanese In Dire Peril

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP).—Navy Secretary Frank Knox said to-day the present situation in the South and Southwest Pacific areas warrants the statement that "the Japanese are now in a more critical position than ever before in that area."

He added at a news conference that "it no longer is a question of holding their positions at lowest possible cost; it is a question of actual survival in the southwest area."

He described as "nothing short of a disaster" to the Japanese the loss of use of six heavy cruisers in that area.

Reviewing actions in the South and Southwest Pacific in the last 10 days, he declared there have been "several important military defeats for the Japs."

He listed the landing of marines on Bougainville, the night surface engagement in which American warships sank one Japanese cruiser and four destroyers and damaged two cruisers and two destroyers, and the surprise attack on Rabaul harbor by carrier planes and then by bombers.

Knox declared there is "absolutely no truth" in Japanese radio claims of heavy destruction of American warships in the South Pacific.

Deadline Set On Bomber Knockout Plan If Effort Fails, Ground Invasion To Start

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(AP).—The victory-through-air-power theory is getting an acid test against Germany with a definite deadline — a time limit after which, if the effort fails, a ground invasion of western Europe will go forward.

But the deadline is the invasion date which was communicated to the Russians. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of U. S. Air Forces, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris, head of the R. A. F. Bomber Command, have until that time to try to force Germany's surrender by use of air power alone. Sir Arthur Harris in a speech last week promised 90 Nazi war centres would be embattered.

The theory here is that if 40 per cent. of Germany's productive capacity is knocked out, she must quit.

Use of Russian bases for shuttle-bombing of Germany may be involved in the truly "all-out" aerial assault expected to reach a climax shortly.

Germans Reveal Maniacal Fury Commit Many Crimes In Isernia

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Nov. 7—(Delayed) —(AP).—At 10.10 this Sunday morning the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes were hung from a bomb-cracked balcony in Isernia and this mountain town that war had murdered began its resurrection.

An American captain who used to sell shotgun shells in New York and a British lieutenant whose father was a member of parliament undertook the rebirth of Isernia.

While the roar of heavy artillery echoed among the rubble of the town, which was entered by Irish patrols before dawn last Thursday, Capt. Allen Schauffer, 52, and his young assistant, Lieut. Keith Erskine, established an Allied military government at the junction of two highways.

(Isernia, major highway job of the now-broken German Massico Ridge-Trigno River defence line, was the objective for weeks of the Canadian-manned left wing of the 8th Army in a strongly-resisted, hard drive up the Apennine Mountains of central Italy. De Luce's dispatch did not indicate exactly what troops of the 8th Army occupied the town, except that Irish patrols were the first in. Allied headquarters last week referred to "British and Canadian" troops having taken the town.)

Two months ago Isernia had a population of 12,000. Today (Sunday) 236 shabby, miserable civilians were sheltered in buildings that had been systematically vandalized by the Germans.

With maniacal fury the enemy destroyed the interior and furnishings of every home here that Allied bombs had left standing. They looted every store and warehouse. They methodically smashed plumbing fixtures, fired bullets into windows and mirrors, ripped closets full of clothes to shreds and broke up furniture and pianos.

The German-hating civilians declare the enemy troops committed numerous crimes of rape before they evacuated Isernia 2½ hours before 8th Army patrols entered the wrecked outskirts. The evidence concerning these crimes is being collected by 8th Army officers.

Nancy Oakes Gives Evidence

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAUN, Bahamas, Nov. 9 — (AP).—After Nancy Oakes de Marigny testified in behalf of her husband, the defence rested its case today in the trial of Alfred de Marigny for murder in connection with the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes.

There was immediate overnight adjournment, on the motion of Chief Defence Attorney Godfrey Higgs.

The end of the testimony came in the 20th day of the trial in the Bahamas Supreme Court.

The 19-year-old Nancy told of the relations between her father and her husband, who wept softly in the prisoner's cage as she started her testimony.

Then she turned her eyes to the prisoner's cage, where her husband has remained throughout the 20 days of his trial for murder, except during the period of his own appearance on the witness stand.

They looked at each other for a lengthy period before Nancy turned her gaze toward Chief Attorney Godfrey Higgs, who started questioning her.

De Marigny then covered his eyes with his handkerchief, and wept softly.

Nancy was in the United States attending College at the time Sir Harry was bludgeoned and burned to death last July in a bedroom of his estate, Westbourne, but the defence called upon her in an effort to offset the testimony of her mother, Lady Oakes, who appeared last week against De Marigny.

"Neither of us asked my parents' permission for our marriage," she said, telling how she was wed to the twice-divorced De Marigny at New York in the spring of 1942.

"I had hoped to discuss it with my mother, but never did," she said.

Told of Honeymoon

Higgs led her through her honeymoon trip to Mexico, where she became gravely ill with typhoid fever.

"After my illness, I was advised to live normally," Nancy continued.

"Was there any marital advice from the doctor," asked Higgs.

"Only that I should live normal-

Nazi Radio Base Off Greenland

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (CP) — Destruction of a German radio and weather base on an island off the coast of Greenland was reported by Frank Knox, United States Navy secretary today. The small but well constructed base, said Knox, indicated a plan to maintain it permanently. It included a radio station, power house, emergency generator, radio transmitter, defensive machine gun emplacements and food supplies. A small supply ship anchored in the harbor had telephone communications with all principal shore points.

The German base, the second destroyed by American forces in the Greenland area, was discovered by a United States army sledge patrol. The patrol was attacked by the Germans but managed to report its discovery, although two of its members were captured and a third was killed.

British Push Reaches Sangro River

7-Mile Advance Puts Allies At New Winter Line

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 9 — (AP). — Cutting a new swath five miles deep through enemy positions, the British 8th Army on the Adriatic coast has seized positions overlooking the Sangro River and the heights beyond where the Germans are reported establishing the eastern anchor of an Italian "winter defence line," Allied headquarters announced today.

To the west the Nazis massed heavy formations of troops and of guns in the Mignano area, attempting to halt the Anglo-American 5th Army's drive toward Cassino on the main road to Rome.

They massed a powerful striking force for a counter-attack in the area five miles southwest of Mignano and west of Gallucio yesterday, but Allied guns laid down a curtain of artillery and mortar fire before the assault could be launched, dispersing the enemy.

Will Dig In

German prisoners reported the Nazi command planned to dig in for the winter on a line anchored in the west along the Garigliano River and the Aurnci Mountains, through the mountains near Mignano— where the Allied troops have won footholds — and across the Apennines to the Sangro River.

The 5th and 8th armies are ramming against this line in most sectors.

Moving along the Adriatic coastal sector, the 8th Army captured Torino Di Sangro, four miles northwest of captured Casalbordino, and Paglieta less than two miles from the Sangro River. This drive appeared to have caught the Nazis off balance.

Farther inland, frontline dispatches said, British, Canadian and Indian troops punched through Torrebruna, three miles west of Celenza gaining control of an additional sector of the valuable lateral road from Vasto to Isernia, practically all of which is either in Allied hands or under their gun muzzles.

The sector of this advance is more than 25 airlines miles northeast of the Isernia area where the Canadian 1st Division has been serving as the left wing of the 8th Army. Canadian units on the Torrebruna sector were not identified. Meanwhile in the mountains rising near Isernia the 8th Army, now joined by the Americans of the 5th Army, has occupied Pescolanciano, eight miles northeast of Isernia in a 1½ miles advance, and Fornelli, five miles west of Isernia, is threatened. Berlin announced its evacuation during the week-end.

On the air front, Allied planes bombed Durazzo harbor in Albania scoring a direct hit on a warehouse.

Considerable damage also was done to railway yards and repair shops adjacent to the plant.

Churchill Belittles Optimism Says Huns Have 400 Divisions

By E. C. DANIEL—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9—(AP).—Prime Minister Churchill gravely proclaimed the "impending ruin" of Germany today, but with all the force of his leadership and language warned that in his belief the Nazis' defeat could not come before 1944.

He said solemnly that the campaigns of next year may surpass the tragedies of Waterloo and Gettysburg, that "unless some happy event occurs, on which we have no right to count, 1944 will see the greatest sacrifice of the British and United States armies."

The valiant and brilliant Russian offensives have wrecked the German war machine and inflicted wounds "that may well prove fatal," he declared.

The Prime Minister said the back of the Nazi submarine warfare has been broken, and that the devastating air war upon the Reich has "been one of the prime forces in the impending ruin of the Hitler regime."

No Relaxation.

In an address broadcast to the world, Mr. Churchill said:

"I am myself proceeding on the assumption that the campaign of 1944 in Europe will be the most severe and most costly to the Allies yet fought.

"We must strain every nerve for its successful accomplishment. This is no time for relaxation."

Hitler still has 400 divisions, promises a desperate struggle; and "we cannot exclude the possibility of new forms of attack upon this island," Mr. Churchill warned in his address at the inaugural luncheon of the new lord mayor of London, Sir Frank Newton-Smith.

He repeated later in his address that "the year 1944 will see the greatest sacrifice of life of the British and American armies."

Noting that next year is election year in the United States: "I am sure I speak for all those on both sides of the Atlantic who mean the same thing—and they are numbered in scores of millions — when I say that our supreme duty, all of us, British and Americans alike, is to preserve the goodwill that now exists throughout the English-speaking world and thus aid our armies in their grim and heavy task."

In other high points of his address Mr. Churchill:

Vowed again his intention not to "liquidate the British Empire."

Stated bluntly that this "is no time for those who have practical war work to do to dream of a brave new world."

Of the Moscow conference, Mr. Churchill said "We have all been

25 Jap Warships Trapped In Rabaul Harbor Scatter Like Rabbits Under Hail Of Bombs

Advanced South Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 9 (AP)

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHS today showed a fleet of 25 Japanese warships penned in Rabaul Harbor trying to escape from dive bombers and torpedo bombers in the first attack on that fortress by aircraft launched from aircraft carriers.

The pictures show eight heavy cruisers, three light cruisers and 14 destroyers—all recent arrivals from Truk—moving in circles to elude the daylight attack last Friday.

One cruiser blew up, seven other cruisers and two destroyers were hit, and 20 Zeros shot down. Seven Allied dive-bombers were brought down by interceptors and anti-aircraft fire.

Fairy Godfather Identified Wealthy Ontario Contractor

By SCOTT YOUNG—Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 9—(CP).—Here's ten bucks, waiter ... It must be tough running this elevator, girl. Here's a fifty ... You feeling bad, soldier? Here's a hundred ... Hello, is that the switchboard? Send up here, I've got a cheque for a thousand to split up between you and the bellhops ... You have any kids, driver? A five-months-old son? He'll need a good start. Here's a cheque for two thousand....

It could only happen here, on this continent. And it has—in Canada. There's a new suspense about being a bellhop in Toronto, now; new life in waiting on tables. Because there's always the possibility that a big man grey-haired, smoking a big cigar and giving out with a big grin, will step up and slip you a week's pay, or two-weeks' pay, or a cheque big enough to pay off the mortgage.

A Millionaire.

The man is Harry F. MacLean, the 60-year-old head of the Dominion Construction Corporation, Ltd., of Toronto, whose home is in Merrickville, Ont. For at least 10 years he has alternately cajoled reporters in various Canadian cities into not mentioning his name, even if they had to write about his strange, direct philanthropies. He's a man reputedly worth millions of dollars, and he likes giving them away.

He won't be interviewed about this hobby of his. People have tried. One newspaperman staggered away from an interview carrying about 10,000 cigarettes and several boxes of expensive cigars because he had decided to respect a confidence and not mention MacLean's name.

In a story about a man who gave away fifty-dollar bills to bellhops and bought a hotel floor-clerk a phonograph—"so sre wouldn't be so lonely." And that was 10 years ago, in Toronto.

Travelling Now.

Right now Harry MacLean probably is somewhere about 40 hours travelling time away from Halifax, his fur-collared coat open, felt hat pushed back, money in hand. He may be in New York, or Montreal, or Ottawa, or Toronto, or he may be back home in Merrickville, Ont. Behind him, in the last week or so, he has left about $15,000 in

Pope Doubts Nazi Charges

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 9 (AP) —Vatican City authorities believe that not even a technical investigation would establish responsibility for Friday night's bombing of Vatican City, the Swiss Telegraph Agency said today.

Because of this, the dispatch added, it is likely Pope Pius XII will address himself once more to all belligerents and neutrals to ask that "profanation of the capital of the Christian world be not added to the many sorrows now bloodying the earth."

The Swiss newspaper Gazette De Laueanne noted the belligerents' accusations of each other for the incident, but declared "England could have no advantage in directing her bombs at Vatican City—but all to the contrary. The fact the bombs were of British manufacture (as contended by Germany) is not sufficient proof. Many have fallen without exploding and could be reconditioned. Thus it is natural that a lively protest was raised against the accusation . . . It would not be the first such act for the Germans. We recall the Reichstag fire which blazed in the infancy of Nazism, concerning which there still are doubts."

Russia Suggests Turks Take Part

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 9 — (AP). — Discussing decisions of the Moscow Conference pertaining to the shortening of the war, the magazine War and the Working Class said editorially: "The value of these decisions will be gauged by just how and to what degree and with what speed" they are carried out.

The task now is "practical fulfilment," it declared and "it is of extreme importance that the obligations which were accepted by our Allies and now are confirmed by the conference be fulfilled in time."

As for Turkey and the other neutrals, it continued, "a change-over by these countries to a policy of direct assistance of the anti-Hitlerite coalition in the battle against the already-cracked German Fascism is very important to the problem of hastening the end of the war."

The Moscow declaration of the principle of sovereign equality of all peace-loving states puts an end "to all sorts of artificial plans for creation of a federation of central and eastern European states," the editorial said.

Allies Can Pulverize Coast Defences

Rapid Growth In Air Strength Brings Invasion Closer

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Fuehrer Hitler in his rat-in-the corner speech in the Munich beer cellar yesterday challenged the Allies to open a second front in Europe, which probably was an answer to Premier Stalin's promise last Saturday that the second front "is not far off."

Since such invasion talk is in the air, and in fact has all Europe tingling with invasionitis, this would seem to be a good time to answer a couple of questions.

One is, why, if the Allied air forces are able to do such enormous damage to Hamburg and to other German cities, those same bombers can't destroy the Hitlerite defences over hundreds of square miles on the French coast and thus pave the way for the landing of a great army in the immediate future without undue loss.

Well, that certainly is a legitimate query and it puts a finger on the basic tactics upon which the Allies will depend when they get ready for the great adventure across the English Channel. The answer is that the Anglo-American navies in Europe could do the job.

Having said this, however, it must be pointed out that up until recently neither the British nor the American air fleets were strong enough for such an undertaking—or to do round the-clock big-scale bombing of German cities, for that matter.

There have been other delaying factors. It has been essential to destroy Hitler's war industries as the sure and quick way of crippling his army, which is his most powerful weapon. This has called for the employment of all the bombing strength the Allies could muster.

The other question is why the Allies haven't invaded Yugoslavia before this. The answer involved several factors. For one thing the Russians haven't wanted an invasion of this territory, which they regard as their sphere of influence. The position may have changed in this respect, however, since the tripartite conference which developed such friendly co-operation among the Big Three.

Another and important reason is that before invading Yugoslavia the Allies had to have control of southern Italy, with plenty of airfields from which to operate. And the fact is that the Anglo-American drive up the Italian peninsula hasn't gone as well as expected.

Aid Farmers In Building

Get 10 Per Cent. Reduction On Lumber

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP)—Farmers who find new building essential for storing grain or housing livestock have been protected against higher lumber prices, effective in August, through payment of a 10-per-cent consumer subsidy by the Prices Stability Corporation, a branch of the Prices Board, officials said today.

The Prices Board ruling says "Any civilian purchasing lumber for use in assisting the primary production of essential foods is eligible for a consumer subsidy."

"In general, the subsidy means that farmers and other primary food producers can purchase their lumber at 10 per cent below the current retail price," one official said.

The subsidy is also payable to fishermen, co-operatives, unincorporated associations and incorporated farms. It also may be granted in assisting the restoration of essential business buildings when the proprietor himself is bearing the cost of rebuilding.

Grip Tightened On Austria

Austrians Hoist Flag And Call For Republic

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(CP). — The Nazi-controlled Bratislava radio said today in a broadcast reported by the Daily Mail that a German elite division from East Prussia had marched into Vienna yesterday, ready "to give everything for the fight—even their lives if necessary.

A further indication of Nazi moves to tighten the grip on Austria as a result of the Moscow conference's "free Austria pledge" was seen in Hitler's promotion of two Austrian governors, Siegfried Uiberreither of Carinthia and August Eigruber of Upper Austria, to the rank of full general of storm troops.

The promotions were announced by the Berlin radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information.

(A report from Zurich to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, meanwhile, said that workers in Vienna's industrial area of Seomering demonstrated Saturday and hoisted the Austrian flag. The newspaper added hundreds of workers were arrested.

(Signs reading "Long Live the Austrian Republic" were stretched across the streets, the report said.)

Coal Strike In West Continuing

Ottawa Proposal Rejected By Canadian Miners

CALGARY, Nov. 9—(CP).—Most of the 8,500 coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia today continued their strike—now in its ninth day—despite instructions from District 18, United Mine Workers of America, headquarters in Calgary, to return to work.

Settlement of the strike was announced in Ottawa Saturday, following conferences of District 18 officials with Labor Minister Mitchell.

In British Columbia, 2,350 miners decided to remain from their jobs pending further union meetings today. While they endorsed to back-to-work message from Robert Livett, president of District 18, the men shelved immediate return to the pits until they received reports from other locals in District 18.

In the Crow's Nest Pass steam coal field, 2,000 miners ignored the back-to-work order and strike continues indefinitely in the five big mines there. At a Blairmore meeting yesterday, 1,250 miners, by an overwhelming majority, rejected the settlement proposal of Mr. Mitchell.

Officials of the Blairmore local union announced that the mass meeting decided to circularize other sub-district locals of District 18, urging rejection of the strike settlement offer.

Reinstatement of J. L. Cohen, formerly a Labor member of the National War Labor Board, was requested in a resolution passed almost unanimously by the men. It will be forwarded to the Federal Government.

Push On Europe Looms Closer

By JUDSON McQUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Nov. 9 — (AP). — With British, American and Canadian troops girding swiftly for an invasion of Western Europe, the impression prevailed in London today that the hour for the second front promised by Marshal Joseph Stalin had been advanced materially as a result of the close military co-operation envisaged at the Moscow conference.

Considering the Russians' past winter successes, their drive may not pause until spring. Since the spring pause in Russia for the past two years had been a long one—an Allied attack during that period would lack the advantage of simultaneous pressure from the East.

Consequently, the most favorable time for an invasion of the greatest advantage to all three Powers would seem to be before the spring lull, or after—and scarcely anyone here believes it will be that late.

Nazi news broadcasts have been suggesting an early Allied hop across the Chanel into France from Southern England, where the Germans said an invasion fleet and troops were being assembled. Stalin's promise that the second front is near could mean that Berlin is right and an invasion is imminent—more imminent at least than the original schedules contemplated.

Beer Customers Get Consideration

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP)—A Toronto papers says today that the Ontario Government would take action within a month to remedy "certain undesirable conditions" in the sale of beer including steps to do away with lineups of customers at beer warehouses.

The paper said that Attorney General Blackwell had been conferring with officials of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario on the matter and that reports soon would go to the cabinet.

The article said there was little possibility the government would follow a suggestion last night by T. A. Murphy, Progressive Conservative M.P. for Toronto Beaches, who suggested that beer be sold at grocery stores to avoid lineups at warehouses.

Immigration Policy

TORONTO, Nov. 9 — (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, yesterday told a meeting of Jewish National Workers' Alliance that a change in Ottawa's policy toward the immigration of refugees from enemy-occupied countries of Europe is "long overdue."

ALWAYS TIRED —Yet Sleep Didn't Help!

Doesn't it feel swell to wake up in the morning clear-eyed, refreshed, full of pep? Yet so many, especially over 40, get up tired all over, with aching joints, never really feel their best.

The reason is usually a common complaint—a system clogged with poisonous food waste. Like most people, you need help to clean out a sluggish system, get back pep and sparkle rightfully yours. The natural action of BILE BEANS is a mild yet effective aid thousands rely on.

Made from 10 pure vegetable extracts, Bile Beans are so gentle they are called "The Medicine That Copies Nature". These small laxative liver pills tone up entire system by stimulating flow of liver bile, so essential to good digestion and daily regularity.

You, too, can enjoy that "glad-to-be-alive" feeling every day. Try Bile Beans tonight—they work while you sleep. Over 7 million boxes used last year, convincing evidence of how greatly they are helping others. 37

Camp Borden Workshops Razed By Fire

The costly fire which razed the army ordnance shops at Camp Borden is under investigation by Ontario fire marshal officials. Possibility of sabotage is considered.

Japanese Use New Type Bombs

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 9.—(AP).—Phosphorous bombs, which looked when they first burst like tentacled octopi, then shoot forth smoke and flame, have been added to Rabaul's defences, by the Japanese, desperate for ways to prevent that key base from being bombed out of the war. But the Allied campaign moves ahead.

Headquarters, in listing losses of 63 Japanese planes within the past 48 hours, reported 35 were wiped out Sunday at Rabaul by American bombers and fighters.

The heavy bombers exploded 84 tons of bombs accurately among dispersal bays and installations of the Rapopo airdrome, blowing up nine enemy bombers and three fighters on the ground and shooting down 13 Zeros. The fighters, at a loss of five of their own force, shot down 10 other Zeros. Eight other Japanese planes probably were destroyed.

Meanwhile United States marines strove in torrential rain to expand their Empress Augusta Bay positions on the west-central coast of Bougainville, eastern approach to New Britain.

ly," Nancy replied.

Higgs brought out that the typhoid fever required some oral surgery, and explained that there is still some work to be done.

Answering Higgs, Nancy said: "I discovered I was pregnant in the hospital in Mexico."

Sex Maniac.

Before Nancy started her testimony, Leonarde Keller, private criminologist, testified for the defence that in his opinion a fingerprint in evidence against De Marigny did not come from a bedscreen in the death room, as the Crown contended.

Nancy told of a dinner party on March 27 at her home, at which Sir Harry and her brother, now Sir Sidney, were guests.

"Father was very jovial," she said, "until suddenly he jumped up and said he and Sidney must go.

"Alfred went with him to the front as he went to the car. There was a terrific uproar. My father was very shocking. We were all amazed and astounded."

Other witnesses have said that Sir Harry called De Marigny a "sex maniac" at the time.

Keeler was employed by De Marigny's wife, Nancy, who waited to go to the stand as the final defence witness and assert her belief that her husband did not attack her wealthy father.

Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police, called in to help solve the slaying, testified that he found the impression of De Marigny's right little finger on a bedscreen in the room at Westbourne, Oakes' estate, where Sir Harry was killed.

Barker introduced exhibit J — a piece of adhesive rubber onto which he said he lifted the print from the bedscreen.

Keeler described tests he made on a similar screen.

In the presence of Major Herbert Pemberton of the Nassau police, Keeler said, he applied fingerprints in the top six inches of a panel and lifted them.

"What did you use, Scotch tape?" asked the Chief Justice.

"Yes, sir," said Keeler.

"Are you a fingerprint expert?" inquired the Justice.

"No, sir. I don't call myself an expert," said the witness.

"Then I don't see the value of your testimony if you are not an expert," Sir Oscar commented.

Keeler described his qualifications as a laboratory, rather than a courtroom expert.

"In my opinion," said the witness, "exhibit J could not have come from panel five."

Barker has said that he cannot point to the exact spot from which he lifted the print, but he recalled that it came from the top six inches of panel five.

Chief Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs has suggested the print was faked.

Sir Oscar opened the session by reading back his account of the testimony of Maurice B. O'Neil, New Orleans police captain, who also said he did not believe that exhibit J was taken from the screen.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM A. GOW.

The funeral of the late William A. Gow, who recently passed away in Lytton, B.C., was held from the Nisbett Funeral Home, followed by interment at Little Lake Cemetery, under Masonic rites. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Havelock officiated at the services, assisted by R. F. Downey, J. F. Allin, E. R. Shirley, Corinthian Lodge No. 101, and Claude M. Elliott, Peterborough Lodge No. 155, A.F. & A.M.

The late Mr. Gow spent the early part of his life around Dummer and then went to the West coast, where he was employed as agent of the Canadian National Railroad at Hazelton, B.C., for the past thirty years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Laura M. Jory; a sister, Mrs. D. Payne of Warsaw, and a brother, Charles E. Gow of Prince George, B.C.

Many floral tributes were received from friends and fellow workers, including offerings from Mr. and Mrs. G. Fraser, Teepee Creek, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, Sexsmith, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Jory and family, Teepee Creek; Charles E. Gow, Prince George, B.C.; Smithers and Kamloops Division of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers; residents of Hazelton; the Fraternity Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Peterborough; the Dixon family, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Payne of Warsaw; the Hamlin family, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. "In U. N. R. R. A. we have devised a mechanism, based on the processes of true democracy which can go far toward accomplishment of such an objective in the days and months of desperate emergency which will follow the overthrow of the Axis."

Mr. Roosevelt said responsibilty for alleviating the suffering and misery occasioned by the German and Japanese campaigns of plunder and destruction "must be assumed not by any individual nation, but by all the united and associated nations acting together."

A Joint Effort

"No one country," he added, "could—or should — attempt to bear the burden of meeting the vast relief needed — either in money or in supplies."

He said the organization will have to operate at first in areas of food shortages because many of the most fertile food regions of the world are either under Axis domination or "have been stripped by the practice of the dictatorship to make themselves self-sustaining on other people's lands."

"Additional regions will be blackened as the German and the Japanese forces in their retreat scorch the earth behind them."

The co-operating nations, working in these food shortage areas until the resumption of peaceful occupations enables the liberated peoples once more to assume the full burden of their own support, must assure a fair distribution of available supplies among all of the liberated peoples and ward off death by starvation or exposure, Mr. Roosevelt said.

In Toronto, the Globe and Mail in its issue to-day said that "journalism's unwritten law has been broken in Halifax and every reporter in Toronto is wondering if he'll ever get another story from fabulous Harry F. Hitler Threatens Mass Killings

LONDON, Nov. 9 — (CP). — Adolf Hitler's address yesterday on the 20th anniversary of his abortive Munich Beer Hall putsch was generally interpreted here to-day as an attempt to stir the German people to a final effort and bolster morale sagging under reverses in Russia and Allied bombings.

Press commentators noted that the Feuhrer, while voicing as usual his own confidence in victory, acknowledged that there were some inside Germany who believed defeat to be inevitable. He warned that those who lost their nerve would be liquidated, prompting the Daily Sketch to say editorially:

"Nothing that anyone could say could more damningly condemn Hitler's wicked dictatorship than his own words—that German loyalty will be preserved even if it takes the headsman's axe to do it."

The general theme of the speech, coming in the midst of a great military crisis, as that "this time there must be no 1918 betrayal of the German army."

(BBC engineers in London said the broadcast apparently was made from a recording.)

cheered" and he looked forward to welcoming home Foreign Secretary Eden from his successful mission. He paid tribute to Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, as "that gallant American eagle."

Russia Satisfied.

The Moscow accord "has had the effect of making our Russian friends feel as they never felt before that it is the heartfelt wish of our British and American nations to fight the war out with them in loyal alliance and afterwards to work with them on the basis of mutual respect and comradeship for resettlement and rebuilding of this distracted, tormented world."

Sounding again a note of unconditional surrender, he declared "we must make sure that confusion and chaos do not follow the victories of the army or stultify the unexpected surrender of the enemy."

Forcibly, Mr. Churchill predicted great and grim casualties before victory is won.

"The campaign of 1944 in Europe will be the most severe and costly" yet undertaken by the Allies," he said.

"We must strain every nerve for its successful accomplishment. This is no time for relaxation.

"It is a reasonable assumption that unless we make some grave strategical mistake, the year 1944 will see a climax of the European war."

His speech to the Lord Mayor's banquet, held amid the ancient panoply of the Mansion House, was his first since the triumphant Moscow accord and the breaching of the Nazis' Dnieper Line by Stalin's armies. The Prime Minister surveyed the course of the struggle with satisfaction that plainly was touched with much restraint.

Speaking of the change of "new forms of attack" on Britain, Mr. Churchill said "whatever happens, they will not be of a nature to affect the final course of the war, but should they come they will certainly call for the utmost efficiency and devotion."

The central theme and purpose of his address was to combat Allied over-confidence. Next year's campaigns, he said, would probably see "the greatest sacrifice of life by the British and American armies and battles far larger and more costly that Waterloo or Gettysburg."

Reseed With Planes Now

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 9 (AP). — Reseeding sparse rangeland from the air so it will feed several times as many cattle is the newest project of the U.S. Grazing Service in Idaho. Clyde Bryant, flying a specially designed plane, reseeded a 2,000-acre burned-over tract in 3½ hours' flying time.

OAKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 9 (CP). —Breeders from Ontario, Quebec, and the United States on Saturday attended the Canadian Classic Ayrshire Sale here in which 46 cows and heifers were sold for $23,040. Average sale price of $500.87 was the highest paid for registered Ayrshire cattle in thirty years.

Provinces May Endorse Labor Program

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP)—The Federal Labor Department hoped today to gain provincial endorsation for a legislative program to provide for compulsory collective bargaining and arbitration in war industries.

At meetings held yesterday the provinces expressed what a government spokesman described as "general agreement" with the principles of the legislation. A committee was appointed to draft more detailed recommendations and report to a third meeting of Dominion and provincial officials today.

Labor Minister Mitchell presided at the first meeting yesterday morning and outlined the broad terms of the program. Provincial representatives had been provided before the conference with copies of the majority and minority reports of the National War Labor Board, on which the legislation is based.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting there was general discussion on various phases of the program, which the Federal department hopes will curb jurisdiction disputes and remove some of the conflict between labor and management.

HAVELOCK
Herbert Bowen Dies In Yard

HAVELOCK, Nov. 9 — (ENS). — Neighbors were shocked Sunday morning to find the lifeless body of Herbert Francis Bowen in the yard at his home in Belmont township.

When he failed to make his weekly trip Saturday to the store in Cordova neighbors went over the next morning to investigate, as he lived alone, and found him dead. The coroner, Dr. D. J. Holdcroft, of Havelock, said death had followed a heart attack, and that he had been dead for a number of days.

The late Mr. Bowen was born over 71 years ago in Belmont township, a son of the late Daniel Bowen and Amelia Weeks. All of his life was spent in farming, and he made many friends. He was married to Miss Charlotte Youmans, who predeceased him 37 years ago.

Left to mourn him are two sisters and two brothers: Mrs. James McCurdy and Edward Bowen of Cordova, Mrs. Andrew Buchanan of Havelock and Charlie Bowen of Peterborough. The funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. James McCurdy, to the Free Methodist Church today. The service was conducted by Rev. J. Hicks, with interment at Rockdale Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Lorne, Harry and Ray Bowen, Edward and James McCurdy and Forest Hay.

CAMPBELLFORD
Woman Injured In Car Smash

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9 (ENS) —Mrs. Raymond Murphy received a slight knee injury and a shaking up when she and her 2-year-old son were in a motor crash on Sevastopol street at 11 o'clock Monday night.

They were driving with her husband, Raymond Murphy, on their way home to Seymour West when they collided with a car driven by J. P. Wood of Campbellford. Eric McComb was the only passenger in the car, owned by W. D. Wood, the driver's father, and neither was injured. At the time of the accident Mr. Wood was driving in an easterly direction and both machines were badly damaged from the force of the impact, which threw the Murphy coupe to the north side of the road where it crashed against the curb.

Both cars were so badly smashed that they had to be towed from the scene. The accident was investigated by Chief Constable George Hardy, and Dr. W. Baker treated Mrs. Murphy, after which she was able to return home.

No Radio Licenses 17 Farmers Fined

One city resident was convicted in police court this morning on a charge of operating a radio receiving set without a license, and seventeen residents of the district entered written pleas of guilty to the same charge.

The city man was Arthur A. Gibson who was found guilty on the evidence of M. E. Leslie, radio inspector. The latter said that he had found a radio in Gibson's car, the accused admitted that he had no license and witness on turning on the set said that he could hear a broadcast from station CHEX.

Gibson said that the radio was an old one that he had just installed in his car two days before. He wanted to see if it were any good, he said, before spending money for a license. Magistrate Langley registered a conviction and fined Gibson $3 and $1.75 costs.

The seventeen county residents who entered pleas of guilty and were fined $3 and $2.75 costs were Gerald Adamson, Keene; Norman Edmison, R.R. 4, Peterborough; Gilman Westman, R.R. 3; Ross Comrie, Keene; Lloyd McNavan, Keene; David McNevan, Keene; Harry Renwick, Keene; Hilliard Strong, North Monaghan; Clarence Robertson, R. R. 3.; A. M. Lang, North Monaghan; J. Norman Lillico, North Monaghan; Fred Nelson, Keene; John Stalker, R.R. 4; James Welsh, R.R. 10, Peterborough; Melville Deyell, R.R. 2, Peterborough and Harry Short, Keene.

Arena Committee Gets Organization Plans

The public of Peterborough that hopes for an early end of the war and getting on with the business of building an artificial ice arena will be interested in the progress report of the provisional committee.

Three committees are proposed, finance, site and building, and publicity, and certain nominations of officers have also been considered, but this part of the preliminary work is not yet complete.

The main fact is that the committee has set itself into motion, with the enthusiasm imparted from Mayor Hamilton's meeting directing the group who were asked to take up the first planning.

It is understood that C. S. Cummer has been suggested for the office of treasurer, J. J. Dorris as corresponding secretary and Garf Torrance as recording secretary. Some of the members of the committee have taken to the woods for a week or ten days, and until the return home and to normalcy again the arena project will be hung up on a hook.

Drew Outlines Reforms In Education

TORONTO, Nov. 9 — Premier George A. Drew, in his capacity as Minister of Education, last night gave a broad picture of fundamental principles which he felt should be kept in mind in any revision of the education system in Ontario.

Addressing a mass meeting in Convocation Hall under the auspices of the Toronto Teachers' Council which marked the opening of Education Week, the Premier made these specific points:

The Government in exploring the possibility of extending the educational system by the use of sound film and gramophone records in the schools to aid in teaching speech, music, physics and other subjects. Plans have been made for the introduction of this equipment in the schools as soon as production can be diverted to material of this kind.

Physical training and mental training must go hand in hand, and in assuring physical health as part of the system of education the Government plans to go beyond medical and dental inspection.

Emphasize History

Greater emphasis will be placed on the teaching of history, not as a cold record of dead people and dead events, but as a living picture of the past. The Government holds that "a decent love of one's own country should be instilled in the minds of our youth by the training in our schools."

The role of the teacher in moulding society must be fully recognized, and steps have already been taken for the purpose of establishing a more satisfactory basis of salary and continuity of employment, but these changes cannot be accomplished overnight.

In his reference to the steps al-

Pulhems System Working Fine

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP)—The army reported today in a press release the new Pulhems system of medical and psychological examination of recruits is doing a "highly efficient" job of placing men in duties best suited to their capabilities.

To meet the more exacting requirements of specialized war, Canadian Army physicians got together with psychologists to develop the new system, which since has been adopted by the British Army and which replaces the old "A," "B" and "C" systems of medical categories.

"Pulhems" is a name coined from the initials of seven human factors which enter into the physical description it provides: "Physique," "upper" body and upper limbs, "locomotion" or lower limbs, "hearing," "eyesight," "mentality" and emotional "stability."

There are gradings numbered one to five in each of the seven divisions, and man's grading in the seven divisions determines the job he is able to do. If his gradings are too low, he is not accepted for service.

Victory Loan Staff Did Efficient Work

Generous Mr. X Identified; Reporters Irked

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—Journalism's unwritten law—never betray a confidence—has been broken in Halifax, and every reporter in Toronto is wondering if he'll ever get another story from fabulous Harry F. McLean.

Harry F. McLean is the mysterious Mr. X, who tossed away $5,000 in $100 bills a couple of weeks ago at Christie St. Hospital.

He is the mysterious Mr. X, who tossed away $2,000 to bellhops and elevator operators and any one else who happened along last week-end in Halifax.

He is the 60-year-old head of a construction company, and lives in Merrickville, Ont. For the last 10 years he has alternately browbeaten and cajoled reporters across the country into not mentioning his name, even if they had to write about his strange, direct philanthropies.

The Globe and Mail knew about Harry. Staff Writer Jack Hambleton had to swear secrecy until he was blue in the face when he interviewed him after the Christie St. episode. Staff Writer Ralph Hyman has known about him for 10 years.

Scott Young of The Canadian Press reports that "there's something strange and wonderful about driving a cab in Halifax, or shining shoes, or even standing at a counter waiting for change, because there's always the possibility that a big man, grey-haired, smoking a big cigar and giving out with a big grin, will step up and slip you a week's pay, or two weeks' pay, or a cheque big enough to pay off the mortgage."

But now the bubble has been broken. Harry F. McLean, who shuns the spotlight, might not do these things again, now that he has been unmasked—now that journalism's unwritten law has been broken.

Sforza Spurns King's Gesture

THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHERN ITALY, Nov. 9 — (AP). — Prospects of assembling a patchwork cabinet representing the various Italian political factions faded today with Count Carlo Sforza's refusal to join any government headed by King Victor Emmanuel.

Sforza, pre-Fascist foreign minister who returned to Italy recently after a long sojourn in the United States, was said to have the support of the leaders of Italy's six anti-Fascist political parties.

The sudden flurry of political activity thus simmered down to a political truce based on Sforza's promise of "parallel" collaboration at least until Rome is retaken by the Allies.

It was expected the Badoglio government would make some official statement soon on its plans during the interim. Allied officials have been following a strictly hands off policy.

Helped Impersonator

HALIFAX, Nov. 9 (CP). —Gerald Lowe of Halifax was fined $75 in police court Saturday for his part in a court episode involving a synthetic Eskimo. Lowe was the companion of Paul Beckstead, Canadian Navy man from Lexington, Ky., who posed as an Eskimo in court here recently, with Lowe as his "interpreter."

Gaspe Fishermen Work On The Vitamin Front

Three thousand Canadian fishermen from the villages of the Gaspe peninsula are now just winding up a profitable season in cod, given great importance because cod liver oil is a prime source of valuable vitamins. On the LEFT, Gaston Herald, employee at the cod liver oil plant at Gaspe, Quebec, takes samples of the oil from the filter system. On the RIGHT, Jean Colombo shows his pal what a real big cod is—a 50-pounder with plenty of liver.

CAMPBELLFORD

Capt. A. Turnbull Given New Post

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9 (ENS) —People of various religious faiths were represented at the Salvation Army Citadel Sunday as Captain Alex. Turnbull said farewell to the congregation he had come to serve in September 1941. Announcement of the change was made last week when Captain and Mrs. Turnbull were advised they were to take up their new duties on Parliament street, Toronto, and that they would be replaced by Captain and Mrs. E. Jarrett of that city.

Captain Turnbull not only fulfilled his mission in charge of the local corps but took an active part in the affairs of the community. Succeeding Adjutant K. Graham with the rank of Lieutenant, he directed the remodelling of the citadel, which is now one of the finest religious buildings, took an active part in directing the Youth Group and was frequently a guest of other Young Peoples' groups.

Captain Turnbull carried on his work energetically and was active not only in religious circles and in the Ministerial Association, but was one of the most enthusiastic members of the local Rotary Club which he served as song leader. He married in Toronto last July and his wife has shared with him his interest in the work of the local corps for which he had been both director and its good will ambassador throughout the district. Captain and Mrs. Turnbull will leave this week and their successors will hold their initial services in the Citadel next Sunday.

Priests Transferred In Peterboro Diocese

COBOURG, Nov. 9—(ENS)—Rev. John Ryan, formerly of St. Michael's parish, Cobourg, who has been in charge of the Grafton and Colborne parish, has been transferred to Parry Sound, where he will be assistant priest. Rev. Peter Butler, for ten years stationed at Kinmount, will take over the Grafton and Colborne charge. Rev. Gregory Wolff, formerly at Cobourg, but of late attached to St. Peter's at Peterborough, has been appointed in charge of the newly-created parish of Powassan. The changes at Grafton and Colborne become effective next Sunday, it was announced yesterday from St. Michael's.

Lodge Holds Euchre

HAVELOCK, Nov. 8.—(ENS).—A successful euchre was sponsored by the Dorcas Rebekah Lodge, when 13 tables were played. First prize was awarded Mrs. Harry Hubble. The consolation award went to Mrs. Arthur Russell. The lodge decided to hold a euchre regularly.

CAMPBELLFORD

Former Minister Finds Many Eskimo Pagans

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9. — (ENS).—Some idea of what living in one of Canada's northern outposts as a missionary was like was gained by members of Christ Church W.A. at their meeting Monday when the secretary, Mrs. M. H. West, read a letter from Mrs. A. C. Herbert, who is living at Eskimo Point in Hudson Bay.

Rev. and Mrs. Herbert left this district with their three children in September to take up their duties in the north and Mrs. Herbert told the W.A. that the only other white people at this settlement were the Hudson Bay post manager, his wife, a clerk, 2 R.C.M.P. officers and some young men of the U. S. Army Air Corps. Next Sunday a religious service is held for the white people, she said, while reaching the Eskimos is mainly a matter of going out to visit their settlements, Mrs. Herbert declared there were many pagans among them and a great deal of work to do.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Archer and plans were made to send their bale to the W.A. House in Toronto instead of direct to Bishop Sovereign as had been done in former years. It was felt that by doing this supplies could be appropriated where they were most needed.

Young People Discuss Reports On Congress

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9 (ENS) —Reports on the Young Peoples' Congress held here last week was discussed by members of Stephen's church (Hoards) Y.P.U. There were twenty-five at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Ed. Rannie, and Mr. Harold Carr was in charge of the worship service. The Congress reports replaced the usual topic and Mrs. Jack Rannie gave the general report which was supplemented by further comments from Harold Milne, a member of the executive. The program was in charge of Miss Helen Carr and included a solo by Florence Rannie; a reading, Stewart Milne; vocal duet, Jean Rannie and Marilyn Thompson; contest, Helen Parr.

Merchant Sailors Fined

HALIFAX, Nov. 9 — (CP). — Twelve merchant seamen were fined a total of $265 in juvenile court here Saturday after pleading guilty to contributing to juvenile delinquency by buying stolen Red Cross goods from a group of six boys, aged eight to 13.

Rabbi Denies Campaign

MONTREAL, Nov. 9 — (CP).— "The whole thing is nothing but a fabrication from beginning to end," Rabbie Jesse Swartz said here to-day after reading a statement by Maurice Duplessis, in which the Opposition leader in the Quebec Legislature denounced what he termed a campaign launched by Zionists to establish 100,000 Jewish refugees from Central Europe on Quebec farms.

GORE'S LANDING

Old Harris' Home Sold To H. Budd

GORE'S LANDING, Nov. 9 — (ENS). — The sale of the White House in this village to Howard Budd of Cobourg was made recently, thereby closing out the last parcel of property in the estate of the late Pasker B. Harris, who died three years ago in British Columbia.

The White House was built in the sixties by the late Alfred Harris, and is three storeys high, with two verandahs surrounding the house. The late Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hunt and family lived in this home for some time, also the late William Edmison of Harwood kept a boarding-house here. Mr. and Mrs. George Braithwaite ran the White House as a summer hotel, in the days when dinner parties drove from Cobourg and Port Hope in a democrat and team of horses.

For many years the late Mrs. Frank D. Herald was well known as caterer for dinner parties and tourists from the United States were annual visitors. Thereafter, Mrs. Herald moved to Cobourg, the building was rented as a tourist lodge, but the ventures were unsuccessful and until four years ago it remained empty, and then was occupied by the Thackeray family from Saskatchewan.

HARWOOD

Institute Decides To Have Serving Club

HARWOOD, Nov. 9 (ENS)—Mrs. Wallace Bell was hostess to the Women's Institute for the November meeting. It was decided to send $10 to the War Victims' Santa Claus fund, and plans were made to have a community sewing club, which will meet November 18 at the home of Mrs. Walter Johnson, for Red Cross work.

Mrs. T. Callahan, leader of the girls' work, reported on the training school at Warkworth. Reports were given by Mrs. H. Graham on knitting and Mrs. Bell on sewing, and the Red Cross report by Lottie Drope.

Christmas parcels will be sent to the soldiers and Wrens from this community. The prayer for peace was said by Mrs. Walter Johnson, and the War Savings Stamp was won by Mrs. Glenn Hogg. Rita Bell read an article on "Princess Elizabeth," Mrs. C. Burrison a poem "Men Who Fly." Mrs. R. S. Johnson and Mrs. R. E. Drope spoke on the Belleville convention. "The Knitting Brigade" was given by Francis Corkery and Mrs. Aldridge talked on "The Last Crusade."

Dangerous Dreamers

Trade Barriers Face Reduction When War Ends

TORONTO, Nov. 9 — (CP). — Sir Alan Garrett Anderson, leader of a delegation of the British National Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, touring the United States and Canada, yesterday said one of the most important post-war problems will be a reduction in trade barriers.

Sir Alan, who also is Controller of Railways in the British Ministry of War Transport and a director of the Bank of England, said the delegation is visiting this country in an unofficial capacity to discuss post-war problems with branches of the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce.

When the war is over, he said, there will be a great demand for all commodities and "the world trade market should be on a competitive basis."

What we want is the freest possible trade throughout the world."

Referring to trade between Canada and Britain, he said, that if Canada "wants to go on importing, she must accept goods and services in exchange, or else she won't be able to sell her exports."

"You in Canada will be a creditor nation after the war. You will have the goods we need and we will want to trade freely."

Asked if Britain would deal with the Axis countries, he said he believed she hoped to trade with them but until the infection is cured, the people have to be quarantined." Probably, Britain will be able to trade with some countries before others, he stated, depending on the different elements of trade.

In an address to the Toronto Canadian Club, Sir Alan said "We are here.....to discuss with our business colleagues how we can dissect the knotted problem of world commerce after the war and how we can tidy them up.

"The world failed by the war (First Great War) to solve these problems and we drifted into this war. We have another chance."

Utilities Fixes Kelly Insurance

COBOURG, Nov. 9.—(ENS). — The insurance carried by the Cobourg Public Utilities on Engineer Kelly, now in the Navy, has been reinstated it was announced Monday night at the meeting of Cobourg Public Utilities.

Due to the fact that the insurance company and the Utilities did not see eye to eye on a new phase of the policy, the company cancelled the insurance some months ago. After a number of conferences the matter has been adjusted.

"We made every effort to get the insurance on Mr. Kelly straightened up. We hesitated signing because the extent of the changes in cost was not at that time available and we didn't want to commit the Commission to something so indefinite. However, at no time was there any intention on our part that Mr. Kelly would be without insurance coverage. When the company cancelled the policy we immediately set to work to see how it could be reinstated and we are glad to announce that the whole matter has been straightened up," declared Chairman Harry McGuire.

CAMPBELLFORD

Salvation Army Holds Service For W. Runions

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 9 (ENS) —The Salvation Army Citadel was filled Sunday evening as memorial services were held for Bugler William Runions, the thirteenth casualty of World War II from this district. The popularity of the young man, who was killed in Italy on October 27, was seen from the large number who were present in the Citadel. Captain Alex. Turnbull conducted the service and on a table at the front of the hall was a picture of the boy who was killed and beside it a wreath provided by members of the family. The sounding of the Last Post and Reveille by Bugler Charles Battman punctuated the two minutes silence observed by the gathering.

JOHN HALES.

APSLEY, Nov. 9.—(ENS).—Word was received here this week of the death in Moose Jaw of a former resident, John Hales. He came to Chandos when a child and at one time farmed north of Apsley.

In 1912 he went to Buttress, Sask., where he farmed for a number of years, later retiring and living in Moose Jaw. Mr. Hales was Reeve of Chandos for a time, and in the council at Buttress.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, formerly Kathrine McFadden, three sons, Sherman and Leonard of Moose Jaw and Pte. Harcourt overseas and one daughter, Kathleen of Moose Jaw, also one brother, B. J. Hales, B.A., of Brandon, Man., two sisters, Mrs. A. W. Pattison, of LLorlie, Sask., and Mrs. M. R. Snelgrove of Swan River, Man.

MRS. REUBEN BUTCHART.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 9 — (ENS). — Mrs. Leonora Whitehead Butchart, journalist, and mother of Miss Shirley L. Muir, for some years principal of the Millbrook Continuation School, died suddenly at her home, 27 Albany Avenue, Toronto, last week. The funeral took place Saturday, with interment in Park Lawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Butchart was born in Eramosa township, later lived at Walkerton, and after graduating from the Toronto Conservatory of Music, was a successful teacher of the piano for some years. In literary circles she was well known, and had an active membership in the Dickens' Fellowship Club. Mrs. Butchart had made friends when she visited in the community when her daughter, Miss Muir, was principal of the school here.

In earlier years she had been an active member of the Cecil Street Church of Christ (Disciples), serving as organist, and as president of the Sunshine Club; later she was associated with the Hillcrest Church of Christ. Mrs. Butchart was also one of the founders of the Sisterhood of the Churches of Christ in Toronto, and for many years filled the office of secretary.

She is survived by her husband, Reuben Butchart; by two daughters, Shirley L. Muir of Port Arthur and Mrs. Wilbert Ferris of Sault Ste. Marie; also by one son, Stewart M. Muir of London, Ont.

Driving License Is Suspended

COBOURG, Nov. 9 — (ENS). — Charged with failing to keep his divisional registrar informed as to his change of address under the National War Mobilization, Thomas J. Sproat of Grand Valley and Toronto, was remanded at his own request. Sproat appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday. Bail of $1,000 was renewed and he will appear on November 16.

"What is your religion?" the magistrate asked in taking down the routine particulars.

Sproat, who had a well-thumbed Bible in his hand, replied that he was a "minister of the Gospel."

"Yes, but what religion do you belong to " repeated the magistrate.

"I believe in proclaiming the word of God" was the reply.

"We all believe that, but what I want to know is what church do your belong to," commented the magistrate.

"I am a Christian," said Sproat.

"Well, you are either a Catholic or a Protestant. I'll put you down as a Protestant," the magistrate decided.

Sproat is 31 years of age.

Licence Suspended.

Harold McCracken of Roseneath, charged with drunk driving on November 6 in Percy township, was given the minimum of seven days in jail, to date from the time of his arrest. His licence was suspended for three months and his car impounded for the same period. Provincial Constable G. Hayes of Campbellford told the court that McCracken sideswiped a farmer's wagon near Hastings, with very little damage to either vehicle. He was definitely under the influence of liquor, the constable said.

William Miller, charged with vagrancy, was given a further remand while efforts are made to see whether he will be committed to the counties home for the aged or otherwise taken care of.

Could Be True

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP). —In a protest forwarded to Defense Minister Ralston and Labor Minister Mitchell, Post No. 1, Canadian Active Service Force Association, Toronto, calls for the drafting of "healthy young men hiding in our war factories under protection of a continuous series of draft deferments which have the effect of a form of exemption from military service."

Ickes Charges McCormick Fosters Ill-Will

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — (AP). — Acclaiming the Moscow Pact, Interior Secretary Harold Ickes last night called for continued American-Soviet harmony.

"The fate of civilization," said Ickes, "and the lives and well-being of future generations depend on the relations between the United States and the Soviet Union."

He spoke at a rally in Madison Square Garden celebrating the 10th anniversary of resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia.

Asserting that "it is of the utmost importance for our two nations to understand each other," Ickes assailed "the Hearst press and the Patterson - McCormick newspaper Axis' which, he charged, are "deliberately fostering ill-will toward Russia."

Furthermore, he said, they rivalled Hitler, "the greatest liar in the world" in what he termed their lack "of scruples about deliberately saying what is not true."

No immediate comment was made by William Randolph Hearst or J. M. Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, but Col. Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune publisher, answered by saying:

"The speech to-night....is only an attempt to distract attention from the overwhelming repudiation of Roosevelt at the last elections.

"Ickes, in Chicago, was a small bucket shop operator, who as a Republican did dirty work for Democratic boss Brennan. He was taken into the administration to do its dirtiest work, which he did consistently, and as a reward has been allowed to carry on petty graft in his department."

MISERIES OF

Baby's Cold Relieved As He Sleeps

NOW... here's a reliable home-proved medication that works 2 ways at once to relieve distress of child's cold —even while he sleeps. Just rub throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. And instantly VapoRub goes to work to relieve coughing spasms, ease muscular soreness or tightness, and invite restful, comforting sleep. Often by morning, most of the misery is gone. For baby's sake try Vicks VapoRub tonight. It must be good, because when colds strike, most mothers use Vicks VapoRub.

COUGHING SPASMS—To relieve distress, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Inhale the steaming, medicated vapors. Feel relief come right with the first breath!

THE FUNDS of the depositor are the first concern of Canada's Chartered Banks.

Canada's Chartered Banks are the proud custodians of more than 4,350,000 savings deposit accounts. These accounts, averaging $391, represent the work and thrift of you and your neighbours—of heads of businesses and heads of families.

Naturally, the first concern of these depositors is that their money, or any part of it, shall be available when called for. That is the banks' first concern, too.

The Bank Act specifies the types of transactions in which the Chartered Banks of Canada may engage. But it is the banks' responsibility to analyze the assets and prospects of the intending borrower. They must be such as would satisfy you if you were asked to lend your money.

Funds deposited with the Chartered Banks form the basis for loans to individuals, businesses, institutions and Government. Your savings thus help to sustain business activity and the general welfare of the nation.

Toward International Civilization

The Senate of the United States, with a vote of 85 to 5, has endorsed the Connally resolution, thereby securing the support of their country for the establishment of an international body of sovereign nations, working together to prevent aggression and maintain security in the postwar world. This is an historic decision, and the whole civilized world will hope that the Senate never sees fit to go back on its word. The failure of the U.S. to support the League of Nations crippled that body before it was truly born, and proved that an international peace organization in which the great North American republic has no part is a mockery. During the interval between the two great wars—what has ironically been called "the long armistice"—the American people have realized this, and their representatives have ratified the popular decision. That portion of the Moscow Four Power Declaration which deals with the establishment of "a general international organization" to keep the peace, and open to all sovereign states on an equal footing, is embraced in the Connally resolution.

Such an international organization can only be made to work if the nations entering it desire its success passionately. The League of Nations was given a very bad start by the American refusal to join after the last war, but that alone was not the cause of its failure. It failed because of a pusillanimous attitude on the part of some of its strongest members; when the League needed support, they were absent or behind the door. The League might perhaps have made a stand against Fascist aggression if Britain, among others, had been forthright in its opposition to Fascism. The mistakes—mostly hesitancy when strong action was wanted—which wrecked the League will have to be avoided in the new organization.

We have faith, however, in an organization of this kind which includes Russia. Russia has her own forms of foolishness, but when she means business she does not appear to be troubled by doubts, and fears, and niceties of conduct, as Britain and the U.S. are. The Russians have been outside the pale of European diplomacy for a quarter of a century, and as spectators at the game they have had a chance to see where the players went wrong. A mixture of Russian common sense and bluntness in the new international organization may give it the strength which the League lacked.

Such an international organization, if it can be set in working order, should be a great step toward international civilization. For in internationalism, paradoxically, lies the salvation of what is best in nationalism. In this war we have seen the populations of small countries decimated, the art treasures of many countries defiled and destroyed, and a continent plunged into a welter of slaughter in which oppressors and oppressed lose any resemblance to civilized beings. The best that each nation has to give to the world can only be brought forth in peace, and if peace can be maintained by an agreement among nations to give up the right to behave in a warlike way toward their neighbours, it will be dirt cheap at the price.

Solemnity In Canada

An unusually good article appeared in this paper on Saturday last, from the pen of Scott Young, a Canadian Press staff writer who has just returned from a year in Britain. Mr. Young says that Canadians are more solemn and portentous about the war than the British, but no more serious essentially. He speaks of Canada's "slightly-Hollywood" approach to the war effort and in particular to national appeals for money; he speaks of our comparative ignorance of the war efforts of our sister dominions; and he concludes, "the fundamental difference between the British and Canadian war efforts is that the average Briton knows what the war is about from personal observation, and the average Canadian doesn't".

We have commented on this state of things before. We Canadians seize every chance to be solemn and heavy in the hand, whether such ponderousness helps the cause or not; our national temperament—particularly in the East—tends to be depressive. We have never grasped the real difference between solemnity and seriousness.

This failure on our part was particularly noticeable during the recent Victory Loan campaign, when a number of radio programs were broadcast on Wednesday evenings to help the cause. Now that the campaign is successfully over we may permit ourselves to ask if it was really necessary for those programs to be so portentous, so menacing and so frequently silly? They provided, it must be stressed, some first-rate popular entertainment, but each program ended with a playlet so improbable, so toxically sentimental as to alienate the listener of reasonable intelligence. Has the section of the Victory Loan Committee responsible for radio publicity such a poor opinion of the brains of the average Canadian that it offers such stuff in pure seriousness? Canadians are not babies, nor sob-sisters; why treat them to appeals which are so weakly sentimental in content? Our thanks cannot be too great to the ladies and gentlemen from Hollywood who came to Canada to help with the Victory Loan shows, but why should we repay their kindness by asking them to read radio scripts unworthy of their talents?

Isn't it time we woke up in Canada, and became serious, instead of solemn? And isn't it time we stopped coating Bonds with treacle, and sold them on their unquestioned merits?

Over The Top Again

The Fifth Victory Loan went over the top in this district, bringing in a sum substantially greater than the minimum objective. We expected nothing less, but it is always an occasion for satisfaction and congratulation when a big job is successfully completed. The final figures for this district are not available as we write, but the total for the Loan will be something in excess of $4,660,000. In the Fourth Loan we raised $4,679,550, and it is likely that the amount raised this time will be around that figure when the final returns are in.

Looking over the records of the individual canvasses we find that particularly good work has been done on the Employees' Canvass. It was expected to realize $950,000 and its total is $1,054,950—a fine record. At present the General Canvass is $14,050 short of its objective, and it does not seem likely that any late returns will make up this sum. It must be said, however, that the objective set for the General Canvass this time was very high, and a failure in this phase of the local campaign was not entirely unexpected.

Again, thanks are due to the men who have given weeks of time and hard work to making the Loan campaign a success. Special congratulation, we feel, should be offered to Mr. Gordon Matthews, who became Chairman of the Victory Loan Committee before the Fifth Loan got under way, and who has performed his many duties with tact and expedition; succeeding Mr. Vincent Eastwood, he has done splendid work in a very demanding job. And last of all the people of the city and county must congratulate themselves for having brought the Loan to a successful conclusion.

Dorothy Dix, The Universal Aunt

Readers will have noticed that we are now publishing the daily column of Miss Dorothy Dix on this page. Frankly, we are very pleased to do so, for Dorothy Dix's opinions are among the most popular reading in the paper, and we are glad to have her so near the editorial columns.

Miss Dix, according to Who's Who, was born in 1860, and thus is in her 83rd year. Since the turn of the century she has been writing her daily column of advice to those who seek counsel in domestic difficulties, and people who have been consistent readers of her work say that they have never known her in all that time to give bad advice. When she began her work, columns of "Advice To The Lovelorn" were regarded as jokes, like the columns of matrimonial advertisements which many newspapers used to carry. Dorothy Dix raised the standard of that particular sort of column by her own efforts, and we do not think that it will ever sink again. She does not write solely for those who want advice about their love-affairs; anyone who has a domestic problem is free to ask her about it. She, and her able staff of secretaries, will do the best they can to help.

Surveys which are made to test the popularity of newspaper features reveal that at least half the readers of Dorothy Dix's column are men. We dare not venture an opinion of this finding, but several women have taken this as added proof of the greater curiosity of the masculine sex. Certainly a daily perusal of her column is a pleasant way of observing the human comedy.

A doctor says that winking is an aid to clear vision. Yes, it seems to bring objects closer.

Early History Of Peterborough Schools

By
J. M. LONDERVILLE

The schoolmaster is abroad! and I trust more to the schoolmaster...than to the soldier.
—Lord Brougham, 1828.

WITH this thought in mind we may well pause in the throes of war to celebrate National Education Week. It shall be the purpose of this article to present the early history of the public schools of Peterborough so that the reader may more fully appreciate their present development and future potentialities.

The Peterborough district was settled by a group of 500 English in 1819 and by a group of 2,000 impoverished Irish in 1825. A successful settlement was started and in 1826 the embryonic colony was visited by the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Peregrine Maitland. Sir Peregrine looked upon the group with a paternal eye and sympathetically heard several petitions, among which was one which said, in part:

"Please Your Excellency we labour under a heavy grievance which we hope Your Excellency will redress, and then we will be completely happy, viz., the want of clergymen to administer to us the comforts of our holy religion, and good schoolmasters to instruct our children."

This democratic request for education was granted and a school was built in the following year.

IT was at this time that Maitland and Dr. John Strachan planned to set up in the province a monitorial system of schools known as the Church of England National System of Schools. Such a system of Anglican schools under government supervision would, it was argued, exclude "American masters and their republican apparatus of grammars and lesson books." The Central School at Toronto (1823) was the first of these and the only other school of this type which was successfully established was the Peterborough Government School. Peterborough was fortunate in having a school so early for the trend of educational thought at this time was towards colleges and higher education rather than the extension of common schools to remote areas such as Peterborough.

The school was started with the support of some of the more prominent settlers, notably Thomas A. Stewart, husband of Frances Stewart whose pioneer letters have been edited under the title of "Our Forest Home". The school was built outside the village on the site of the present Central School grounds, then generally known as "The Plains". The building had but one room and was built of square logs with a shingled roof. Mrs. Catherine Parr Traill, one of the Strickland sisters, left us this pen picture of the spot:

"These plains form a beautiful natural park finely diversified with hill and dale, covered with a lovely green sward, enamelled with a variety of the most exquisite flowers, and planted, as if by Nature's own hand with feathery pines, oaks, balsam, poplar and silver birch."

When the school house was completed, the trustees, Robert Reid, Charles Rubidge and Thomas Stewart, wrote to Sir Peregrine Maitland requesting the donation of ten pounds which he had promised.

THE first teacher of the school was the Rev. Samuel Armour. A Scotch Presbyterian, Armour followed the example of John Strachan, taught at the Home District Grammar School and, in 1826, was ordained in the Church of England. He was sent to Peterborough as a missionary at a salary of £75 and through the influence of Strachan he was appointed master of the government school "in the new and cultured centre of Peterborough at a salary of £20". A master of arts with high honours from Glasgow University, Armour is said to have been an excellent scholar in Greek, Latin and Hebrew. It is said that he used to sew up the English translations in the books before they were used. The school was open to all faiths but was opened with scripture reading and prayer. Children of the immigrants were to be educated free for three years.

THE school-house was also used as a church on Sunday and Mr. Armour conducted the service. He served as preacher-teacher and missionary to the surrounding district until 1832. At that time, a number of people including one by the queer name of Cheesman Moe petitioned for a change of teacher. After some misunderstanding and local unpleasantness, the Peterborough Board accepted Robert Taylor who was recommended by Hon. Peter Robinson. They lodged, however, a strong complaint against the unbusiness-like procedure adopted by the "compact" at Toronto who controlled affairs. Mr. Armour was transferred to a better post in Cavan where he served with great success from 1832 to 1852.

While many of the Common Schools of the province had very poor teachers—itinerent, American, and usually only teachers because they could do nothing else—the Peterborough Government School was constantly favoured with men of ripe scholarship from the 'Old Country.'

Rev. Robert J. C. Taylor, successor to Armour, was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and is described by his contemporaries as "a painstaking teacher, especially in the classics." Taylor himself described Peterborough as "a place where I find society that pleases me and where I have a rational prospect of success." Taylor proved a very successful teacher in spite of the fact that his rational hopes of success—in regard to salary arrears—were, for some years, strangled in red tape, the letters of which are still preserved in the Archives at Ottawa.

MR. TAYLOR taught all primary subjects as well as classics and higher mathematics at a scale of fees varying from 10s per quarter to 30s per quarter. Taylor returned to Ireland to seek a higher degree and during his absence the school was administered by a Presbyterian minister, Rev. Moses Williamson.

The District of Colborne was formed in 1841 and in 1845 a District Grammar School was opened in Peterborough and Taylor became the first headmaster. During the ensuing years there was an average attendance of fifty and Mr. Taylor usually had an assistant.

One of the outstanding advances in the province during this period was the Common School Act of 1846 which tended to centralize education under a Chief Superintendent, Egerton Ryerson. A list of books was published by Ryerson from which school texts were to be selected. He strongly recommended the National System of Texts as used in the Irish Schools. The Colborne District of which Peterborough was the District Town, strongly supported the Act of 1846 and praised the advances in education which its passing marked. Similarly, the Trustees adopted and commended the Irish texts and Ryerson cited Peterborough as an exemplary community in the province. The author of this article has examined some of these texts (and adaptations published by Ryerson in the '50's and '60's) and has found them to be comprehensive, scholarly and cosmopolitan. They gave to the students of the day a better foreign sense than did the nationalistic readers of the American school. By eliminating inaccuracies of the American texts and by stressing co-operation it is quite possible that they aided materially in preparing the minds of the people for Confederation. Ryerson himself advocated Confederation in the 1850's, long before others to whom credit is more often given.

IN 1850 the Town of Peterborough was incorporated and in 1852 the Common Schools of the town and environs were united into one school. Classes were held in a vacant church formerly occupied by the British Methodist Society at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets. By 1853 the old log school house which was still being used for grammar school purposes was deemed untenable and a petition was made and granted whereby all schools were formed into a Union School.

In 1859 it was decided to build a new union school and after much discussion the site of the old log school house was selected. Thus did history repeat itself and the present Central School was built. Mrs. Traill describes it as "a fine national free school built in the modern Italian style." Recently some of the Italian "renaissance" has been removed in the interest of safety but the building still stands, the oldest educational building in Peterborough.

SALVAGE

DOROTHY DIX SAYS....

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a 26-year-old school ma'am, but I hate to be one and do not wish to be an old maid. I was very popular with the boys until two years ago when I fell in love with a man twenty years older than myself. I was so infatuated with him that I dropped all of my other friends, and saw him several nights a week, as I still do.

He told me that he did not want me to lose my time going with him and that he would come to some decision in a short while about whether he wanted to marry me or not. Now he has decided that he wants me for a wife but only under the conditions that he sets forth:

(1) If we marry, we will not have any children. (2) I must be his secretary and nurse in his office (he is a physician). If I agree to these points, he will furnish me with a beautiful home, a servant, and everything that is in his power to give me. If I refuse, the marriage is off.

Do you think I would be happy knowing that I would never have a child of my own that I could love and care for? Do you think that being constantly together, day in and day out, as would be the case if I was his office help, we would get on each other's nerves? Do you think that in years to come I would still be in love with a man so much older than myself?

If I break off with this man, how am I to get into circulation again? I would like to make new acquaintances. But how?

TWENTY-SIX.

DOCTOR'S DECLARATION SHOWS MAN HONEST

ANSWER: Well, you must certainly give your cautious gentleman friend credit for being more frank and honest than most men are, in that he files a declaration of his intentions at the start and lets you know what to expect. The bad feature for women in the "keeping company" racket that men have somehow been able to impose on the fair and fatuous sex, is that they take up a girl's time and attention and isolate her from other men as long as they find her interesting and agreeable, and then, when they tire of her, they just fade out of the picture and leave her two or five or sometimes ten years older, her good looks beginning to fade, and her chances of marriage depreciated by half, and with nothing she can do about it.

Also, this man is more honest than most in letting you know the conditions under which he is willing to marry you, instead of waiting to let you find out about them after it is too late to do anything about them except put up with them, or else get a divorce.

You, yourself, can be the only judge of whether to take seriously his objection to having children. I have known plenty of men who loathed children and called them brats before they had any of their own, but who became the most fatuous fathers when little Junior made his appearance on the scene.

But being your husband's office assistant doesn't look so good. Two people who are thrown together all the time without any breaks are pretty sure to get on each other's nerves. Also, doctors' wives are inclined to jealousy, anyway, and it doesn't make for harmony for them to know too much about their husbands' patients.

Certainly you will find it difficult to get into circulation again after having been tagged so long as the doctor's girl. And it will be especially hard now when so many men have gone to the war and dates are about as scarce as hens' teeth. However, while there is life there is hope, and your best bet will be among the older men, who are too old too fight, but not to marry. The young girls have a priority on the young soldiers and sailors.

DEAR MISS DIX: Last month I lost through death a husband who was one in a million. He slaved to give me everything, every luxury, and left me a handsome fortune. Of course, I nearly lost my mind over this terrible sorrow.

But here is my problem: I find myself madly in love with a penniless playboy who drinks and spends his small salary over the week-end, but who has a personality that makes every woman fall for him. He has girls galore, but I am slipping so hard I am afraid. I would give anything to get him out of my heart as I know I could never be really happy with him. What is best for me to do? Should I take a trip, or what?

IRENE.

HUSBANDS NEVER STAY BOUGHT

ANSWER: If you have forgotten your kind and indulgent husband in less than a month after his death and fallen in love with a good-for-nothing wastrel, you must have a phenomenal ability to shift your affections. Certainly your conduct offers a cynical commentary on men working themselves to death to provide their wives with luxury and pile up a fortune for their successors to throw to the wind.

I can only offer you one bit of advice, and you will do well to heed it: The playboys who marry rich middle aged widows do it only because it is easier to work an infatuated woman than it is to toil at honest labour. So before you marry this smooth talking, good-looking youngster have every dollar your husband left you tied up on you so good and fast he can't get his hands on it. Her pocketbook is the only hold a rich old woman ever has on a boy sweetheart. As long as that is full he makes love to her and tells her how beautiful and wonderful she is, but when her money is gone he vanishes with it. The trouble with buying a husband is that he never stays bought.

A Bible Message

There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe....

That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world....He came unto his own, and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God. (John 1: 6, 7, 9, 11-13.)

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things....

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. (Acts 17: 24, 25, 26.)

Dickens Ships

Following the Dickens names given to barrage balloons comes information that for some of the ships under construction names of Dickens' characters have been chosen. Copperfield, Dorrit, Chuzzlewit, Peggotty, Pickwick, Tapley are mentioned as already selected. As ships are mostly "Shes," we hope Dora will be prefixed to Copperfield, Little to Dorritt, and Clara to Peggotty. Tapley must of course, be Jolly. Additions will doubtless be made. We cannot imagine better names for our gallant fleet than Betsey Trotwood, Susan Nipper, Fanny Squeers, Sally Brass, and Bella Wilfer. All sound well, and have meaning in them.—The Dickensian (London).

Letter To The Editor

WHAT IS THE C.I.O.?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Your editorial on the coal strike certainly hits the nail on the head and let us hope that as many of John L. Lewis' stooges as possible read, mark, learn and inwardly digest it to their everlasting benefit.

It is always a good policy to look beneath the surface a little when sizing up a situation such as that presented, in recent years by the activities of the C.I.O. in Canada under the leadership of the big whip cracker John L. (Himself) Lewis.

Although union is a good thing all will admit when properly handled under the proper auspices, we somehow, up here in Canada, don't like the idea of being subservient or even accessory to a union under American auspices, particularly when its leader is not a man of his word. This was proven after the recent election to the south when Mr. Lewis vanished only temporarily to bob back up again into the political picture despite a solemn vow that he would obliterate himself from the scene should Roosevelt prove to be the people's choice and not he.

What is this C.I.O. anyway? Is it really an honest-to-goodness organization designed to help the workers of the land primarily and guarantee them the necessary reforms they claim they need, being fair to company and worker alike or could it be (mark this) a political outfit hiding under the cloak of professing unionism but once having secured a stranglehold on the country through its workers vote and support would then come out in its true colours? It might be a good plan for people to give this idea some thought. What is behind this offer to play Santa Claus to the workers of the land. There is only one Santa Claus and he lives at the North Pole.

No, there is something behind this thing. There must be. And it must be political. Figure it out workers any way you like. People are not giving anything away for nothing today, not even for $2 down and 25c a month, either. There is a catch somewhere.

Union has said that shop committees mediating between employee and management are a failure, having little efficacy. It is only natural that a union such as that referred to will do all it can to discredit any system diametrically opposed to its own tactics and in its deliberations and will do all it can by propaganda or any other means to put it down for the full count.

So without elaborately further, Mr. Editor, the question is simply this: How dense are our people? We have clear, bracing air here in winter time which is certainly conducive to the development of clear thinking analytical minds. Our people are well fed. The prosecution of the war is proceeding in a manner satisfactory to the great majority of our people. We have earned praise from our compatriots on that score, from Mr. Churchill down. We have good level-headed men at the head of our federal government at least most of us think so. We can't all be wrong. Compared to other countries we seem to shape up as potentially the least hard hit of any country after the war economically and the first likely to regain our complete equilibrium. Our food situation, comparatively speaking, is very good.

Could it be that things are going too well with us to suit some people who would like to throw a monkey wrench into the cogs?

All we want in this country is to be left alone. If we need outside help in the handling of our affairs we can ask for it. Then and then only should we brook any encroachment by any foreign agency, political or otherwise on the sacred soil of this country which is doing a great part in this war and able to run its own affairs quite nicely.

School Holds Red Cross Tea

The pupils of Rifle Range School (No. 17 Otonabee), held a Red Cross tea and bazaar last week. Mothers and friends of the pupils were entertained with a short program, which included a skit "Onward Red Cross Soldiers," a duet by Mary and Gerald Wood, a tap dance number by Dorothy Sedgwick, a quartette sung by Marie Kelly, Beverly Larmer, Doris and Delores Sutton, a piano solo by Marjorie Wook, recitations by George Amos and Marie Kelly, and songs by the school. Tea was served by the pupils, and a sale of articles, made by them during the year, was held. Among the goods sold during the afternoon were two quilts, one pieced by the school, and the other by a neighbor. This brought the total proceeds of the afternoon to $25.

Quiet Wedding Solemnized In St. Peter's Cathedral

MILLBROOK, Nov. 9—(ENS).—A wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, on Saturday, when Mary Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Muspratt, of Millbrook, was united in marriage with Patrick Vincent Crough, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Crough of Peterborough, Rev. Father Corkery officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two-piece dress of dusty rose crepe, with black hat and accessories, and corsage of dark red roses.

She was attended by Miss Carmel Crough, the groom's sister, who wore a two-piece suit of Erskine blue, also with accessories in black and corsage of red roses. Mr. Jerry Lefaye, of Peterborough, was groomsman, and Miss Lilian Hurley played the wedding music. The church was beautifully decorated with white and pink 'mums, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. D. Campanaro sang "Ave Maria."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Theobald, Anne Street, Millbrook, attended by about forty guests. Mrs. Muspratt, the bride's mother, wearing a two-piece dress in heaven blue, with black accessories and corsage of roses, and Mrs. Crough, mother of the groom, in forest green crepe, black accessories and wearing a corsage of pink roses, received. The bride's table was lace covered, with a cluster of white wedding bells overhead, fluted pink streamers intertwined with white to the four corners, tall pink candles burning in silver holders, and was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Assisting with the service of the guests were friends of the bride: Miss Lillian Footitt and Mrs. Elsie Paulson, Mrs. Theobald and Mrs. Arthur Foottit. Later Mr. and Mrs. Crough left by motor for points east, and visiting one of the groom's brothers at Belleville en route. For travelling the bride donned a tailored black topcoat. Upon their return they will reside in Toronto.

Welfare League Makes Donations

The Junior Welfare League held its regular business meeting on Monday at the home of Mrs. Walter Blackwell, O'Carroll avenue. Mrs. D. A. MacTavish was in charge.

The Children's Shelter committee was authorized to provide a special treat for the children in residence at the shelter each month. The treasurer reported the Thrift Sale was an outstanding success, and the profits exceeded those of the two previous years. The members felt that the success was due in no small measure to the interest and help received from friends.

The allotting of funds was as follows: $100 to the British War Victims' Fund, and $100 to the Milk for Britain Fund. A quantity of cigarettes are to be sent overseas, and Christmas boxes of Candy are to be sent to husbands and brothers of club members, who are in the armed forces, as well as to the two members of the club who are now in the Women's Divisions of the armed forces. A substantial sum is to be held in reserve for donation to war charities during the coming year.

Adlam-Bolton Vows Pledged

The marriage took place in St. George's Anglican Church Saturday of Isabelle Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman M. Bolton, of Burleigh Falls, to Roy Eldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Adlam, Bolivar Street. The Rev. E. C. Moore officiated. The church was decorated with ferns and yellow 'mums, and the music was played by Mr. Norman Hurle. During the signing of the register, Miss Doreen Groombridge sang "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white French lace over satin. It was simply and beautifully fashioned on princess lines, with insets of sheer in a full skirt. The sweetheart neckline was accented by a necklace of pearls, her only ornament. Her veil of embroidered net was caught in a halo over her head, and she carried a shower bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Mrs. Inga Roy attended the bride, and wore a frock of powder blue sheer with deep shirring at the waist and a full gathered skirt. Her tiny Dutch cap was of blue net and she carried a shower bouquet of pink Delight roses. Mr. Stanley Downs was best man, and Mr. Albert Bolton, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Orval Bolton, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Y.W.C.A., where the bride's mother received, wearing a suit of brown wool, with matching accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gold wool two-piece suit with black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Later the bride and groom left by motor for Toronto and points west. For travelling the bride chose a two-piece aqua-marine blue suit with brown accessories. She also wore a gold cross set with pearls, the gift of the groom. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Adlam will live at 443 Mark Street.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL

In honor of Education Week, the Central Home and School Association held "Open House" Monday evening, and the parents of Central School pupils took advantage of this opportunity to inspect their children's work. The teachers co-operated fully by answering questions, outlining courses, and telling parents about the individual work of students. The classrooms were specially decorated for the occasion.

The visiting parents were welcomed in the kindergarten room by Mr. Lloyd Raper and Mrs. Leslie R. Groombridge on behalf of the Home and School Executive, and Mr. F. H. Dearborn, the principal, represented the staff.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. P. Martyn, assisted by Mrs. L. Gilders, Mrs. A. Jones and Mrs. H. Delahaye

Another interesting program is being arranged for the December meeting when brief talks are to be given by a teacher, mother, and father, on home relationship and its effect on the work of the child.

MAY'S SCHOOL

Education and Health were the keynotes of the May's Home and School meeting held Monday evening. Mr. J. M. Burns, the principal, was the speaker.

"The word 'education' is derived from the Latin word 'educo,' meaning 'I lead out'," explained Mr. Burns "and the child should be led, so that he can learn to think for himself." He said that some of the leading has to be done by the teacher, some by the parents, and some by the Sunday school teacher.

"Therefore," he went on, "those who would educate must be leaders,

Wartime Law Reduces Horse-Racing

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 9 (CP). — The flying bits of turf had hardly settled in Britain's 1943 racing season—shortest of the war — when the government ordered a drastic reduction in the number of horses training for next year.

The government held that the regulation will turn many racers out to grass, thereby saving tons of grain.

Stewards of the jockey club, ruling turf body, announced at the requests of the government that horses in the following categories cannot run next season.

All seven-year-olds and upward, five and six-year-olds which have not won since they were two-year olds or which did not take place in a race of a mile or over in 1943; four-year-olds of 1944 which never have placed, and four-year-olds and upwards which weren't in training with a licensed trainer in 1943.

Co To Stud

Some of the better horses coming under the ban will go to stud, others to neutral Eire to continue racing.

At the same time, trainers were warned to put out of training their younger horses which show no promise, or further reduction might be necessary.

Among the crack racers affected by the ban is Ted Saunders' Linklater, champion sprinter of the year and one of the most popular horses of the day. Linklater, seven next season, will go to stud.

Others include: Quartier-Maitre, owned by L. Lipton, which won the Newmarket Cambridgeshire as Newmarket closed the country's race season, and Tom Lant's Germanicus, outstanding stayer and winner of the Newmarket Cesarewitch.

The Aga Khan's $38,000 colt, Hyberadad, four years old next season, which failed in his only two starts.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Right away before the Dutch Government in exile can take action against us this column wants to voice a fervent apology. Misled by another newspaper we have been calling Jan Gotch, who meets Gentleman Jack Clayborne at Brock St. Rink tonight, the Flying Dutchman. Latest advices are that the bad man is not Dutch at all but a Pole. Holland has enough troubles just now without being credited with the origin of such a rough, tough and nasty performer as Gotch and so we hasten to express our regrets. Poland will have to take the rap. Anyway whatever his nationality the turbulent Mister Gotch will be here tonight and that means trouble in large gobs. The Black Comet realizes he has a job to do and that job is to toss a few depth charges under the roughhouse grappler who took on all comers at last week's show. Gotch on the other hand will be in an ugly mood because he knows that the fans here are solidly against him and he is determined to give the crowd plenty about which to boo. Clayborne, of course, is no angel. Usually he lives up to his cognomen of Gentleman Jack but he lost his temper several times in ring appearances here and proved himself able to hand out the rough stuff in as abundant a measure as any of the bad men of the game. If they both cut loose tonight the citizenry in the front seats will hardly be a good insurance risk.

* * * * * *

In addition to the main bout there is much interest in the other two brawls on the card. With Dick Hogan billed for the semi-final the fans have already marked that one down as a brawl for the Housepainter believes in carrying the warfare to the opposition early and often and in ignoring all the rules in so doing. He is opposed by a new-comer, Nick Elich, a New Yorker who is built like a tank and has a reputation of hitting about as hard as one. Elich is not tall but he is all power and according to his advance notices is a battler who backs up from no one. He will probably meet Hogan half way all through the milling. In the opening bout there is another highly-touted new performer in Buddy Knox the Cleveland Cleaver who will endeavor to give a wrestling lesson to Mike Demetre the Montreal Greek. The latter has shown himself to be a fast and clever grappler and Knox will have to be as good as they say he is to keep the Montrealer under control. All in all it shapes up like a real card, with plenty of everything.

No Reliance Team

There seems to be little chance of Belleville Reliance placing a senior or intermediate O.H.A. team on the ice this winter. Joe King gave warning of that fact when he attended the meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club here recently and his size-up of the situation is confirmed by the following paragraph by Ken Colling, Belleville sports scribe: "As far as the Reliance A.C. is concerned there will be no senior or intermediate O.H.A. hockey sponsored in Belleville this winter. "We just haven't got the players and anyhow it is doubtful if Peterborough or Whitby would be back for another campaign," stated Manager Ken Soden today." Actually all Coach Donihee has left from his last season's Reliance squad are Bill Hastie and Gene LaBonne. Allard, their goalie, is back in Pembroke. Reg Chipman is in the Army, Tims Williams in the Navy, Don Bowen and Clare Williamson are in the Air Force, while Vic Bishop and Tobe White are still fishing in the Georgian Bay district and may remain at home to play with the Collingwood "Shipbuilders." Bob Dixon, Art Wilson and Red Ryan are still at Trenton with the R.C.A.F.. but no doubt will be playing in the Air Force Service League, so the prospects of intermediate hockey are very slim in Belleville. Here is the paramount reason for the fostering of juniors."

* * * * * *

Although Kingston has the Jock Harty artificial ice arena at Queen's as a cushion for senior hockey there is a movement in the penitentiary city to seek the erection of a new and up-to-the-minute civic hockey arena. Bill Walshe, Kingston sports scribe refers to the matter thusly: "Many fans remarked after the game between Boston and Kingston Wednesday that if there was a modern rink in Kingston there would have been a six thousand crowd. There is talk of a civic arena for Kingston after the war but like so many other needed improvements it is only talk. Peterborough, needing a new rink like Kingston, has started a drive to have an arena built as a post-war project. Midland has already raised enough money for the building of a new rink and other communities, much smaller than Kingston, are planning for new auditoriums not only for hockey but to accommodate large crowds for other events both winter and summer. Mayor Dr. H. A. Stewart, M.L.A., sat in a near rail seat at the Boston-Kingston game on Wednesday and several fans asked him to start a civic drive for a new rink. He agreed a rink was needed and, considering the conversation of other civic leaders, talk may develop into constructive action soon. In Peterborough this week a committee was formed to make plans for a civic arena with the city council, service clubs and Chamber of Commerce heading the project. Mayor Hamilton of Peterborough called a meeting of citizens to consider the new rink and the crowd was so large with such keen enthusiasm that plans were made to arrange for a rink immediately after the war."

Old time fans recalling the hockey career of J. Percy Bond who was buried here this afternoon remember that although he was an effective and hard-checking defence player he had little or no luck on the attack. He tried hard enough but had no luck around the other fellow's nets and according to some of the fans he did not score a goal for the Petes during his participation in the game in Peterborough, although he did plenty to stop the opposition from scoring. On one occasion when Peterborough ran up a score of 31 to 1 against the Belleville intermediates Percy Bond was the only member of the winning squad, except of course the goalie, who did not find the nets at least once. He simply could not fluke one into the cage. Incidentally the veteran Jim Fitzgerald of the Toronto Telegram pays the following tribute to the Peterborough sportsman: "O.H.A. hockey has lost a real standby in the death at Peterborough Saturday night of Percy Bond, 60. Twice he was president of the Ontario hockey body and for many years was a most capable member of the executive. He played the game for Cobourg and Peterborough. He also was past president of the A.A.U. of C. More than all that he was a real sportsman."

* * * * * *

A few former Peterborough rugby players are still seeing some action on the football front. Leo Deadey, who played outside wing for the Orfuns for several seasons is captain of the Balmy Beach club, still very much in the running for the O.R.F.U. honors. Down at Halifax Les Ascott and Emmet Creighton have been playing for the Halifax Navy team and Ascott got his club's major score when they defeated Montreal Navy 9 to 0 Saturday. The big Peterborough boy fell on a fumbled ball behind the Montreal goal line for a touchdown.

* * * * * *

Bobby Rosenfeld in her Sports Reel column in the Globe and Mail pays tribute to Percy Bond as follows: "The ranks of the old guards of amateurism were further thinned over the week-end with the death of Percy Bond of Peterborough....Percy was a stickler for the code of "sport for sport's sake" and fought hard to keep the amateur game clean of the professional taint....In his time he was president of the O.H.A. and the A.A.U.....Stricken with a heart attack last year Perc was forced to forsake the clamor of sports scenes he loved so well....He will be missed wherever hockey, football and race crowds gather."

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Teddy Morris will play for the Navy in tomorrow night's game with Balmy Beach....That cannot be listed under the heading of good news for the Bammies....Morris has been coaching the Sailors and has now enlisted....Army hockey teams throughout the country don't know where they stand right now and most of them expect to lose their star players. The Montreal Army outfit has already withdrawn from the Quebec senior hockey league....Albert College has eliminated Belleville Collegiate, defeating them 21 to 0....They play half-dozen rugby down there—the six-man stuff....The final game for the Gray Cup is scheduled for Toronto on November 27....It will be the football classic of the year.

Heavy Hitting Likely On Big Card

Action, of the heavy-hitting sort, with plenty of thrills and spills interspersed, is promised wrestling fans at the Brock Arena tonight. The main bout is the meeting for the first time between Jan Gotch and Gentleman Jack Claybourne. Each of these big fellows has proven to be a tempestuous battler when the going gets hot and each has proven to be untameable once he has been thoroughly roused. Gotch is a ruthless, effective body-bruiser who has been around and through some of the toughest opposition and his hot Polish temperament produces some flaming re-actions. His great Negro opponent also gets out of hand on occasions and being of an even more primitive disposition, is likely to match even Gotch's outlandish rages. With two such fire-eaters meeting, there are large potentialities in tonight's main attraction.

Dick Hogan also may find himself in a spot of trouble tonight. Hogan meets the sawed-off New Yorker Nick Elich in the semi-final bout and according to reports will find the squat Elich a very tough customer.

Buddy Knox, a blond powerhouse from Cleveland, wrestles Mike Demetre to complete an attractive night's program.

Ridley College Beats Port Hope

PORT HOPE, Nov. 9—Ridley College of St. Catharines defeated Trinity College School, Port Hope, 23-15 to win the Little Big Four championship, but they had to go all out to defeat a hard fighting T. C. S. team.

T. C. S. opened strongly and in the first five minutes. Lane kicked a field goal. Britton, a T. C. S. back, went off with a broken collarbone. Later in the quarter Trinity again obtained possession and marched down the field, McIntyre scoring on a pass from Huycke to put T C. S. ahead 8-0.

Shortly after the second quarter began, a Ridley pass set up a touchdown, scored by Dewart, and Stevens converted. T. C. S. held Ridley deep in their own end until a Stevens-to Coddington pass was good for 75 yards and a touchdown. Stevens again converted.

Parker kicked a single just after the second half got underway, but Ridley finished the quarter strongly when Don McFarlane scored a touchdown on a pass from Stevens, and Minthorn scored again far Ridley several minutes later. Stevens converted and Ridley lead 23-9 at the end of the third quarter.

As the fourth quarter opened. Ridley gained on several plays, but after an exchange of kicks T. C. S. obtained possesion on their own 10-yard line and began a sustained drive up the field. Morgan took two forwards from Huycke for 20 yards each, and after a series of clever plays Laing went over for a touchdown. Laing converted. With two minutes to go Ridley held the ball, and the final score remained 23-15.

Ridley outweighed T.C.S., but the Port Hope boys never yielded an inch without contesting bitterly. The two teams gave a memorable exhitition of clean, fast, clever football.

Trinity College School— Laing, Parker (captain), Gilbert, Millholland, Curtis, Morgan, MacLaren, Britton, Dobell, McIntyre, Sinclair, Beaumont, Delahaye, Warner Rose, Leseur, Southey, Wisener, Sanderson, Holton, Bovey, Fulford, Huycke, Nicol, Rutherford, Greig.

Ridley—McFarlane, Cowan, Coddington, Brown, Davis Dewart, McFarlane, Greatrex, Smith, Fisher, Minthorn, Stevens (captain), McLean, Slater, Crosby, Shields, Mann Davis, Gooderham, Jeffery.

Hudson Leads

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—The frist week's statistics of the American Hockey League, released last night, showed Lineman Hudson of Indianapolis Capitals as the leading scorer with four goals and five assists for nine points; Burlington of Cleveland Barons in second spot with eight and Trudel of Cleveland third with seven points. Wally Kilrea of Hershey was one of five players with seven points. Wally Kilrea of Hershey was one of five players with six points including three goals.

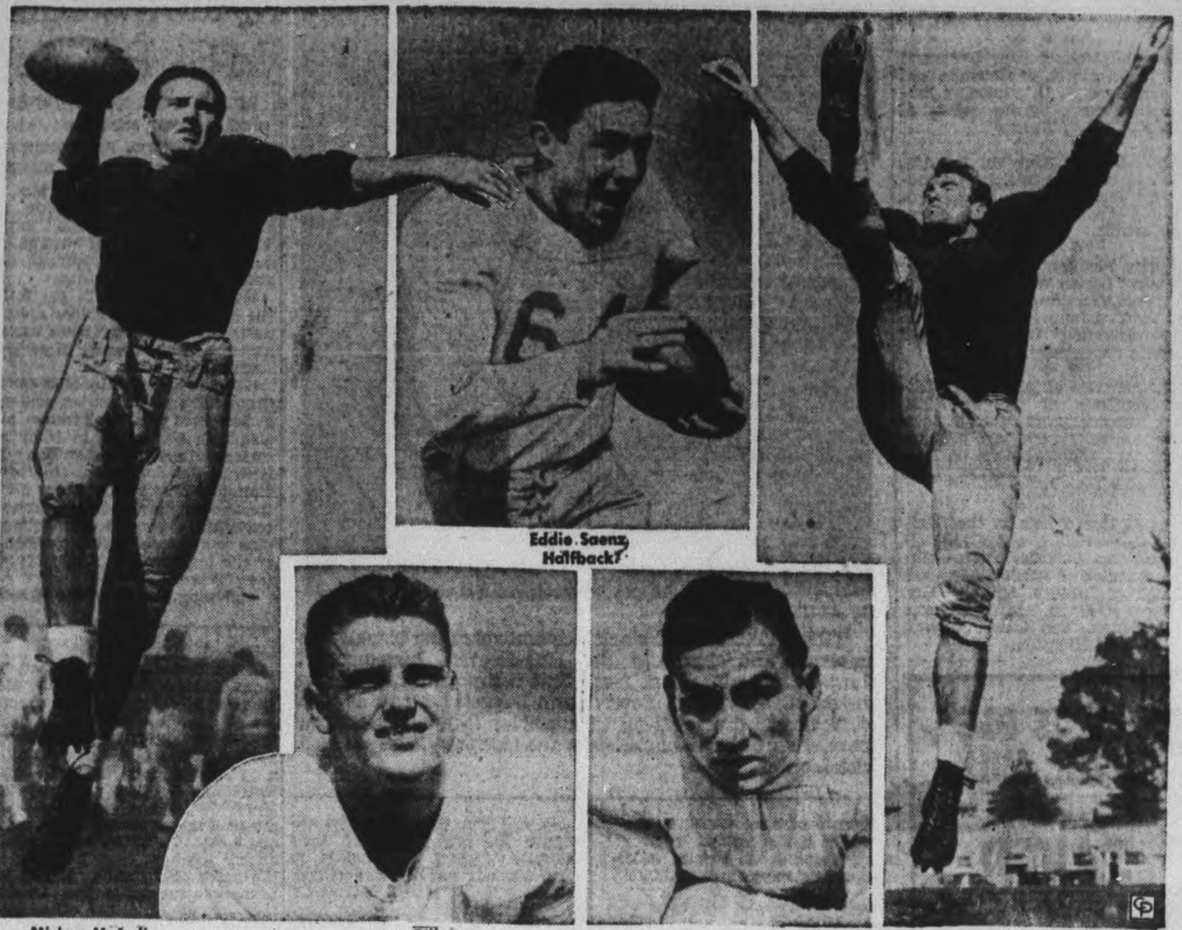
TROJANS CONTINUE WITH ONE LOSS TOWARD FAMOUS ROSE BOWL GAME



Eddie Saenz, Halfback

Mickey McArdle, Quarter — Bill Gray, Center — Chuck Page, Fullback — Ralph Heywood, End

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Sports Editor.

The T-party on the Pacific Coast this season is being given by the University of Southern California Trojans, top team on the coast and one of the standouts in the nation.

Defeated for the first time on Saturday 10-7 by San Diego Navy, the Trojans appear certain to go on a post-season meeting, be it Rose Bowl, or War Bond game.

Coached by Newell J. (Jeff) Cravath, captain of the Trojan team in 1926 and an all-Pacific coast centre in 1927, the Trojans have romped through U.C.L.A. California, St. Mary's Pre-Flight, San Francisco, College of Pacific, and California again, and still have not been scored on.

T First Time.

The Southern California squad is playing the T-game for the first time and Trojan players have had their difficulties on offence. A great defensive line plus an alert backfield for intercepting passes—13 in the first four games — have combined to keep the Trojan goal line uncrossed.

The team has benefitted by the service program, but still has several veterans around from last year.

Mickey McArdle, all-coast halfback a year ago, has been the best of the Trojans in quarterbacking from the T although Jim Hardy, a vet from last season, has done well.

Eddie Saenz, speedboy of the backfield, is the leading ground gainer on the club. The other starting half, Howard Callanan, who combined with his brother to beat the Pacific Coast club last week, is also a speedy ball carrier.

Fullback duties are shared by Chuck Page, Duane Whitehead and Jack Pattee.

Heywood Is Star.

Bulwark of the line is Captain Ralph Heywood, a dynamic end, who also takes over with backfield assignments when required. Another key man on the forward wall is Bill Gray, a brilliant defensive centre.

Gray, who played at Oregon State last year but now is at U.S.C. for Marine training, has been acclaimed by Coach Cravath as the "best defensive centre I have ever seen."

Heywood does the team's booting. Against California his long punts kept the Bears bottled up all day. Gray calls for the defensive signals for U.S.C., and is a fine line backer-up.

From here on in the Trojans must face March Field and U.C. L.A. again, not too tough a sked. The team should go on winning, with only one defeat chalked up against it.

Grey Cup Contest On November 27

TORONTO, Nov. 9 — Hamilton Cassels, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, last night announced that the annual East-West game for the Dominon football championship and the Grey cup would be played in Varsity Stadium in Toronto, Saturday Nov. 27.

The announcement which said also that the Eastern Canada final would be played in Toronto Nov. 20, came as eight teams were still in the running to enter the annual Dominion title game—six in the East and two in the West.

The West's representatives in the East-West game will be decided this Thursday in Regina in the second game of a two-game total-point series between the Winnipeg R. C. A. F. Bombers and Regina Roughriders. Winnipeg carries a one-point lead into the game by virtue of their 1-0 conquest of Riders in the first game at Winnipeg Saturday.

Ontario Versus Quebec

The champions of the Quebec Rugby Football Union and the Ontario Rugby Football Union will meet in the Eastern Canada final for the right to enter the East-West game and right now three teams are in the running for the title in each union.

In the Ontario Union Hamilton Flying Wildcats are in first place and will be one of the two teams in the sudden-death playoff game in Hamilton this Saturday. The other two teams in the running are Toronto R. C. A. F. Hurricanes, Dominion champions last year, and Toronto Balmy Beach. Beaches one point behind Hurricanes, can enter the playoffs by beating Toronto Navy in the final scheduled game of the season here Wednesday night.

Lachine R. C. A. F., Montreal Navy and Verdun Grads all are in the running in the Q. R. F. U. The Airmen now are in first place, two points up on Navy and four on the Grads. However, Grads final scheduled contest this Saturday is a six-point game with McGill, and R. C. A. F. and Navy meet in another contest. A two-way or even a three-way tie for the leadership s possible. However, the union's rules provide that in the event of a tie the team with the best scoring average will be declared champions.

Mr. Cassels' announcement said that the arrangements for the Eastern and Canadian finals were made at a recent meeting of the C.R.U. executive with members unable to be present expressing their views be letter.

Must Agree On Refs

He added that the Nov. 27 date "carries out the wishes of the last annual meeting of the C. R. U. when it was decided that the East-West final should be staged no later than the last Saturday in November, with the hope that better weather might prevail than has for the games in December of the last few seasons."

Teams in both eastern and Canadian finals would have the opportunity of agreeing on officials, but if they failed to do so within four days of the game, the appointment would be made by the president, the announcement concluded.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Following the announcement Montreal Army had dropped out of the Quebec Senior Hockey League "due to lack of players" and because of word from President Clarence Markell of the Cornwall Army team also might have to withdraw for the same reason, the Quebec loop is holding an emergency meeting in Montreal tonight to discuss developments and the future of the League. This news was coupled with a rumour the Ottawa Commandos had also lost the services of their army players, presumably because of the tightening of army training requirements. It was stated at Montreal three clubs had signified their determination to continue operations, these being Air Force of Montreal, Montreal Royals and Quebec Aces.

Meanwhile the senior hockey clubs out west were boasting of plethora of name players, according to a report from Winnipeg last night. The 'Peg's Air Force crew includes Scotty Milne, who performed in the English pre-war league, Wally Stanowski, Alf Pike, Pete Langelle, Roy McBride and others of the big time. Winnipeg Army's array takes in Bob Kirkpatrick of last year's New York Rangers and Steve Woochy who has also been around.

It's baseball time in Ontario again, with a call being issued by President H. K. Dawson of the Inter County Baseball Association for the annual meeting of the circuit which is scheduld to be held Dec. 8 at Preston. One of the matters to be discussed is the 1944 tournament of the Canadian Sandlot Congress. Last season's tourney was taken by London Army.

Notre Dame headed this week's Associated Press poll to determine the popular choice of the 10 leading college teams in U.S. football. The Irish topped the list by the widest possible margin—getting the unanimous vote for first position. Purdue retained second place; Navy third; Michigan fourth; Iowa Pre-Flight fifth and Army, previously in third spot, slipped to sixth as a result of the Cadets' 26-0 defeat at teh hands of Notre Dame last Saturday.

Boxers Active.

Hamilton amateur boxers won one and lost two at the Elks Club tourney in Rochester, N.Y., last night. Manny Williams, Pittsburg middleweight, outpointed Ottello Mattuisi in five rounds; Tommy Stenhouse, 125, Buffalo, scored a technical knockout over Alex McCullough, but Nelson Broadhead, 122, defeated Lee Townsend of Pittsburg.

The hockey fans of Hamilton secured their first glimpse of the 1943-44 edition of ther Senior O.H.A. team in an exhibition game in Hamilton Arena last night, the locals drubbing Toronto Staffords 4-0. The visitors play Mercantile League hockey.

D. A. Whittaker of Montreal, was elected president at the annual meeting last night at Montreal of the Eastern Canadian division of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club.

Albert College Swamps Quinte

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 9.—Playing on a mud-soaked field, Albert College splashed through to a 21-0 win over Belleville Collegiate in a Bay of Quinte interscholastic football sudden-death game here yesterday. Albert College now meet Trenton High school in the group semi-finals while the collegians packed away their mud-spattered helmets for another year

With rain falling throughout and the footing uncertain aerial attacks were practically out of the picture as the opposing squads went overland with the Alberts stronger in the mud. Harry Boyd of Streetsville was the big thorn in the Belleville sides, lugging the oval over for two touchdowns and driving hard into the losers' territory for substantial gains all day. Fulford carried over for Albert's first try and Boyd made it 10-0 before the half-way whistle. Boyd skirted left end to splash over for his second touchdown early in the third quarter and Orr finished off the job with a seven-yard plunge. The last try was the only major score converted.

The winner of the semi-final saw-off between Albert College and Trenton subsequently meet St. Michaels Academy for the group honors commencing later this week.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Nov. 9—(CP)—New York hockey writers are ribbing the weak Rangers. Dan Parker says Frank Boucher's return may be the forerunner of a trend in hockey and adds: "This is a warning to Lester Patrick to get on those shin pads and brush up on his skating. He may be in there himself before the season warms up." . . . Before Don Grosso returned to Detroit Red Wings he applied for army enlistment in Toronto but didn't pass his medical. However, Grosso asked the Army doctors their opinion of his physical ability to play hockey and they gave him the okay.

The fund to establish a hockey Hall of Fame in Kingston, Ont., is on its way. When Boston Bruins played that 9-9 exhibition tie with Frontenacs in Kingston last Wednesday, the gate of $2,098 was the highest in history there. Bruins donated their entire one-third share to the Hall of Fame Fund.

Incubator

Vic Copps of the Timmins Press figures results of this year's professional hockey trials indicated Northern Ontario's Porcupine District will be an important incubator of hockey talent. He quotes Fred Cox, Detroit Red Wings scout, as saying the Porcupine circuit will be watched closely in future by the big league clubs. This year the Porcupine contributed Eric Prentice to Toronto Leafs, George Defilice to Detroit's farm club, Indianapolis, Freddy Belanger to the Buffalo Bisons junior farm at Brantford, Bill Curick and Dave Robertson to the Detroit junior farm at Galt.

Incidentally:

Warren Stevens, former Syracuse University athlete who coached University of Toronto football team for years, is taking an R.C.A.F. assignment at Ottawa. It is understood he will work in connection with the new duty fitness program . . . Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star notes Toronto Hurricanes have been ribbing Joe Krol, Hamilton halfback, and recalls that when Krol was playing in Windsor an opponent charged him with being afraid to tackle. "On the next play Krol hit an enemy ball carrier so hard they both didn't get up for several minutes . . . Two plays later Krol ran 47 yards for a touchdown."

Detroit Wings Revamp Hockey Style

By The Canadian Press.

There's nothing solid in this strangest of all National Hockey League seasons. Comes word now that Detroit Red Wings have discarded their familiar tight-knit defensive system in favor of a more swashbuckling pattern of attack.

Statistics support this information. In three games to date, the world champions have counted 19 goals—a total exceeded only by the 23 Toronto Maple Leafs have accumulated in five contests.

Manager Jack Adams has lost such defensive bulwarks as Jack Stewart, Jimmy Orlando, Johnny Mowers; in rebuilding new parts have been grafted on, players who bring a new offensive spirit long alien to a club regarded as skilful exponents of cagey, close-checking play. Newcomers include Pat Egan, Detroit's $15,500 investment who only recently was discharged from the Canadian Army; Gordon Sherritt, Bernie Ruelle, Tony Bukovich, Frank Bennett, and Bill Quackenbush, who played defence for Wings in two or three games last season.

At Toronto Thursday.

Detroit, in action fewer times so far than any team except Boston Bruins, opens a week of heavy activity on Thursday at Toronto, moving to Montreal on Saturday, and playing the Canadiens a return engagement in Detroit Sunday. The other Thursday night game matches Boston against the Black Hawks in Chicago. No games are scheduled Tuesday.

Victory against Leafs Thursday would lift the undefeated Detroit Club into a first-place tie with the Canadiens and Leafs, who share first place with seven points. Boston is in fourth place, two points behind Detroit and one in front of Chicago.

Duck Hunters Aid War Effort

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9 (AP)—In the chilly dawns this fall American devotees of duck shooting are firing their limited shares of shells at what probably is the greatest waterfowl population in North America since the turn of the century.

During the long drought of the mid-thirties, thousands of acres of breeding marshes in Western Canada baked dry, and the number of ducks in North America plummeted to an all-time low, estimated in 1936 at 27,000,000.

Both sportsmen and the government turned back their shirt cuffs. The hunters formed "Ducks Unlimited." It was a non-profit organization to rehabilitate the vast migratory waterfowl breeding grounds in Canada with money provided by sportsmen in the United States.

Nearly 3,000,000 acres of marshes now have been restored, says Frederick C. Lincoln, in charge of the Wildlife Service's migratory bird investigations. Ducks Unlimited also has returned thousands of acres to primeval duck homes.

Until peace is restored, duck hunting is more than a sport. This year the American waterfowl bag is expected to yield enough feathers and down to make 300,000 flying suits, 500,000 sub-zero parkas or 150,000 sleeping bags for United Nations troops in the colder parts of the world.

Judge Landis Argues A Point With Giles

At the major league baseball clubs' meeting in Chicago, Ill., Warren Giles of Cincinnati, seems to be on a controversal point in his discussion with Judge Landis in the latters' office.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

ST. JOHN'S PACK

There were 35 lively Cubs in the jungle last Friday night. We were very pleased to welcome a new chum, Bobby Burgess, to our pack. Mrs. Langhorne paid a visit. Instruction on the Union Jack was taken by Raksha and afterwards Baloo lead a flag game. The boys were again reminded about the collection of fat. During the evening the following boys passed their tenderpad test, Tom Lewis, Ken Lewis, Jerry Cousins and Clarence James. Bobby Rogers passed cleanliness. The meeting closed with the Grand Howl and the prayer.

MURRAY STREET PACK

The jungle meeting opened with Morley Tuck leading the grand howl. Inspection was taken and the game of "compass relay" was led by Baloo. Bagheera led in an inter-six game. The whole pack was instructed in the compass by Baloo with knotting by Bagheera. Time by Baloo and cleanliness by Raksha. Akela talked to the tenderpads. The following boys were promoted to be Sixers: David Mitchell, Warren Brown, Harry McNabb and Donald Cooper. Boys who received seconds' stripes were: Ken Dack, Donald Pruner, Danny Godfellow, Robert Rusk and Keith Reed. Alan Poulsom received his collector's badge. The following tests were passed—Time: Donald Whatley, Teddy Reid, Ken Outwater; skipping: Warren Brown, Teddy Reid, John Chapman, Jimmy Drury, Ken Outwater; flags: Ken Dack, Harry McNabb; Robert Rusk; book balancing: Ken Outwater, Teddy Reid, Hugh Bertram; cleanliness: Robert Rusk.

New Chums: Jimmy Black, Jerry Black, Jack Read, George White, Jimmy Drury and John Chapman who was formerly with St. James' Pack.

Knots: Jimmy Peltz, Harry McNabb, Don Whatley.

First Stars were awarded to: Warren Brown and Harry McNabb.

The Pack are pleased to welcome Miss Joan Gardiner and Miss Rosina Brockley as new leaders and who will be known as Bagheera and Raksha.

ST. LUKE'S SECOND ARMOUR

The council rock was well attended on Tuesday and as the moon shone on the Pack, Bobby Payne led the opening grand howl. After collecting fees and inspection a game of "Who's Missing" was played. Baloo instructed the new chums on their law and promise and Akela gave instruction on signalling. Those passing tests were: Lynn Thain passed cleanliness to complete his first star, also Jack Bertrand passed time to complete his first star and both receiving their first star; Ross Barker, Jimmy Cooper and Malcolm Sadler passed Union Jack; Hewitt Hamilton, time. The red got the most points for competition last month. Service stars were awarded to Larry Walsh and Bobby Harvey. Bobby Payne received his sixer armlet.

ALL SAINTS' PACK

The meeting commenced with the grand howl which was taken by Akela after which inspection was taken by Baloo and Kim. Star work was taken. The meeting closed with the grand howl and "The Vespers" were sung.

SACRED HEART PACK

On Sunday, November 14, the Pack will celebrate its eighth birthday and a special program is being presented at 2:30 p.m. in the afternoon. All leaders who are able to be present are extended an invitation, also any other people who may be interested.

FIRST AID

The only class of the year has been organized by the St. John's Ambulance Brigade, and is being held on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the Salvation Army Temple. Any lady leader who would like to take this course will they note time and place. Dr. Kelly, M.O.H. will be in charge.

SCOUTERS CLUB

The second annual dinner of the Scouters Club will be held on Wednesday, November 17, at 7 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends of scouting.

WHEELER TROPHY

Has any one any news yet of the above trophy? If so, call Mr. E. Wolff, 9044.

HONOR ROLL

A few names have come along, but there are many more to come. Phone all names of previous Scouts now in H.M. Forces to Mrs. Langhorne, 3896.

ANNUAL REPORTS

Will all the leaders who were not at the annual meeting, send a written report of the past year's work to Mr. W. G. Shiner, 311 Frederick avenue, without delay?

Spud Chandler Takes Top Spot

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 — (AP). — Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler, the big right-hander who won 20 regular-season games for the New York Yankees and then won two World Series games, has won the poll to determine the American League's most valuable player for 1943.

Receiving 12 to 24 first-place votes and a point total of 246 of a possible 336, Chandler led Duke Appling, Chicago White Sox shortstop and league batting champion, by 31 points, with Appling providing the only serious competition.

The choice was made by a committee of 24 members of the Baseball Writers' Association.

In all, 38 players were mentioned with the Yankees topping the list with eight nominees. Detroit Washington, Cleveland, and Boston each had five players named, Philadelphia four, and St. Louis and Chicago three each.

The 34-year-old Chandler had just finished his seventh, and best, year with the Yankees. He came up from Newark in 1937 to pitch in 12 games. However, until this year he had been dogged by bad luck, an arm operation and a fractured ankle being among his misfortunes.

Stukus Grabs Scoring Honors

TORONTO, Nov. 9—Annis Stukus, Toronto Balmy Beach quarterback, has clinched the scoring championship of the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series, it is shown in the weekly statistics compiled by The Canadian Press.

With one more game to go, against Navy, Stukus now has 59 points with his three touchdown, 10 field goals, four singles and 10 converts. His closest rival is Joe Krol of Hamilton Flying Wildcats, whose six touchdowns, one field goal, eight singles and seven converts give him 48 points. With Hamilton's scheduled season finished, the lanky Krol has no chance of overtaking Stukus.

The Big Two gained little ground in the last week. Stukus added only three points to his total with a field goal in his one start against Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes Saturday. Krol scored two points, both on converts, in two games. Walter Gibb of Hamilton, in third place, picked up only four to bring his total to 35.

Sgt. Charlie Prince of the Hurricanes moved into fourth place on the strength of his nine points in two games, his total now being 29.

Biggest point-getter of the week was big Paul Miocinovich of Hamilton, who scored two touchdowns Saturday and one last Wednesday night to bring his point total for the season to 25.5 He is in fifth place in the scoring, with George Fraser of Ottawa right behind. Fraser scored seven points Saturday to make his total 23.

Other big-point getters of the week were OS. Steve Karrys of Toronto Navy, who added 12 to make his total 18, and Paul Peterson of Hamilton, with two touchdowns for 10. It was Peterson's first appearance in the scoring list.

COASTAL RESCUES

The Royal Navy, together with the Merchant Navy, saved the bulk of the B.E.F. in the evacuations from Norway, Dunkerque, Greece and Crete.

Housing Scheme Provided Plenty Of Work

OTTAWA, Nov. 9 (CP). — Expenditures for houses erected with public assistance during an eight year period provided sufficient work for more than 66,000 persons for a full year, a Finance Department publication of housing undertakings said yesterday.

Other data given in the review—"The Labor Value of the Building Dollar" by Dr. O. J. Firstone, the senior research assistant to the Advisory Committee on Reconstruction—follow:

1 During eight years of administration of the Dominion and the National Housing Acts, about $83,000,000 was loaned by the Dominion Government and lending institutions, the latter having a limited government guarantee.

2. During four years' operation of the Home Improvement Loans Guarantee Act, about $50,000,000 was loaned to more than 125,000 applicants wishing to improve their homes.

25,000 New Homes

3. Under the Housing Conversion Plan $2,500,000, involving construction of between 1,700 and 2,500 new dwelling units, was authorized up to September 30.

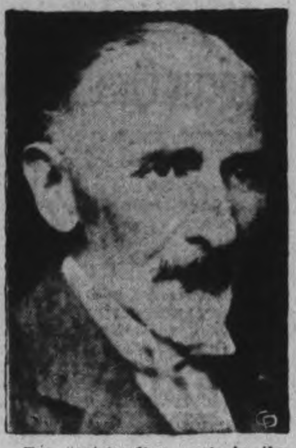
4. Loans under both housing acts involved construction expenditure of more than $98,400,000, excluding outlays for acquisition of sites and other incidental costs.

5. Houses built with assistance under both housing acts amounted to 27.9 per cent of total new residential construction in 1937, reached a peak of 51.6 per cent in 1939, and dropped to 21.3 in 1941.

6. About 35 per cent of construction costs went to on - site labor and about 35 per cent to auxiliary industries supplying the materials and transport and the other 10 per cent to management, covering overhead expenses and profits.

"Public stimulus to construction activity can and will probably play an important role in the post war period," said Dr. Firstone.

Cancer Award



For "outstanding work in the campaign to control cancer," Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, was awarded, in absentia, in New York the Clement Cleveland award for 1943. Dr. Hoffman, who is now retired and living in San Diego, Calif., was instrumental in founding the American Society for the Control of Cancer 30 years ago.

4-Year-Old Collie Saves Drowning Baby

GRAVENHURST, Ont., Nov. 9—(CP). — A four-year-old collie named "Nipper" is credited with saving the life of Faye Speicher, 2½, when she fell into a creek at her parents farm 30 miles northwest of this Muskoka town.

Faye was playing with her sister Betty, four, who ran to the house and told her mother that Faye had fallen into the four-foot-deep creek and that "Nipper" was pulling her out.

When Mrs. Speicher reached the fence separating the farm from the creek she found Faye crawling under the gate and both the little girl and the dog were dripping wet.

"I'm drowned, mummy," said Faye. "I can't get up."

Use Searchlights To Find Raiders

LONDON, Nov. 9 (CP).— Some British night fighters have been equipped with powerful searchlights as an aid to hunting down and destroying German air raiders, the latest of which to be thrown against Britain is the Messerschmitt-410, similar to the R.A.F.'s famous Mosquitoes.

News of this innovation was disclosed in connection with the granting of an honorary commission as air commodore to Group Capt. W. Helmore of the Ministry of Aircraft Production.

A few weeks ago it was disclosed that R.A.F. bombers were being equipped with powerful searchlights to aid in hunting down submarines.

170,000 Tons Axis Ships Used By Allies

ALGIERS, Nov. 9 — (AP). — At least 170,000 gross tons of Italian merchant shipping, as well as 149 Italian warships and many miscellaneous small craft, already have been brought under Allied control an Allied headquarters announcement said to-day.

In a statement issued on the anniversary of the Allied landings in North Africa, the Allied Naval Command disclosed also that 527,000 tons of enemy merchant shipping had been sunk by Allied submarines and surface warships in the Mediterranean.

Of the total, 430,000 tons of the enemy shipping, mostly carrying supplies, were sunk by submarines in the western Mediterreanean and an additional 70,000 tons were damaged by the Allied submersibles.

"In addition, it can be assumed that submarines have taken a satisfactory toll of enemy warships including German and Italian U-boats," the statement added.

Citing other figures for the year the statement said that 22,526,485 gross tons of Allied merchant shipping had entered North African ports, including Casablanca, and that losses resulting from the enemy action had been 1½ per cent of the total including "all losses sustained during actual operations as well as ordinary losses in routine convoys."

Up to the middle of October, 9,440,000 tons of cargo had been landed at North African ports, of which 4,072,000 tons were petroleum products. Between a fifth and a sixth of that quantity was aviation gasoline and oil.

"Without the crushing and inexorable weight of superior seapower—seapower built up in merchantmen of all types as well as warships—Axis forces could never have been driven from North Africa, and Sicily and Italy would never have been invaded," the statement said.

ready taken to raise the level of teachers' salaries and provide continuity of employment, the Premier warned that "this is not something that can be accomplished overnight." Ever since Confederation Ontario has had a decentralized system of educational administration, he pointed out, and this system had been in effect for more than 80 years.

"In tackling this problem, that fact must be recognized," said the Premier. "I assure the teachers, however, that appropriate steps are being taken to find a satisfactory solution of this extremely complicated problem."

Premier Drew elaborated upon these points, but stressed that he did not intend on this occasion to go into the details of the system of education or the changes which should be made in some of those details.

"There is always some danger of looking upon the school curriculum and the organization by which that curriculum is put into effect as the end in itself and not merely the means to an end," said the Premier." I would not presume to outline the details of organization until after there has been full consultation with teachers and the highly skilled officials of the Department of Education. But I do not hesitate to express my own belief in certain fundamental principles which should be borne in mind in revising the details of our system from time to time."

The Premier referred to the recent report of the committee appointed to study the school curriculum in Britain, and quoted a sentence which pointed out that "in sound learning, content is of less importance than the disciplines which all systematic effort, mental or otherwise, imposes on those who make it." There were three elements which were essential to good education, the Premier continued. First, training of the body; second, training of character and third, training in habits of clear thought and clear expression of those thoughts in words.

Establishment of these boards would not interfere with the present National and Regional War Labor Boards which are charged with jurisdictional over wartime wage control.

Collective bargaining and conciliation are matters in which the provinces are primarily concerned but it was understood amendments proposed in wage stabilization will also be discussed at today's conference.

Repatriated British Soldier Discovers Mrs. Nixon's Watch In Prisoner-of-War Box

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—(CP).—Mrs. Harry Nixon, wife of the Deputy Assistant Assessment Commissioner, of Toronto, Monday said she believed she was the owner of part of a wrist watch a repatriated British soldier found last January in a Red Cross prisoner-of-war parcel in Germany.

A dispatch from London Saturday told how the soldier—Sgt. A Dee, of Birmingham—had written to the Canadian Red Cross in London telling them he had found the best part of a woman's platinum and ruby wrist watch beneath chocolates and cigarets in a parcel. He said there were three initials engraved on the back, although he did not give them.

Mrs. Nixon said she lost the back and works from a diamond and platinum wrist watch one Monday in November, 1942, while packing boxes for prisoners with a group of overseas nursing sisters of the First Great War.

Her watch bore the initials "W. M.N." on the back and she said she planned to get in touch with Dee through the Red Cross to get it back.

"I am thrilled to have found it at last," she said, "and I shall be proud to wear the proof positive that the boxes we pack do reach their destination."

Salvage Group Rings Down Curtain On More Than 3 Years War Work

Forced to discontinue the work it has carried on for three and a half years because of lack of help and a steady excess of expenses over income derived from its collections, the Peterborough Salvage Committee held a final business meeting in the City Building Monday night. Presiding at the meeting was the president of the committee. Mrs. R. Whalon, with several members of the Executive in attendance.

Oldest of the volunteer organizations in the city, the Salvage Committee began its work of collecting vital used materials for the service of the war effort in June of 1940. In taking the action which its officers have felt to be unavoidable because of adverse conditions prevailing practically since the beginning of the year, the Peterborough group is following a pattern in evidence in many other communities. It was some time ago that the Kitchener Salvage Committee was obliged to give up its work, and similar action is contemplated for like organizations in such places as Smith Falls and Lindsay, to name only two.

The Salvage Committee has fallen on evil days principally due to a lack of available volunteer help. It was brought out at the meeting Monday. Since its inception many of the women who were active in its work have been drawn off into other fields of war work, have answered the call for workers needed in the local industries, have joined the WVS, gone to work for the Blood Doniors Clinic or given their services to nursing work. This left the Committee in the position of having to employ hired help in order to carry out its ends, and this was to prove, as the officers of the organization only too clearly foresaw, the end of the collecting agency they had formed.

Costs Mount

As evidence of the difficulties they have encountered during this year, it was brought out Monday night that in each month overhead costs have amounted to double the income from sale of the scrap collected in the city. In a business sense, once a prosperous and going concern, the working funds of the Salvage Committee have dwindled to the point of exhaustion. The books are closed with a balance too small to meet the average loss incurred in a fortnight's operations.

The warehouse and quarters of the Salvage Committee on Hunter Street West have been cleaned up and vacated, and signs of the occupancy which used to mean store of incoming collections piled high through the room with groups of Committee workers handling the work in two shifts a day are now all removed.

May Not Disband

Due to the lack of a quorum one question yet remains to be decided; whether the executive of the Salvage Committee should disband outright or whether it should remain in being in the event that experienced salvage workers were needed in some special drive at some later date. There was the possibility also that the work of the organization might be taken over by another interested group, and in this case too the services of those who have had the task of handling collections in the past might be requested for organizing and participating in the new set-up. It was agreed upon at this meeting that this question should be decided at a further meeting to be held the first Monday in December.

In its lifetime the Salvage committee has pretty well cleared out existing idle stocks of rubber and metals and the job of collecting grease is being ably handled by the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. The need today is principally for a group to gather in paper and rags, but it was felt by those attending the meeting Monday night that the schools would be glad to take up this work again which they did prior to the organization of the Committee.

Officers of the executive of the Salvage Committee comprise the following names: Mrs. R. Whalon, president; Mrs. C. Collins, convener of salvage; Mrs. F. Curtis, secretary; Miss Mabel Paterson, treasurer; Mrs. Max Methroe, in charge of trucks and drivers. Special mention was made of the three members, Mrs. S. Shields, Mrs E. Wand and Mrs. B. Fowler who have been particularly active in the work of the organization.

Turkey May Act Soon

Speedy decision on Turkey's future war role may be expected at any hour as the result of the vital conferences between Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden and Turkey's Secretary Menemencioglu. Use of the Dardanelles, shown in circle, by Allied warships, and Russian prodding for armed intervention with a guarantee of assistance, if needed, highlight the issues. With the Germans unable to launch a Turkish offensive and Russian fears quieted by the Declaration of Moscow, Turkey may make concessions in return for a seat at the peace table.

Harold W. Kerby Believed Killed

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—(CP).—The parents of Wing Cmdr. Harold W. Kerby, brilliant 26-year-old Canadian airman, yesterday said they had been notified through the International Red Cross that their son was believed to have been killed in air operations over Germany last July 30.

He previously had been reported missing after the raid, which was on Hamburg.

Only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Kerby, of Toronto, Wing Cmdr. Kerby went overseas in 1940 as a flight lieutenant with the 112th City of Winnipeg Army Co-operation Squadron, which, with the 110th City of Toronto squadron, was renamed the 400th R.C.A.F. squadron. He became a wing commander at 24—at that time the youngest member of the R.C.A.F. with that rank.

Son of Roy D. Kerby, well-known Canadian industrialist who now is assistant to the president of Research Enterprises, Ltd., at Leaside, Wing Cmdr. Kerby was married overseas last Jan. 16 to Dorothy Winnifred Calve, a granddaughter of David Lloyd George.

Service And Sacrifice Needed In Meeting Post-War Problems

The challenge of the past was that the spirit of service and sacrifice and heroism shown by the men who offered their all should be duplicated in meeting the problems of peace and reconstruction was the declaration of Capt. S. B. Profitt, chaplain at the local Military Training Centre in a Remembrance Day address to the Peterborough Rotary Club Monday.

Introduced by Rotarian Rev. Dr. George Easton as a veteran of the last war who had enlisted as a private and came home sergeant, Capt. Proffitt said that it was a vital and important thing to go back over the pages of history. In the first place it brought to attention the value of our great heritage as Canadians.

It was necessary to remember that this heritage was not our own to do what we liked with, the speaker stressed.

"Our heritage," said Capt. Profitt, "has been costly, paid for by the blood and tears and sacrifices of those who have gone before us."

Speaking of the fact that in the last war men believed that they were fighting a war to end all war and that they felt that out of their suffering and sacrifice a better world would be set up, Capt. Proffitt asked how it had happened that the way to lasting peace and better conditions had been lost.

Spirit Of Self-interest

"Where did our ideals go?" he said. "How did we lost our opportunity?" Answering his own questions, he said that the chance had been lost because behind the governments of the various countries the spirit of self-interest had been too strong. The value of material success had been too firmly emphasized and the dollar sign had been given too much significance.

The speaker urged that the same mistake should not be made on this occasion, warning that there was not only a world war going on but there was a revolution as well and that there would have to be changed conditions in which the principles of justice and fair-play would be given their proper place.

Rotarian R. F. Downey expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to Capt. Profitt for his Armistice message.

Rotarian John Smith sang Kipling's "Recessional" as his contribution to the musical side of the program.

IF YOUR CHILD IS THIN and NERVOUS

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

Children who are thin, nervous and under par, science has discovered, are often found to be eating foods which do not give them enough of the essential food elements everyone needs for health.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in the diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins—all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, why not start giving New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

Following an accident in North Monaghan township Monday night Vincent Corkery, Ennismore township, was charged in police court this morning with careless driving and at his request was granted a week's adjournment, after he had entered a plea of not guilty. Corkery's car ran off the road and collided with a tree. The charge was laid by Constable Bruce Menzies.

Magistrate Clears Brighton Farmer On Charge Of Stealing Tank Cap

A charge against George Montgomery, young Brighton township farmer of stealing a gasoline tank cap and a pair of keys from John J. Kelly of North Monaghan township was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after considerable evidence had been heard.

Montgomery was defendd by W. C. Grant and the prosecution was conducted by V. J. McElderry, K.C.

The evidence was that Kelly had lost the cap and keys off his car in August last.

On the same day Montgomery and his wife, with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Montgomery, Colborne, were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lowery, North Monaghan and that afternoon they picked up a gas tank cap with two keys in it near Highway 7.

Discovers Loss

Mrs. Lowery stated that it was George Montgomery who showed the cap at her house but later Ray Montgomery claimed that he was the one who had done so.

That night after the Montgomerys and the cap had gone Kelly visited the Lowery home and told of his loss and the Lowerys remembered the cap found by the Montgomerys.

Mrs. Lowery wrote at once, she said, to George and Ray Montgomery telling them that the cap and keys they had found belonged to John Kelly and asking them to send the articles back. This was not done and today's case developed.

Not Identified

This morning Ray Montgomery said that the gas tank cap had been in his possession ever since it had been found. He had not returned it, he said, because it had not been identified. Montgomery produced a cap with two keys and later the cap was identified by Kelly, after he had unlocked it with a spare key he had with him. George Montgomery said he had not had the articles in his possession.

Kelly stated that he had written to the Montgomerys in reference to the missing articles but admitted that he had not told them the number that was on the key.

In dismissing the case Magistrate Langley said there was no evidence on which to convict. "It was the duty of the complainant to have first identified his property before laying a criminal charge," he declared. "The cap was not positively identified until this morning."

53 Dogs Picked Up In Past 2 Months

The Humane Society reports 53 dogs picked up during the months of September and October, nine killed by cars, 47 destroyed in electrical chamber and 129 cats picked up and destroyed.

The work of the society covers the entire county of Peterborough, and the executive is grateful for two donations received recently, one for $10 and one for $5.00 from two animal lovers, as the cost of carrying on in an adequate manner is steadily increasing.

A number of horses and cattle have been inspected, a common source of trouble with horses being loose blinkers on bridles. It was discovered not so long ago by the S.P.C.A. for Ontario, that loose blinders (or blinders) are not only a source of annoyance and suffering to horses, but they gradually cause blindness.

Docking of horses tails is another source of trouble, as it is strictly against the law and there is a heavy fine provided in the criminal code for such an offence.

Gerald Dunsford, inspector for the Peterborough Humane Society, is a great lover of horses, and when he found a driver with a piece of wire at the end of his whip, used on a trotting horse at the Lindsay fair, it did not take long to have the wire removed. He also visited Campbellford and Roseneath fairs, where he found all horses in good condition.

The public are requested to advise the Humane Society (Dial 4722) whenever any caseof cruelty or neglect comes to their attention.

KEPT THE CONFIDENCE

For more than ten years a group of men in Peterborough have known the identity of the mysterious "Mr. X" who tossed away $2,000 to bellhops and elevator operators and anyone else who happened along in Halifax on the week-end, and $5,000 in $100 bills a couple of weeks ago to the men at Christie Street Hospital, Toronto. The group, all members of a young men's service organization, were attending a convention in Ottawa when they became acquainted with the mystery man. The local men, who never revealed the identity of "Mr. X," were composed of two lawyers, one doctor, two dentists, two businessmen, a school teacher and a newspaperman.—C.

Union Protests Lay-off Of Genelco Men

Proposals of Genelco Limited to dispense with the services of 150 workers and reduce the week from 54 to 50 hours were discussed Monday night at an emergency meeting of local United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America.

The secretary was instructed to send the following telegram to Prime Minister King:

"Genelco Workers Peterborough at a meeting tonight strongly protest lay-off 150 workers as being in contradiction to needs of production for impending western offensive and speedy victory against Hitlerism. Workers regard proposed layoff detrimental to United Nations' war effort and view it as a violation of avowed principles of our government for full employment now and in the post-war period.

Workers demand Government immediately veto company's action and instigate investigation to prevent resultant dislocation of families and community if any lay-offs are allowed particulary at this stage."

The appeal to Premier King was signed by N. Hamblin, president of the Local.

The meeting adopted also the following resolution: "That we workers in Genelco do everything in our power to prevent even one worker from being laid off from the plant."

The Examiner was informed that Genelco proposals would result in cancellation of all but two of the night shifts. The most of the 150 employees contemplated in the proposed lay-off are said to be those who were engaged last.

The Electrical and Machine Workers have been notified that the proposals follow from changes in Genelco contracts, and because of that connection they are urging that production be maintained until the next stage of the war is decided. At the same time they feel that the government begin the encouragement of the swing back of the labor pendulum to peace time work if the wartime contracts are not to be continued.

Genelco management notified the Union of the first intimation of this lay-off, then of the definite proposals, and it is understood that a meeting has been arranged between the management and a committee of the Union for further study and discussion.

Hospital Matron Leaves For RCAF

Board of Health this morning accepted the resignation of Miss Elizabeth Wright, matron of Queen Mary Hospital, who has been notified to report for duty with the R.C.A.F. on November 19. Her duties with the Board terminate November 15, and her salary is extended to the end of this month.

In her letter Miss Wright thanked Alderman Dutton, chairman, and the members of the Board for their kindness and consideration. She had volunteered some time ago for war service, and since then was awaiting call.

Alderman Sullivan's resolution, seconded by Mayor Hamilton, expressed appreciation of Miss Wright's service and also the best of wishes in her military connection.

An application from Miss Elva Bell for the vacancy at the Isolation Hospital was referred to Alderman Dutton and Dr. Kelly, M.O.H., with authority to make an appointment for three months. It was said that Miss Bell had relieved on some occasions during the last three years.

War Worker Who Refused To Serve Country Now Shamed Into Taking Jail Sentence

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9 — (AP). — Stanley Mocarsky, 23, an arms plant worker who several weeks ago was invited by a United States District Court judge to leave the country or face jail for refusal to be inducted into the armed forces, was sentenced to-day to 2 years in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury.

Judge Carroll C. Hinks imposed sentence only after pleading with Mocarsky for 20 minutes for reconsideration but the young man, declaring his decision was governed by a "complex," said:

"I just can't. I've tried to, I want to, but I'm just ashamed."

Mocarsky, married and father of a child born last May, said he feared ridicule on the part of those already in the armed forces owing to publicity given his case.

"I have lost my job, my self respect," he said. "I cannot walk down the street from shame."

M.O.H. Reports 32 Cases Of Chicken Pox

Communicable diseases in October as reported to Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., and mentioned in his monthly review to the Board of Health this morning were: chicken-pox 32, German measles 1, measles 3, scarlet fever 3, whooping cough 8, mumps 11.

The number of whooping cough cases had decreased from 18 to 8 "and it is hoped a serious epidemic is to be avoided." Chicken-pox cases increased from 2 in September to 31 in October, but Dr. Kelly commented that this is usually a seasonal recurrence.

Six patients were admitted to the isolation hospital. Only two were from the city. Three were discharged, and the "three others are making satisfactory progress." The six patients remained a total of 82 hospital days."

Help Shortage

Sanitary Inspector MacPherson reported scarcity of experienced help in some of the pasteurizing plants, "causing a difficulty for the management and your inspector which cannot be overcome in a day. In some of the dairies there are personnel who need to be educated in milk sanitation. A lecture on that subject was delivered to the employees of one plant."

Bacteriological plates were shown, indicating visually how contamination enters milk. Two new permits were issued to producers for supplying milk for city bottle trade. Dr. Harold Worton inspected the premises and instructed owners as to methods of producing a clean wholesome product.

Cows Healthy

Dr. Worton, in a supplementary report, informed the Board that certain changes had been made as required in the premises at dairy farms. "I have found the health of cows satisfactory except in an isolated case where the owner was instructed to remove the animal from the line, and bring in a sample of its milk for examination. The co-operation of farmers is evident, and they are endeavoring to do a good job."

Still Climbing

With continuing momentum from the Victory Loan campaign, Peterborough's subscription was still moving up this morning as indicated by the latest announcement of $4,681,000 as compared with the objective of $4,600,000.

Rural municipal totals were not yet available, but it was said that all the municipalities had surpassed their quotas except Lakefield and Dummer.

Taggers Collect $1,317.96 For Poppy Day

The Poppy Day which was conducted Saturday by the Canadian Legion to raise funds for the relief of needy veterans of the last war and the present conflict brought in a total of $1,317.96, it was announced this morning by George Gimblett, president of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 52.

Of this figure, $611.92 was collected by volunteer girl pupils of the Collegiate and St. Peter's School; $552.85 came from sales in factories; and $153.19 was collected through the schools. The total as reported does not include proceeds from the sale of wreaths, which will continue right up to Remembrance Day.

In collecting nearly half of the money which was raised on Saturday, the forty school girls who stood on street corners in the business district took two-hour shifts each on a day that was wet and miserable. But they did their work well and some were enthusiastic enough to come back for more and go out a second time, he said. The spirits of all were not diminished any by the fact that they received chocolate bars as reward for their efforts.

Margaret Florence, who was one of those who went out twice selling poppies, collected $22.59 her first time out. Others who went out twice and the amount of their collections with their two collections was as follows: Patsy Martin, $23.22; Ann Forbes, 10 years old, $22.88; and Joyce Baxter, $17.51. There were a number of other girls, out just once, who were fortunate in their collections: Cecile De Chartigny, $21.72; Margaret Roger, $19.25; Eleanor Yelland, $19.23; Theresa Roche, $16.46; and Joan Plunkett $22.14.

The cooperation of the factories and school principals and above all the willing efforts of the girls from the Collegiate and St. Peter's, were responsible for the success of the drive, President Gimblett stated.

One CGE Group Collects $123 In Nine Months

The Industrial Control department of which P. Killingbeck is the foreman at the Canadian General Electric Co. Ld. plant are chalking up an enviable record in giving aid to the sufferers from air raid attacks over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

Since February 16 of this year, they have made no less than seven contributions to the fund, including th one for $20.82 listed today, giving them a total credit during that period of $123.27, all of which has been given through the medium of a collection box which is passed around at regular intervals, giving them a place among the leaders in their own classification, for good work done on behalf of this one assist to the war effort.

During the course of this year, the two large industrial plants have given a total of $812.08 to the fund, so it can readily be seen just how well this one department has done in relation to the whole of the two plants, who have in the aggregate rolled up the splendid total of $5,252.98 raised for the fund since it commenced operations in December, 1940.

Toronto Meeting Helps

Last Wednesday in the city of Toronto, Cyrene Preceptory No. 29, Knights Templar of that place held a special meeting to do honor to the Supreme Grand Master of the Order who happens to be a prominent resident of this city, and at the time that the almoner was making his usual collections, one of their members proposed that the alms on this occasion should be given to the secretary for the purpose of assisting this fund, as a tribute to the good work it has been doing, and also to give a boost to the special Christmas Cheer fund for the boys and girls of Britain, which accounts for the donation of $19.85 appearing under that name today.

The members of this Toronto Preceptory have for a long number of years been doing a good work in carrying cheer to crippled children in one of that city's institutions, by personally delivering gifts to them on Christmas morning, bring sunshine into their lives in this manner on the greatest of all days in the year for children and mankind in general.

Visitors were present at this meeting from Hamilton, Oshawa, Port Hope and Peterborough, and one of those from Hamilton made a further personal donation of $5.00 to the fund, later in the evening, while another $1.50 was voluntarily extracted from local members on the train journey from this city en route to the meeting.

Christmas Gifts

In common with many other things, gifts of toys for the youngsters may be hard to procure this year, so why not secure some of the Kaleidescopes that the fund management now has on hand, for they make excellent gifts for children. These have been made at the cost of much time, and probably some expense, by the Roy Powell family who have donated them, and the whole of the sale price at 25 cents each goes toward the Christmas Cheer Fund for children, so you can serve a double purpose by buying them.

BANCROFT

Dr. Lumb Bags Deer In Car Collision

BANCROFT, Nov. 9 (ENS)—Dr. S. S. Lumb, Bancroft, warden of Hastings county, bagged his deer this season but without use of firearms.

While driving to Belleville Tuesday morning a deer leaped into the path of his car on Highway 62, north of Millbridge. The animal met sudden death, but the car was a partial casualty too.

The grill, headlights and fenders were damaged considerably, and all in all it was an expensive deer.

May Save Allowance

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 9 (AP)—Things are looking brighter for the 13-year-old boy who promised to use his allowance money to replace a city zoo deer he killed with a bow and arrow. H. W. Raiser wrote he has two young deer the youth can give to the zoo. Other writers had offered only skunks, rabbits and birds.

With Boys In Services

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

Now an instructor in aircraft recognition, Sgt. Gwen Record of the R.C.A.F., W.D., has been transferred to No. 3 Bombing and Gunnery School at MacDonald, Man. Before enlisting Sgt. Record was a teacher and had graduated from the Normal School here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Record, Reid street.

SGT. DEANE CUTMORE

A recent graduate from Mont Joli, Sgt. Air Gunner Deane Cutmore is home on leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, 272 Burnham street. He enlisted with the R.C.A.F. in November of 1942 and trained in Toronto, Kingston and Quebec before getting his wings at Mont Joli. Prior to enlisting, Sgt. Cutmore was on the staff of the De Laval office. His father served with the Royal Marines in the last war.

It was announced recently that the Free French Government had awarded the Croix de Guerre with bronze star to Major Robert Ostrander of Cobourg. The following is his citation: "During the raid on Dieppe, Major Ostrander was military officer in charge of a landing craft. While he did not land during the raid, his energy and enthusiasm was an example to his officers and men during the continued air attacks on the landing craft. Mainly due to their efforts all these attacks were successfully repulsed."

Having been overseas since December, 1942, Pte. W. K. Masters, is now serving with the Central Mediterranean forces. He enlisted with the Prince of Wales Rangers at the same time as his brother - in - law, Pte. Norman Dwyer, who was killed in Sicily. Pte. Masters is the only son of Mrs. Masters and the late Mr. Masters and his wife, Pte. R. V. Masters, C.W.A.C. at Fort Frontenac, is the only daughter of Mrs. Mary Dwyer, 231 George St. Two brothers - in - law, William Dwyer and George Dwyer are in the forces. The former is overseas with the S.D. and G. Highlanders while the latter is at Fort Frontenac.

ACI STEVE DELINE

According to a cable received by Mr and Mrs. Herbert Deline of Havelock, their son, ACI Steve Deline, has arrived overseas. Before enlisting as an electrician in the R.C.A.F. in November 1942, he worked in the Acme Screw and Gear in Toronto. He trained at St. Thomas and Mountain View.

A letter from Mrs. J. L. Holmes of Lakefield states that she believes her son Pte. Douglas Holmes, was the first Canadian boy to visit Peterborough, England. He went overseas more than three years ago and spent his first leave with her sister there, and at that time he wrote that people went crazy over his uniform, running out of their homes and asking him in for a meal. She disagrees with Pte. McIlvena, writing that the river is caller Nene and flows into the Wash, and points out that this city is a railroad centre from where all parts of England can be reached. Her husband, who served in the last war, enlisted almost three years ago and is serving in this conflict.

Cpl. Stewart Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson, Burnham street, is another local boy who has visited Peterborough, England. He is with the R.C.A.P.C. and when on a recent leave he visited that city, he too met the Mayor and visited the new City Hall.

After being overseas for three years, Tpr. Reginald Land, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Land, Sherbrooke street, has developed two hobbies, building radios and writing poetry. He was formerly employed at the C.G.E., and a copy of his poem appears here, entitled "A Lonely Soldier's Letter."

"When the boys are rather lonely
And they are far away,
If you want to cure their ailments
Just remember what I say.
There are things that are expensive,
There are things you cannot buy,
But the best are sometimes low in price
Which get dearer by and by.
So I'll tell a little secret,
And this should raise our hopes,
The thing that is endeared the most,
Is a letter from the folks.
Whether just a piece of paper,
Or a post card with a view,
I know it will be welcome
To the boys across the blue.
So I will close my letter,
Hope our job is nearly done;
If all the folks remember us,
Then the battle's nearly won.

A student at the Merchant Marine School at Prescott, Patrick (Bud) Hobbins, was home on leave over the week-end. He has a brother, Sgt. Joseph M. Hobbins with the S.D. and G. Highlanders overseas and two brothers-in-law, Pte. Fred Brand and Sgt. Terrance Low, overseas.

Soldier Given 15 Days In Jail

Pte. R. Glover, Kingston, who was convicted in police court Monday of stealing a grain door from the Canadian Pacific Railway company was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to fifteen days imprisonment in the county jail.

Two other men, Melville McCartney and Pte. James Weaver, R.C.A.M.C., Petawawa, who were also convicted yesterday were allowed to go on suspended sentence. They were also charged with stealing grain door and evidence in their case was similar to that given in hearing of the charge against Glover.

"Your case is a little different," Magistrate Langley told Glover this morning. "You are older than the other two and it is evident that you have been giving the military authorities trouble. You are absent without leave now, are you not?"

Glover admitted that he was whereupon the magistrate imposed a fifteen day jail sentence upon him.

Soft Hearts

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 9 (AP). Lord Winster told a war savings meeting here yesterday that circulars he had seen protesting the British bombing policy against Germany "not only betray crass ignorance of the nation we are dealing with, but indicate wilful and most cowardly refusal to face the facts of the case."

and those who would be educated must be followers. Sometimes, children fail to follow, with the result that the teacher is unable to lead. Force is therefore necessary to secure discipline, but it is only a temporary measure, and everyone is happier when it does not need to be applied."

In speaking of health, Mr. Burns said that it was a condition not only of the body, but of the mind, and was a psychological as well as physical problem.

"Today," he went on, "our towns and cities, and even small country schools have good equipment to educate the child in healthful ways. It is not enough for him to write an examination on health, he must practice it. A sound mind and a healthy body are an invaluable asset to the child."

In the business session, Mrs. Shepherd, who is transferring to Confederation School, through the new system just inaugurated, was presented with a sandwich tray by Mrs. W. Carter on behalf of the association.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Leach and her committee.

KING EDWARD.

Rev. E. W. Rowland, whose topic was "Religion in the Home and in the School," was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association, which was held Monday, with the president, Mrs. G. Harris, in the chair. Rev. Rowland told his audience that the wealth of a country is its little children, and that parents should endeavor to form character in their boys and girls, to agitate, legislate and build for the future.

As this week is Education Week, it was parents' night, and the parents were the guests of the staff of the school for a half hour before the meeting came to order. It was announced that the Junior Red Cross would hold a bazaar at the close of the December meeting. Mrs. W. J. Stanbury read a pamphet on Religious Education. Mr. D. T. Crawford spoke on current events, international and at home, and stressed points for Education Week. The roll call gave the banner to Mr. R. Rutherford's class, and Mrs. L. Gibson gave a scripture reading.

Following the speaker's address, two selections were given by the St. James' quartette, made up of Mr. H. Turner, Mr. A. Fife, Mr. A. Sands, and Mr. J. Murphy.

Mrs. A. F. Johnston moved a vote of thanks, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Murray and her committee, with Mrs. A. Ellis and Mrs. A. Clark at the tea table.

Commandos To Use Civilians

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—(CP).— Ottawa Commandos, the capital's entry in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, will continue to operate under the Army banner even if it means icing a team made up entirely of civilians, it was learned to-day.

Club officials, advised that the Montreal Army entry has been compelled to withdraw from the Q.S.H.L. because of lack of players, said civilian players will be used where necessary to bolster Commandos.

Many civilians, including Goalie Trev Higginbottom, Stan Pratt, Dunc Cheyne, Archie Creighton, Albert and Tony Lemay, Stu Smith and Ray Trainor, have been practising with Commandos for several weeks.

Smith, Pratt and Cheyne were in the line-up over the week-end against Quebec Aces. Another civilian, Norm Larsen, former Port Arthur wingman, also played against the Aces.

Says No Sabotage In Borden Fire

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP)—Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott said last night there has been no indication of sabotage in investigation of the fire which Saturday destroyed two Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps workshops at Camp Borden military camp. He said nothing further can be disclosed at this time about the progress of investigation into the fire, which caused damage first estimated "in the millions."

Get 3 Rookies

DURHAM, N.C.— (AP)— Toronto Leafs of the International League fared nicely in the Class AA baseball draft here yesterday, securing three promising rookies. They were: Pitcher-Outfielder Alex Mustaikes, from Elmira in the Eastern League, who won 20, lost 12 and batted .358; Infielder Tony Castano, who batted .333 with Richmond in the Piedmont League, and Pitcher Ralph Williams, who won 18 and lost 12 with Portsmouth in the same league.

Make Your Gifts Original This Christmas

ATTRACTIVE SCREEN

What could be a more original gift than this screen! It could be used between a breakfast nook and a living room and could be faced on one side with a cut-out border of oilcloth or paper to represent dishes on a shelf. On the other side a border of colored maps may be used. For a screen in a child's room, animals cut from bright colored calicos are charming.

Our 32-page booklet is full of novelties that anyone can make with a little effort and it also has directions how to make the various articles.

You'll be delighted with the various things that you'll find out you can make—goldfish curtains, bracelets, pillows, book-ends, holders, luncheon sets, utility boxes, dotted Swiss dressing table, and many other varieties of things both interesting and useful.

Be sure to handle materials so that articles will be fresh and clean when completed. Read instructions thoroughly before you start and watch the details in the finishing touches. You'll be delighted with your handiwork.

For your copy of HAND-MADE GIFT NOVELTIES send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write planly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN NOT TO CUE BID

IT IS NOT always best to cue-bid your opponent's suit, as a means of showing general power to your partner and the ability to take the first trick in their suit. Doing that may steer them away from the opening lead which you wish they would make. If you have some other way to indicate your power, and still preserve the probability of that lead, you may sometimes find that to be more advisable.

North: ♠ 10 8 4 ♥ J 10 9 ♦ 7 ♣ J 10 9 6 4 3

West: ♠ 7 6 3 2 ♥ K 8 3 2 ♦ 10 9 6 5 ♣ 8

East: ♠ K Q J 9 5 ♥ A Q 6 5 ♦ 8 2 ♣ 7 2

South: ♠ A ♥ 7 4 ♦ A K Q J 4 3 ♣ A K Q 5

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

	East	South	West	North
1.	1 ♠	2 ♠	3 ♠	4 ♣
	4 ♥	5 ♣
2.	1 ♠	2 ♦	2 ♠	4 ♣
	4 ♠	6 ♣

South's bidding plan, at Table 2 of the duplicate game where this deal arose, proved to be worth two tricks to his side, as the opening lead from East was a spade, the K. North won it, cleared trumps and discarded all of his losers on the dummy's diamonds.

Clever bidding, from a defensive standpoint, enabled East and West at the first table to hold the hand to exactly 11 tricks. The moment that South cue-bid the spades, indicating terrific power and the ability to take the first trick in that suit, West put in a barrier bid of 3-Spades, preparing his partner for a sacrifice if that proved later to be wise.

After North indicated his suit length with 4-Clubs, East wanted to make sure, now that a spade opening lead was virtually out of the question, that West would open a heart instead of a diamond. His bid of 4-Hearts at that stage was perfectly safe because of the known fit in spades. When the opponents then went to 5-Clubs, East refrained from sacrificing because he thought a heart lead might have some chance of beating the contract. That proved not to be the case, but it did hold South to exactly five-odd. Of course, a sacrifice would have paid East and West at either table, but it was not made, and that was not the really valuable lesson of this deal anyway.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A 9 8 6 4 ♥ 4 ♦ J 6 5 ♣ J 8 6 4

West: ♠ Q 10 ♥ K Q J 9 5 ♦ K 7 ♣ 10 5 3 2

East: ♠ J 7 3 2 ♥ 10 7 6 ♦ 9 8 3 ♣ K 9 7

South: ♠ K 5 ♥ A 8 3 2 ♦ A Q 10 4 2 ♣ A Q

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What error is a certain percentage of average players likely to make in the defense against South's 3-No Trumps on this deal?

Wage Increases Considered For R.R. Workers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (AP). — A special board set up by President Roosevelt to consider wage demands of 1,100,000 non-operating railway workers today recommended wage increases ranging from 10 cents an hour for the lower paid brackets to four cents an hour for the top-wage groups.

Fred. M. Vinson, economic stabilization director, said the new recommendation will be approved.

The increases will become effective Nov. 19.

The sliding scale replaces a previous award of a flat eight cents an hour increase in all wage classifications, which Vinson rejected.

The 15 non-operating unions originally asked a flat increase of 20 cents. An emergency board recommended the general increase of eight cents last May. Vinson vetoed this. The President appointed a special board three weeks ago to rehear the case.

The 15 unions now are taking a strike vote among their members.

New Field For Women

TORONTO, Nov. 9 (CP). —Brig. J. C. Meakins, deputy director of medical services, told the Canadian Association of Occupational Therapy Saturday that women occupational therapists had been accepted by the Canadian Army and 70 applicants are wanted immediately.

ROSENEATH

Japanese Need Christianity

ROSENEATH, Nov. 9 (ENS). — Rev. A. C. Watts, field secretary for the Missionary Society of the Church of England, and until war was declared against Japan a missionary in that country for fourteen years, was guest speaker Sunday afternoon in St. James Anglican Church. His subject was Japan.

'Mr. Watts, who has visited all Church of England missions abroad with one exception, spoke authoritatively on conditions in the Orient. The reason for the state of Japan today declared the speaker is because until seventy years ago she closed her doors to all but the Japanese, until America with her naval guns compelled her to open them Japan has ten thousand villages, not five hundred of whom have heard the story of Christianity.

Until the light of Christianity shines through the darkness of Japan , peace can not be attained by fighting for it; universal peace will be won when the gospel message has reached the heart of all mankind he said.

Cost Not Excessive

Declaring that it costs more to paint one Canadian battleship than the Church of England sends abroad for missions, Mr. Watts said conditions would be no better until people are aroused from greed, indifference and laziness.

He paid tribute to the late Rev. John N. Blodgett, a member of St. James Church in his youth, for twelve years previous to his death in 1939 financial and field secretary for Wycliffe College, and widely known throughout Canada.

MARMORA

Kinsmen Members Entertain Wives

MARMORA, Nov. 9 — (ENS).— Ladies' night was observed by the Kinsmen Club of Marmora Wednesday evening at the Kawartha Golf and Country club-house in Peterborough. Twenty-two made the journey, and in addition, Alderman Adam Sands, president of the Peterborough Club, and Mrs. Sands, were guests of the evening.

Past-President Gregor Murray acted as chairman. Mr. Sands spoke briefly, and the presentation of a past-president's pin to the retiring president, Gregor Murray, was made by President Michael Corrigan. Following the dinner, dancing was enjoyed.

FRASERVILLE

Service Club Helps Refugee Children

FRASERVILLE, Nov. 9 (ENS).— The Service Club, is sponsoring euchre and dancing in the Fraserville L.O.L. to aid the less privileged children in the war-torn countries. The first of these was held last week. There were nine tables of euchre played. The prizes going to Mrs. R. Beeler, ladies' first, Mr. R. Beeler men's first, consolation prizes going to Mrs. W. Moncrief and Miss Lorraine Pue. Lucky chair prize to Mrs. L. L. McClenaghan. The holder of the lucky ticket on the apron on which $4.30 was realized, was Mr. M. Buttars of Plainville. Music for dancing was supplied by the Bailieboro Sod Busters. Refreshments were served. The proceeds of the evening ammounted to $15.30.

Y.W.C.A. Planning To Observe World Fellowship Week

World Fellowship Week will be observed by the Y.W.C.A. from November 14 to November 20 this year. To a great many people the Y.W.C.A. is merely a building housing a gymnasium, swimming pool, residence, etc., and the Y member is only a girl who is interested in athletics. Frequently, the latter statement is all too true but there are girls who know that through membership in the local Y.W.C.A. they are automatically members of the National and through that of the World's Y.W.C.A., thus sharing in a world-wide movement. World Fellowship week is a living symbol of the reality of unity in the World's Y.W.C.A.

The Y.W.C.A. is an international Christian Fellowship of women and girls banded together in more than fifty countries for the development of Christian character and leadership, the enrichment of personality through service and education and the enlargement of intellectual and physical faculties.

The World's Y.W.C.A. has a membership of over a million women and girls, while millions more share in its activities. It includes affiliated national associations in 32 countries and work in over 20 more. Headquarters was formerly in Geneva, Switzerland, but a temporary office has been set up in Washington, D.C., for the duration. The central legislative body of the World's Association is the World's Council, which includes representatives from every country holding membership in the World's Association, the members of the Executive Committee and the secretaries of the World's Staff. It meets at least once in four years and the last meeting was at Elgin House in Muskoka, in 1938. This was the first such meeting in Canada. Whether in peace or war the Association has the same demands of Christian Fellowship to meet but the war has brought new needs and new opportunties for the enlargement of the scope of work.

In many war-torn countries there are "silent" associations, those that are forced to carry on their activities secretly because the enemy is resolved to stamp out anything which upholds Christian ideals. Others have not received mail and consequently no word for months but during this special week in November they will be remembering us through prayer and meditation. During this week, which is also a Week of Prayer, we too will remember various Association movement of the world in thought and prayer and our meditations will be based on seven "Eternal Certainties" i.e., God is Judge; God Cares; Man Needs God and his Fellow Man; Christus Victor; The Church Prevails; God's Dwelling Place is with Men and God's Purpose Remains.

In addition to learning about the activities and conditions in the different countries, service projects should be carried out during this week. This may be done in a number of ways. The World Fellowship Committee of the Canadian Y.W.C.A. is raising funds to send Canadian secretaries of different countries, at present limited to India and the Carribean, and to provide scholarships for girls in these countries. The World's Y.W.C.A. has a special war emergency fund from which help is given to different national associations when they require it. A fund has recently been started for Post War Reconstruction at the World's Y.W.C.A. to which Girls' Clubs from different countries are sending money. If the club wishes to help a particular country, their contributions may be marked for that country's work. This week gives a special opportunity to all Y members to support the World Fellowship Fund and the work which only it can do by adding their contribution to the Fund collection box.

ROSENEATH

Missions Help Cement Peace

ROSENEATH, Nov. 9 (ENS). — "That war has given us three imperative reasons why missions must go forward," was the opinion of Miss Ida MacKenzie in an address to the W.M.S. last week. Miss MacKenzie is field secretary on the Dominion board of the W.M.S.

"There is a feeling abroad that missions have failed," said the speaker, going on to state that while war has interrupted and done many unfortunate things to a peace-time program, it does not constitute a failure. Never before has the work of missions been more needed across the world, with the missionary an ambassador of goodwill, declared Miss MacKenzie.

Three imperative reasons why missions must go on were outlined. First, war has taught people the world is small, modern methods of communication have shattered space and made the world a neighborhood. War has also shown how interlated the world is, that no nation to-day can be isolated from another. People in the west must help to build up what they have helped to destroy. Newere ways of doing things, and ways of life cannot be sent into the far places and escape the results.

Universal Religion.

"The church to-day is working against materialism, as it faces the new world in the Orient. The challenge to our christian religion lies there. The hope for universal peace lies in universal christian religion. If we really want a christian world, if we really mean we are sending our boys overseas to save our religion, then we must also send, and give sufficient to accomplish the task. A christian foundation must be laid across the world. The doubt, 'do missions pay,' must be dispelled," said Miss MacKenzie in conclusion.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. Crego. Mrs. D. Brisbin read the lesson. Musical numbers by the choir included a ladies' double trio, 'Rejoice'; an anthem, 'The Radiant Morn'; a male quartette, 'The Wayside Cross,' and a solo, 'The Church Bells of England,' sung by Ambrose Atkinson.

Drew Requested To Start Enquiry

TORONTO, Nov. 9 — (C[illegible]). — A resolution urging major changes in education has been set to Premier Drew of Ontario by the Canadian Corps Association (Ontario) following a survey under chairmanship of Professor George B. Langford of the Department of Mining Geology at the University of Toronto.

The resolution urges Col. Drew to appoint a committee to investigate salaries of teachers, rehabilitation of members of the armed forces to the teaching profession, establishment of nursery schools for pre-school age children and expansion of health and medical services to include preventive and treatment services to pre-school and school-age children.

HAVELOCK

Married Couples Have Community Showers

HAVELOCK, Nov. 9 — (ENS).— Two recently married couples were both tendered miscellaneous showers last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Althouse's shower at the Belmont Hall was sponsored by Belmont Women's Institute and was largely attended. The evening was spent in dancing to music provided by the Althouse and Ellis families. Many beautiful gifts were received by the newlyweds and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Currie were entertained at Havelock Town Hall by their friends and neighbors. Round and square dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by Fife's of Norwood and Tucker's of Havelock. Many lovely gifts of pyrex ware, cooking utensils, and silver were received.

Newsmen Told War Unity Basis For Peace

By B. T. RICHARDSON

CANBERRA, Nov. 9 — (CP). Cable). — The Allies in wartime are laying the foundations for unity in the years to come, Prime Minister John Curtin to-day told a delegation of Canadian newspapermen who have just arrived here as guests of the Australian Government.

Speaking at a luncheon tendered the Canadians Prime Minister Curtin expressed the hope that now the ultimate issue of the war no longer is in doubt, the sense of fellowship it has brought would produce an association of nations in which all could unite for practicable post-war purposes.

He described the changed position of the war in the Pacific and referring to the conflict with Japan he said: "We have met the enemy, and he is going back.'

A. R. Ford of the London, Ont., Free Press and president of The Canadian Press, replying as the spokesman for the Canadians, said he could assure the Australians that Canada is committed to a fight to the finish in the Pacific as well as in Europe.

Make 12,000-Mile Trip.

Other members of the Canadian delegation are Lorenzo Pare of L'Action Catholique, Quebec, and B. T. Richardson of the Winnipeg Free Press.

The newsmen were welcomed by Prime Minister Curtin in the rose-bedecked dining-room of the White Parliament Buildings here. They are just starting a five-week tour of Australia which will include 12,000 miles of travel, including 10,000 miles by air and motor car, that will take them around the entire continent. Travel priorities were arranged personally by Hon. A A Caldwell, Minister of Information. Afterwards the Canadians will make a 10-day visit to New Zealand.

Following to-day's luncheon the Prime Minister met the Canadians in his private office and talked frankly for an hour about Australia's position and the strategy of the war in the Pacific.

Future Unity.

In his luncheon address Prime Minister Curtin said: "In military experience and judgment, under circumstances in which we never knew from day to day how terrible the morrow would be, the capacity displayed by the Allied peoples to 'stick to it' now will determine whether the war is to be brought to an early conclusion. In war, the nations are laying the foundation for future unity."

Speaking particularly of Canada, the Australian Prime Minister declared that countries that can agree on trade can easily agree on other things to assure peace. Australia was grateful to the people of Canada for the hospitality shown to Australian airmen, who in letters home from Air Training Stations in the Dominion have spoken highly of their treatment in Canada.

In tribute to the Canadian High Commissoner here, Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, Prime Minister Curtin said that his presence and advice were of great help to Australia. The former Canadian High Commissioner, Maj.-Gen. Victor T. Odlum, now Minister to Chungking, was described by Mr. Curtin as "a valued friend of Australia."

Optimstic Statement

Of Australian affairs, Mr. Curtin said that after Jan. 1 meat rations will be reduced, as part of a policy of paring down civilian consumption for next year. He said: "Next year will be a critical year, and the fighting man must be maintained at full efficiency. Now is the time to put forward our maximum blood, to organize our maximum strength.

"We've got the enemy lunging back, and we need force to get him racing back."

The Prime Mnister's remarks, regarded as one of the most optimistic of recent statements of Mr. Curtin, attracted wide attention tonight in Australia. The arrival of the Canadian party at Sydney on Sunday had brought lengthy interviews in Sydney's newsprint-rationed press.

The Canadians drove 200 miles through the beautiful Australian countryside to the capital to meet Mr. Curtin, who is official host to the delegation.

Benes Goes To Moscow To Sign New Pact

MOSCOW, Nov. 9 (AP).—President Edouard Benes of the Czecho-Slovakian government is expected to arrive in Moscow in the near future to sign a Soviet-Czecho-Slovakian mutual assistance pact along the same lines as the Anglo-Russian treaty, which calls for 20 years of collaboration during the war and post-war periods.

Obstacles barring the conclusion of the path were smoothed away during the recent three-power conferences in Moscow, the magazine "War and the Working Class" declared. In an editorial commenting upon the conference the magazine added:

"Concerning the Soviet Union and its relationships with other European governments a definite step forward can be observed."

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

British Commando raids gained most valuable experience for the army's subsequent great amphibious attacks.

HAVELOCK

Pupils Present Dramatic Scenes

HAVELOCK, Nov. 9 — (ENS).— Part of Shakespeare's play "As You Like It" was dramatised at the High School Literary Society meeting by the pupils of Grade X.

The part of Orlando was played by Fred Jones; Rosalind, was taken by Helen Price. Other characters taking part were: Celia, played by Marilyn Hutchinson; a shepherd, James Scott, a jester, Bob Jack and Jacques, by Bruce Melville.

Pupils in Grade 12, staged two scenes from Shakespeare's play "MacBeth." The part of MacBeth was taken by Ross Goheen, while Lady MacBeth was acted by Betty Holdcroft. Other characters were: Lady MacDuff, taken by Cleo Copp; her son, Robert Watson; Ross, taken by Clarence Price; a messenger, Carleton Longmuir; and the Murderer, Murray Wight.

The final number on the prog-ham was a Hallowe'en pantomine put on by several of the pupils in different grades. Taking part were Ruth Wilkinson, Betty Holdcroft, Marion Forsyth, Margaret Anderson, Lawrence Wight, Jim Scott, Carleton Longmuir, John Anderson, Robert Baines, Bruce Mellville, Clarence Price, Bob Watson, Allan Goheen, Robert Pollock, Murray Wight.

Between the plays, students sang songs, led by Margaret Anderson, with Miss J. McDermott at the piano; and the pupils of Grade IX sang one of Shakespeare's songs "Winter."

CAVAN

Girls' Club Studies Posture and Grooming

CAVAN, Nov. 9 (ENS) — The "Stitch and Chatter Club" of Cavan held its second meeting at the home of Miss Mary Richards, under the leadership of Mrs. M. Kinsman and Miss Audrey Keen.

The first lesson on hemstitching and patching also first lesson in posture and grooming, were studied. The members are Wilma and Myrtle Seymour, Betty Adams, June Millar, Edith, Katherine and Margaret Elson, Dorothy Farrow, Bertha Hannah, Wilma Armitage, Mary Richards, Mary Tinney and Mrs. Donald Tinney.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Feel Chilly - - - Start to Sneeze Nose Starts to Run

Then comes the cold which, if not attended to immediately, shortly works down into the bronchial tubes, and the cough starts.

On the first sign of a cold or cough go to any drug counter and get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. You will find it to be a prompt, pleasant and reliable remedy to help you get rid of your trouble. It has been on the market for the past 48 years. Don't experiment with a substitute and be disappointed—get "Dr. Wood's".

Price 35c a bottle; the large family size, about 3 times as much, 60c.

Look for the trade mark "3 Pine Trees."

RUMOURS CAUSE SHORTAGES

We all know the people who pretend to be "in the know" and warn us that this or that will be rationed next. Those people are dangerous! By frightening others into panic buying they cause shortages that need never have existed. Decent people buy only what they need, confident that if rationing does become necessary, they will receive a fair share.

GERMANS ADMIT FURTHER RETREATS

Nine Furious Attacks Fail In Italy

Nazis Find Sallies Against Allies Costly Ventures

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, Nov. 10—(AP).—German troops lashed out in nine furious counter-attacks in the past 24 hours against Anglo-American 5th Army soldiers pressing in the Mignano-Venafro area against the core of the greatly-reinforced Nazi winter line, it was announced today, but all were thrown back with artillery and infantry fire taking a heavy toll.

The Germans in the Venafro area tried vainly to hurl the Allies into the craggy ravines of the upper Volturno River.

Enemy resistance was almost equally stubborn along the entire line, but the 8th Army to the east further consolidated its positions on high ground overlooking the Sangro River, and inland seized important areas, including the towns of Castiglione, Forli and Corovilli in gains of more than four miles.

Take 3 Towns.

The three captured towns are on the lateral highway running from Vasto on the Adriatic to Isernia in the Apennine Mountains and lie between seven and 25 miles northeast of captured Isernia.

A German falling-back in this mountainous area toward their new line to the north was acknowledged by Berlin last week-end. The advance of the 8th Army to occupy the territory was slowed up by customary heavy demolitions and sowing of land mines.

These sallies cost the Nazis heavily in casualties and prisoners captured, Allied headquarters announced. Artillery backing up the infantry in the Venafro area poured shells into enemy ranks by day and night in barrages which echoed through the valleys and ripped up the mountainsides.

Captured enemy documents confirmed prisoners' stories that the Germans had chosen their present front as a "winter line," and that the enemy command had ordered the line to be held at all costs for "at least eight weeks." If successful, this defence would maintain Germany's grip on Rome until the New Year.

This new line extends from the Sangro River on the Adriatic, north of captured Vasto, to the Garigliano River on the Tyrrhenian coast.

Positions Unchanged.

Pope And Clergy Continue To Protest Nazi Persecutions
Huns Guarding Rome Told Vatican Den Of Jews And Armed Men

By GUNNAR D. KUMLIEN
Rome Correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen
(Copyright, 1943, The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 10 — Pope Pius XII stands today as a symbol of peace. While Fascism is a "living corpse," and the House of Savoy has lost prestige in the eyes of many Italians, Vatican City still is a haven of peace in the eyes of tremendous numbers of Europeans.

German soldiers occupy Rome and stand guard outside Vatican City. They have been told the Pope has a powerful armed force and that the Vatican is a den of Jews.

But relations between the German occupation forces in Rome and the Catholic church on the whole have been correct since the Italian capitulation.

This is completely in harmony with German policy. There was always a German ambassador to the Vatican and a Papal Nuncio in Berlin. The concordat between the Reich and the Vatican is still valid, at least in form.

I talked with a number of diplomats at Vatican City and members of the Swiss Guard. All agree the Germans have acted correctly toward the Vatican so far as form is concerned.

They all make reservations as to what the future situation will be when Rome becomes a fighting zone. The mysterious bombing of Vatican City last week was a serious warning of a dangerous position.

While Germany is flooded with anti-Catholic propaganda, there has been a noted religious renaisrance among Catholic German soldiers in Italy.

Pope Pius sees political events from the church standpoint, although naturally his Italian heart bleeds for Italy. Since before the war the Pope and the fighting Catholic clergy in Germany, Belgium and France have been the only ones who ceaselessly protested against Nazi persecution of the Jews, the slaying by medical methods of "unproductive" persons and the actions of the secret German police.

Charges Fingerprint Faked

By E. V. W. JONES—Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 10—(AP).—Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs charged again today that a faked fingerprint is being used in an effort to convict Alfred de Marigny for the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, and appealed to a Bahamas Supreme Court jury not to convict the accused son-in-law because of prejudice.

De Marigny was tense and nervous in the prisoner's box while his chief counsel made his final plea before the case goes to the jury either late today or tomorrow.

Higgs declared that witnesses' stories of De Marigny's actions on the night of the slaying show that "it was absolutely impossible for the accused to have murdered Sir Harry."

Higgs asked jurors not to convict De Marigny of the murder of his millionaire father-in-law, whose bludgeoned and burned body was found last July in a bedroom of his ocean-front estate, Westbourne.

"Purge from your minds any prejudices or pre-opinions," he said.

"De Marigny is a foreigner of French descent.

"Some of his actions may have shocked the people of this island, or shocked you.

"But you are not trying him on prejudice.

"If De Marigny died from prejudice it would be a greater crime than the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes.

"Under British justice anyone must have a fair trial."

Attorney-General Elic Hallinan waited his turn to sum up the case for the Crown after Higgs had concluded his argument.

"Never in the history of this court," Higgs declared, "has there been a more sensational crime than the murder of Sir Harry Oakes."

Blames Crown

Higgs blamed the prosecution for the length of the trial, saying:

"They called witnesses whose testimony added nothing.

"With the exception of Melchen and Barker none of the 35 witnesses gave any evidence leading directly on the crime charged against the defendant."

He referred to Miami Police Capts. E. W. Melchen and James O. Barker, who were summoned to Nassau by the Duke of Windsor, governor of the Bahamas, to help solve the slaying.

2 Crippled Canadian Pilots Honored After Repatriation

LONDON, Nov. 10 — (CP Cable). — Two crack Canadian fighter pilots, each of whom returned to England minus a leg in the repatriation of wounded war prisoners, walked into Buckingham Palace recently with the aid of crutches and were received by the King, who pinned ribbons on their tunics, it was disclosed today.

The two men, Flt.-Lts. Don Morrison of Toronto and Don Dougall of Montreal, chatted with His Majesty at the investiture about their experiences. The King listened with great interest. Later the airmen told newsmen that "he was very kind."

Morrison received the Distinguished Flying Cross and Distinguished Flying Medal, while Dougall was derorated with the D.F.C. Announcement of the awards had been made previously.

Both Spitfire pilots, although not of the same squadron, they were shot down over France during air battles in which bullets pierced their legs. They were in the same prison camp in Germany until their repatriation.

A few days before his palace visit, Dougall married Patricia Sellars of Heston, Middlesex, to whom he was engaged when shot down 27 months ago.

"Patricia never missed a post (mail) all the time I was in Germany," he said.

Dougall was awarded the D.F.C. for his last flight in July, 1941. He saw his leader, whose radio had failed, about to be attacked by enemy aircraft. Unable to give a warning by radio, Dougall tried visual signals and eventually went down under bullets intended for his comrade.

Morrison had his left leg shot off and his left sleeve ripped to tatters by bullets when shot down during a sweep last November.

Loan Over Top By 138 Millions

OTTAWA, Nov. 10 — (CP). — Subscriptions to the $1,200,000,000 Fifth Victory Loan which closed last Saturday now total $1,337,887,850, including delayed reports to National Loan headquarters, making the drive the greatest money-borrowing campaign in Canadian history.

The previous record was the $1,309,317,300 when books were finally closed in last spring's Fourth Victory Loan drive for $1,100,000,000.

Reports which came in Monday and Tuesday, said loan headquarters, provided an additional 253,431 subscriptions worth $55,260,000. With some units still to report their final figures the total number of bond purchasers stands at 2,607,276 — some 340,000 more than at the same stage of the Fouth Loan reporting.

With today's figures, the objective of $525,000,000 in subscriptions from individuals had been exceeded, standing at $538,000,000.

In view of the fact that there is a large number of subscriptions yet to be reported, the (National War Finance) Committee plan to issue a further supplementary announcement over the coming week-end, said headquarters.

From the armed forces, still incomplete, came $34,769,600 compared with the $26,791,650 final total in the Fourth Loan—an increase of $7,977,950. It is 169.2 per cent. of the combined total objective of $20,500,000 in this loan.

The navy's figure of $4,085,250 is still unchanged from week-end reports because many ships are still at sea.

CCF Leader Says Scrap B.N.A. Act

CALGARY, Nov. 10 (CP)—Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader in British Columbia, said at a public meeting here last night that when the C.C.F came into power it would establish Socialism immediately.

"When we become the government, we will institute Socialism immediately," he said, and when asked about the position of the police and military forces, he replied the power of the police and military would be used to force those opposed to obey the law.

In answer to another question he said: "Those who defied the government's will would be treated as criminals," and "if capitalism says 'no,' then we know the answer—so did Russia."

During the question period he was asked what a C.C.F. government would do about the British North American Act, and he replied: "A C.C.F. government would scrap the B.N.A. Act and give Canada a Canadian Constitution"

Ottawa Board Wants Street Lights On

OTTAWA, Nov. 10 (CP)—Ottawa Board of Control, in an effort to lessen traffic accidents, has ordered the immediate resumption of full street lighting on principal streets.

However, S. W. Canniff, general manager of Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission, faced with an order-in-council providing a fine up to $5,000 and imprisonment for disregarding orders of the power controller, said "We'll first have to get information from the power controller and Ontario Hydro to see just where we stand."

Power Controller H. J. Symington said it would not seem advisable to deplete the available supply of power still further by diverting an additional 150 horsepower into Ottawa's street lighting system at present.

Urges Action At Once For Post-War

Canadian Warns Chaos Likely To Follow Armistice

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (CP)—Hugh Scully, Canadian consul-general in New York, today advocated some form of multi-lateral convention to facilitate the orderly post-war marketing of products which the industrial machine set up in Canada and the United States under war conditions is capable of producing.

In an address prepared for delivery to the annual meeting of the Academy of Political Science, he warned that "if peace arrives without these treaties or conventions having been agreed upon, trouble and confusion are inevitable."

Unless the principles of the Atlantic Charter are implemented by practical planning "on the broadest possible scale," Scully said, no country would be able to maintain a second economy after the war.

The huge industrial machine Canada has created during the war is tuned up to carry on after the war and it poses the problem of markets. Taking up the slack in the domestic market will occupy part of it for a time, he said. But much of the equipment is of a specialized character, unsuited for the ordinary articles of commerce.

Furthermore, he declared, substantial additions to the pre-war productive capacity of many industries making consumer goods which also were in heavy demand by the armed forces can handle much greater domestic demand than would normally be available.

Export trade was an obvious solution. But he added "every Allied nation is talking and planning increased export trade and if peace should descend suddenly upon us, the disorganized scramble for a share of the world's markets would not only be confusing but far from constructive."

For this reason, said Scully, practical planning is essential.

Amiens Airport Fired By Bombs

LONDON, Nov. 10 (CP)—Speedy Mosquitoes of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. kept the sirens going in western Germany last night for the sixth time in a week. They bombed objectives in that battered section of the Reich while Inrtuder fighters struck at two airfields in France and Belgium by moonlight. Heavyweights of bomber command remained grounded.

Two fires were started at the Amiens aridrome in France and damage was also inflicted on the field of Coxyde, Belgium.

Sqdn. Ldr. W. M. Beveridge of Westmount, Que., attacked a locomotive and said later it seemed to explode.

One aircraft, an R.C.A.F. Mosquito, is missing from the night's operations.

The forays followed a series of daylight sweeps over France yesterday by Typhoons, Spitfires and Mustangs, during which railway lines and other targets were attacked. Four R.A.F. planes were lost in these sweeps.

Hazardous Job

TORONTO, Nov. 10 (CP).—An unnamed woman today was arrested by Toronto police on a charge of aggravated assault as the result of an attack on R. J. Davis, divisional register for National Selective Service, who was slugged over the head with a baseball bat.

Police said she had gone to the office to discuss the case of her son whose draft call came after he had enlisted in the Air Force.

Mr. Davis suffered slight concussion of the brain and head abrasions. He was given medical attention and removed to his hotel room.

World Monetary Stabilization Urged By Ilsley

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (CP)—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley of Canada said today he believed a plan of International Monetary Stabilization would help bring about greater trade between countries after the war, and greater employment and production within countries.

In the post-war world, the two major economic objectives will be full employment and the best obtainable division of labor and organization of production, domestically and internationally, he said in an address prepared for delivery to the New York Academy of Political Sciences.

Not Government Statement

Mr. Ilsley emphasized his remarks were not a statement on behalf of the Canadian Government.

He said international trade can only flourish "if foreign exchange rates are sufficiently stable to enable traders to carry on their business and if foreign exchange reserves are adequate to permit nations to follow far-sighted policies designed to encourage trade, rather than short-sighted policies intended to protect their exchange positions."

Canadian experts had put forward proposals which formed a compromise between British and American plans.

The Canadian experts suggested modifications in American proposals. One was that the International Stabilization Fund have assured resources of some $12,000,000,000 instead of at least $5,000,000,000. Another was that the decisions of the fund should be taken by simple majorities rather than the large majorities suggested in the American plan. This was to avoid giving the largest countries a veto power over decisions. Another change suggested was somewhat more provision for adjustment of exchange rates under specified types of circumstances.

Since then the United States experts have revised their proposals to provide for more adjustment of the rates initially established and to reduce the instances in which a veto power can be exercised, Mr. Ilsley said.

He said such a solution to the problem of monetary stabilization would provide all member countries with a reasonable reserve of foreign exchange.

Increase Pressure On Huns Near Latvia And In the Far North
Fierce Battles Rage At Perekop Isthmus

LONDON, Nov. 10—(CP).—The Germans acknowledged fresh retreats north and west of Kiev today before superior Russian forces driving in the first heavy snows of the Western Ukraine toward the Polish and Rumanian frontiers.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian Army was said in official Moscow advices to have advanced 27 miles in a day from Kiev, capturing 80 towns and villages. The Kiev combat carried within 58 miles of the important rail city of Korosten, further threatening Germans in the Ukraine with encirclement.

Russian tanks and infantry were pounding heavily at German lines northwest of Smolensk "in swaying fights" on the approaches to the Latvian frontier, the German communique said. Violent Russian attacks also were reported in the Nevel area of the frozen north.

Hit At Kerch.

The Germans described fighting in the Crimea as local. They have acknowledged a Russian drive from the north in the Perekop Isthmus and from the east around Kerch. The Berlin communique said a Soviet landing formation had been driven back in the Kerch Straits. There was no confirmation of a Reuters News Agency report that Kerch itself had been captured.

Another Berlin broadcast said the Russians had made a fresh landing at an unidentified spot in the Crimea, and that heavy fighting was in progress on the Perekop Isthmus.

The Germans said the Red Army was attacking "in severe struggles" south-west of Dnepropetrovsk and north of Krivoi Rog in the Dnieper Bend making "local dents" which the Nazis insisted were straightened out.

Threaten Borders.

Reports the Germans were already leaving the Crimea were contained in dispatches from Berne to the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet. The dispatches said hundreds of Black Sea coastal ships and Danube River boats had been assembled to aid the evacuation.

The Moscow bulletin said 3,800 Germans were killed yesterday—700 in the Crimea, 1,600 in the Kiev area and 1,500 in the Nevel sector on the north-central front where Red Army forces threaten the Latvian and Polish frontiers.

Vatutin's armies were reported operating on a 50-mile deep arc west of Kiev in the first heavy snowfall on the Ukrainian front. Capture of Korosten or Zhitomir further to the south would cut the last railway east of Poland connecting German armies in the north with Nazi-held territory south and west of Kiev.

Thus the battered German divisions still inside the Dnieper bend faced the choice of isolation or a precipitate retreat to the Rumanian border. Enemy forces north and northwest of Kiev meanwhile were being pushed back toward the almost impassable Pripet marshes in lower White Russia.

Japanese Land New Troops At Bougainville

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 10 (AP)—United States marines, tanks, artillery and planes are battling hard against several hundred Japanese who have landed north of Empress Augusta Bay, thus forcing the Americans to fight on both sides of their Bougainville beachhead in the Northern Solomons.

Latest advices from Admiral William F. Halsey indicated strongly today that the Japanese already are attempting to exert a squeeze play. While the northern force brought 90-mm. mortars into action, another force attempting to push up from the south skirmished with marines and was hit by 16 tons of explosives loosed by torpedo bombers and divebombers.

Fully equipped, the northern group sneaked down from Buka Saturday night and early Sunday in self-propelled barges. Presumably they were escorted by the cruiser and two destroyers previously reported to have been attacked early Sunday 50 miles from Buka by torpedoes from Australian Beauforts. These barges had to move through the same waters in which a Japanese naval task force was intercepted and beaten by American warships Nov. 2 while trying to get close enough to bombard the then day-old beachhead.

The first Japanese to land Sunday four miles northwest of Cape Torokina were met by a marine observation post which killed 30 of them.

More than 125 Japanese were slain Sunday and the marines sustained 60 casualties, Admiral Halsey's headquarters said.

Bag 60 U-Boats In Three Months

LONDON, Nov. 10 — (AP). — The Allies sank nearly five U-boats a week for the last three months and went further ahead of the undersea raiders by holding merchant ships losses below that figure, the British and United States Governments announced today.

Reporting approximately 60 Nazi submarines sent to the bottom in the period, the statement said the attrition ratio between U-boats and merchant ships in October was the best of the war.

The continued success of the anti-submarine campaign brought to more than 150 the number of Axis underseas raiders destroyed in the last six months, said the statement issued under authority of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

It declared that Allied air and surface assaults had so far proved themselves able to "cope successfully" with the new Nazi U-boat weapons and tactics.

Merchant ship tonnage lost in the three months was announced as less than half of the losses of the previous three months.

Seek Curtailment Pupil Work Permits

TORONTO, Nov. 10 —(CP)—The executive committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation today issued a statement saying it had urged the Ontario Department of education to take action to reduce "the increasingly large number of full-time work permits that are being issued to adolescents between the ages of 14 and the legal school-leaving age of 16."

The statement said the executive felt "that if this retrogressive action continues, we shall approach the child-labor conditions of the 19th century."

Hitler Challenges Allies to Bloody Fight

Churchill Warns Nation That Nazis Will Fight Till Bitter End

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Few statements could have gone deeper into the hearts of Britons and Americans than Prime Minister Churchill's grim and studied warning in yesterday's speech, that, "unless some happier event occurs on which we have no right to count," the European war in 1944 will produce the "greatest sacrifice of life by the British and American armies."

The Prime Minister eased that a bit by saying that the Red forces have inflicted wounds on the Nazi war-machine "that may well prove mortal." He also remarked that "a great many people speak as if the end of the war in Europe were near" and added, "I hope indeed that they may prove right." However, he assumed "that the campaign of 1944 in Europe will be the most severe and to the wetsern Allies the most costly in lives of any we have yet fought."

Mr. Churchill didn't specify the basis for this forecast, but it strikes me that the danger is two-fold. It lies (1) in the desperation of Hitler and his gang, and (2) in the nature of the amphibious operations which the western Allies must carry out—the most difficult and dangerous of their kind ever undertaken.

Fight To Last.

We need only turn to Hitler's Munich beer-hall speech of Monday to get the first part of our answer. The Nazi leaders are cornered, and they will fight with every means available, fair and foul, so long as German soldiers and civilians are willing to suffer and die for them and there remains a chance of escaping total destruction. There's small doubt that so far as Hitler is concerned he meant it when he declaimed in harsh and guttural tones:

"The last battle will bring the decision. Therefore we must continue to wage war wtih ruthless determination."

The best measure of Hitler's resperate determination came when he went to the extreme of threatening to use the headman's axe on Germans who try to surrender.

That's the kind of desperation the Allies are up against. However, that represents a state of mind, and we still have to account for such striking power as may remain in what has been Hitler's strongest weapon—his army. The Fuehrer's speech gives us the key to what probably is the greatest military danger which we face in Western Europe.

Different Job

"Our enemies will discover," he said, "that it is one thing to land against Italians in Sicily and a very different thing against the Germans on the channel to France or Norway."

That's a true bill—if. The "if" has to do with how much damage the German army has suffered in Russia. If Hitler's war-machine still has formidable power, then our greatest sacrifices are going to be on the beach-heads, wherever am-

Gun-Studded Fortress

Even Crudest Lanes In Vichy Bristle With Pillboxes

MADRID, Nov. 10 — (AP). — Travellers returning from France today described Vichy as a machine gun- studded fortress sheltering chief of government Pierre Laval who was said to have increased his personal bodyguard to six—four more than chief of staff Marshal Henri Petain.

The travellers gave this picture of the city and vicinity:

All the roads leading to Vichy, even the crudest lanes, are bristling with pillboxes and anti-tank barriers and are flanked with tank trap ditches forcing all traffic to zigzag within machine-gun range.

Police armed with sub-machine guns scrutinize all travellers.

Laval has installed additional police on every floor of his offices. His great obsession is that he and his cabinet may fall under the guns of French guerillas from the mountains.

Opposed To Unification

Competition Makes For Better Railroad Service

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., Nov. 10 (CP)—Any move to unify the two railroad systems in Canada will be unalterably opposed by John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservatives, he said in an address here last night.

"Personally I am against unification of the railways. I think we get better service because of the competition of the privately owned road with the government operated system," he said.

Provision would be made by a Progressive Conservative government to enquire into the creation of a fully integrated system of transportation in Canada, a system adapted to furnish the nation with the cheapest and most effective service possible consistent with the maintenance of the independent identity of two great railway systems and without amalagamation or unification, he said.

Huns Tighten Grip On Home Front

Security Police Reinforced To Meet Conditions

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 10 — (AP). —Reports from Germany on the eve of the 25th anniversary of the armistice ending the First Great War, when internal chaos broke the Kaiser's empire, indicate that Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo still has the home front in a firm grip.

In view of the succession of defeats suffered recently by the German army, however, Nazi leaders have taken a number of precautionary measures designed to keep affairs at home under control and avert any possibility of a collapse due to cracking morals.

According to advices from inside Germany, propaganda minister Goebbels, SS officials, police chiefs and propaganda leaders held a lengthly conference in Berlin two weeks ago to study the situation and decided that:

(1) The German security police should be strengthened and better armed.

(2) The quasi-military formations of the Nazi party must be held in a state of intensified preparedness.

(3) Stricter control must be exercised over all areas in which industrial plants are located and over all port areas.

Buffalo Can Swim

Lake Murray Park, Okla., Nov. 10 (AP)

A HERD of 30 buffalo, owned by the state, was moved to Lake Murray Park and corraled on a peninsula jutting out into the lake. A fence had been put up on one side to form the corral, bounded on three sides by water. Next morning buffalo turned up all over two counties. Everyone had forgotten they could swim....

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Thursday, November 11

THE LUNAR and mutual aspects of this day show some promise of moderate success, possibly in a new, unusual or novel direction, providing a peculiar, strange, illusive and intriguing state of affairs can be sidestepped or definitely vanquished. It will take much shrewdness sagacity and digging beneath the surface to find the menacing, subtle, even sinister undercurrents. This situation may pervade all the affairs and undertakings, but particularly undermines the intimate relations, romantic and social. This can best be averted by safe and sane behavior, and not descending to the unorthodox or illicit.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, while given opportunity for making fair success in some rare or unique channel or innovation, yet may find themselves engulfed in a perplexing, baffling and strange set of circumstances, difficult to cope with, since the sources of mischief are deep laid and subtle. The best way to avoid entrapment in such illicit and illusive entanglement is to shun all manner of intrigues, snares, and schemes, and adhere rigidly to conventional, regular and open and above board conduct. This sinister menace may imperil the social or affectional relations. Keep emotions controlled.

A child may have a modicum of originality and creative ability, yet may be swayed by peculiar emotional or mental complex. Early vigilance is advised.

5,500 Miners Disregard Order

CALGARY, Nov. 10.—(CP).—Officials of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, to-day appealed to miners in Alberta and British Columbia to return to work immediately as 5,000 of the 8,500 miners continued to disregard an earlier "back-to-work" order. The strike for increased wages began Oct. 31.

Union locals of Vancouver Island at meetings last night proposed a referendum vote be taken in District 18 to decide whether the Dominion government strike-settlement proposals should be immediately accepted.

Only miners of Drumheller Valley in Alberta and at Michel, B.C., returned to work after the strike settlement proposal reached at Ottwa last Saturday following conferences between district 18 officials and Labor Minister Mitchell.

Grant New Powers.

The Federal Labor Department has agreed to give the powers of a Regional War Labor Board to the Royal Commission now investigating the miners' demands for increased wages and overtime pay for the sixth day of work in addition to holidays with pay each year.
